There is definitely something lacking in the majority of Canadian restaurants, he said.

"Your business should be operated with a little of the Barnum and Bailey circus flavor. Make a little love to the general public and treat the children with special attention."

Sugar Record

CAPETOWN — (CP) — In spite of drought and other handicaps a record yield of South African sugar is in prospect this year. The target of 640,830 tons is likely to be exceeded, with a yield at least 30,000 tons higher than the record of 1945.

Victorious Peterborough Should Now Consolidate

Only an act of God or Mars can prevent a big vote at the municipal polls this year. Big is, of course, a relative term. The sun is big in comparison with the earth; a thumb-tack head is big in comparison with a pin-head. By big in reference to the elections we mean big compared with last year's 36 per cent. That was all who bothered to exercise their franchise last December: a third of those who could have voted.

• • •

Each year at this time we have put out a plea: Vote. This year we shall not bother. We are tired of urging people to go to the polls. This year we have decided that if they don't want to bother to cast their ballots, we won't bother our head about telling them to do it. In a democracy you cannot lead a voter to the poles, much less make him mark his X in the right space. That is perhaps one of the disadvantages of being human and not a horse, which can be led to water. Anyway, as we said before, the vote is going to be big. It is safe to predict that nearly half the elegible voters will vote. Perhaps even more. Here are the reasons.

• • •

There is a mayoral contest, one of the few Peterborough has had in a generation. When citizens are asked to indicate their preference for a Chief Magistrate they perk up and collect enough energy to stroll to the poll. His Worship the Mayor is important in the municipal scheme of things, and citizens like to endorse (at least, we think half of them do) the candidate most likely to keep affairs in good order, and whose enthusiasm is balanced by sound judgement and experience. This year both candidates are men of experience at the Council table.

• • •

Another reason for the big vote is the large field of aldermanic candidates. There are many to choose from. At the poll voters can chew the pencil and feel that their X is decisive. It will be.

• • •

The third reason for the large vote is that two money-bills are on the ballot. We have said our piece about them. We sincerely believe that they should be approved, with the good sense that makes Peterborough a by-word across Canada. "Peterborough", they say; "Canny, cautious people, but they do get ahead".

• • •

It is a military axiom that after you have captured a place, you must quickly consolidate it,—that is, bring up the reserves and make sure you keep it. Peterborough has taken her place. She has fought the 1945-50 storm magnificently. We are now about to consolidate, the voters being willing.

Beer and Water In The Village

This week the nearby village of Lakefield voted against installing a water system. A few months ago it voted against allowing beer to be sold from a brewers' store. In both cases it went dry. A correspondent from the village points out today that the voting was twice as heavy on the beer question as on the water issue. Obviously, beer is more important than water to Lakefield. (One reason was that everybody of age could vote for or against beer, and only the property-owners could vote on the water-main, sewage question.)

The weight of voting was a remarkable instance of the power of malt over water, of old-time morality over the outhouse, and of village satisfaction with the way its founders lived. The vote was a demonstration of the reasons why a village remains a village. Lakefield is a nice village, despite its lack of plumbing. Perhaps it would be a shame to make the privies and septic tanks unnecessary; to do so might spoil its charm, and the commercial attraction of its low tax rate.

We are not chagrined by the dry Lakefield vote on a water system. We are disappointed in the tactics of Reeve Grant, who for five years has tried to put water into Lakefield homes. Reeve Grant is popular, efficient and a good administrator; one of the brightest and best reeves Lakefield has had. But he made the mistake of again being elected by acclamation. If he had used his ingenuity he would have put up a stooge as opponent and labelled him Communist. Then the whole of Lakefield would have turned out at the polls to make sure that Reeve Grant was re-elected. At the same time they would have voted on the water question and probably approved it.

Ontario's Aging Labour Force

In 1911 69 per cent. of Ontario's labour force was aged between 15 and 44 years, 23 per cent. were 45 to 64, and only 8 per cent. were 65 or over. Next year, forty years later, 60 per cent. of the province's potential labour force will be 15-44 year old, 28 per cent. will be between 45 and 64, and 12 per cent. 65 and over. The process of aging has been constant and will continue. By 1971, statistics estimate, only 53 per cent. of the potential labour force of Ontario will be of ages between 15 and 44; 32 per cent. will be in the group from 45 to 64, and 15 per cent. will be 65 or over.

Here is a tabulation by decades:

	15-44	45-64	65 and over
1911	69%	23%	8%
1921	66	23	9
1931	65	26	9
1941	62	27	11
1951	60	28	12
1961	57	30	13
1971	53	32	15

The chief reason for the increased percentage of older people in the province's potential labour force is of course, that Canadians are living longer than they used to, because of medical science, better food, and living conditions. The fact is, however, that now two-fifths of the people of Ontario capable of working are 45 years of age and older. It is estimated that in 20 years the age group of people able to keep the wheels of industry, commerce and household life turning will be almost equally divided between those under 45 and those over 45.

The lesson which must be taken from these statistics is that the people over 45 will have to do their share of the work if the province is to continue to prosper. The younger half of the population is not enough to keep the older half in idleness, if the standards of living are to be maintained. It is a dangerous fallacy that men aged 55 or 60 should retire. Not only do most of them not want to retire from all active work then; the province cannot afford to let them retire and thus lose their productivity as well as valuable experience.

It is the age group between 45 and 64 which is most vital to the future. Their numbers are increasing: from 400,000 in 1911 to some 900,000 now; more than twice as many. These people are in "the best years of their lives"—or to put it in industrial and commercial terms, at the peak of their productivity and experienced skill. Yet very few industries and commercial firms will take on new employees aged 45 or older. If a man loses his job at 45 his chances of getting anything other than casual work or unskilled labour are slim. There are hundreds of firms who have a definite policy not to take on new employees if they are as old as 45. It is time to discard such policies, and it is time for the older people to reject the notion that they should, or have a social right to retire at 60.

Thanks To Hydro

The power service disrupted by the blow-out at the Utilities substation is not yet completely restored, and of course the damage to the station and its equipment is not yet repaired. But the Utilities officers and men have done a commendable job of getting light and power back into the homes and to most streets. It was begun very speedily and the citizens must all be grateful that they did not have to spend even Wednesday night without heat and light in their homes. As Mr. Ross Dobbin, manager of the Utilities noted, the Ontario Hydro services were speedily lent, and an emergency crew of men accustomed to dealing with such troubles was rushed from Campbellford. Our thanks go to the Hydro for this helpfulness. And also to the Canadian General Electric Company and its local management, who offered all assistance in their power.

The monetary amount of damage is gradually being assessed. To the four or five switches put out of kilter it is said to be between $75,000 and $100,000. Loss through the disruption of industry, commerce and processes depending on electricity for heat has not been estimated. It will not be a small sum. No complete official explanation of why the blow-up occurred has been forthcoming yet. The citizens, industries and businesses of the city will expect, of right, a thorough investigation and report. Not the least interested will be the insurance companies who will be footing the bills for the substation damage.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.

Dear Sam:

The Americans are a truly remarkable people—indeed, there can be no doubt but that they are a great people. But have you ever noticed, in your ramblings through history, that when a nation becomes great, it has to sacrifice some of its lesser charms—humility, for example? In Britain's periods of greatness the British have had no humility whatever; it is the same with the people of the U.S.A. now.

I hitch this ponderous judgement to a small, but significant thing. Recently a film of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" has been made in Hollywood. It seems to be a rather bad film, according to the critics. But they do not think that its badness can be attributed to Hollywood, or to a lack of understanding of French drama and "Cyrano" in particular, or to the failure of American actors to master a romantic and robust style of acting. No, no; it is because the play is no good, and because Rostand didn't know his job.

Last spring, when a group of undistinguished actors performed a play of Christopher Fry's badly in New York, most of the critics agreed that Fry didn't know how to write. A later Fry play, with English actors, has changed their opinion.

Humility continues to be a virtue of small nations, like Canada—where, in my view, it is carried to absurd lengths.

Yours philosophically,
PILGARLIC.

To Gomeril Marchbanks, Esq.

Dear Uncle Gomeril:

You are a Scotsman. You ought to know everything about curling. I was talking to a keen curler recently, and —more to make conversation than because I wanted to know —I asked him why curlers rush down the ice ahead of a stone, sweeping vigorously. I supposed that this was to clear the ice of any powder which might slow up the granite, but I thought I would make him happy by letting him tell me.

To my amazement, he told me that this was done because the brooms created a vacuum in front of the stone, thus drawing it forward (because of Nature abhorring one of those, you know). I looked him right in the eye, to see if he was imposing upon my credulity; his eye looked like a raisin in a pool of rice pudding, and was perfectly solemn and steady. Tell me, O descendant of Robert the Spruce, is there anything in this notion? I am inclined to rank it with the quaint belief of baseball players that a pitcher can throw a curve.

If there is anything in it, I shall adopt a new technique at the bowling alleys, running ahead of my ball, sucking my breath in vigorously, in order to coax it in the desired direction. If curlers can have vacuums, why not bowlers? And if curlers are so fond of vacuums, why don't they streamline their game and use vacuum cleaners instead of brooms?

Your affectionate nephew,
WEE SAMMIE.

To Waghorn Wittol, Esq.

My good Wittol:

I am flattered that you should appeal to me so often for advice, but really I cannot suggest any means by which you may regain Mrs. Wittol's wandering affections. At least, nothing which I think will work.

However, if you are interested in a scheme which probably won't work, may I suggest that you have recourse to the Language of Eyes? I was reading about it the other day in a novel by Ouida, an authoress who is unaccountably neglected these days. The passage ran thus: "Olga Brancka looked at him with some malice and more admiration; she was very pretty that night, blazing with diamonds and with her beautifully shaped person as bare as court etiquette would allow; there was a butterfly, big as the great Emperor moth, between her breasts, making their whiteness look like snow. The glance was not lost upon him; in the Language of Eyes it seemed to say, 'This might be yours'." See—he could have had that moth for the asking.

As it happens, I am one of the few great masters of the Language of Eyes living today. I practise it at my dentist's. When I lower my lids to half-mast it means "You are brutal". When I push them out of their sockets like ping-pong balls it means "This is unbearable". When I cause them to roll around the edges of their sockets, like billiard balls wondering whether or not to fall into the pocket, it means "I am about to faint". When I cross and uncross them, with an audible clicking, it means "Pain has bereft me of reason". You say that it is useless to talk to Mrs. Wittol; why don't you try the Language of Eyes? Ouida and I both recommend it.

Yours in hope (but not high hope),
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Chandos Fribble, Esq.

Worthy Fribble:

It is indeed good news that you intend to prepare your own version of the Kinsey Report for Canada. I shall await the appearance of the Fribble Report with keen expectation. Is it true that the French translation is to be called "L'Amour en Canada"?

Meanwhile, let me report for you a curious conversation which I heard the other night, when I attended an entertainment where a great many adolescents were present. Behind me sat a boy and a girl, both about fifteen.

BOY: (laughing at one of his own jokes) G'wan, cut out that laffin'.

GIRL: Gee, I can't. You got me laffin' so's I can't stop.

BOY: (delighted) Cut it out, I tell yuh, Everybody's lookin' at yuh.

GIRL: (trying to stifle mirth) Fsssst! Sput! Eeeeeeeek!

BOY: (transported) Cut it out! Cut it out!

GIRL: Gee I can't! Not if your gona say funny things like that!

BOY: Juh want me to take yuh out in the hall and slap yuh around? That'll stopyuh!

GIRL: (ecstatic at the idea) Aw, yer killin' me! Fssssst!

Here, I think, we have a fairly typical pattern of Canadian sexual behaviour. The male, having subdued the female by his superior intellectual power, dominates and even threatens her. This produces in her a mounting physical and psychological pleasure, like the rising of steam in a boiler. This psychological pressure causes her to kick the back of my seat in an irregular rhythm, similar to the mating-dance of the Whooping Crane.

I shall inform you of any other interesting manifestations of the biological urge which may come under my eye.

MARCHBANKS.

To Big Chief Marchbanks

How, Marchbanks:

You got any old magazines, Marchbanks? Magazines in jail awful. Sent here after long hard life in dentist office. All girl pictures got bustles. Educated fellow in jail read story out loud other day. Good story about detective. Name Sherlock Holmes. Magazine say this first story about him ever. But last page gone. Doctor leave magazine bundle here yesterday. Magazine all about how have babies. We know that already. Anyway that squaw work. You got magazines tell us what we don't know?

Letters To The Editor

MORE VOTED ON BEER THAN WATER

Sir: I am a home owner in the village of Lakefield. It is with a red face that I write this letter.

During the past year, the voters of the village of Lakefield have gone to the polls to decide TWO very important issues concerning the health and moral welfare of its citizens.

The first occasion was early in the year, to vote on the question of a beer warehouse and a government store selling liquors. The vote polled that day was over 900 or about 90 per cent. of the voting strength. The results were an overwhelming victory for the DRYS.

The second occasion was for sewer and water for the village. The vote was slightly over 400 or about 60 per cent., with the DRYS winning again by a good margin.

While ratepayers only could vote on the WATER question, and any citizen over 21 could vote on the BEER question, WHY should there be over 500 more votes on the beer issue. Both were progressive issues. It is a sad state of community affairs, when there is an organization, as strong as there was, for the beer issue, where morals were involved, yet there was no such organization, when the health and welfare of the village was at stake.

As the situation stands now villagers and tourists, wishing to make a purchase at a government supervised outlet for beer, wines, etc., must drive 20 miles to do so, and the village housewife must walk miles, summer and winter to carry pailfulls of water for the family use. There are few wells in the village of Lakefield fit to use.

While I have a septic system in my own home, have both soft and hard water available, there are hundreds that don't. It is my hope that the Department of Health make it a must. It's almost time Lakefield put on long pants, and got away from that walk out the back door to get the simple things in life.

Yours etc.,
C. D. HOPKINS.

HAVELOCK MISCONCEPTIONS

Sir: I wish to thank you for the kindly manner in which you received me when I called your attention to the misleading report of the Havelock nomination meeting.

I notice that you corrected it in part in Tuesday night's paper. I did not mention a deficit of any kind for Havelock because there is none. The only time that I mentioned a deficit was in reply to a question from ex-Reeve Griffith, and that was pertaining to county business.

I wish to correct a statement made at the same meeting, by Mr. Griffith, to the effect that there would be evaluators around next year re County Assessments, at more expense to the county. Now that is the County Assessor's duty, and there will not be anyone else besides the assessors making evaluation. That is what they are paid for. The Committee on Equalization for the county has heard nothing about evaluators.

Mr. Griffith said that when I was elected reeve, the tax rate went up. That is correct, and I believe the same can be said about the tax rate in Belmont and Methuen in 1948 when Mr. Griffith was reeve.

I also wish to correct a statement made by ex-Reeve Sanderson, at the nomination, that the 1949 council had spent $1,000.00 on a survey and vote for waterworks. The actual cost of the survey was $500.00, plus $175.00 for advertising the bylaw and election expenses. There were no lawyers' fees; Mrs. McMillen, clerk of the village, drafted the bylaw, at no extra cost to the village. If anyone can prove that the total cost was more than $675.00 I will give him my personal cheque for $50.00.

I would have had something to say about these matters at the meeting if the statements had been made before I had my second turn to speak, which was all I was entitled to.

Thanking you for this space,
E. J. LEESON,
Reeve of Havelock.

NO $10,000 HOSPITAL CAFETERIA LOSS

Sir: I should like to correct an impression which seems to exist in the minds of some people with regard to the hospital cafeteria. Mr. Rodger, in reporting on the operation of the hospital stated that one of the estimated revenues of the hospital, namely: cafeteria revenue, was $10,000 less than anticipated not that a loss of $10,000 had been incurred in the cafeteria. The reasons for this divergence between actual and estimated revenue are:

(1) In January it was estimated that the hospital would be ready by July 1st, actually no patients were received until August 2nd, and all the patients were not transferred from the old hospital until the end of August. The complete hospital was not ready for use until November 13th.

(2) The volume of business of the cafeteria is not as great as expected.

Despite any unfounded impression to the contrary, 95 per cent. of the use of the cafeteria comes from the employees of the hospital. Certain people such as doctors and members of patients' families whose presence in the hospital is required over the meal hour do use it and pay the regular prices. These prices are all substantially above raw food costs and since catering to this small volume does not increase overhead every meal served helps to bear that cost.

Yours very truly,
JOHN HORNAL,
Superintendent, Civic Hospital.

HAMMER AND TONGS

Sir: We have been called upon to vote yes for hospital bylaw and not shame the council. Now our council may claim they are business men, possibly so in their own business, but not in handling civic affairs for the past two years.

First they bought 42 acres for hospital, what did it cost? Some time ago it was snowed there was no entrance in the deed from Weller Street. Mr. Stuart made an offer of a free entrance on condition that boiler room be put in front of hospital. This was not done. Have we an entrance yet? If so, what did it cost?

It was stated in Examiner a short time ago that landscaping would cost $15,000.00. Now the bylaw asks $25,000.00 for landscaping. I have been up to the hospital several times lately and have seen 4 or 5 men working on landscaping. If the amount of work done by these men for half hour I watched them represents their work the landscaping will cost nearer $30,000.00 than $25,000.00. Not only that but it will cost at the least $10,000.00 per year to look after it. If they bought about 25 acres it would have been lots and made the different wings about 4 feet wider and halls one ft. narrower then the rooms would be big enough to more than turn around in.

Mr. Marshall I believe, said that cafeteria shows a deficit of $1,000.00 a month. Mrs. M.H. in her letter said that doctors get a meal from 29c and up. She also says that surely doctors must feel embarrassed at paying so little.

But what about the taxpayers paying Blue Cross for them at a cost of around $2,000.00 a year. You and I if we carry Blue Cross pay our own.

Officials are afraid so the report goes to raise prices as it would go hard with student nurses. Surely student nurses who get the magnificent salary of $6.00 a month don't have to pay for their meals, buy clothes and car fare etc. on $6.00 a month. I thought they got their meals and $6.00 a month.

So that only leaves graduate nurses kept on staff—also special nurses and doctors and visitors patronize the cafeteria. I also know I was charged $1.00 a meal for special nurses I had for my wife when in hospital last year.

Another thing, the large deficit of our hospital is due to the fact that all the doctors get the use of all the hospital equipment free.

The handling of our City Hall site at least $100,000 could have been saved had property owners had a chance of a say in it? Also the wrecking of all the building on City Hall site showed poor business, also removing the market for the sake of a few meters. Why is there no meters on the north side of Hunter Street from Water to Sheridan? The city is losing at least $50.00 a week alone right there. Also why should there not be meters on both sides of Water from Brock and Murray Sts.

Get out and vote and vote no to the hospital bylaw, also vote for five new candidates for our city council, we need a change and one badly. If you don't taxes will be so high you will not be able to pay them and pay for your houses, you who are trying to buy them.

Yours, etc.,
OSCAR MATCHETT.

SAYS CAFETERIA PRICES SUFFICIENT

Sir: Would you grant me space in your paper to answer both Mrs. M. H. and Mrs. M.J.'s letters which appeared in your papers Tuesday and Saturday of this last week, re the losing of taxpayers' money with regard to the new Civic Hospital cafeteria which has been operating for only four months at its new location.

It is best for all of us to just sit down and think before we act, but we have people who just on the spur of the moment after hearing something take it for granted that it's the truth, before first investigating.

Both the old and new Civic Hospitals were in operation together for nearly six weeks while moving operations were going on; this is to be taken into consideration too.

Being in a position and with the knowledge of what foodstuffs cost, I am quite satisfied that the prices charged in the cafeteria are not too small and should show a little profit at present prices.

These two ladies wish to compare the hospital cafeteria prices with those of a restaurant, this cannot be done, as expenses of a restaurant are at least twice those of a hospital, if not more.

So let all fair thinking people ignore both Mrs. M.H. and Mrs. M.J.'s letters until such time as they come out in the open and have their full names printed to all letters published.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE W. LINSDELL.

Bible Message

And, behold, a man of the company cried out, saying, Master, I beseech thee, look upon my son: for he is mine only child. And, lo, a spirit taketh him, and he suddenly cried out; and it teareth him that he foameth again, and bruising him hardly departeth from him. And I besought thy disciples to cast him out; and they could not.

And Jesus answering said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you, and suffer you? Bring thy son hither. And as he was yet a coming, the devil threw him down, and tare him. And Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him again to his father.

And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God. (Luke 9: 38-43.)

Otonabee Boats, Railway Booms and Busts First Chemong Floating Bridge Opened

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

The proclamation of Confederation was celebrated in district towns by militia parades, cannon salutes, buildings decorated with flags and bunting, and evening concerts complete with speeches and fireworks. In the 1867 elections following, results were: DOMINION PARLIAMENT: Peterborough West: Perry (Conservative) defeated Gordon (Liberal); Peterborough East: Grover (C.) deleated Anderson (L.); Victoria North: Morrison (L.) defeated Cameron (C.); Victoria South: Kempt (L.) defeated Cameron (C.); ONTARIO LEGISLATURE: Peterborough West: Carnegie (C.) won over Walton (L.); Peterborough East: Read (C.) won over Ingram (L.); Victoria North: Cockburn (L.) won over Staples (C.); Victoria South: Matchett (C.) won by acclamation.

Confederation was a stimulus to improvement of transportation in the Kawarthas. Wm. Kingsford, a Toronto writer, in his 1865 book "The Canadian Canals," sneered at the Trent Canal as "this ill-advised scheme . . . tortuous insufficient navigation . . . at a cost of $484,123.61 . . . rapacity of constituencies . . . an absurd project," and stated that the chief opponent of the Trent waterway since 1841 had been Mr. Killaly, president of the Board of Works. Due to Killaly's influence, said Kingsford, parliamentary committees in 1863-64 had not favored continuance of the Trent. Toronto, of course, was hostile to completion of a canal which would carry goods to and from the west bypassing Toronto. At Confederation, however, the canals were fortunately kept under Dominion control, and local agitation renewed for completion of the Trent project, as we shall note later.

Steamship Sailings

The steamer "Otonabee" (owned by C. and P. Railway) made daily trips from Peterborough to Keene and Harwood from May to October; the steamer "Queen" had a daily schedule between Peterborough and Harwood in season; the steamer 'Forest City" also operated from Hastings to Harwood, Keene and Peterborough. Competition between these side-wheelers was keen for the river trade; in one race, the "Forest City" blew up near Rosa's Bridge, and a man was killed. The Examiner of Aug. 12, 1869, reported that the steamer "Enterprise" had been completely refitted, including paddlewheels to replace a propeller, and could make the Harwood trip in three hours, to connect with the Cobourg train. "Picnic parties to any point on the river. Goods delivered to merchant's door. E. Bottum, Capt." This steamer was purchased the same year by Henry Calcutt, Ashburnham brewer. The steamer "Maggie Hales," a propeller boat, was built in 1867 at Wallace's Point; she was sold by auction in 1868 and again in 1869.

Among excursions listed in the papers for 1868-69 were: Peterborough Mechanics by "Maggie Hales" to Rice Lake and Keene, May 29, 1868; St. Andrew's Sunday School by "Enterprise" July 1869, to Pine Grove (9 miles down-river); Peterborough Firemen by "Forest City" to Campbelltown, August 19, 1869. On July 12, 1869, the "Otonabee" brought 150 Orangemen from Cobourg, and the "Forest City" 100 more from Hastings, to join the Peterborough celebration. Other smaller boats, used for small excursions and for towing work, were the "Isaac Butts" and the "Spider." The steam scow "Pollywog" was also on the river. Even the most palatial steamers were employed in slack periods towing scows and rafts; old-timers remember the "Otonabee" of the 1860s-70s making daily trips to Harwood towing log-rafts and lumber-scows.

North of Young's Point, one or two small steamers operated in the sixties, and settlers and lumbermen regularly took their supplies by wagon from Peterborough to the western lakes, the steamer "Ogemah" sailed three times weekly between Bridgenorth, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon and Lindsay. In 1860 Capt. Kelly at Bridgenorth launched the steamer "Scugog"; in 1861 the steamer "Lady Ida" was built at Port Perry; in 1863 at Ball Lake the steamer "Novelty" was launched. Capt. George Crandell of Lindsay built several: In 1863 the "Ranger," in 1864 the "Anglosaxon," in 1867 the "Commodore," in 1868 the "Champion." In 1867 also, the "Victoria" was launched. Most of these were used in the logging industry, and occasionally for excursions and passenger-freight service.

First Bridges

The first bridge below Peterborough, called the Locks Bridge, was built in 1843. Further south were Rosa's Bridge (built 1851, burnt 1867), Hale's Bridge built in the early sixties, Wallace Point Bridge (built 1867, costing $4,565) and Monaghan Bridge; these were all toll-bridges owned by private companies, and had swing sections to let the steamers pass. The toll was 25c for team and wagon, 10c for horse and buggy, 5c for person on foot; some prim ladies complained that the gallant toll-collectors offered to let them pass free for a kiss. Between fires, floods and log-jams, the bridges needed constant repairs and the owners made little money. The floods in March-April, 1870, swept away the Nassau bridge and parts of the bridges below Peterborough. A few months later the Counties purchased and repaired the lower bridges, abolishing the tolls. They also improved the road approaches, in line with the better gravelled roads which were being built all through the district in this period.

In January, 1867, an engineer estimated the cost of a floating bridge across Chemong Lake at $3,921; the County Council thereupon raised $10,000 by debentures for the job, "to attract to Peterborough business and traffic diverted to Lindsay." In January, 1868, Peterborough town contributed $5,000 toward the Chemong Bridge and another across Pigeon Creek. Bill Trennum, in charge of construction at Bridgenorth, laid out the framework of logs on the winter ice, chained to large field-stones for anchorage; the planks were nailed to the logs, and when the ice melted and the bridge was in place. A pine-log boom twenty feet wide was stretched on the south-west side to protect the bridge from drifting ice and logs. The Chemong Floating bridge, longest in the world, was opened on May 24, 1870. Mrs. Mary Nicholls of Bridgenorth, who was ten years old then, described the event a few years ago: "Quite a number of rigs came out from Peterborough, and the girls wore long skirts and large picture-hats. Many had gayly colored parasols with ruffled edges, and several parties crossed the bridge." Apparently the fashion-show rather obscured the view of the opening ceremony! The floating bridge was twice moved southward, being weakened at each move, to the position it retained until replaced by the present Causeway in 1949.

The duty of a judge is to render justice; his art is to delay it.

JEAN DE LA BRUYERE:
Caracteres, XIV 1688

Stage-lines radiated from Peterborough to Bridgenorth, Young's Point, Hiawatha, and other lakeports, but could do little to increase Peterborough's trade. The stage-line to Norwood was extended suddenly in July, 1867, as far as Marmora, when a rumor swept the district that gold had been discovered at Eldorado. The stage carried a banner "PETERBOROUGH TO THE GOLD Mines!" and a short-lived gold rush began. But the need was pressing for railway extension to open up the whole north country.

From 1862 the PH. & P. Ry. ran trains both ways twice daily. In 1865 it tried to link up with the Ashburnham-Nassau line (of which it had stock control) by a branch from Bethune Street to Dickson's Dam at London Street in Peterborough. It was checkmated by the C. & P. Ry. which claimed prior rights. The legal battle ended in an 1866 Act of Parliament specifying that both railways could run trains over the Ashburnham-Nassau line. The PH. & P. Ry. thereupon extended its line up Bethune Street to Smith, thence northeast to the Auburn dam, to join the Nassau line; from Nassau it built to Lakefield where the first train arrived Dec. 29, 1868, at the old station near the present Powerhouse. A civic banquet followed in the Lakefield drill-hall. At once a Peterborough group (E. Burnham, Stevenson, Read, Grover, Peck, Carnegie, &c) formed a company to build a wooden-rail railway from Lakefield to Haliburton; by 1870 they had wrangled promises of $40,000 from Peterborough town, and $25,000 from the county, but fortunately this scheme was never begun.

Not to be outdone, the C. & P. Ry. creditors rose from bankruptcy in 1865 with a novel scheme touted to pay 35 per cent dividends to investors: A new company, the Cobourg, Peterborough & Marmora Railway and Mining Company took over the railway, bought the Marmora Mines, and built a branch line through Belmont from Blairton to the Trent River. In 1867 the Company offered to re-open the line to Ashburnham if granted $40,000, whereupon Otonabee township gave $15,000 and Ashburnham $5,000. Canny Peterborough offered the balance if the line was re-opened from Cobourg to Chemong. The company built a three piered bridge (the Black Bridge) slanting northwest across the Otonabee just north of the Goose-Pond, passed over the PH. & P. Lakefield line by a viaduct just west of George north of Smith Street, and started building desperately toward Bridgenorth parallel to and just east of the Communication Road. Part of a debenture issue of $200,000 in 1869 was used for this purpose. It is not certain if the tracks ever reached Chemong Lake, but in any event no train service was begun, as the Rice Lake Bridge, in spite of thousands of dollars of fill poured in, again collapsed. Peterborough thereupon refused to pay its bonus to the Company, and the "Examiner" added insult to injury by charging John Fowler with "starting the C. & P. Ry. on champagne and ending it in the mud of Rice Lake." The CPMR & M. Co. thereafter concentrated on its Blairton operations and the Harwood-Cobourg line, bringing ore and logs to Harwood by steamer. Needless to say, Peterborough debentures had little sale in Cobourg thereafter.

Travellers First Tourists

Improved transportation was bringing more travellers to the district. Instead of merchants having to travel each year to Montreal or Toronto to order their goods, travelling salesmen ("drummers") began making visits once or twice a year around the towns and villages by rail and buggy, holding displays in the "sample-rooms" of the hotels, selling goods on commission, the "city slicker" dazzling the "rubes" with his flow of "gab" in barber-shop and livery-stable. In their wake flocked the peddlers, on foot or horse and wagon, selling everything: pewter, watches, ribbons, nails, sewing machines.

Other travellers with money to spend, the first tourists, began visiting the district. Small's "Canadian Handbook and Tourists Guide 1866" listed all the Kawartha lakes, and noted "all these lakes abound in fish," lamenting however that the salmon trout which were once plentiful throughout, and the salmon of the Trent River, had been killed off by sawdust in the water. This Guide recommended three trips for tourists: (1) Port Hope to Lindsay by rail, to Fenelon by canoe or steamer, with shooting and fishing on Cameron Lake and Burnt River. (2) Port Hope to Peterborough by rail or stage, to Lakefield and Young's Point by stage, through Clear and Stony Lakes by canoe or steamer, thence into Anstruther & Chandos for deer-hunting. "Carry your canoes on wagons." (3) Cobourg to Rice Lake, either to Harwood "3 or 4 trains daily in summer," or to Gore's Landing "tri-weekly stages from Cobourg. . . 2 comfortable inns."

The Guide continued: "In Rice Lake fish of the largest size have been caught, and only last year a visitor from Rochester caught one that weighed upwards of 30 lbs. . . . In the fall, Rice Lake is the resort of thousands of wild ducks, partridges, quail and game birds of every description . . ." Fenelon Falls was 'a pretty picturesque spot," while Lindsay and Peterborough were listed as "dependent on lumber for their principal trade." Lakefield was "the residence of a number of English gentlemen."

It is worthy of note that Dr Stephen Crawford, who had emigrated from Dublin in 1858 with his wife and twelve children, moved his family (with only three children still alive) to Lakefield in 1864, with the idea that it would be healthful. One of these children was the fourteen-year-old Isabella Valancy Crawford, destined to be Canada's first poetess of genius. Lakefield families from the time of the Moodies and Traills had been accustomed to canoe and camping trips on Stony Lake's beautiful islands and shores, haunted by Indian folklore, and as yet free of summer cottages and outboard motors. As she grew through impressionable adolescence, Miss Crawford learned to love the Kawartha lakes and legends, which were often described in her poems long after the family moved to Peterborough in 1871 or 1872; it is a pity that Kawartha's own poetess has never received the recognition she deserved.

Communications; Local Press

By 1870 the district was more closely linked by communications also. The Montreal Telegraph Company had stations at Harwood, Norwood, Peterborough, Millbrook, Omemee, Lindsay, Lakefield, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, etc. Most of the district now had daily mail service, the outlying villages twice weekly, and even remote depots and shanties got their mail weekly. There were about thirty post offices to each county. Among weekly newspapers serving the district were the Peterborough Examiner and Review; the Lindsay Advocate, Post, Expositor and Herald; the Millbrook Chronicle, Colonist and Messenger; the Omemee Warder; the South Dummer Examiner; and the Hastings Messenger. Some of these lasted only a short time, however.

Now that you hunters have your Fall game in the quickfreeze locker are you going to use common sense in the use of it or let it spoil? You can keep it there legally until August 31, 1951, but the old deadline date of March 31 was planned to get your game out before it deteriorated entirely. Here are some of the reasons why it should be used up as promptly as possible.

In the first place deepfreeze plants can perform no miracles in making tainted meat fresh or overcome the results of bad handling in the bush. It reduces the natural destructive processes—aging—that's all. The question of how long meat can be kept is boiled down to the simple question: "How much fat is there on the meat in the first place?" Deer were fairly fat this year, as all hunters know, and should be used up as soon as possible. Fat ducks and partridge lose their flavor after four months of storage and thin grouse and lean venison will last proportionately longer.

If you want to curry favor with wealthy Aunt Abigail or Uncle Uriah with a nice roast of venison, keep on their right sides by making the presentation early and set up a definite eating schedule for your own consumption.

Department biologists have investigated the following district streams in the interest of sound fish-management planning: DURHAM COUNTY—Baxter, Fleetwood, Mount Pleasant, Shea, Tripp and Upper Pigeon Creeks and Indian Springs. HALIBURTON—Elephant and Kabakwa Lakes. NORTHUMBERLANL — Healey Falls. PETERBOROUGH—Birch Bark Lake, Plato, Union and West Ouse Creeks. VICTORIA—Archer, Mount Nebo, Pigeon, Potash and Reforest Creeks.

A Deer For 2½ Hunters

Lindsay DLF district office have released a summary of the season deer hunt. It runs into a lot of statistics but the final run-down shows that this season was better than '49 with 40 per cent. of hunters getting a deer, or, one deer to each 2½ hunters. This figure was arrived at by Conservation officers who road-checked 2,862 hunters with 1,152 animals. Non-resident hunters did better than home-county-ers and took one deer to each 1½ hunters.

Everyone has a favorite book or two which they read once or twice a year. Louis Hemon's "Marie Chapdelaine" is one of mine and have always thought movie makers were slow in not filming this classic of Lower Canada. It has finally been done, in the Austrian Tyrol, by English actors under an Australian director. A Canadian newspaperman saw the premiere in Paris and says it was a complete mess. It should have been a "must" for the NFB years ago, using the Lac St. John locale and authentic characters. The only thing in the film's favor, according to the critic is that it follows the plot faithfully, but if the setting and actors are totally foreign, that is small recommendation.

To Masters Of Fox Hounds, "Yoicks!"

Fox hunters have had little inclination to try their skill and dogs while the deer and partridge season was in force, although they could legally have been hunting since November 1. Now that there is snow on the ground they will be at it every week-end until Feb. 28. Foxmen will want to know if they can hunt with dogs; I give you excerpts from the Game and Fisheries Act:

"No person owning, harboring or claiming to own a dog shall allow it to run at large during the closed season for deer in a locality where deer, moose, caribou or elk usually inhabit or in which they are usually found."

"A dog found running deer, moose, caribou or elk during the closed season for deer in that locality shall be deemed to be at large with the leave of the owner and may be killed on sight by a conservation officer without being liable for damages to any other person or to a penalty."

SQUIB CORNER: Christmas tree buyers have been on the hunt for some weeks in northern parts of the district. They prefer balsams not more than ten feet high and are finding plenty of plantation trees that are reared for that purpose. Department foresters approve of this practice but deplore vandals who chop shapely tops from mature trees in private woodlots and pastures. They deserve full wrath of the landowner, too . . Last week-end's wild gales blew to the advantage of fishermen. It put plenty of badly-needed oxygen into fish-populated waters—which will reduce the chances of winter-kill . . Fox are reported to be not too plentiful, probably on a down-game cycle. Last year a great many pelts examined showed the effects of a mange disease. PFGA are planning their first wolf hunt on Dec. 9. May be able to tell of the general area of it next week. Yes, Norm Bradley? . . A note of appreciation from secretary George Hill of the Peterborough Beagle Club thanking this newspaper for good coverage of their successful Fall meet invites me to participate or watch a run any week-end. Thanks George, I will take a raincheck on that . . . Winter is now a race between Tweed district conservation officers and the beaver. Always worrying about not having enough to eat, these busy animals are storing up poplar branches and building their dams higher and higher, resulting in the flooding of farm lands and timber stands. Even electric fencing in some places have not stopped their industry and damage . . . First fur auction sale in the same district at Flinton by the newly-formed Trappers' Council sold off good mink pelts as high as $30 per copy.

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

Ode To The North-East

Welcome, wild North-easter!
Shame it is to see
Odes to every zephyr;
Ne'er a verse to thee.

Welcome, black North-easter!
O'er the German foam;
O'er the Danish moorlands,
From thy frozen home.
Tired we are of summer,
Tired of gaudy glare,
Showers soft and steaming,
Hot and breathless air.

Tired of listless dreaming,
Through the lazy day:
Jovial wind of winter
Turns us out to play!

Sweep the golden reed-beds;
Crisp the lazy dyke;
Hunger into madness
Every plunging pike.

Fill the lake with wild-fowl;
Fill the marsh with snipe;
While on dreary moorlands
Lonely curlew pipe.

Through the black fir-forest
Thunder harsh and dry,
Shattering down the snow-flakes
Off the curdled sky.

Hark! The brave North-easter
Breast-high lies the scent,
On by holt and headland,
Over heath and bent.

Chime, ye dappled darlings,
Through the sleet and snow.

A CAPITAL PIE FROM GOOSE GIBLETS

Clean the Giblets of one, two, or three Geese; cut the legs in two, the wing and neck into three, and the gizzard into four pieces; stew them well; preserve the liquor, and set the giblets apart until cold; season them with black pepper and salt, and put them into a deep dish; cover with paste, and bake in a moderate oven. In the mean time, take the liquor the giblets were stewed in, skim it free from fat, put it over a fire in a clean stew-pan; thicken with a little flour and butter, and season with pepper and salt, and the juice of half a lemon; add a few drops of browning; strain through a fine sieve; when the pie comes from the oven, pour some of this into it through funnel.

Peterborough's Strongest Man

Daniel Macdonald Lifted 1,600 Pounds Then Died, Says Little Lake Tombstone

By C. J. PERDUE

Peterborough's centennial should not pass without a reference to its strongest citizen (in a physical sense) in that 100-year span. This cold December sun of 1950 traces the testimony of his strength on a 79-year-old tombstone in Little Lake cemetery as it reflects on these graven words:

"Daniel Macdonald; died Oct. 27, 1871, age 33.
Ye weak beware, here lies the strong,
A victim of his strength,
He lifted sixteen hundred pounds,
And here he lies at length."

Conflicting stories have been told of the young Samson who made Peterborough his home for a time. A prolonged period of delving has partly failed to pierce past's curtain as to young Macdonald's muscular deeds of might when this centre was a lusty, youthful town. Even the weekly four-page Examiner of 1871 fails to record his death. But some new facts have been discovered.

Dan Macdonald was born in Scotland and came to Upper Canada when about 18 years of age. Apparently an energetic fellow, he finally became a partner of one W. A. Scott in a general store on Lindsay's Kent St. He married Ann Baker of Peterborough in the early 1860's. Her sister, Mrs. William Jackson, is buried by her husband's side in the old northend cemetery in Peterborough.

Other Relatives

Dan's wife predeceased him by two years, as did one child. But four children lived and no doubt he has a number of descendents. His daughter Annie was married to Giles Stone, a district lumberman, who lived here and in Lakefield, and who was killed in a Peterborough accident a decade or so ago. They had two children, Madeline (believed to have moved to Toronto) and Danecourt Stone, whose whereabouts are unknown now. Lily, another of Dan's daughters, married a man named Shepherd in Toronto. There were two sons, Walter, who went to the States, and Willie, who moved away from here many years ago.

Daniel himself travelled about Central Ontario considerably and lived for a time in Peterborough, perhaps moving here after his wife's death. In any case, he was well-known locally and was buried in Little Lake Cemetery.

An early story told the writer was that Macdonald had lived in the town for some time and was noted for his feats of strength—and that he came to his untimely end by lifting 1,600 pounds on the local market square. The account was that he got under a platform holding four 400-pound barrels of salt and lifted it clear, later suffering a rupture and dying shortly after.

Lifting Pigs, Etc.

More than 10 years ago, an elderly Lakefield resident, a Mr. Riel, told an Examiner reporter that Macdonald ran a drygoods store on George St. and was famous for his hoists when weight-lifting was a popular sport of the time. He once lifted a 500-pound pig (presumably dead) in the market square, and there again he picked up a bell weighing 700 pounds (for the clock tower) and smashed the floor with it when he let it go.

The story goes that Malcolm Morrison, storekeeper here, returned from a trip to Montreal where he saw a poster offering $500 to anyone who could outlift a Montreal heavyweight, a man who had picked up 1,500 pounds in harness. Morrison persuaded Dan to try it and they made the trip to Montreal. According to Mr. Riel, chunky Daniel (sporting a full beard as so many did in that era) lifted 1,500 pounds and then added 100 more to win the award.

He was ill right after and spat blood, the report being that he ruptured his kidney. He returned to Peterborough with the $500—which would be worth more like $5,000 today—and died within a few days. He was said to be about five feet, eight inches in height, but weighing around 195 pounds.

What sort of weighted article, or articles, the bearded young merchant lifted is debatable. Some claim it was barrelled salt on a platform; some say it was a heavy iron bar which could be added to with weights or lessened; and it is also claimed that it was iron dishes in the harness contraption used by so many lifters then.

Louis Cyr of Quebec is said to have just cleared the floor once with complicated back harness, lifting no less than 5,300 pounds. Modern Peterborough weight-lifters like Ab Blondin have hoisted from the floor a dead weight of 460, and up to 800 pounds under a trestle, though Ab is not a heavyweight, and they use no harness today. In those bygone years, strong men tested themselves with various sized wagon wheels, and the old horse-power machine, among other tough lifts. It is safe to say that Dan Macdonald was the strongest resident in Peterborough's 100-year history.

While the weekly four-page Examiner did not design to mention the passing of Daniel Macdonald of the 1,600-pound fame (which later generations have regarded with awe), it brought the aura of a time-dimmed milestone in the city's history. It conjured thoughts of a boisterous young borough of swinging doors, and gaslit dirt streets where long-skirted ladies raised the dust on boardwalks as moustached young men drove gaily past in rubber-tired buggies. The old days, as told by grandfathers, when Peterborough was young, when privies decorated each back lot, when livery stables were meeting places, and there were more bars than churches.

THE STRONG MAN

HIS WIFE

The Examiner then advertised itself as "a weekly political agricultural and family newspaper—every Thursday morning—terms $1.50 per annum, in advance." The front page was half filled with ads.

Newspaper of the Day

One column usually covered the news of the day in brief commentaries. An item discussed the Fenian Raid, another the Chicago Fire, and one more dealt with Brigham Young's wives threatening to leave him. It was reported that 500 tubs of butter had been sold here in a week at around 18 cents, while turkeys ranged from 75 cents up each. A new song had just been published in Toronto, called "Canada, My Home," and the cornerstone had recently been laid at the new RC church in Ennismore. The talking machine (known later as the gramophone) had not yet been heard in Peterborough.

The editor of the day waxed wroth to write: "The corner of George and Charlotte Streets is not always as clear as it might be. The passers-by have difficulty sometimes to squeeze through whisky-soaked, good-for-nothing-looking fellows. If someone would advise them to go to their dens instead of blocking up the sidewalks, it would be a favor."

This article on Dan Macdonald—necessarily incomplete — was written with considerable aid from C. J. Tighe of this city, whose grandmother's sister was Daniel Macdonald's wife. Miss Beatrice Malane supplied old files in the public library, and other information was received from Ross Dobbin, Ab Blondin, William Lytle, and a previous interview given to Pete McGillen by the late Mr. Riel of Lakefield. Mr. Tighe supplied the photographs—a rarity in those days—of Dan Macdonald and his wife, from his mother's picture album.

Petes Beat Nylons By 6-2 To Tie Ealges Atop Group

The fast-climbing Petes trimmed Kingston Nylons 6-2 here last night to move into a first-place OHA senior "B" group tie with the Eagles before more than a thousand fans. Dishing up a smart passing performance, the Jopling crew earned the victory handily. They led 2-0 in the first frame and had a 5-1 margin going into a fairly even third chukker. They drew six of the 10 penalties in a fast, clean tilt. Gus Leonard, Chum Fryia, Arn Dugan, Jake Wade and Honey Tompkins led the Petes' attack with two scoring points each, as singles were garnered by Horton, Floyd, West, Garvey and Mason. The home defence was sound all through, and Goalie Ray Harding turned in a standout showing al' evening. Walt Gerow and Potts scored the losers' goals, while Joyce had one assist. Patterson and Plumb did some robust bodychecking at the blue line, and Udall had little chance on those that beat him.

Leonard Scores

Plumb drew the first penalty for slashing but five Petes' forwards — Wade, Dugan, Fryia, Tompkins and G. Leonard—couldn't click in his absence as Udall rose to heights for almost two minutes. Just before Plumb returned, Gus Leonard scored a lovely goal in close with Wade and Dugan getting assists. At 16:40, Horton's screened shot from the blue line on a pass back from Wade whistled through for No. 2. Davison was gated for elbowing near the finish but nothing happened while he sat it out.

Tompkins hit the post on a breakaway early in the third, and with Horton off for holding, Kingston pressed hard but Harding held them off. Patterson got it next for interference but was back when Fryia scored from Tompkins at point-blank range after some hot scrambling around the defence. Gus Leonard added one neatly from Fryia and Tompkins in close. Plumb drew an elbowing penalty and then a misconduct for arguing too much. As the Petes ganged up, Potts broke away fast and he made no mistake in close for Nylons' first marker. Dugan went over for interference and McKeown followed for elbowing, but all were back when Floyd hit the hemp with a slap shot on a corner pass-out, West and Garvey being in on it.

Harding robbed Partis to open the third as Kingston pressed and their defence laid it on. Dugan was gated for boarding as Petes fought back and Millar hit the sin bin after Dugan's return for interference. McKeown almost got one as Nylons poured in but all were back when Dugan scored a nice one after a drop pass and a forward with Mason in on the deal. Nylons kept fighting and Gerow got their second goal in close from Joyce with less than a minute to go. Earl Leonard hit the penalty path just before the gong for cross-checking.

Nylons: Goal, Udall; defence, Londry and Watts; centre, Partis; wings, Catlin and Gerow; alternates, Patterson, Plumb, McKeown, Aitken, Joyce, Potts, Armstrong and Harrison.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, E. Leonard and Davison; centre, Wade; wings, Mason and Dugan; alternates, G. Leonard, Tompkins, Fryia, West, Garvey, Floyd, Horton and Millar.

10-DAY STINT

Fran Bergeron, Springfield hockey player, cut in a game with the Cincinnati Mohawks Thursday night, will be in hospital at least 10 days, his physician said. It is still indefinite whether the defenceman, who suffered a severe laceration of the left thigh, will be able to play again this season.

Bob McFarlane Top Athlete In Amateur Sport

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 (CP) — Brilliant Bob McFarlane last night was selected as the outstanding athlete of all sports of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, nad was awarded the Norton H. Crowe Trophy.

The all-round athlete from the University of Western Ontario, London, Ont., has starred in football, track and field. A sensation last summer in England and Europe as a sprinter, McFarlane wound up his campaigning this year with an outstanding performance on the Western football team, champions of the intercollegiate league.

McFarlane last night was awarded the Crowe Trophy and the W. Davies Cup on the second day of the AAU's 57th annual meeting. It was the second time he had won the Davies Cup, awarded to the outstanding track and field man in Canada.

Nominated Twice

He also was nominated for the Lou E. Marsh Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete and for the Helms World Foundation Trophy for the outstanding North American athlete.

McFarlane holds, or shares, nine Canadian track records.

Chairman of the conference is AAU president Bob Osborne of Vancouver.

The AAUC, at its meeting also accepted two new weight classes for amateur boxing.

Following revision of weights made by the International Amateur Boxing Association at its annual convention in Copenhagen, last June, the AAUC added the light-welterweight and light-middleweight to its existing eight classes, effective next Sept. 1.

Revised weight classes now will be: Flyweight, 112 lbs.; bantam, 119; feather, 125; light, 132; light-welter, 139; welter, 147; light-middle, 156; middle, 165; light heavy, 178; and heavy, unlimited.

Professinal boxing bodies are expected to adopt the new classes shortly, AAU officials said.

100F And Kin Tie 2-2 In Junior Tilt

Lindsay Arena was the scene of a hectic duel last night as Bun Kingdon's flying Oddfellows and Red Mitchell's rugged Kinsmen squared off for their second hockey meeting of the junior season and over 1,200 fans watched breathlessly as the teams battled 70 minutes to a 2-2 overtime draw, as close and hard-fought as the score indicates.

Red Wasson possibly emerged the individual star of the game as he continued his remarkable work between the pipes, stopping rubber from all angles, particularly in the overtime session. This period saw Kinsmen stage a last desperate effort to salvage another valuable win and secure a firmer hold on first place in the league standing. Paul McGuire was scarcely less brilliant at the other end as he robbed Links' sharpshooters time and again with some miraculous saves. The tie puts Oddfellows in second place.

Scored Early

Jim Morrow gave the Kingdon squad the lead early in the second as he fired a hot 20-footer past McGuire on a pass back from Wyatt. Vic Corley, Lindsay's crack centre, equalized from Karrys seconds later as he circled the net to swoosh a back whizzer past Wasson.

Wyatt and Dean West combined on a beautiful play at the three-quarter mark as the latter whipped a lightning pass into the left open corner for the best goal of the night.

Fighting back with terrific zest in the third after a withering second chapter, Kinsmen were unable to dent the defensive armour of Oddfellows until late in the frame when Glen Vasey fired a hot drive past Wasson from near the blue line that found the mesh for a lucky tie. Then the scoreless battle continued to the finish.

Defence Good

Although the players of both clubs were outstanding in this struggle, a special word of mention must be given to Oddfellows' defence foursome of Wasson, Shearer, Armstrong and Clapper with Red Wasson in goal and also Dean West, Bob Wyatt, Jim Morrow and Brian Robinson. For Lindsay, McGuire, Karrys, Powell, Schinkel, Green, Carley, G. Vasey and Dysart were best.

IOOF—Goal, Wasson; defence, D. Wasson and Shearer; centre, West; wings, Wyatt and Morrow; alternates, Douglas, Floyd, Buckton, Stewart, Brian Robinson, Gary Robinson, Armstrong, Clapper.

Burton Shotton declined comment Friday on the Brooklyn Dodger action in releasing him as manager and signing Charlie Dressen.

"When the time comes I'll have something to say," Shotton said at Bartow, Fla. "I'll say it at the meeting in St. Petersburg Monday."

He referred to the annual sessions of the minor and major leagues which will bring together the leading figures in baseball the coming two weeks.

Frank Boucher's idea for a couple of rule changes in the National Hockey League met with a poor reception from Conn Smythe, general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The New York Rangers' manager is urging a return of the 10-minute sudden-death overtime period and a change in the penalty rule to prevent a club from being two men short at one time.

Smythe said:

"I think one of the greatest sights in hockey is seeing a shorthanded club stop one at full strength from scoring. If you have a team there is no need to complain."

The Leaf official said there is "no reason and no justification" for overtime. During playoff games it is necessary but during the regular schedule it drags the game and serves no purpose, he added.

At Inglewood, Calif., Mrs. Chas. S. Howard's Noor defeated Palestinian and Assault in that order Friday in a tun-up race for the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup next Saturday, and raced the 1⅛ miles in track record time for Hollywood Park of 1.48. Noor, ridden by Johnny Longden, won by seven lengths.

Pittsburgh Pirates Friday elected to their board of directors president Benjamin F. Fairless of United States Steel Corporation, an ardent baseball player and fan all his life. Branch Rickey, newly-appointed vice-president and general manager of the Pirates, also was made a director.

BUTCH BOUCHARD is top man in this tussle as he pounds away at Bariko after they tangled in a recent game at the Montreal Forum. Tod Sloan, is standing by while George Hayes tries to separate the twain with George Gravel standing alongside him. The Toronto Leafs and the hometown Canadiens played to a scoreless tie.

Nurses Seniors Triumph Over the Grads

Nurses Seniors nipped the Lindsay Grads' winning streak at three Friday night in the girls' basketball at the YWCA by winning 26-18. Meanwhile the Nurses' Juniors were set back by the shifty Neills' cagers 22-13 in the other half of the weekly doubleheader.

The Nurses Seniors whipped up a 13-8 score in the first half on points by Joan Plunkett, Gloria Weichoreck, Pat Martyn and Joan Deyell. The Grads failed to capitalize on foul shots and would have slipped down further in scoring except for baskets by Ruth Beard and Shirley Meath.

The Grads made the game closer in the second half but were edged on the scoring 13-10. The Lindsay girls scattered the points with Marj. Owen, Ruth Beard, Lois Cullis and Shirley Alger tallying. Joan Plunkett continued to score for the Nurses with additional scoring power from Gloria Weichoreck and Pat Martyn.

Plunkett led the scoring of the first game with 11 points while teammates Gloria Weichoreck had six and Pat Martyn five. Three Grads notched four points, Shirley Alger, Lois Cullis and Ruth Beard.

By virtue of a 10-3 score in the first half of the Neills managed to breeze past the Nurses Juniors. Grace Poast with two baskets and singles by Dot Callan, Polly Stewart and Marg. Freeman sent Neills' score to 10 while Jean Bell counted the Nurses' three.

With more scoring power in the second half the nurses managed to hold the Neill's girls closer Grace Poast, Polly Stewart and Joan Dunk sent home the necessary points for Neills in the second while Barbara Jex, Jean Bell, Fae Jones and Norma Armitage all scored for the nurses.

Grace Poast was tops in the second game with eight points while Nurses' Jean Bell placed second with seven. Polly Stewart threw in six for the shoe girls.

Line-ups:

First Game—Nurses Seniors, (26).—Pringle 1, Davis, Plunkett 11, Weichoreck 6, Collins, Sutton, Martyn 5, J. Deyell 3, B. Deyell, J. Smith, Langdon, Townsend.

Flyers Down North Bay In Sluggish Game

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—Ottawa's RCAF Flyers had little difficulty in turning back North Bay Black Hawks at the auditorium Friday night, taking an Eastern Canada Hockey League fixture 6-2 in sluggish play.

The weakened Hawks were minus four regulars who couldn't leave North Bay for this game, and Air Force made it 2-0 at the end of the first period, 4-2 in the second, and added another pair in the final frame.

Gordie Scott sparked the winners with two goals, with others being scored by Bob Dennison, Orval Gravelle, George Robinson and Bob Greenlaw. Bill Dwyer and Aubrey Percival scored for Hawks in the second period after Greenlaw had made it 3-0 for Flyers.

That colorful character and pleashing personality, Lord Athol Layton—complete with friend Gerald—returns to the mat scene Tuesday eve in the Brock Arena. When he applies his speedy judo to rough Lee Henning in the main scrap of the three-bout grappling card. He drew a big crowd last week in his initial appearance here, and the fans filed out later highly pleased with the classy performance he staged in downing Wee Willie Davis in two straight. They'll likely all be back, with many more, to see what happens to Henning. Les Ryan faces Pat Flanagan in the semi-final, and another newcomer named George Scott meets Toar Morgan in the prelim.

Hockey followers Monday will have a chance to see how the vastly improved Belleville Redmen, under Wally Bent, go against the Petes. A senior "B" struggle at 8.30 in Civic Arena. The Redmen were rather rough twice recently on the league-leading Eagles, while the Petes were improving their second-place position in Kingston and here. The Reds might well turn back Drake Jopling's bunch, but we have our doubts and will call the Petes to take it. However, it will be another nifty puck number and surely before a hefty crowd. The group race is getting quite heated now, and it's pretty hard to call 'em in advance with any degree of accuracy.

It's Grand To Have Ice

It's pretty nice to have artificial ice for our hockey games. Here the season has been running for a month and a half—counting early exhibition games—whereas in the old days (when the Brock was the rink) we rarely started OHA play till Christmas or a bit later. And finished it up when the ice melted, sometimes in early March. Nowadays, there's hockey for Peterborough fans and players for more than six months, instead of about three. For several years, we didn't even have a rink for OHA games, but Civic Arena with artificial ice is answering the purpose nicely for the time being.

Some swell passing was seen at Civic Arena last night by more than a thousand cash customers as Petes downed the Nylons 6-2. The Jopling bunch really went for combination, looking almost nonchalant at times as they flipped the disc around. Had a good edge on play throughout in a fast and fairly clean tussle. Only in the third, did the husky Nylons' defencemen start using the body, but they were well behind then. And Harding looked better than Udall in goal. Local defence clicked well, and the forwards played hustle-up hockey from start to finish. A good squad in action this game. Wade, Tompkins, Dugan, Fyria and Gus Leonard were particularly effective on the attack, but they all worked well together. The Petes are now tied with Eagles for top place.

Redmen Edge The Eagles

Belleville Redmen came up with another nifty showing at home last night to edge the Eagles 5-4 before more than 1,800 excited customers. They took an early lead, then saw the fighting Eagles roar into tie it up, and finally Belleville won out in the dying minutes of a fast fixture. The Quinte crew are nestling nicely in fourth slot now and look like they'll be hurdling a few teams from now on. The loss put Eagles in a tie for first position with the Petes. Toodie Greenlaw got into action for Mick Magee's men last eve and scored two goals and aided on another in a fine display. Milne, Lalonde, Coombs, Godfrey and Parnall were others in on the scoring end of it.

Our junior "B" Oddfellows gave more than 1,200 fans and the rugged Lindsay lads a thriller last p.m. in a 2-2 overtime game up Scugog way. Play was clean, wide-open and real fast. Goalie Red Wasson sparkled for Bun Kingdon's crowd, and the defence of Shearer, Wasson, Armstrong and Clapper, turned in a whale of an effort. Forwards went okay, also, and the whole Lindsay team played classy hockey. This junior grouping is getting as mixed up and heated as the senior "B" setup, and some dandy dishes will be served in the coming weeks for followers of the speedy young junior players. Oshawa Bees meet the Oddfellows here Wednesday night next week.

Redmen Turn Back Eagles By 5-4 In Speedy Tussle

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 2 — The Belleville Redmen made it two in a row over the league-leading Peterborough Eagles in a rugged hard-checking senior tilt here last night, edging the visitors 5-4 after the Eagles had overcome a second period three-goal lead.

The game was a typical Belleville-Peterborough affair with the checking heavy but clean and only six penalties handed out by Referee Bill Gleason of Kingsston, the teams splitting the sentence.

The Redmen grabbed an early goal in the first two minutes of the game and led the period by that score. Eagles tied it up early in the second, then the Reds unleashed a sudden offensive that netted them three goals in less than two minutes and the period ended 4-1.

The Eagles flashed back to the offensive in the third and after ramming home a goal in the first half minute, tied the score when they fired home two markers in 18 seconds after 14 minutes of play.

Mulvihill Hero

Brian Mulvihill, Redmen winger, was the hero of the piece when he took Wardhaugh's pass with less than three minutes to go and banged home the winner. Coach Magee took Nicholls out of the nets with a minute to go, but sent him back with 15 seconds to play.

Over 1,800 fans roared their approval when the Reds lost little time in hitting paydirt in the first two minutes of play. Green slipped Wardhaugh a neat pass and the centre circled the net and poked the rubber past Nicholls for the score. Smith got the gate followed by Green and both goalies were given plenty of work. Godfrey drew a sentence and Nicholls kept the Red front lines at bay until the danger was over.

Milne tied the score after six minutes of play in the second period taking Greenlaw's pass to beat Leforte. The Reds unleashed a sudden offensive that netted them three goals in a minute and 35 seconds. Day spearheaded the attack at the 11:15 mark and Bastedo and Free followed in quick sucession after taking passes from Leo Goyer and Lou Schmidt..

Tied The Score

The Eagles took over in the third period and the clock had registered 32 seconds when Lalonde poked the disc past a prostrate Leforte. Applying terrific pressure, the Eagles hemmed the Redshirts behind their own blue line for six minutes and then they struck suddenly. Greenlaw, easily the best man the Eagles had out, there, fired home Godfrey's pass midway through the period and 18 seconds later tied the score when Parnall set him up.

The pace was terrific in the latter stages of the period with both teams driving hard for the winner. Nicholls and Leforte kicked out puck after puck until with less than three minutes to go, Mulvihilll took Wardaugh's pass and sailed in close to beat Nicholls for the winner.

The Eagles battled desperately in the dying minutes of the game but the Red team staved off their attacks and were on the offensive themselves when the final whistle blew.

Mulvihill, Wardaugh, Vern Goyer and Mauriie Leforte played outstanding hockey for the winners with Greenlaw with two goals and an assist pacing the Eagles' attack along with Parnall and Milne. Nicholls also turned in a fine game between the pipes for the losers.

Belleville: Goal, Leforte; defence, V. Goyer and Williams; centre, Wardhaugh; wings, Green and Mulvihill; alternates, Jones, MacDonald, Day, L. Goyer, Free, Bastedo, Schreider, Schmidt.

Peterborough: Goal Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Smith; centre, Hill; wings, Crowley and Vitarelli; alternates, Parnall, Greenlaw, Milne, Coombs, Lalonde, D. Mortimer, Montgomery, Burns.

Referee, Bill Reason, Kingston; linesman, Don Barrett, Belleville.

Summary:

First Period

Penalties—Smith, Green, Godfrey, Wardhaugh.

Barrie Flyers Swamp Porkies

TIMMINS, Dec. 2—(CP)—The injury-riddled Porcupine Combines, a shadow of the team that scored six victories in seven league games here this year, were swamped 11-4 Friday night by Hap Emms' Barrie Flyers in an exhibition hockey game.

The Combines, playing with shuffled lines and carrying three juvenile replacements, put up a good showing in the first two periods but fell apart in the final as Flyers ran up five goals without an answer.

Leo Labine paced the Barrie attack with three goals, while Gerry Toppazzini gathered a pair. Other Barrie marksmen were Paul Emms, Lionel Barber, George Stanutz, Real Chevrefils, Bill Hagan, Jim Morrison and Doug Towers.

Top sniper for the losers was Syl Ethier with two. Rick Albert and Ron Wallace got the others.

SECOND LARGEST

At Miami, Fla., two long shots collaborated Friday to give Tropical Park the second largest daily double in its history—a whopping $1,656.80 for a $2 bet.

Medway stable's Overpower, an invader from the string of J. E. Smallman, of London, Ont., and H. Barnett's Golden Mean, a campaigner for Rockingham Park, provided the lucky combination.

Overpower paid $14.30 to win while Golden Mean [illegible] $147.50.

Bruins, Rangers Meet In Scramble To Quit Cellar

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League will devote some time this weekend to the problem of cleaning out its overcrowded cellar.

At the moment, the league basement is populated with 32-odd athletes—twice the number for which it was designed. On Saturday and Sunday nights they will don the sweaters identifying them as New York Rangers or Boston Bruins and endeavour to scramble upstairs to the comparatively-lofty heights of fifth place.

If anyone feels like placing a wager on the result of the epic struggle, they should be able to get an even-money bet. In four previous meetings, Bruins and Rangers played to three ties; Boston won the fourth game by a single goal.

In Boston First

Just to make things cosy for the diminishing hockey public in both cities, Boston's lone victory was scored on New York ice.

They'll try to break the deadlock in Boston tonight, moving on to Madison Square Garden Sunday.

The other NHL teams, a couple of city blocks ahead of the floundering last-placers, also will be engaged in home-and-home clashes.

Toronto Maple Leafs, eight points ahead of the nearest opposition, entertain Chicago Black Hawks tonight and try their luck in Chicago Sunday. The second-place Detroit Red Wings visit Montreal and take the Canadiens home with them for a Sunday night return engagement.

Canadiens, currently tied with Chicago in third place, could move into second with a double victory over the Wings, who lead them by three points. In three previous meetings, Detroit holds a 2-1 edge, with all three victories scored on home ice. Each club has racked up a shutout at the expense of the other.

May Use Broda

Leafs, who haven't lost to Chicago since the Hawks spoiled their home opener with a 2-1 victory, may experiment by trying Pudgy Walter (Turk) Broda in their nets in one game and lean Al Rollins in the second.

Rollins, unbeaten all season, played goal twice as the Leafs downed the Hawks, allowing a total of five goals. Broda, also allowing five in two games against Chicago, has a tie and a loss to show for it.

Judging by the record, Leafs shouldn't suffer unduly with either the veteran Broda, oldest goalie in the league, or with rookie Rollins. Between them they have allowed 44 goals in 22 games—the best goals-against average in the league.

Calumets Dump Ottawa Army 5-3

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—Cornwall Calumets moved up into second place in the Eastern Canada Hockey League Friday night by defeating Ottawa Army 5-3.

Slow play in the scoreless first frame gave way to Jim McEwen's opening goal in the second, and Jim Denneny made it 2-0 a bit later.

In the third period, Army swarmed in and Ossy Osborne scored to make it 2-1. Cornwall replied with Gus Lebrun's tally, and Army responded as Pete Leighnitz found the nets.

With the score 3-2, Army peppered goalie Gord Buckley vainly. On breakaways, Freddie Garner and Wally Garand concluded Cal's scoring. Army's Connie Brown scored once at the 14-minute mark.

Claim Tottenham Hotspur Wonder Team

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 2 (CP)—Tottenham Hotspur, promoted to the first division of the English league after 15 years of striving, is being acclaimed this season as the "wonder team" of British soccer.

In a country where professional football clubs are expected to be good, Tottenham at present is basking in such superlatives as "stupendous" and "dazzling."

Maintaining the torrid pace they set a year ago, the fast-travelling Spurs already are being touted as the team to beat for the league championship and maybe the association cup too.

If it can be done the club is not only assured of a king's-size jackpot but a special place of honor in soccer's hall of fame. For the records show that winning the "double" is quite an achievement. In fact it hasn't been accomplished since Aston Villa turned the trick away back in 1897.

So far the Spurs have taken the hurdles in confident stride, the most recent a 7-0 drubbing of highly-fancied Newcastle United.

Proudly directing Tottenham's affairs, manager Arthur Rowe, believes his boys are quite capable of landing the "double." However he modestly admits he might settle for a little less. After all, the cup hasn't been in the club's trophy room since 1920

Studded With Stars

In a lineup studded with stars, the club boasts several players who have attained international status. When England met Wales in the last test, the Spurs contributed three to the English side—Alf Ramsey, captain and full-back; Les Medley and Eddie Baily (CCT) the left wing combination.

Medley, a sure-fire marksman, toured Canada last summer with the Football Association team and back in 1946 lined up for a spell with "Greenbacks," a Toronto professional squad. Valued at a transfer price running into five figures, Medley returned to Tottenham two years ago at the cost of a cable message confirming the deal and his ticket back home.

Some idea of the value placed on the players collectively was given last spring when the team took off by air for an exhibition tour of the continent. The total insurance taken out ran to more than $1,200,000.

In its rise to greatness the club has undergone a story-book transition from rags to riches.

It ended its first season as an amateur organization with a net operating profit of slightly more than £1 ($3). Then for years it struggled desperately against adversity. Today, it is one of the wealthiest clubs in the country. It owns a stadium capable of accommodating 75,000 spectators, runs several "farms" for developing promising youngsters and last year wound up with a profit in excess of $100,000.

On the advice of his doctor, Bill Jones, Harringay's ace goalkeeper from Quebec, has decided to hang up his skates for the remainder of the season.

In ill-health since he reported to the British Hockey League club last September, Jones reluctantly decided to return to Canada.

The loss of Jones came as a severe jolt to Harringay, already badly riddled by early-season injuries. Until a replacement is found in Canada, the Racers are borrowing Brighton Tigers' spare goalie, British born and trained George "Fish" Robertson.

Marlboros Edge Dutchmen, Teepees Wallop Spits 8-1

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros, a chastened group of Allan cup champions, have begun the long, obstacle-strewn climb toward first place in the Ontario Hockey Association major series.

The Dukes, who dropped back to last place in the four-team group after two straight setbacks at the hands of the leading St. Michael's Monarchs, have bounced back into second position with a couple of victories.

After dumping Hamilton Tigers into the cellar with a 7-1 shellacking Wednesday, Marlboros ran into a tougher job last night, edging Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 5-4 to move into second place by a single point. They still trail the Monarchs by six points.

Teepees Triumph

In the Junior A division, St. Catharines Teepees walloped Windsor Spitfires 8-1. Stratford Kroehlers dumped Oshawa Generals 7-4 and Guelph Biltmores defeated Galt Black Hawks 3-1.

With the leading Barrie Flyers and the second place Junior Marlboros idle, the results moved Stratford and St. Catharines into a third-place tie, one point behind Marlboros, and dropped the Spits from third to fifth, where they were joined by the Biltmores.

Spitfires upheld their reputation as one of the more temperamental clubs in the circuit, virtually blowing the decision through rough play.

Match Penalty

Spitfire performers drew a match penalty, two misconducts, four majors and 11 minors. Teepees were assessed four majors and eight minors.

The Windsor club also lost its third coach in as many games when Carson Cooper, chief scout of the Detroit Red Wings farm system, was ordered from the rink after threatening to pull his team from the ice after a penalty to Elmer Skov.

Last week, regular coach Jimmy Skinner drew an indefinite suspension for striking an usher in Barrie. Tommy Ivan, who handled the Spits in their next outing, departed peacefully to take up his normal duties as coach of the parent Detroit Club in the National Hockey League.

Pierre Pilotte, Skip Teal and Ted Power scored two goals apiece for the Teepees, with Orrin Gould and Frank Toyota getting one apiece. Jim Anderson was the Windsor marksman.

Misconduct

Windsor centre Eddie Joss was the recipient of a misconduct penalty, followed by a match sentence when he bit the finger of a rival player.

The Galt-Guelph game, a replay of a previous Biltmore victory which was thrown out because Biltmores were using an ineligible player, was quiet by comparison. Ron Murphy tallied twice for the Bilts, with Guelph's Ken Laufman and Galt's Pete Conacher the other goal-scorers.

At Stratford, Guy Henri scored twice for the Kroehlers, with Gord Myles, Larry Lemenchick, John Wood, Bob Baily and George Aitken netting single tallies. Oshawa's marksmen were Lou Jankowski, Mike Delich, Alec Delvecchio and Stan Mills.

Play Tonight

Two early goals by Bob Hassard proved Marlboros' margin of victory over the Dutchmen in the major game. Bill Johnson, Don Rope and Frank Davis kept the Dukes ahead, while Art Hurst, Morris Levesque, Mickey Roth and Hurst again in the dying minutes scored in a vain effort to catch the winners.

The two clubs tangle again tonight at Waterloo while St. Michael's meet the Tigers in Hamilton. In junior games, Windsor will travel to Galt and the tail-end Waterloo Hurricanes tangle with Oshawa. Marlboros and St. Michael's Juniors will meet in a Sunday tilt in Toronto.

COBOURG, Dec. 2 (ENS) — Don Shepherd, 22, received a broken right heel and possible further injuries in an accident while on a building job yesterday. Shepherd was helpng n a garage construction job when he jumped 12 feet to the ground to avoid a steel girder which was starting to swing his way. 2 Weeks To Make Home

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP). — Judge Douglas Webster Friday gave Mr. and Mrs. John Hands two weeks to arrange a proper home for their children, three of whom were left alone in an unheated shack near here during the height of last week's snowstorm. The children, now being cared for by the Children's Aid Society, will be returned to their parents if the home is found suitable.

PENGUIN'S COUSIN—Thousands of fish-eating birds known as the Brunnich's Murre, full cousin of the Puffin, appeared in the Montreal area after the high winds last weekend. The birds, bred in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, apparently were forced into the area by last week's heavy storms. They are marine birds and cannot take off from land. Dan Ryan, Sr., president of the Verdun and District Sportsmen's Association, is making a personal investigation to see if the birds starved to death or moved on to the Great Lakes. If they are found, he will see what can be done to ship them back to the gulf.

ROGER MELOCHE, secretary of the Montreal Athletic Commission, adjusts the scales as Laurnet Dauthille, French middleweight title contender, is weighed at a pre-fight physical examination with Otis Graham, Philadelphia; his opponent next Tuesday night at the Montreal Forum. Dauthille weighed 158, one pound more than Graham.

Tried To Sell Pistol Cobourg Youth Fined

COBOURG, Dec. 2 (ENS) — Arthur Tibbits, 16-year-old Cobourg youth, was fined $20 and costs by Magistrate R. B. Baxter yesterday when he was found gulity on a charge of offering a pistol for sale without registration papers. Six months ago he was in court on a charge of having an unregistered revolver and was allowed to go with a warning to have no more to do with guns for a year. On that occasion he was also charged with hunting on Sunday.

The present gun was taken from him by Constable C. Cunninham and Tibbitt's explanation was that he had received the pistol this week from his cousin in Toronto with the object of selling it for him. The weapon was an automatic.

The youth told the court that he liked guns. He had tried to get a job in the local rifle factory but was not successful and he was at present working in a grocery store.

"The fine is $2 0and costs and you will pay your fine by December 18 from your earnings. Stay away from guns or the next time you will get the maximum punishment of $100 or three months," said Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

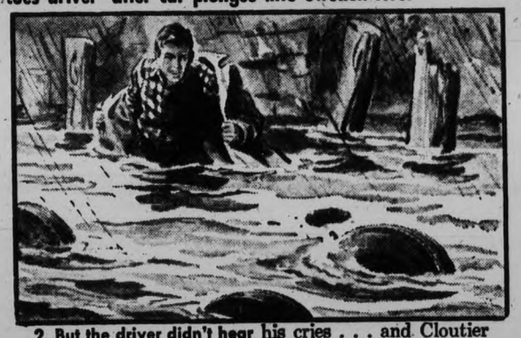
FREES MAN FROM SUBMERGED, OVERTURNED AUTOMOBILE

Fernand Cloutier, of St. Joseph de Beauce, Que ...cues driver after car plunges into swollen river

1. It had been raining throughout the chilly, late September day. The river was swollen and running swiftly . . . and the man in the automobile was having trouble seeing where he was going. With the rain beating against his windshield, he didn't notice that he had turned off the main road — and was heading for a demolished bridge! From a verandah, Fernand Cloutier screamed a warning.



2. But the driver didn't hear his cries . . . and Cloutier raced down the road towards the river. There, upside down, its wheels just above the surface, was the car! Knowing that the trapped man was doomed if nothing were done within a very few minutes, Cloutier did not hesitate. He plunged into the cold, fast-moving water and frantically tried to open one of the car doors.

3. When he finally succeeded in getting the door open, he found the interior a floating jumble of cushions. It was only after a terrific struggle that he was able to extricate the driver (who has only one arm) and bring him safely to the surface. We are proud to add the name of Fernand Cloutier to the list of those who have won The Dow Award.

Two Mayoralty Candidates

HURRELL DODDS

Ald. Hurrell Dodds, 225 Engleburn Ave., was retired this year as an employee of the federal government on the appraising staff of the Customs House in Peterborough.

He was elected to the council six years ago, was chairman of the Board of Works for the last three years, and was chairman of the property and parks committees in his sophomore period of municipal service.

In his more recent affairs marked by personal support and effort, he was chairman of the building committee of the Civic Arena, displaying a characteristic determination to get a rink built for Peterborough's youth, and winter sports centre.

In that effort he had the cooperation of an active committee, but in his advocacy of a Citizen's Band he showed an ardent leadership and persuasiveness in the council. It is hardly true to say he beat a lonesome drum, because the fact is that the city council was sympathetic to the proposal of retaining a band for Peterborough when what was left of the old Rangers Band was heading for the discard.

Ald. Dodds has been stubbornly holding out for the George St. block at Townsend St. as the site of the Memorial Centre. Outstanding facets of his personality are his energy and tenacity.

Ald. Dodds is a veteran of the First World War, a member of the Canadian Legion and a member of the Lions Club. He has mentioned in his campaign that his retirement gives him plenty of time for the city's business.

MAXWELL J. SWANSTON

Mayor Maxwell J. Swanston has been a member of the council ten years, the last two as mayor. He has acquired a wide experience in municipal affairs as head of the council and previously in such chairmanships as the board of works and finance committee.

Mayor Swanston has come through two of the busiest years in Peterborough's administration. He has repeatedly said that whatever has been accomplished it was due to the considered co-operation of the whole council. He would likely be the first not only to acknowledge but also to assert that the council has projected an imposing series of public works which had long been deferred, "in abeyance."

Mayor Swanston has been especially active in this year of Peterborough's corporate centenary which reached its climax Friday in the laying of the foundation stone of the new city hall by Prime Minister Leslie M. Frost. This has been a memorable year, with civic consciousness of turning a corner of time with new dedications by the citizens of today to the Peterborough that is beginning a new century.

Mayor Swanston is a veteran of World War I, having enlisted with the Royal Flying Corps, and is a member of the Canadian Legion.

In business he is manager of Peterborough Printing Co., and he lives at 724 Armour Road. Incidentally, this is the first time in the history of the city that two candidates for the mayoralty have been residents of Ashburnham.

It may be said of Mayor Swanston that he has been diligent in duty, respectful to his associates in the council, and faithful to the traditions of its office of Mayor.

Insurance Firm Trains Staff For New Office

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

When an American firm's business in Canada gets to a certain size, it has to do something about it.

That something generally means setting up a separate Canadian organization which, for the most part, is operated by Canadians.

First, it took five floors in the new 25-storey Bank of Nova Scotia head office in Toronto, still in the course of building.

Then, last May, it advertised for girls. More than 1,000 answered and, including 65 boys, 350 were chosen, 250 of them right out of high school.

To United States

First thing was to take them away to New Jersey, house them at Drew University and Upsala College and give them 10 weeks' training in the Newark head office; mixed in with trips to beaches, ball games, and shopping tours in New York.

Meantime, all the Canadian business, which had been scattered through the various departments of central head office, was brought together in one place and set up into departments of its own. There the girls and boys together with supervisory personnel, got to work

One September day they were told to stop. If there was unfinished business on any one's desk it was put into an envelope and marked with a code number. Then the whole lot, girls, boys, records, supplies, were sent to Toronto.

A week hence the new personnel simply reported at the Toronto office, instead of Newark, walked to their desks, opened up their envelopes and went on from where they were.

Open Today

The official opening ceremonies are being held today, with Carroll M. Shanks, president, up from Newark, and Mayor Hiram McCallum unveiling a many-ton chunk of the Rock of Gibraltar —the company trade-mark— which will stand in the entrance corridor.

As it takes this step Prudential looks back to its first year in Canada, and it says:

"In 1909 Canada had a population of approximately 7,000,000 people (now some 14,000,000)."

Today the company has more than 1,500,000 policies representing more than $1,000,000,000 in force in Canada, and its investments in Canada are close to $400,000,000.

There are 600 employees at the new head office of whom 450 are Canadians, 75 Americans attached to the permanent staff, and the rest Americans here as temporary instructors. Across Canada are 1,400 more employees.

Robert M. Green, of Canadian and English descent, a vice-president since 1938, is in charge, and second in command is William J. Cohagan, born and brought up in Winnipeg.

Modern Theories May Be Harmful

CHELTENHAM, Gloucestershire, England — (CP) — J. F. vice-chancellor of Reading University, says modern theories that children must be allowed complete liberty to "express" themselves do more harm than good.

Wolfenden told a conference:

"A sound and steady appreciation of the difference between right and wrong, true and false, beautiful and ugly, still seems to me to be more important than information about the distance of the sun from the earth or about the names of the kings of Judah.

"The theory of self-development seems to depend on the fallacy that children are born perfect and need no more for their growth to perfection than to be left alone to unfold the riches of their angelic natures."

M. A. Appel, former war correspondent for the Reuters News Agency, will be the guest speaker at the B'nai B'rith meeting Sunday night at the Beth Israel Synagogue.

Prior to his coming to Canada in May, 1948, when he assumed the position of director of public relations with the Zionist Organization of Canada, Mr. Appel, a native of Ottawa, had been director of public relations of the American and World Jewish Congress.

In the fall of 1949 Mr. Appel assumed the position of assistant executive director of the Zionist organization of Canada.

Following compleiton of his education at McMaster University in Hamilton, Mr. Appel was on the staff of the Ottawa Citizen, first as a reporter and then as city editor. He left in 1942 to become a war correspondent for the Reuters News Agency, in the European theatre. He also served Reuters as an editor of the North American Services.

In September, 1945, Mr. Appel joined the New York bureau of Reuters and left in August, 1946, to become a director of news of the office of Jewish Information of the American Jewish Congress. He also served as one of the representatives of the American Jewish Congress and the World Jewish Congress on economic and social council of the United Nations.

Ship Table Top Memorial For CP Reporter

MONTREAL, Dec. 2 (CP)—A table-top from the troop transport Nerissa, torpedoed in the North Atlantic April 30, 1941, was flown into Montreal Friday, to be made into a memorial to Sam Robertson, Canadian Press war correspondent, who went down with the ship.

At the annual meeting of the Canadian Press War Correspondents Association Sept. 23 it was decided to make a presidential gavel in memory of Sam Robertson, the only fatality amnog CP war correspondents in the Second World War. A search then started for a piece of wood that came from the ship and finally in a warehouse in Liverpool, the table-top was found by the Furness-Withy Line, owners of the Nerissa.

It was flown across the Atlantic by Trans-Canada Airlines and Canadian craftsmen will fashion the gavel.

Manitoba Cautions Careless Motorist

WINNIPEG —(CP)— Manitoba government's safety division is reminding car-owners that driving is a privilege easily revoked.

A new driver's handbook points up with lively illustrations the joys of motoring, but tells careless drivers that one serious traffic offence will bring them lots of grief.

"Here is what will happen under Manitoba law. Your licence will be suspended. Your insurance, if you can get it, will cost you from 20 to 40 per cent more for life."

Two convictions will keep a driver off the road for three years —automatically.

"Driving while drunk" heads the list of serious driving offences in the province. In one year there were 134 convictions under that heading.

Three convictions for driving while drunk bring automatic suspension of driving privileges for life.

Grand Master Visits Orange Order

The Orange order is growing in strength, J.. A. Corrigan, of Ottawa, Grand Master of the Loyal Orange Association for Ontario East, told a group of Peterborough West lodges Thursday night.

It was the annual visit of the Grand Master, and the combined banquet and entertainment brought 120 men and women to the Orange Hall.

Not only is the Orange order growing, said Mr. Corrigan, but it is becoming of increasing importance in Canadian life as the international situation gets more threatening.

The Grand Master was introduced by Deputy Grand Lecturer Morgan Brown and thanked by Ernest Reid, past Grand Master of Ontario East. County Master Gordon Trennum was chairman for the evening.

Other speakers on several aspects of Orange work were John L. Hodgson, Ottawa, past Grand Master, and Mrs. Freda Pilling, Provincial Grand Mistress.

Ship's Lookout Has Lonely Job

MONTREAL — (CP). — The world is full of lonely professions, but shipping men will tell you the loneliest at sea is the lookout who swings and sways in the crow's nest of a bouncing liner in the teeth of a stiff Atlantic gale.

Typical of the men who are the "eyes" of the ship during the long Atlantic voyage is Gerard Widdows, who holds down one of the lofty watches on the Cunard liner Ascania.

A veteran of 14 years' service with the Royal Navy, Gerard says there are few loneliier jobs than that of the lookout whose only contact with the ship below is the telephone connection with the bridge.

"You get a bit of every type of weather up there," he explained. "In the summer you get the boiling heat and in the winter it's the ice, sleet and snow. Then when the ship starts to roll in bad weather the lookout has to hang on with his teeth."

However, the job has its advantages, Gerard admits. "Up there all alone on a clear day or a starlit night it gives you plenty of time to think about things and to solve some of your problems you can't seem to straighten out down below. I find it very helpful that way."

CANTERBURY, England (CP) —A Canterbury firm is offering a gold watch to the owner of the best beard grown for the local celebrations of the 1951 Festival of Britain.

Retired Farmer Active Builder

ANGUS, Ont. —(CP)— When Herbert S. Willson turned the farm over to his son last year at the age of 83, he looked around for something to do.

In the next 18 months, he built a modern, eight-room house and promptly sold it to an RCAF corporal at nearby Camp Borden.

Without assistance and in defiance of the protests of his son and daughter, Mr. Willson dug the basement with a hand-shovel, built the brick chimney, built the walls of cedar blocks which he cut himself from old fence-rails, hung door and window-frames, laid the flooring and lathed and plastered the exterior.

Then he made the forms and helped to pour the cement and dug and lined a cesspool.

Mr. Willson didn't take part in shingling the roof or fixing the ceilings because "high jobs aren't safe for a man of my age."

He worked at the job six days a week from April, 1949, to last October, taking two weeks off for a trip to Winnipeg. But he didn't push himself.

"When I'd get a bit tired, I'd sit under the tree for a minute or two."

RED DEER, Alta. (CP).—The Red Deer Fish and Game Association has gone on record as approving an open season for female deer, elk and moose. The meeting said that herds, now depleted badly, could be restored by shooting fewer male animals.

Butcher Fined For Horsemeat In Sausages

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—Laurent Strasbourg, Eastview meat dealer fined $175 and costs last week for illegal sale of horsemeat, pleaded guilty Friday to two additional charges.

He was fined $67 on the two additional counts of selling sausage containing horsemeat and not having the sausages properly branded.

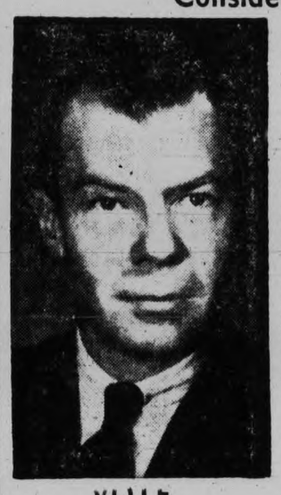
Two other charges of selling hamburger which contained horsemeat were withdrawn.

Magistrate Austin O'Connor refused to convict when a plea of guilty was entered on behalf of Rodolph Hupe, another Eastview butcher, on a charge of illegal sale of horsemeat. A similar charge against a third butcher, Fernand Cote, was withdrawn.

Magistrate O'Connor took the view that while both might be recorded as technically guilty, they had obviously purchased the horsemeat products in good faith from Strasbourg.

The prosecutions arose from investigations about the sale of "horseburgers" at the Central Canada Exhibition here last August.

Two Years' Experience Is Worth Considering!



When Voting For The Board of Education

In the period just ahead, the Board of Education is going to need, more than ever, the helpful co-operation of men who have had experience — not only in business, but on the Board of Education.

W. B. Gordon has served on the Board for two years —two years when the business of the board has been heavier and more complex because of greatly increased enrolments, more extensive building schedules and increased costs.

In the next few years the work will be even heavier — and experience will be necessary to efficiently administer the affairs of our Board of Education.

Ontario Sets Up Committee For Forestry

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP). — Premier Frost Friday announced the setting up of an advisory committee on forestry and the appointment of Maj.-Gen. Howard Kennedy as its chairman.

The steps implemented one of the recommendations of a Royal commission on forestry which Gen. Kennedy also headed, the Premier said in a statement issued from his office.

The committee, in an advisory capacity to the Minister of Lands and Forests, Hon. Harold Scott, "will themselves fix the periods of service—one, two and three years is recommended in the (Kennedy) report," said the Premier. "The matter of a permanent secretariat will be discussed with them and arrangements satisfactory to them will be made."

A. M. Thompson Awarded $889.77

Judge S. L. Smoke has awarded Alexander M. Thompson, Keene, $889.77 in his suit to recover that amount from Wilfred T. Fletcher of the Fletcher Bus Lines. At the special sitting of the county court, Judge Smoke also dismissed a counter-claim by Fletcher with costs going to Thompson.

Thompson stated that Fletcher purchased gas and oil, and obtained repairs to his motor vehicles and buses during 1947. After some adjustment of accounts Fletcher owed him $189.77.

Later, in September 1949, he said he loaned Fletcher $700 making a total of $889.77. When he did not get paid he sued Fletcher.

Fletcher said the money was part payment share in the business. And in a countersuit for $1,000 damages he charged Thompson with failure to live up to an alleged contract.

Judge Smoke found in favor of Thompson; awarded him the full amount and costs; and dismissed the counterclaim with costs again going to the plaintiff.

W. B. Gordon was legal counsel for Thompson; W. J. Arthur Fair represented Fletcher.

Hollywood Star System Changing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2 (AP)— This week brought new indications that Hollywood's star system is undergoing an overhaul.

Gene Tierney and Linda Darnell negotiated contract deals to do one picture a year for 20th-Century Fox. The rest of their professional activity would be strictly on their own.

This was a surprise, because both Miss Tierney and Miss Darnell have long been fixtures on the 20th-Fox contract list—exclusively. But their new deals are part of a trend. More and more top names are being signed to one-a-year contracts.

Studios can no longer afford to keep big stables of high-priced stars the year around.

The trend to non-exclusive deals could bring two interesting results:

1. More diversity in co-starring teams. Sticking to their own contract stars, studios have overworked teams like Betty Grable-Dan Dailey, Walter Pidgeon-Greer Garson.

2. More stars will be available to television. Without exclusive contracts, studios can no longer keep their stars off TV.

Saturday Stew

Ever wonder what happened to the aged cliche in which the actor views a situation and utters "This means war?" Well, it makes a reappearance in MGM's "Kim." (Not the only cliche in the film however.)

"Sneak preview" is the Hollywood terminology for a pre-showing of a picture for public, but not press, reaction. The studio try to keep it a secret. This week Hollywood had something new—a "sneak premiere." Lots of stars were there, but nobody was supposed to know about it.

Manitoba To Consult Premiers On Freight

WINNIPEG, Dec. 2 (CP). — Premier Campbell said Friday he will consult other premiers in Ottawa next week on the question of railway freight-rate increases.

Mr. Campbell issued a statement expressing disappointment that the federal cabinet rejected an application by seven western and Maritime governments for suspension of the recent 20-per-cent freight rate increase.

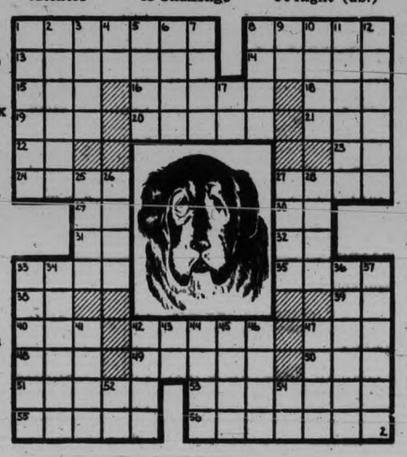
Answer to Previous Puzzle



So Much Taken For Granted Too Little Thinking Done

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

If people in general were not accustomed to taking so much for granted concerning themselves, they would marvel at that mysterious thing that we call "life."

It is, of course, the centre and object of unsolved questionings and mysteries. What happens, for instance, when the accompanying mystery that we call "death" suddenly occurs, and in a moment what was active, vital and intelligent ceases? In what way has life ceased? What has happened to what a moment ago was so real?

The best answer is that the spirit returns to God who gave it (Ecclesiastes 12.7), but from that mystery itself, I turn to the ever-present, but little considered, mystery of our daily life.

We speak of our physical existence, the use of our five senses, as if it were only a material thing, but what mysteries are in every moment of our conscious life, and even in the mystery of sleep, when consciousness seems suspended?

Through the study of the ear and eye, and the waves of sound and light that operate upon them, man has achieved the wonders of the telephone, the phonograph, the radio, and television; but man's creations only lead us back to the great Creator of our physical being, and the law that govern our life.

If men had at all a sensitive understanding of these things, they would bow in wonder and reverence before that Creator, as in fact the Hebrew saints and prophets did. Their distinction was that they thought about life, that they did not take themselves just for what they were, but they looked into the mystery of their being, and so were led to God.

To take this gift of life, and make no return, to fail to use it in any way for the honor and glory of the One who gave it, marks the deepest tragedy of man. And that tragedy is all the deeper, when he turn from the so-called physical life, to consider the spiritual life, the more abundant life, that is also God's gift, God's supreme gift.

How blind and spiritually incompetent the masses of men are, in making so little of God's gifts, not only in their wholesale destruction of physical life, but in ignoring, or refusing, the higher life that God has made possible.

It was the reproach of Jesus to those of His generation, "Ye will not come unto me that ye may have life," and that reproach has been upon those of each succeeding generation. Yet it is true that "the gift of God is eternal life," and the evidences of that life are plain in the many who have heard the call of the Master ,and have accepted His way of love and life.

This Christian attitude toward life is the fulfillment of what was richest and best in the thought and devotion of the inspired Hebrew writers.

It has its noblest expression in the wonderful 107th Psalm, with its beginning, "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good," and its breaking forth in the intervals of the description of God's dealings with man into the passionate plea: "Oh that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, and His wonderful works to the children of men!"

Could there be a more proper, or earnest, prayer for mankind? And can there be any nobler, or more fitting, act of man than the devotion of his life to God?

795 Claimants For Insurance As Unemployed

November's unemployment situation was improved over 1949 but showed an increase over October, William Mellis, manager of the National Employment office reported today.

Unemployment insurance claims at the end of November totalled 795 as compared with 869 last year. The decrease is due to the disqualification of 30 per cent of the married women who were drawing funds. New regulations were imposed November 15 regarding married women accepting money under the unemployment insurance scheme.

The 795 figure for November was an increase on the number for October of 680. This rise is due to the annual seasonal layoff, construction work gradually closing until the spring months. Other months' figures were: September, 520; August, 704; July, 1,039; June 1,005; May, 1,001.

752 Men Registered

Applicants looking for employment increased in the men's department but decreased in the women's division. This year on November 30 in the Peterborough district 752 men were registered as employable as compared with 673 last year. Women applying for work at the end of the month were 302 this year and 363 last year.

This year there were seven times the job opportunities as last year. Mr. Mellis reported 75 positions open for men as compared with 10 in November 1949. Women's vacancies on file at the office decreased to 11 on November 30. Last year the office reported 30 opportunities for women.

Claims for the district totalling 795 were divided into 595 men and 200 women as compared with a total of 869 last year, 579 men and 290 women. The number of men's claims in the city rose slightly this year to 450 while last year 418 were on claim. The increase from October in men's claims amounted to 39.

Women's claims in the city took a decided decrease from 269 on October 31 to 163 on November 30. Last year the number of women on claim in the city's area was 227. The decrease this year was mainly in the married women drawing funds.

Claims sent to various points throughout the local office's territory numbered 182 while postal claims in 1949 at the same time were 224. November's figure was slightly higher than October's 151. The majority (145) of the postals were men's while the women's totalled 37. Last year's postals were 161 men and 63 women.

HEAD GIRL AND HEAD BOY OF PCVS were chosen at Friday evening's largely-attended commencement exercises; they are Mary Craw and Peter Turner. They also were awarded the Local Council of Women prize and the Melville Robinson Scholarship.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

14 Years' Friendly Rivalry Ends For Two Students Becoming Head Boy and Girl

A friendly scholastic rivalry lasting over 14 years was climaxed Friday night when Mary Craw and Peter Turner were announced as head girl and head boy of PCVS for the 1950-51 term. The announcements of the annual awards climaxed the commencement exercises which were held for PCVS students in the collegiate's auditorium.

Miss Craw daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wilson Craw, 774 Aylmer St. and Mr. Turner, son of Mrs. Lillian Turner, 580 Homewood Ave. and the late Ford Turner received the school's highest individual awards. These are annually given to the boy and girl who excel in athletics, leadership, scholarship and character.

Both students started school in the same year and to the same school, Queen Alexandra. Throughout the grades from kindergarten to grade VIII they jostled for the class leadership. The gap between collegiate and public school failed to break the scholastic rivalry for high honors. In grade IX Miss Craw edged Mr. Turner for the general proficiency honors. The rivalry ended Friday night in a draw when they were selected head girl and head boy.

The selection of the head boy and head girl on the four merits is not made alone by the teachers and the principal, C. S. Browne, for each year the students in grade XIII vote.

The Mrs. R. F. Downey prize, a diamond ring, was presented by Mr. Downey, retired school inspector, after he had built up suspense amongst the girls by humorously changing the subject before anouncing the winner. Mr. Browne presented Miss Craw with the Canadian Council of Women scholarship which is awarded annually to the head girl.

Miss Craw this year was elected president of PCVS Students' Council during the annual fall election campaign. In school athletics she has taken part in girls' basketball, one of two to lead the senior girls' basketball team to the COSSA playdowns last year. She was also champion of the track and field meet in 1949. In 1946-47 Miss Craw won the first Morrow scholarship for general proficiency in grade XI and in 1947-48 won the first Nicholls scholarship for general proficiency in grade X. She has an average percentage in collegiate of 82.

Kenner Memorial Prize

Mr. Browne made the presentation of the annual award to the head boy, the H. R. H. Kenner Memorial prize. A popular choice by the applause it received. With this award went the Melville C. Robinson memorial prize which is awarded annually.

Later Mr. Browne said that Peter Turner is outstanding by his willingness with which he undertakes any job. He is popular with the teaching staff and the students as well as having an average "which is very credible" of 79 per cent for his years at PCVS. In sports he was a capable manager of the senior COSSA finalists this year. Illness kept him out of the game previously. At the basketball games he acted as a timer and scorer. In grade IX out of the 400 students he placed second to Miss Craw to receive the second Morrow scholarship for general proficiency.

Martin To Head Local 599

Orville Martin, labor candidate for alderman in the city elections has been elected president of Local 599, International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL).

The election was made necessary because the Ontario Labor Relations Board ruled that the previous president, Robert Tripp, was ineligible for the union. His job was classed as outside the jurisdiction of the office workers' local.

Recently the local was certified by the OLRB as the bargaining agent for 460 office workers at the Peterborough CGE plant. The IUE has also been certified as the bargaining agent for 205 office workers at the Davenport works, Toronto.

The 3,600 Peterborough production workers are within the jurisdiction of the rival United Electrical Workers union.

The two IUE locals—Local 599 and Local 567—are working out a master contract, and intend to negotiate jointly with the company.

City To Retire $755,000 In Debentures

A total of $755,000 in debentures will mature this year with an additional $651,000 maturing in 1951. These figures can be found in the annual financial statement of the municipality.

Peterborough's debentures maturing in 1949 amounted to $177,000 to make a total of $1,583,000 that will have been paid in three years.

This year's debenture for $755,000 was incurred with the building of the Hunter St. bridge and Prince of Wales School.

Retires From GE After 39 Years

Alfred B. Day, 168 Douro St., terminated Friday evening 39 years' employment with Canadian General Electric Co., retiring into association with the superannuates. He was for years president of the Employees Mutual Benefit Association of which he had been a member 33 years.

Arriving here in 1911 from England, Mr. Day began work in the punch press department of CGE at a starting wage of 11½c an hour and fortnightly pay checks.

Most people have cars today, many are investing in bonds, and life appears to have reached a higher standard, but Mr. Day told the CGE News that he sometimes feels "the old days were better in many ways."

"We had just enough money to get by on, but nobody grumbled. We were happy and all had good times."

Disability payments were $4 a week in the Benefit Society then, as compared with $15 now. Mr. Day says the Mutual Benefit plan at CGE is the best in existence, "and I am sure it will provide even greater benefits as it progresses."

Bridge Railing Wrecked By Car

Thirty-four feet of railing on Jackson Park creek bridge at Townsend St. were broken early today by a car involved in an accident.

Donald Campbell, 92 London St., was driving north on George St., and when near Townsend saw another driver, northbound, signal a left turn. Campbell said he thought the other car would stop.

Campbell's car was knocked onto the sidewalk on the west side of George St., and it flattened 34 feet of railing before it stopped only a tire-width from dropping into the creek.

Driver of the other auto was George Wasilewski, RR 7, Peterborough. PC Gordon Trennum investigated.

SERIES OF LECTURES

Most Rev. C. L. Nelligan of Assumption College, Windsor, who was chief of the Roman Catholic chaplains during the last war, is speaking on the dogma of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Sunday night at 7:30 in the K of C Hall, Simcoe St. This is the first of a winter series of lectures sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. Second speaker will be Hon. F. M. Forde, Ottawa, Australian High Commissioner to Canada. His subject will be Australia as a Christian Democracy.

Eliminate Curve At Bad Corner Nepheline Road

The county has almost completed the rounding of the treacherous curve at the intersection of the Nepheline Mine road and the second concession of Dummer. This intersection, four miles northeast of Warsaw, was the scene of a fatal truck accident a little more than a year ago.

Despite a year of austerity in road spending the county council decided to go ahead and eliminate the right-angle turn, known as Hamblins' Corners. Total cost of the project is likely to be $4,000.

To round the corner the county had to obtain four small parcels of land, amounting to about two acres in all.

Deeds were obtained from Mrs. Margaret Martin for one piece of 1,452 square yards; and from Lawrence E. and Ida J. McCracken for 97 square yards. The prices paid were $325 and $25, respectively.

Expropriation proceedings have begun against Edwin Hamblin, who owns a third-of-an-acre property, and against him and his son Gordon for a one-acre property owned jointly.

County Engineer Jack Kean estimates that a couple of good days should see the completion of the job. One day would be spent on spreading pit-run gravel, and the other in spreading crushed gravel for the top layer.

The county has also undertaken to erect fences along the new fence line.

Wet weather and then the fall of snow prevented county workmen from completing the job a week or so ago. The ground has been too soft to go ahead.

Turkeys Priced 60 Cents Pound

Selling was slow on the weekly Saturday morning as prices were high and buyers few in the opening hours. Sleet chased some early shoppers from the outside market into the building where there was a large market on fowl, pastry, clothwork, and varied displays. The outside market started slim consisting mainly of apples, fowl, vegetables and cuts of beef, pork and lamb.

Turkeys were scarce and there were no geese. The few turkeys sold at 60c a pound for hens and 55c for toms. Ducks were plentiful and going slow, varying between 50c for clearance and 65c a pound. Chickens were 45c and 50c a pound, hens 45c, year olds 40c, and capons 52c-55c a pound.

Apples were in good supply meeting a good demand. Prices were: hubbardsons, 35c six-quart, $1.75 a bushel; russets, greenings, snows and cortlands, 45c and 50c six-quarts, $2 a bushel; Baxters, spys, and sweets, 55c and 60c six-quarts, $2.50 bushel. Apple cider was 60c a gallon. Pears were 75c and 85c a six-quart basket depending upon the variety and quality.

Several truckloads of Christmas trees arrived on the market midway through the morning. These sold according to size and type from 75c each to $1.50.

Potatoes were: Sabagos, $1.25 a bag, and katahdins, $1.20. Other vegetables were selling at: cabbage 5 and 10c each, brussel sprouts 25c a quart, onions 30c for six-quart, parsnips 40c six-quart, turnips 5c and 10c each or $1.50 a bushel, carrots 30c for six quarts. Pumpkins, a few, were 10c each or three for 25c. Pepper squash were 10c each or three for 25c. Other squash varied in price depending upon the size from 10c to 25c each.

Four puppies, a cocker-spaniel, were a main attraction outside the building. Two months old, the two youths were asking $3 each for the pups.

Police Probed Five Accidents

Minor damage was done to several cars and trucks in five city accidents Friday afternoon. An elderly man needed three stitches on the left side of his head after he was knocked down by a car.

Eric Nickson, 137 Montgomery St., was driving east on Brock St. and crossing Donegal when the right rear fender of his car was struck by the northbound auto of Eugene Warriner, 559 Brioux Ave.

Nickson's auto was swung around on the ice and hit a car driven by Fred Hardwick, 314 Pearl Ave. Nickson said Warriner was unable to stop because of ice on the road.

William R. Chapman of Lang, was walking across Water St. at Charlotte St. Friday afternoon when he was struck by a car driven by K. F. Scott, RR 10, Peterborough. Scott said he stopped and asked Chapman if he were all right, and Chapman said he was. Later Chapman had three stitches taken in the left side of his head.

Carl Milheron, 347 Holloway Dr., reported to police that his car which he had parked on Brock St. had been struck by a hit-and-run driver. He said he returned to his car to find the right rear fender badly damaged.

Two trucks which collided at Hawley and Little Sts. Friday afternoon were slightly damaged. They were driven by Robert Hamlin, 400 Wellington St., and Lavern Doxsee, 363 Holloway Dr.

A city bus, and a truck driven by P. J. Killen, 350 Dublin St., collided Friday afternoon at Water and Charlotte Sts., and slight damage was done to the bus, which was driven by W. F. Storey.

Killen told police he was driving north on Water, came to a full stop at Charlotte, and started across. He was just across when the car in front of him stopped. He was forced to stop suddenly and the bus hit the rear of the truck. Damage to the bus was estimated at about $60.

Prime Minister Frost Warns Against Excessive Spending By Governments

A warning against excessive government spending was issued Friday night by Prime Minister Leslie Frost, speaking to a civic dinner in honor of his official visit to Peterborough on the occasion of the laying of the foundation stone for the new city hall. As the last half of 20th century was entered, he said, there were fabulous times; times of change and expansion. "We can see the words of Sir Wilfrid Laurier coming true. We can see these fabulous days ahead, of which he spoke when he said that the 20th century would belong to Canada."

Treble Budgets

But, he warned, governments were faced with many demands which seemed all important to the people making them. If the governments attempted to do all they had to and were asked to do, "we would at least treble our budget."

He spoke of the inflationary effect of government spending, and of the eventual effect such spending would have on the economy of the area within that government's jurisdiction.

Asks For Co-operation

The premier called for more co-operation betwen all levels of government. Rapidly changing times, he said, demanded this co-operation.

But the major part of the premier's speech was composed of nostalgic memories. He recalled the years when he was starting out as a lawyer in the counties of Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton. "It was like a different age; the changes since then are almost unbelievable".

The changes that had been wrought in the province since those days are amazing, he said. At the turn of the century, 70 per cent of the province's production was primary production. Today, the situation is more than reversed—only 22 per cent is now in the form of primary products.

Even in the past 20 years, changes have been great. Wages and salaries have more than tripled; hydro has become an accepted thing, and roads have threaded almost throughout the province.

"Our young people are facing challenging days in a great country. They will see opportunities such as we have never seen. They will see the great resources of our country, that were bypassed years ago; become more important and the discoveries of those older times," Premier Frost said.

As an example, he pointed to the marginal ores of eastern Ontario, which are becoming exceedingly valuable. They will, he said, have a greater effect on the province than the discoveries of precious metals in the north part of the province near the turn of the century.

Welcomed To City

Premier Frost received a civic welcome to Peterborough from T. J. Carley, KC, who said that the city welcomed the province's prime minister "as the head of the administration which makes the municipal government of Peterborough possible.

"And we welcome him for himself—a man whose career has been distinguished by attention to duty, thoroughness and efficiency."

Mayor Max J. Swanston presented a mantel clock made in Peterborough to the premier and Mrs. Frost, and said "we hope you will both live long to enjoy it". Alderman Adam Sands introduced the guests at the head table and the mayor acted as chairman for the dinner. Dinner music was played by Charles Allen at the piano.

Frost Requests Holiday In City Schools

Premier Frost received an ovation of cheers from the many school children in his audience at the new city hall Friday when he requested school boards to declare a half holiday next Friday afternoon to "commemorate this great occasion which I know will have a bearing on your lives".

He also suggested to school boards and teachers that half an hour should be spent some day next week in telling the young people of Peterborough about the great country of Canada of which they were to be the future citizens.

"Some day they will think back and remember that they stood here on this chilly afternoon and took part and assisted in the ceremony of the laying of the foundation stone of this beautiful and useful building in this beautiful land of Canada, our land of opportunity.

"We have the greatest country in the world," the premier said, and obviously hoped that his words would reach into the understanding of the school children.

When he was presented with the ceremonial trowel the youngsters streamed up the steps and surrounded Hon. Mr. Frost. He was plainly surprised by their exuberance, but he went ahead with his official task.

Finally Ald. Sands pleaded with them to return to the foot of the concrete steps where they and everybody else could see what was going on.

HOUSE No. 479—Architect Charles Grenier is well known for his tastefully designed small homes, and this one is a splendid example of his skill. Notice that the basic house is almost exactly square, and into this area six first-class rooms, plus two bathrooms, have been neatly fitted in a manner which assures convenience and a good measure of gracious living. Over the attached garage we find the seventh room, a study, which stands out as being one of the most attractive in the house. For working plans write Home Building in Canada, 472 Bay St., Toronto.

Small Ailments Can Become Big Repair Jobs In Future

Houses are sometimes like teeth. If looked after regularly, no great harm will befall them. But, left unrepaired, small ailments can grow into a "peck" of trouble.

Few home owners will knowingly and deliberately neglect minor repairs. Most often houses run down because the owner does not know what to look for. Accumulations of needed repairs have a habit of growing into expensive trouble which must often be cared for when the season is least favorable. It is certainly not economy to put off repairing the heating system until the middle of winter.

Money will be saved in the long run if every spring and fall the homestead is given a thorough check up, just as a physician examines a patient for state of health. Nowhere in the world is the old adage—"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure"—more applicable than in home maintenance.

It is now time to check the house over for weaknesses which may cause future difficulties.

Treat New Plaster

New plaster which is to receive an oil base type of paint should be treated to neutralize free lime which might be present in the plaster. Otherwise the lime may "burn through" and disfigure the new paint job. A solution of two pounds of zinc sulphate to a gallon of water is recommended as a good neutralizing agent. No neutralizing agent is necessary, however if you plan to use casein paint as a final finish.

That dull, heavy tarnish that may have startled you when you took your silver out of storage is more easily removed by soaking the pieces for two hours in potato water. After that, the slight tarnish that is left can be removed with a soft brush and a good silver polish.

Table tops marred by white spots left by hot dishes may sometimes be remedied by rubbing the spot vigorously with a cloth wrapper around a solid lump of butter.

A considerable saving can be effected in the plumbing budget of a new two-storey house by placing the basement, laundry, kitchen, and bathroom in a straight line over each other. This saves extra piping.

Location of the hot water storage tank and heater close to fixtures requiring hot water, will result in economy of piping, quantity of water used, heat loss from piping, and fuel required to heat the water.

Large old-fashioned kitchens offer many posibilities for modernization. If less space is desirable, a big kitchen can be easily divided off into several units. Surplus kitchen area may be converted into any one of the following uses: dining alcove, household office with planning desk and telephone extension, pantry or storeroom, downstairs lavatory, or closets for clothing or cleaning materials.

Painting Screens

During the spring and summer when window screens and screen doors are used, privacy may be obtained by painting the screens with a thin coat of white paint. In the daytime this will prevent vision from the outside, while those within may still look out.

Curing is a nimportant process in making concrete water resistant. The purpose of curing is to retard the evaporation of water from the concrete, giving it time to unite with the cement, which should be kept moist for approximately 10 days. In hot weather, exposed concrete should be thoroughly wetted twice daily during the first week.

There is a growing trend toward higher windows, according to home-building technical experts. Higher placement of the windows offers the triple advantage of better lighting, better ventilation, and better heating, it is pointed out.

The ideal height of windows from the floor is 25 inches. However, many homes have windows set 20 inches from the floor, and correspondingly lower at the ceiling.

When opened from the top, high set windows permit the hot air under the ceiling to flow out more readily, thus assuring more rapid cooling of the room in warm weather.

Another factor, from the standpoint of comfort and physical well-being, is the fact that high windows permit radiators or convectors to be placed under the windows. This is considered a good location because it permits heat to meet the cold air where it comes in.

Heating Units

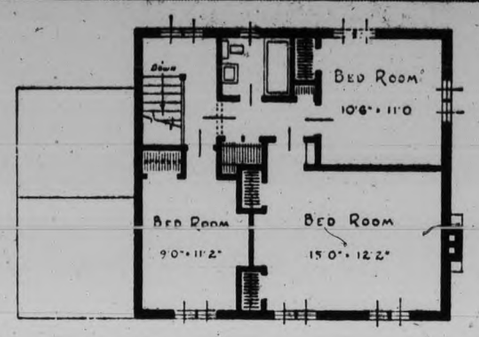
By locating the heating units under the windows drafts are often prevented, providing more healthful and comfortable environment.

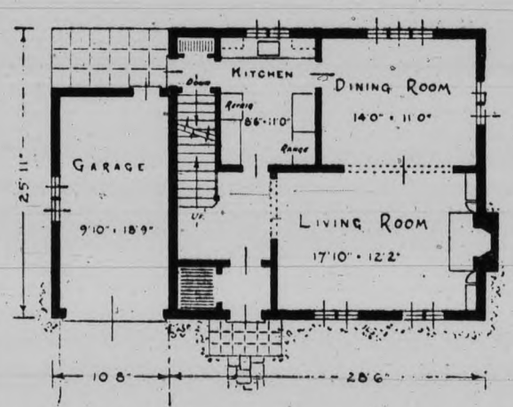
Painting the edges of screens and storm windows and doors, as well as the flat surfaces, besides adding to their attractiveness and beauty, protect them from deterioration by retarding the absorption of moisture which may cause them to swell and stick. Moisture-resistant paints are usually preferred for this purpose.

Sometimes an old floor can be improved immeasurably and made really gay with paint. Naturally the colors selected should harmonize well with room decorations.

In Colonial interiors, for instance, spatter-dash makes an effective finish. Before the work is begun, protect the lower two feet of the walls with newspapers. Then the ground color can be applied. Black, grey, blue, green or violet are all good ground colors to be spatter-dashed in white. Or pumpkin-yellow, spattered in brown, may appeal.

After the first coat is dry, apply a second coating on a section of the floor about four feet square. When this has dried until it is just "tacky"—or sticky—it is time to begin spattering. This is done with a very coarse paint brush or a long handled whisk broom. Dip the brush into the paint, making sure it is not so heavily laden with paint as to drip. Then, holding a stick firmly in one hand about two feet from the floor, tap the brush smartly against it. Move along the floor and repeat. A dado can be very easily spattered in the same way.





HOUSE No. 478 — Thi six-room design is an excellent example of small home construction. Here is brick at its best — with carefully tailored millwork enhancing the final picture. Actually the house is not as large as it appears, having an area of only about 18,300 cubic feet. No room could be called large, yet each is adequate. There are splendid window openings and ample closets throughout. The master bedroom has twin closets. Many will appreciate the rear garage door being so close to the kitchen door. This is particularly good when building in a municipality which does not permit a door directly between the house and garage. For further information regarding plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

THESSALON, Dec. 2 —(CP)— Fanned by a strong wind, fire destroyed six business establishments in a downtown block last night, causing damage estimated at more than $600,000.

Thirty-two persons fled to safety from the buildings and four apartments over the shops.

Thessalon is about 48 miles southeast of Sault Ste. Marie.

One of the first business shops destroyed was a furniture store and undertaking parlor owned by J. A. Fullerton, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Algoma.

Also destroyed were a barber shop, electrical shop, photographic studio, restaurant and taxi stand.

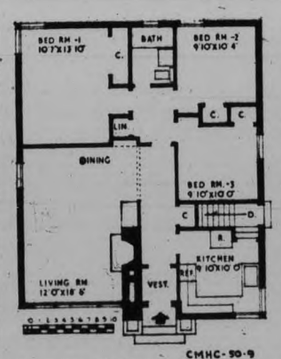
Oil Stove Explodes

Firemen said they believed the blaze started in the taxi stand. One fireman said an oil stove there exploded.

The Thessalon volunteer fire brigade, assisted by men and equipment from nearby communities, succeeded in bringing the blaze under control about 2½ hours after it broke out at 5:30 p.m.

For two hours the local brigade fought alone with only one water pumper. Ice-covered highways delayed arrival of men and equipment from other centres

N.H.A. DESIGN OF-THE-MONTH



For efficiency, convenience and comfort this design stands high among those chosen by home builders in all parts of Canada. The attractive exterior features a generous roof projection and a modern chimney which shelters the front entrance. The large living room window gives light and view just where it is most needed. This design stresses an appearance of "young modern" combined with practical durability.

The front entrance is planned for an eye-catching effect with good scope for landscaping. The vestibule opens into a good-sized entrance hall. A compact kitchen is just around the corner and a large closet is located well back to prevent congestion at the entrance.

The living-dining room is of ample size, pleasing proportion, and with excellent window arrangement. A modern stone fireplace provides the focal point for a tasteful furniture assembly. The built-in china cupboard in the dining section is a handy step-saver for the busy housewife, and adds to the decorative aspects of the room.

Three bedrooms, a bathroom, three closets and a linen cupboard complete the plan. The master bedroom, with corner windows and an extra-large closet, has ample space for twin beds. The other bedrooms are a good single size and the bathroom is located conveniently for all three bedrooms.

One of the main features of this modern design is the location of the kitchen which, with good wall space for equipment, cabinets and corner windows, adds up to the brightness and convenience any housewife enjoys.

The exterior appearance of this Ottawa bungalow is modern, attractive and logical. It is finished in white stucco with the chimney and foundation accented in rough stonework. A house of this type would be equally attractive in brick or stone. If frame construction were desired the outside over-all dimensions of the house and the minimum lot frontage dimension would be reduced by approximately one foot. If a side drive were required the minimum lot frontage would be 42 feet instead of 30 feet. This design is 35 feet 6 inches deep with an area of 1,045 square feet.

Scholarships, Prizes, Diplomas Awarded At Annual PCVS Commencement Exercises

Commencement exercises at PCVS Friday night put the finishing touches to one of 'PCVS's most successful terms, 1949-50. Scholarships and prizes were presented in addition to the diplomas to the graduates of Grade XII and XIII. The students were received by the largest audience ever to attend the exercises.

Guest speaker, Dr. Gordon Roper, assistant professor of English, Trinity College, University of Toronto and a former student at PCVS, told the students their education really starts upon graduation. On their own they will have to be their teacher or find others outside educational institutes to do the teaching.

Out in the world, he said, there is no lack of teachers. Whenever the students use their eyes, he added, they will be open to various types of teachers. These various forms of advertising "teachers" try to have the student picture himself as they think he ought to be. Some people are pushed into this set role by these agencies.

Quoting Emerson, Dr. 'Roper said another way of life was "Who so wishes to be a man, must be a conformist". He explained that Emerson meant the individual to be self-centred, independent, but not selfish, "be a little dynamo in a universe of your own".

As a third way of life for the student to follow Dr. Roper suggested to look for security and settle down. He said that after 20 years the fun would be the same but not as gay. People who live this type of life Dr. Roper said "live like cows and cowlike come to an untimely end".

His fourth way of life was to continue one's education through plays, reading books and talking. He inserted that talking is one of the arts lost in America.

In closing Dr. Roper told the students that the "world is wide open for you and the future is yours."

Samuel Murphy, last year Students' Council president, presented to Frank H. Jobbitt, chairman of the Board of Education, a painting by F. H. Brigden on behalf of the students of 1949-50. This painting, Mountain Stream, is the third in a collection of Canadian original paintings. The annual gift was started three years ago by the Students' Council.

Miss Jessie Blackwell, who won the Nicholls scholarship for general proficiency last year in Grade XIII, gave the valedictory address. Besides this award she received prizes for her work in French and for her literary work in the Echoes. Miss Blackwell won one of seven provincial scholarships which the students of the school received this year, the Dickson scholarship in English, French, History and Latin from Trinity college, University of Toronto.

Prior to the exercises the PCVS concert band under the direction of Albert Croasdale played. The numbers included Operatic Piecework, Secrets, Blue Skies and Knightsbridge.

Certificates were presented to the graduating students by Mr. Jobbitt and by O. C. Simmers of the PCVS teaching staff. The other scholarships, awards and prizes were presented by: Mrs. Paige Rowell, the Nicholls scholarships for general proficiency, the Grade X Canadian history prize, the Grade X English prizes and the Sam Rogow Memorial scholarships for Art; M. Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"KING"

Most authorities agree that the title "King" is from the Anglo-Saxon cyning which is made up of the word cyn, meaning a nation or tribe and the suffix -ing, meaning "of". Since, in Anglo-Saxon times, the king was elected by the Ulitenagemot, or people's High Council, he was therefore the choice and head of the nation.

DAWES Kingsbeer BREWERY

Why Ratepayers Are Being Asked to Provide $585,000 For Second Collegiate

TO RATEPAYERS OF PETERBOROUGH:

Your Board of Education is asking you to approve of the issuing of debentures for $585,000 to pay for the building and equipping a second collegiate when you go to the polls on Monday next? We are asking for this money, because we firmly believe that without a second school, we cannot give to the boys and girls the education which it is essential for them to have.

Need for a second school is great

First we will point out the need. The present Collegiate and Vocational School was built in 1928 to accommodate 950 students. We now have almost 1,300, and with the exception of two temporary rooms, no additions have been made to the building. To enable the staff to carry on with the present enrolment various make-shifts have been adopted. Our auditorium is used as a study hall where 200 and more students work under the most unsatisfactory conditions Classes are doubled up in the shops, science is taught in the ordinary classroom 40 times each week; home economics can only be offered to Grade IX girls, while in other schools it is taught up to and including Grade XII. Our shops operate from eight o'clock in the morning and our students only get two-thirds of the required periods in the gymnasiums.

Public Schools are crowded

While these conditions exist in the present building our Public Schools are crowded to capacity. In 1929 we had 2,700 in our Public Schools, today there are 4,300 and a greater percentage of these are going on every year into our Collegiate. We have 1,800 pupils registered in the five top grades of our Public Schools and within the next five years 97 per cent of these will enter Collegiate.

Subject thoroughly studied

Your Board has not proposed this new Collegiate without many hours of study and also long discussions with the top officials of the Department of Education. The Department is satisfied that the Board is doing the proper thing in proposing a new school and as the Department pays 25 per cent of the cost it made a thorough investigation of the whole plan before giving its approval.

Non-resident students an asset

Non-resident students cannot be excluded from the Vocational Department as ours is the only school in the district offering this training; academic students could be excluded from the school after two years' notice. But such action would not remove the need for a new school. It would merely add to the burden of the city taxpayer. The non-residents carry their full share of the cost. In 1950, they paid more than $40 000, an amount greater than the anticipated yearly payments on the proposed school. Without them, we could make some small immediate reduction of operating cost of secondary education—but their contribution is so great we would be very foolish to throw it away.

Costs $27,000 a year

The cost of this proposed school is $585,000 which includes the construction of the building, the architect's fees and cost of equipment. This cost when spread over 20 years will mean an annual charge of $38,000 for principal and interest of which the Ontario Government will pay 25 per cent. Thus the charge to the ratepayers will be three-quarters of a mill or roughly $3.00 on every $4,000 assessment. We sincerely believe $585,000 is an outside figure.

Stop-gaps are not enough

Temporary measures have been suggested but these would only be stop-gaps for a year or two and the Board would soon find itself in the same position as it is today. The pupils are already in the elementary schools and accommodation must be found for them when they enter Collegiate

The alternative should the Board not be able to build the new Collegiate is the Stagger System, operating two schools in one building. One school would go from 8.00 a.m. to 11.00 a.m. and from 1.00 p.m. to 3.00 p.m. The other from 11.00 a.m. to 1.00 p.m. and from 3.00 p.m. to 6.00 p.m. and finally the changing of the only auditorium in the city into classrooms. This system would completely destroy student life and at the same time increase the costs much more than operating two buildings. This is the experience of towns and cities where the Stagger System has been tried.

A vote against the bylaw will not settle the problem. Our boys and girls must have a high school where they can do the work which will fit them for life.

Life Of Violence Woman, 29 Stabs Husband

WARWICK, England, Dec. 2 —(AP)— The nightmarish life of Mrs. Frieda Pratt, darkened by six violent deaths in 21 years, was unfolded yesterday to a judge.

Mrs. Pratt, 29, pleaded guilty to stabbing and wounding her husband Oct. 23.

Defence counsel A. E. James asked the court to consider this case history:

When Mrs. Pratt was eight she saw a boy playmate kill himself accidentally with a gun.

When she was 11 her father was killed by a train. She tried to commit suicide with sleeping tablets.

When she was 13 a boy with whom she was swimming was drowned.

When she was 20 she quarrelled with her fiance, a Polish pilot officer in the RAF. Next day he was killed in a crash.

When she was 22 she was married to a man who turned out to be a bigamist. He killed himself by gas. She found the body.

When she was 24 she took up with a salesman in London. They had a lover's spat. He shot and killed himself.

Justice Frederic Sellers said he would ask for a mental report on Mrs. Pratt before deciding on the sentence.

Chorus Clomps Last Dance Toronto Burlesque Dropped

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP)—Connoisseurs for the shapely shank shed a nostalgic tear today. Burlesque was dead in Toronto the good.

One of the few emporiums of leg-art in Canada, the Casino Theatre finally scrapped its girlie shows this week and turned to a new house policy—big name vaudeville and family entertainment.

The slow trend away from the strip-tease type of show began more than a year ago when the strippers themselves disappeared. The final blow was delivered Tuesday night when 13 scantily-attired chorus beauties skipped off stage to the plaintive notes of "I'm Dancing With Tears in My Eyes."

With just a hint of a tear in her eye, Mother Haley, wardrobe mistress at the Casino for 15 years, finished her job and the dancing girls were out of work, temporarily at least.

"I'm sorry to see the girls go," she said. "Fifteen years I've been here. Why some of these girls have been here 10 years."

Glamor of Show

Murray Little, who opened the Queen Street show 15 years ago, was also sorry.

"The chorus is the glamor part of any show. It is in the background, and you build a show around it, but the chorus kids are the heart of the show."

But nostalgia aside, the chorus had to go if the Casino was going to become a place where mom and pop could take the kids.

The girls themselves took it hard although Jean (Didi) Fairman probably showed it more than the others. As the last number finished she began crying on stage, continued as she made her exit and sobbed right into her dressing room.

PO May Appeal Suspended Sentence

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—Post office officials said Friday they are studying evidence before deciding whether to appeal the suspended sentence given to a Royal mail truck driver who admitted theft of $10,000.

They were commenting on the case of Robert Hyatt, given suspended sentence in Kitchener Friday. He had confessed under questioning and returned the money.

Officials said it was not unusual for a magistrate to give suspended sentence when the circumstances warranted it. A suspended sentence was given in a mail robbery cast in Hamilton recently.

Administration Of Police Election Issue

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP)—A four-way contest for mayor with the city's police administration the focal issue has nearly eclipsed the campaigns of 27 other men seeking election to civic office in Windsor's municipal election Wednesday.

Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, 44, seeking his sixth two-year term, is waging his main verbal battles with Thomas R. Brophey, 43, Osgoode Hall law student and former council member. Mr. Brophey came within 2,506 votes of matching Mayor Reaume's 15,780 in the last election.

The other two candidates are Wilfred Dayus, 54, owner of a building supply company and Frederick Croson, retired business man who trailed in 1948's three-way mayoralty battle.

Windsor voters will also vote on two questions.

Legalize Raffles

One, backed by store and theatre owners, asks whether citizens approve daylight time in summer months. Similar votes in 1947 and 1949 said yes.

The second, sponsored by Mayor Reaume and approved by most of council, would have council ask the Federal Government to make legal raffles, bingos and kenos when operated for specific charities and on city permission.

Mayor Reaume is heavily backed by both A.F.L. and C.I.O. unions in this industrial city. His platform is based on his record on housing and his administration's 10-year reduction of the city's depression-born debt to half its former size.

He has charged Brophey with "spreading dirt" in Toronto about Windsor's vice situation. Brophey denied this. He contended that the mayor, as a police commission member since 1940, cannot escape all responsibility for law enforcement conditions.

Those conditions have resulted in the last year in two police commission investigations, a provincial police survey, resignation of two police commissioners, and more recently the firing of the police chief and his deputy and the institution of temporary police leadership by a provincial police inspector.

City Manager

Dayus is campaigning on a "sound business administration" platform, and promises to institute a city manager system which voters approved in a previous election.

Croson has flayed the mayor's work on the police commission.

Only one Communist, Michael J. Kennedy, one-time local officer of the Labor-Progressive party, is seeking election. His campaign is against "big business."

Kennedy is in a city-wide contest for two board of control seats against the incumbents, W. Ernest Atkinson and John F. Martin, and a former alderman, O. M. Paterson.

Mr. Pat told the national conference of the committee there is a definite anti-semitic movement in Russia and that Jewish writers and newspapers had been liquidated in the iron-curtain countries.

Driver Shares Blame In Death Jury Finds

TORONTO, Dec. 2 —(CP)—An inquest jury last night held 21-year-old Thomas Gobeil of Noelville, Ont., near Sudbury, partly responsible for the traffic death Nov. 7 of Marilyn Keeling, 14. Its verdict divided responsibility between Gobeil, said to be the driver of the automobile that struck her, and the girl.

The girl, daughter of a Toronto policeman, was killed at the intersection of Burnhamthorpe Road and Highway 27 on the city's northwestern outskirts.

In a rider to the verdict, the jury recommended: A pedestrian-operated stop light at the intersection; signs placed north and south at Burnhamthorpe Road warning of a crossing used by school children; and a solid white line in the centre of the highway 200 yards on either side of the intersection.

An unusually large number of ships are in port and shipping men estimate some 30 ocean vessels will clear next week before ice makes navigation impossible.

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home

Here's an old home mixture your mother probably used, and, for real results, it is still a most dependable medicine for distressing coughs.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water until dissolved. No cooking is needed. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Anyone can do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid cough medicine—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a long time. Children take it without the usual struggle.

This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such quick relief.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

Train Radio Service

EDMONTON, Dec. 2 —(CP)— Experimental work on two-day radio service for trains has been in progress for some time, F. H. Keefe of Winnipeg, general manager of western lines of the Canadian National Railways, said yesterday. Mr. Keefe said there were a good many "bugs" to contend with before such a system could be regarded as sufficiently developed to be put into use.

Honesty Best Policy?

WINDSOR, Dec. 2 — (CP) — Patrick Quinn, who appeared in court on a shoplifting charge, had a perfect explanation when Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan asked him: "How do you happen to be here on a charge like this?"

"I've got a bad leg, and I just couldn't get away fast enough," Patrick replied.

He was given two weeks in jail for his leg to get better.

Hastings: doubled its population with new industries. In 1860 H. Fowlds built a carding and fulling mill on the south shore, beside Griffis' saw and planing mill; the Fowlds mill was rented to E. S. Sanborn the next year, and taken over by J. Blacklock in 1863 as a woolcarding and knitting mill. Another woollen mill built 1863 on the north shore was burnt down the same year, along with a large sawmill, and Lye's sash and door mill (built in 1861). Fowlds also built a 3-storey cotton mill and rented it in 1861 to Ross, Nield and Co.; from 1866 it was run by Wm. Whitehead, turning out cotton batts, blankets, cloth, etc., shipped in bales to Harwood by steamer. In 1862 Henry Calcutt of Ashburnham with P. Blackmore of Hastings started a brewery near the present Ormondé cheese-factory, but it failed, and was advertised in Nov. 1864: "A Brewery and Malthouse with small dwelling attached in Hastings, to be sold very cheap. H. Calcutt." There were also a flour-mill, a foundry, a tannery, a shoe factory, four hotels, five general stores, 12 carpenters, nine shoemakers, seven blacksmiths, five saddlers, five coopers, three doctors, etc., by 1870.

From the first wooden sidewalk in 1861, others spread through the main streets. Clyde Street was called "The French Village" as many French - Canadians settled, the men working in logging, the women in the mills. Besides the brick Presbyterian Church, others were built: Anglican (frame) 1862-63, Methodist (brick) 1862-63, Roman Catholic (stone) 1864-5. For 400 school children, a new brick school was opened in 1864. Masonic Lodge 150, Orange Lodge 549, IOGT Lodge 359, the Band of Hope, a militia company, and cricket club flourished. By 1870 there were 1,000 people in 200 houses, and agitation was growing for railway connections.

Fairton: Village in Belmont Township had 550 people by 1870.

Norwood: An older community grew more slowly and by 1870 had 750 people. The Town Hall and Grammar School (combined) was enlarged in 1866. T. Buck built a woollen mill in 1863, leased to G. Sanborn, and also had a four-storey gristmill. In addition, there were Finley's hub and spoke factory, Cope's foundry, two tanneries, four hotels, three general stores, etc. Orange Lodge 34 and British Templar Lodge 57 met in the frame Orange Hall, and the Militia in the frame drillshed built in 1867.

Westwood: By 1870 had declined to 80 people.

Keene: Still had about 400 people by 1870, and its industries were listed as a gristmill, a sawmill, a shingle mill and a tannery. From 1861 a curling club was active. In 1869 a frame agricultural hall was built for the fall fairs.

Allandale in 1870 had 175 people.

Warsaw: In 1870 still had about 150 people. A Baptist church was built in 1866 and a Methodist church in 1869.

South Douro with 100 people, and

South Dummer with 50, were active little hamlet in the mid-sixties which did not continue to thrive.

Marmora: A school was built in 1867. By 1870 the population was about 250.

Lakefield: Grew rapidly from 100 to 500 population, especially after the PH and P Railway came. A Methodist church was built in 1862, a Division Court opened in 1863, and a larger Anglican church effected in 1866. Samuel Strickland, its pioneer founder, died in 1867.

Millbrook: As a railway centre was flourishing. The "Chronicle" April 26, 1860, boasted: "Here we have industry, manufacturing capacity, and fertility of soil..... Money is plentifully expended, and the country surrounding Millbrook undeniably occupied by a wealthy class of people....In this enterprising place there are seven manufacturers, a host of well-to-do traders, over one thousand inhabitants, a wealthy back country, and a ready mode of ingress from and egress to, the best markets." Millbrook about 1866 had one of the first lacrosse teams in the district. The "Messenger" July 20, 1866, reported that the sawmills of Messrs. Sowden Lough & Sharp in the region had been all washed away by a big rainstorm. By 1870 the population was close to 1,200.

Lindsay: Prospered on the lumber trade. In 1860 a magazine reading-room was opened with 130 members (fee $6 a year), and there were intermittently four newspapers. A post office was set up in 1861. On the night of July 5, 1861, during a crowded celebration of Dunsford's electoral victory, a fire broke out on Ridout Street, and the song "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" became a grim reality. By the next afternoon the whole centre of the town had been gutted, including the railway station, four hotels, two mills, the post office, and 83 other buildings on both sides of the river. Four hundred people were homeless, and distress was great, many having to spend the summer in tents. However, within a year over ten three-storey brick blocks were built, clustered around the wide Kent Street, and there were more industries than before. A new railway station was built, and the first telegraph office opened in 1862. A Union School, and a Presbyterian church both of brick, were built in 1863. The Baptists began holding services that year, and built their chapel in 1866. Lindsay's Mayor Keenan achieved local notoriety in October, 1865: After a visit in September of the City Councils of Rochester (NY) and Port Hope to Peterborough, the Councils of Peterborough, Lindsay, Cobourg, Port Hope and Colborne returned the visit and were feted at a dinner in Rochester, at which Keenan made a speech advocating that the Stars and Stripes should fly over Canada, a touchy subject at that time especially. Lindsay also had its "French village" to the east, and a "Catholic village" to the south; for these a separate school was built in 1868. The Bank of Upper Canada failed in 1863, but the next year came the Ontario Bank, and the Merchants Bank in 1870.

Fenelon Falls: The village suffered after the sawmill burnt in 1858, but the eerction of a timber-slide in 1861, and a bigger Smith & Waddell sawmill about 1867-1868, revived the village. By 1870 the population was 750.

Dunsford: A Methodist church was opened in 1860, ten years later the population was 50.

Bobcaygeon: Was the headquarters of Mossom Boyd (1815-1883) one of the most capable pioneer Kawartha industrialists, who owned much property, several mills, and the SS "Victoria." The first Bobcaygeon Fair was held in 1863, and the Methodist church remodelled and enlarged in 1869. In 1870, whe n the population was 1,000, the "Independent" newspaper was established. Other district villages by 1870 had populations of: Young's Point 100, Bridgenorth 150, Ennismore 130, Springville 150, Ida 70, Cavanville 70, Bewdley 80, Downeyville 80, Omemee 600, Oakwood 500, Woodville 400. Development of the northern townships and villages will be described later.

Although the population increased slowly, the number of families (and houses) in the two counties increased 50 per cent in the sixties; by 1871 there were 10,711 families living in 10,515 houses. The number of people listed as "farmers" went up 65 per cent, acreage occupied increased 50 per cent, cattle and sheep were up 60 per cent, horses up 50 per cent, and nearly all crops except wheat far ahead of 1861. Prices were high for rye, oats, barley and hay, and these crops soared. Land prices for cultivated farms doubled between 1850 and 1870. Peterborough Agricultural Society was long-established, but the Victoria Agricultural Society was set up in 1860, and held its first fair at Oakwood and plowing match in Ops in October, 1861. The first cheese factory in the district was built in 1866 by John Walton of Smith, but in the 1870s numerous others were built in both counties; more grain and hay were needed to keep dairy cattle over winter, and there was more interest in cattle-breeding. The simple austerity of farm life can be judged from the auction sale held March 12, 1869, on the farm of the late John Nelson of Asphodel, when all his household and farm goods (excluding the land and buildings) were sold for the total of $313.70, of which $104 was for a horse. In 1871 there were 6,193 farm-owners, 1,243 tenants, and only 38 hired men in the district. Increased mechanization is shown by the 1871 totals: 10,433 plows, harrows, and cultivators, 1,054 reapers and mowers; 1,640 horse-rakes; 5,093 fanning-mills; and 1,040 threshing-mills, in Peterborough and Victoria Counties combined.

More Comfortable Life

Life both rural and urban was becoming more comfortable. Wells were dug and pumps (built locally) installed. New sewing and knitting machines made home manufacture of underclothes, socks, shirts and dresses much easier; boots and shoes were bought from the shoemaker, although some factory-made ones were on sale in stores; the village milliners and dressmakers helped in making women's "Sunday best" while the men bought tailor-made or ready-made suits. Pewterware and steel cutlery were replacing woodenware for ordinary folk, while the wealth bought silverware and imported china, also glass chandeliers, stuffed parlor furniture, etc.

With the discovery of petroleum in Pennsylvania in 1859, the use of kerosene (coal-oil) lamps and lanterns became universal, and whale-oil was no longer imported; kerosene fell from $2 to 35c a gallon by 1870. Along with rumors of discoveries of gold, lead, copper, iron and other minerals, there were tales of "black gold strikes", equally elusive in fact. Always in the lead, Peterborough promoters formed a Petroleum Company in 1865, sold stock to the credulous, and picked a spot near the Auburn powerhouse for their oil-well. $2,252 was spent to drill 250 feet into the rock, with much difficulty. After some practical jokers dumped a barrel of old oil, lye and grease into the hole, there was much excitement which ended in derision, and the company went out of business suddenly. Traces of oil reported near Cambray and Bobcaygeon in 1866 were also nebulous.

Wages in the sixties averaged by the month: farmworkers, $8-$15; male servants $7-$9; female servants $2-$5; boys $2-$8; young girls $1-$3; all these received board and lodging also. Mechanics got $25-$50 a month; blacksmiths $25-$40; carpenters $30-$40; labourers $15-$25. Logging and mill wages were about the same as in the fifties. Prices: some sample prices in the sixties follow: Food —bread (6-lb. loaf) 15c; flour, 100 lbs. for $2.25; meat 5-8c lb.; hens 25c each; eggs 10-12c doz.; butter 15c lb.; coffee 25c lb.; milk 6c quart; potatoes 40-50c bus.; maple syrup 90c gal.; raisins 15c lb.; currants 5c lb.; tea 75c-$1.50 lb.; honey 15c lb.; sugar 12-17c lb.; rice 6c lb.; vinegar 40c gal.; eels 3c lb.; codfish 5c lb.; cheese 10c lb.; crackers 10c lb.; olive oil 25c pint; salt $2.25 bbl.; wheat 75c-1.25 bu.; barley 45c bu.; oats 40c bu. Household Needs: candles 20c lb.; nails 5c lb.; soap 10c lb.; wool 3c lb.; kettle $2; iron pot $2; lanterns 50c; plates 10c; knives and forks 10c each; spoon 3c; starch 17c lb.; paint oil $1.20 gal.; machine oil $1 gal.; port wine $12 bbl.; empty barrels $1 each; file 30c; scissors 32c; pitchers 15c; brass candlestick 40c; table linen 50c yd.; blankets $3 a pair; walnut bureau $14; wardrobe $14; chairs $2.25 each; kitchen table $2.50; umbrella 90c; milk pan 25c; trunk $2.50; lamp chimney 10c; door-lock 50c; broom 25c; putty 7c lb.; rattle 13c; rubber ball 10c; rubber doll 20c; jack-knife 35c; tallow 13c lb.; varnish 35c pint; paint brush 50c; strap hinges $1.25 pair; washboard 25c; washtub $1; spittoon 35c; firewood $1.50 cord. Clothing: Loggers boots, $4 pair; fine hand-made boots $5; kid boots $2.50; children's shoes 80c; shoepacks, mocassins $1.25; cap $1.25; hats: felt 1.25, leghorn 80c ladies' hats $1; coats $4-$5; linen coat $2; tweed cloth 80c-$1 yd.; flannel 30c yd.; denim 25c yd.; ticking 25c yd.; print 18c yd.; towelling, 12½c yd.; hoop-skirts 50-80c; paper collars 20-25c a box; overshirts $1.25; trousers $4; woollen mitts 40c; woollen drawers $1.75; scarlet sash $1; cotton braces 25c; rubber braces 50c. Christopher Fry Shows 2 Plays On Broadway

By FRED KERNER

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (CP) — Thirteen new plays came to Broadway in November giving New York its first taste of "good theatre" in a season which opened weakly.

With 10 of the plays surviving critics' judgment, comedy still holds the upper hand this year. Last month's entries included two hilarious pieces revolving about witchcraft while four of the 10 are the first sound dramas of the three-month-old season.

Witches abound in John Van Druten's "Bell, Book and Candle," a cleverly-conceived piece which brings together for the first time Rex Harrison and his wife, Lilli Palmer. Miss Palmer is a lovely witch who hexes her co-star into falling in love with her. Jean Adair of Hamilton, Ont.,—best known for her "poisoning" performance in "Arsenic and Old Lace"—is Miss Palmer's aunt, a lesser-witch in this bewitching comedy.

Not For Burning

Christopher Fry's latest poetic romance stars John Gieglud as a soldier tired of life, and Pamela Brown as an accused witch trying to avoid the stake. "The Lady's Not For Burning," set in the 16th century, combines Fry's unusual poetry and some polished acting to create many show-stopping laughs.

Fry has a second entry, a translation of Jean Anouilhs' 'Ring Round the Moon" which stars Lucile Watson, the Quebec City-born actress.

A hilarious revival of the 17th century comedy, "The Relapse, or Virtue in Danger," by Sir John Vanbrugh, bids fair to stay on the Broadway scene for many months. Presented in unexpurgated version, it gets away with lines no contemporary author would dare pen.

Runyon Comedy

Also on the light side are "Guys and Dolls", a new musical based on Damon Runyon characters. And "The Golden State," an innocuous piece about California.

First dramatic hit on the season was "Hilda Crane," Samuel Raphaelson's play about modern women and marriage which was directed by Hume Cronyn of London, Ont. Starred are Cronyn's wife, Jessica Tandy, and Beulah Bondi. It is a stark play, well acted staged and directed.

Clifford Odets reappeared on the scene with "The Country Girl," starring Paul Kelly and Uta Hagen. A clever British mystery, "Edwina Black," holds audiences spellbound with Signe Hasso headlining a small, able cast. A limited showing sponsored by the American National Theatre and Academy brings Judith Anderson back in "The Tower Beyond Tragedy," a new play by Robinson Jeffers based on the Agamemnon legend.

Annapolis Valley Now Varies Crops

ANNAPOLIS, N.S. — (CP) — Most people think, of Nova Scotia's famed Annapolis Valley as a 100-mile stretch covered with apple trees. So it was, 25 years ago, but now farmers are going in more for mixed farming.

About 50 per cent of the apple growers have a substantial investment in hogs, poultry and cattle. King's county now raises more poultry than any other county in the province.

Manning Ells recently completed a poultry house costing $27,000 which will house 14,000 hens. It now accommodates 35,000 chicks.

The main reason for the shift to mixed farming is to produce better apples. Orchardists have learned that good apple production depends on preserving the humus in the soil. This requires livestock to produce manure.

At the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto recently Holsteins owned by Walter Dickey of Onslow, an apple grower, carried off top honors in their classes. Also at the Fair two Valley youths, Weldon Tupper and Meline Brown, captured first and second awards in the early potato competition.

Maritimes Son Pioneers On Prairie Site

CRANBERRY, PORTAGE, Man. —(CP)— The son of an old-time Nova Scotia seafaring family is pioneering in farm development in northern Manitoba.

Forty settlers with their families are expected to move into the Wanless area next year as a result of the work of Major Roy Allan.

Roy's father, a builder of sailing ships, sent him west in 1903 when the era of wooden ships was on the wane.

He said it had been a family custom for the father to present each son with a square-rigger when he qualified as a master mariner. But about the time Roy became of age, the father went out of the business.

In the West, Roy taught school, later became a horse rancher. In The First World War, he was wounded in a cavalry action at Morieul Wood.

Twenty years ago Major Allan settled at Wanless, a tiny wilderness settlement 30 miles north of The Pas. Indians helped him build a cabin and he turned his land into an experimental station.

Years of good yields convinced him Wanless would be suitable farming land for war veterans. Eventually the Department of Agriculture's experimental station at Brandon advised him: "We can now state that (Wanless) has proven itself the best area in Manitoba for growing high-class oats."

Major Allan sold his idea to the government. Next year 40 war veterans will move into the area.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

Answer to Red Rose Cont'd. from Last Week: I knew that I was going to be visiting my friend Garny who is of German origin and who makes potato dumplings, so I brought your letter along and asked her if she knew what was your trouble with the recipe I gave you. She said it would be wise to give you her recipe, because that would be foolproof.

Garny's Potato Dumplings

Six medium sized potatoes boiled and mashed or riced, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons melted bacon fat or shortening, 1 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, 4 well-beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons each stale breadcrumbs and flour. Beat all ingredients together very well. Drop from tablespoon into boiling slightly salted water or onto stew that has plenty of liquid. Cover closely and boil 12 minutes, without lifting lid. This makes about 20 dumplings and work because Garny made them so I could taste them before I typed this.

Question: I am interested in herbs and have clipped your articles for future use. However, I disagree with you in regard to sage. Without sage in stuffing it would not taste right to our family. I also put a bit in hamburg steak. Another way I enjoy it is in cheese sandwiches (the leaves taken from the plant—not dried.)

I am enclosing a snipping of what we call winter savoury (a perennial). Could this be used in the same way as summer savoury? I also enclose a few leaves of lemon balm. I have a good deal of this and am wondering if this can be used in any way. I use it mostly for smelling.

I enjoy your articles on food and think the women's pages are simply great. My husband remarked on them also.

(Mrs.) H. G.

Answer: Since your letter came I have a new supply of sage grown in my friend Garny's garden. It is so much better than crumbled sage bought in tin cans. I will try to remember to use fresh sage in cheese sandwiches when the fresh sage grows next summer. A new meal loaf I make is one-half pork and one-half beef ground together and the usual ingredients are added plus sage—it is so good it makes meat loaf good enough for a company dinner.

Winter savoury can be used exactly as you would use summer savoury. Lemon Balm is the plant that some lemon perfume is extracted from for soaps. But in earlier times was used as a "tea infusion to induce a profuse perspiration and check a cold in its first stages. It must be drunk hot and fresh." I am merely quoting from an old herb book I have —not prescribing by any means. I would love to hear more about your herbs, and I am glad you like the cookery column.

Question: Would you please be so kind as to help me with the following recipes for preserving vegetable marrow. A recipe for jam etc. would do. Would you have a recipe for preserving them? The English people make it something like this: Marrows cut up in cubes and the juice with them, taste of lemon and ginger too. The juice is just like water. It is called marrow preserves. I wish to thank you for your wonderful recipes and hope to see many more. I would like to see those recipes for Grape Jam, Jelly and pie you speak of. "Queen"

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer:

Vegetable Marrow Preserve

Cut pared and seeded marrow into one-half or one-inch cubes and weigh it. For each 4 pounds of prepared marrow prepare 2 quarts of limewater—which is made by adding 2 tablespoons lime which is calcium oxide and which you will buy at the drug store. Let the marrow cubes stand in this for 2½ hours to make it crisp. Drain and place in clear water for 1hour. Drain and boil for ¾ hour in fresh water. Drain. To each 4 lbs. marrow cubes allow 4 quarts water, 4 pounds sugar, 2 lemons thinly sliced and 4 small pieces gingerroot. Boil the lemons 5 minutes in 1 cup water Boil the rest of the water with the sugar 5 minutes to make a syrup. Add the marrow and gingerroot to the syrup and boil about 1 hour, then add the lemon and water in which it was parboiled. Continue to boil until syrup is of consistency you desire and marrow is clear—about 15 minutes, but it must be stirred constantly. Pack in sterile jars and seal.

If I have space I will print the grape recipes you want after Christmas so watch for them.

Long-Groombridge Vows

The wedding took place this afternoon in St. John's Anglican Church, where chrysanthemums banked with ferns were the setting, of Gillian Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie R. Groombrige, and Douglas Rowland Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Long, all of Peterborough.

Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson performed the ceremony and the music was played by Professor F. G. Mann.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was becomingly gowned in pale blue Chantilly lace, styled on princess lines in the new three-quarter length and with a short matching bolero which buttoned at the front to a small Peter Pan collar. She wore accessories of matching lace blossoms. Her bouquet was of white 'mums and pink sweetheart roses.

Bridesmaid was Mrs. Gordon Clarke who was frocked in Dobby blue taffeta, fashioned in three-quarter length with sweetheart neckline and waistline peplum. Matching accessories completed the ensemble and she wore a cap of gold and rust feathers and carried gold and rust 'mums with talisman roses.

The groom's attendant was Mr. Joseph Campanaro and ushers were Robert Groombridge and Jack Fowley.

The reception was held at the bride's home where her mother received, gowned in navy faille with hat of pink coq feathers and wearing a corsage of pink orchids. Assisting to receive was the groom's mother, gowned in hunter's green taffeta with hat of matching velvet and wearing talisman roses at her shoulder.

Leaving later on a wedding trip to Indiana, the bride was wearing a suit in coco brown shade and accessories to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Long will live at 298 Edinburgh St.

The Hon. Rose Alexander Is "Working Girl" Deb—

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 —(CP)— An ebony-haired daughter of a viscount—she likes to work for a living—will be among 30 or so Ottawa debutantes "coming out" this season.

The Hon. Rose Maureen Alexander, 18-year-old daughter of the Governor-General and Viscountess Alexander, celebrated her birthday last month and will be among the "debs" attending the annual Young Peoples Ball between Christmas and New Year's at her own home—Rideau Hall.

However, chances are she won't have much time for "coming out" preparations. Rose is a working girl. Any morning she may be seen leaving the 75-acre Government House grounds—to catch a street-car for downtown and a job as stenographer in a city insurance office.

She took the job because she wanted it. What's more she likes it and plans to stick with it.

She's well liked too by the girls who work with her. They say when the office-clock moves around to time for afternoon tea it's always Rose who is on hand to help with the dishes afterward.

In clothes Rose prefers suits and moderately high heels for day wear. She seldom wears a hat.

As for hobbies she has her stamp-collecting and also is continuing with her Girl Guide activities. At present she is a lieutenant in the First Ottawa Company.

Beyond the ball which will serve as Rose's "coming out" party, there won't be any more entertaining than usual at Rideau Hall this season.

Some 700 persons will be invited to the party and among them will be Rose's brother, 15-year-old Shane, now in England attending school at Harrow. Shane will be home for Christmas vacation around Dec. 23 on the Queen Elizabeth which will dock at New York.

Mrs. M.J. Swanston Is Tea Hostess

A small tea in honor of Mrs. Leslie Frost was given Friday afternoon by Mrs. Maxwell J. Swanston, at her home on Armour Road. Mrs. Frost had accompanied her husband, Ontario's Prime Minister, to the ceremony of laying a stone in the foundation of Peterborough's new City Hall. Other guests of the Mayor's wife on this occasion were Miss May Needham of Millbrook, cousin of the late George Morrow who has bequeathed a sum sufficient to put up the City Hall building, Mrs. M. F. Allan and Mrs. Wells Richie, of Toronto, wives of the architect and the civic administration advisor, Mrs. Hubert Eastwood, Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, Mrs. Harold R. Scott, Mrs. S. L. Smoke, Mrs. W. R. Philp, and the present aldermen's wives. Carnations and pink roses graced the lace-covered tea table at which Mrs. W. G. Ovens poured the tea.

Otonabee Couple 49 Years Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Elmhirst of Indian River will quietly celebrate the 49th anniversary of their marriage on Tuesday, December 5th.

They have spent the whole of their married life on the farm in Otonabee township on which they still reside. This farm has been in the Elmhirst name since 1820.

Mr. Elmhirst is in his 86th year and although his health has failed somewhat this past year he is up and around his home each day. He was for years known in harness racing circles and was always able to get a share of the prizes. Later he became interested in raising and exhibiting shorthorn cattle and still takes a great interest and pride in them.

Mrs. Elmhirst, in her 81st year, carries on all the duties of a household still, besides looking after her own garden each summer.

Both are faithful members of St. Michael's Anglican Church at Westwood where their marriage was solemnized on December 5, 1901, by the Rev. J. McKee McClennan. Mrs. Elmhirst was formerly Jane A. Lancaster, daughter of the late John Lancaster and Catherine Christie, who also lived in Otonabee. Mr. Elmhirst is son of the late Philip W. Elmhirst and Jane Bolton.

They have two children, Alfred J. who lives with his family on the homestead, and Mrs. Max Humphries (Kathleen) of Hastings. A son Harry died in 1932. They also have five grandchildren.

Female's Job In Life More Complex than Man's

A GIRL ASKS: "What do people mean when they speak of "the business of being a woman"? Well, daughter, they are referring to the complicated job that is wished on all of us who are born of the female persuasion.

Dorothy Dix

Being a woman isn't as simple a matter of nature as being a man is. A man is even as God made him, handsome or ugly, fat or thin, dumb or fascinating. We take him at his face value and let it go at that. But life isn't so easy as that for women. No woman can do with a measly little handful of charms and virtues. She has to be able to shoot the whole works in order to get by.

Take the matter of looks, for instance. Provided a man is neat in appearance, intelligent and has good manners nobody cares a rap about whether he is as handsome as a cinema hero or ugly enough to stop the clock. Ninety per cent of the big men of today are fat and bald-headed, and would never get a prize in a beauty show. No employer considers whether or not a male applicant for a job has naturally wavy hair and melting blue eyes and peaches-and-cream complexion.

Must Be Attractive

But a woman is under the necessity of being beautiful though ugly. If she wasn't born pulchritudinous it is part of her business to make herself so. That is why women spend their money in beauty shops instead of restaurants, why they starve themselves to attain stringbean figures and why they grow old trying to keep young.

Observation shows them that men are far more interested in the outside of a girl's head than in what is within it, and as long as that is attractively upholstered it doesn't matter whether there is a single brain cell functioning or not. Also, they have observed that when a woman looks for a job it is better to be Miss America than to hold the typewriting record or to be a wizard at figures.

Then part of the business of being a woman is to be a sort of universal genius, a jack of all trades. Nobody expects a man to be a combination lawyer and plumber or doctor and carpenter or preached and gigolo. No man, after a hard day's work, washes his collar in the bathroom so he may have a fresh one for the next day, nor does he sit up at night making over his old trousers so they will look as good as new.

But every woman is expected to fill any role that happens to be empty and to be able to perform with equal skill upon the piano and the kitchen range. Just think of the versatility demanded of the ordinary woman who must be caterer and purchasing agent, cook and baby-tender, doctor and nurse, judge, teacher, private secretary, entertainer and financier for a family. It is a stunt in changing colors that would leave a chameleon dizzy with envy, yet it is a chore that thousands of wives and mothers pull off every day without turning a hair.

Part of the business of being a woman is getting married. This is a far more difficult undertaking than it is for a man. He, lucky soul, can pick and choose and pop the question to any lady who captures his fancy, but conventions permit women no such free-hand method in getting their mates. A woman always has to work under cover in her wooing, which cramps her style. She has to use indirect ways of selling to some man the idea that she is the wife he has been looking for, that two can live cheaper than one, and that he is anxious to give up his bachelor freedom and settle down.

And after a woman is married it is her business to keep her husband entertained and amused, well fed and comfortable and content to job along in double harness instead of jumping the bars. To do this she has to baby him and flatter him; give him the glad hand when things go right and buck him up when things go wrong; be a combination siren and cook and mother, and take it all in her stride in the day's work.

The business of being a woman is to walk humbly in high places and bravely through troubles. It dealing with your own family to is to use enough diplomacy in qualify you as ambassador to the Court of St. James. It is to be a magician who can turn nickels into dollars. It is to help men rise to their best and train little children into being good men and women. It is the hardest job on earth and the most important.

Famous Couturier to Quit Designing Paris Fashions

PARIS—(Reuters)— The Paris fashion world is asking the question: "Who will take Molyneux' place?"

Edouard Molyneux, the famous dress designer, faced with a choice between total blindness and giving up his business, has decided to sacrifice the career which brought him to the top of the fashion ladder.

Only six months ago, in the hope of being able to continue in Paris, he closed down his London house where many a model had been designed for Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. Now, even his work in Paris has been forbidden. He has to take a complete rest.

His illness is the result of the three wounds he received in the trenches of the First World War.

Born in England, Molyneux wanted to be a painter. His collection of paintings today is one of the loveliest private collections in Paris. But at the age of 16 he decided he had better get a job. He entered a competition in the London Daily Mail for a dress design—and won.

Thirty years ago, not satisfied with opening in London only, Molyneux opened a dressmaking establishment in Paris. It was a bold step for an Englishman to storm the stronghold of Paris haute couture.

Once again the Daily Mail played an important part in his career. Lord Northcliffe, the owner of the newspaper and a great admirer of personal initiative, decided to help the young ex-soldier. Photographers and reporters attended his Paris opening and the newspaper carried a splash headline on the young designer.

Today 410 employees, including some who have been with Molyneux since he started, make up a team which turns out some of the finest clothes in Paris.

Aims to Answer All Letters To Santa Claus

COPENHAGEN — (Renters)— A lot of children the world over have the idea that Santa Claus' head office is in Greenland. And because Greenland is a Danish colony, thousands of letters have been arriving here.

One week in November 25,000 letters were received from children in Britain, the United States and other countries. By Christmas the total is expected to be over 100,000. Most of the writers have the happy belief that Santa's enormous toy factories are located in Greenland.

In the Greenland Board an attractive secretary, Miss Gerda Stauning, for years amused herself by acting as Santa's unpaid, unknown secretary, replying to the letters. She thought that if a child took the trouble to write, somebody ought to answer. But in those days she had to deal with only a handful of letters every year.

Then last year a story about Miss Stauning appeared in a British newspaper, and last Christmas she had 7,000 letters. The Danish press, scenting good publicity, took up the matter and the mail has increased.

Association Swamped

This year the Danish Tourist Association undertook to answer all the letters, enclosing with the reply a little fairy story and a picture of Greenland. But the flood has swamped the association and an appeal has been made for money contributions and volunteer helpers to handle the task.

The money is needed because the cost of replying to 50,000 letters, for instance, is estimated at $2,100. But the Danes seem to hate the idea of any child's letter going unanswered, and ample funds are expected.

Santa Claus himself, through the association, had a little request to make. He says: "I should be very happy indeed if the child would write the letter himself, but let the parents write his name and address."

CGIT Doings

MARK ST.

Senior group of Mark St. CGIT met Wednesday for a pot luck supper to which were also invited the members of Mrs. L. Pepper's intermediate group, who remained to hear the guest speaker, Miss M. Ross, superintendent of the VON. Miss Ross gave a talk on the work her department does in local homes. Seniors' business was discussed with leader Mrs. B. S. Morwood in the chair.

Girls in Mrs. J. Murray's junior group each made a pair of sock slippers at this week's meeting.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Right Sauce Dresses Up Bought Cake or Cake Mix

Many commonplace dishes or quick meals taken from a can can be given a chef's touch by the use of the right sauce or dressing. For all the ideas you might ever want along this line you should have "250 Sauces, Gravies, and Dressings twentieth title in the Culinary Arts Institute Series of twenty-four cookbooks that are being made available to readers of the Examiner.

The Sauce Book has just been released this week and its wide variety of recipes and attractive photographic illustrations make it a must in any homemaker's library. You can take any quickly-thrown-together cake and make it a bit of ambrosia by the addition of any one of the several sauces suggested for puddings, ice-creams and cakes. For instance, here is one that can be used at any time of the year as it can be made just as well from canned peaches as from fresh ones:

Peach Sauce

2 tablespoons folur
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon mace
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 cups boiling water
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup chopped peaches
1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Mix dry ingredients, add water slowly and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add butter, peaches and lemon juice. Makes 3¾ cups.

To obtain your copy of the Sauce Book all you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c at the Examiner Office or to your carrier or at Braund's Home Food Markets, or at the Dominion Store Master Market. Or send 20c (5c additional for postage and handling) and the coupon to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough, and you will receive your copy by mail.

Stock Market Drops With News Recovers Quickly

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Stock markets were shaken down this week, but pulled themselves together again relatively quickly.

The immediate cause of the shakedown was, of course, the bad news from Korea, but prices were set for a drop anyway at the first upset, and the severity of the Korean developments made it worse.

On Thursday and Friday of last week, prices, after a long run of gains, were riding at 20-year highs. But even at these levels and on Satorday there were signs of nervousness which could set off a run of profit-taking.

Slide Tuesday

The first impact of the Korean news was felt Monday, but the real slide came Tuesday. In Toronto, the industrial index, compiled from representative stocks, fell nearly nine points. In New York the Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.50 to $83.20, indicating a loss of $2,500,000,000 in quoted values on all issues.

The slide still seemed to be at full speed at opening Wednesday, but buying power came back to apply the brakes, though markets still finished considerably lower.

Recover Friday

By Thursday a hesitant recovery was under way, even if with spots of weakness. Friday seemed to confirm that recovery was in progress. Industrials and base metals were both strong.

The relatively-quick recovery was perhaps the most impressive thing about the week's action. The market was technically vulnerable and in a position where its strength was likely to be tested. The shock of the Korean news made the test a real one, and the rebound appears as an indication of considerable basic strength.

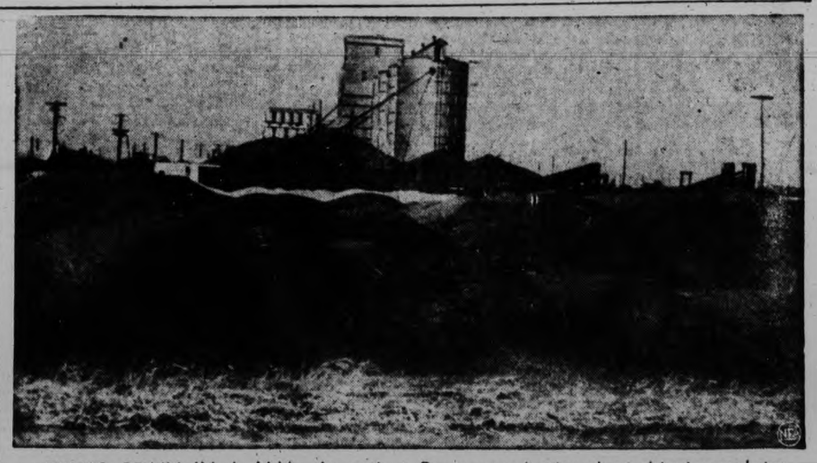
Changes in the Toronto indices in the six days, Saturday to Friday, were:

Industrials down 10.78 at 279.72; golds down 4.70 at 73.81; base metals down 8.92 at 154.79; Western Oils down 7.96 at 74.22.

Montreal averages showed:

Banks off 0.54 at 32.24; Utilities off 1.8 at 83.2; Industrials off 9.3 at 181.3; Combined off 6.8 at 148.6; papers off 40.01 at 613.83; banks off 3.01 at 54.34.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $1.90 to $84.10, though it gained 80 cents Friday. Its Friday close indicated that about half the losses of Tuesday and Wednesday have been recovered.



TEXAS GRAIN IN A JAM—An estimated 250,000 bushels of corn is piled on the ground before an elevator at Hart, Tex. The elevator holds about 225,000 bushels. Bumper production plus a shipping and storage jam have caused some 1,700,000 bushels of grain to be stored out in the open in this area near Amarillo.

Twelve Ways To Save Fuel During Winter

1. Clean your furnace. Before lighting a fire your furnace should be thoroughly cleaned and it should be kept clean. When burning soft coal, clean it once a week — for hard coal, once every two weeks. A 1/16 inch coating of soot on the furnace sections above the fire bed can waste up to one-third of your coal.

2. Seal leaks and cracks. After you put up your flue pipe, you will find tiny cracks which allow air to enter the chimney. If these are sealed with cement your furnace will operate much more efficiently. Look, too, for leaks and cracks about the furnace. These should be sealed or you will waste coal.

3. Install storm sash on all windows early and leave them on until time to put up your screens. See that they get proper summertime care too, to avoid warping or breakage.

4. Repair leaking taps. If hot water taps drip, you're waisting coal. New washers are inexpensive. Use hat water sparingly. Five inches is enough for a bath.

5. Close off sunrooms. Because of the greater exposure and window space, your sunroom is more expensive to heat than an ordinary room. If you must heat it for sleeping quarters, use double windows, weather-stripping and caulking to conserve fuel. If you can avoid using it, have the hot water radiator drained and disconnected. Better not try this job yourself.

6. Caulking around window frames is important. Be sure to examine for possible air leaks. Caulking preserve frames as well.

7. Insulate the ceiling. You can save as much as 20 per cent of your coal by insulating the ceiling. Attics with no floors can be effectively insulated by laying non-inflammable rock wool, sheet or batt type, between the joists. If you do the work yourself the cost is not excessive.

8. Keep heat upstairs. If the basement is too warm insulate the furnace and the pipes. You will save heat which otherwise is wasted. Insulation is inexpensive, and requires no special tools. Your hardware man will tell you how.

9. Keep air filter clean. The dirt that accumlates on filters for forced air heating systems interferes with the circulation of warm air. If filter cannot be cleaned it should be changed yearly.

10. Weatherstrip around doors and windows can save as much as 20% on fuel consumption. Don't neglect this.

11. Old loose windows can be made tight in their frames by using putty on the outside, especially ones never opened during the winter.

12. Renew insulation Save coal by trapping the heat in furnace and pipes. Replace faulty insulation. Water and metal are such good heat conductors that fuel will be wasted unless these parts are well insulated.

Cowboys Corral Wild Cattle

PALMER, Alaska, Dec. 2 (AP) —They're hunting beef cattle with long range rifles on a wild Alaska island once used by the Russians as a penal colony before the United States purchased Alaska.

It's part of one of Alaska's newest industries—an amazing meat-packing enterprise whose operators are slaughtering wild cattle that have roamed unmolested for nearly 75 years.

The island of Chirikof, lying west of Kodiak and about 100 miles south of the Alaska peninsula. Treeless but covered with thick, high grass, it is roamed by some 800 head of cattle, first planted there in 1888 by the Semidi Propagation Company.

Now three men have formed a company to "harvest" the beef with an ingenious combination of surplus army vehicles, expert riflemen and air transportation.

The men are Harry Ryan and Walter Cooper of Palmer, and Charles Waller of Kent, Wash. Their company, with headquarters here, flies processed beef from hirikof to a Palmer cold storage plant.

Operators of the project say they have long-range plans to build up the island as a first-class cattle ranch, introducing Hereford bulls to improve the strain.

Fraserville News

LOL 46 sponsored a progressive Euchre party in the Orange Hall Fraserville, on Thursday night when 10 games were played and eight tables. Prizes were won by Mrs. Jack Smith, Mr. Arthur Hewitt, Mrs. Eric Clarke and Mr. E. Fallis. Lunch was then enjoyed.

Friends of Mr. Jack Smith, who was a patient at Peterborough Civic Hospital, will be pleased to know he is home recovering.

The sympathy of the community goes out to Mrs. Finlay Clarke, who has received word of the death of her father, who resided in the west.

Mr. John Waterman, of Fraserville, accompanied by three friends, enjoyed a motor trip to Chicago and attended the World's Fair.

Halifax Fire Inquiry

HALIFAX, Dec. 2 (CP).—Col. S. S. Wright, Nova Scotia Fire Marshal, said Friday a public inquiry will be held into the cause of the downtown department store fire here Thursday night which caused the death of 10 persons.

Across The Continent

California, Way of Life Much More Than a State

By JACK SCOTT

California isn't merely a state, but a way of life. And a rather full one, at that.

I have no statistics on the standard of living here or how wages compare with the rest of the country. They'd just bore you, anyway. But the visitor's first (and second and third) impression is that nowhere in the U.S. are people munching as high off the hog or as healthy and happy as the fortunate folk of the Golden State.

One of the obvious reasons for this, I think, is that nearly everybody in California has a tourist outlook. They say that finding a native Californian is as difficult as finding a native New Yorker. In our wanderings and meeting up with people we've yet to encounter one of the breed.

They come, instead, from Colorado, Illinois and Oklahoma and all points east and no matter how long they stay they never lose their first wild delight in the country. The only regret I've heard an immigrant express came from a retired farmer from Kansas who sighed and said: "I wish I'd known about this 57 years sooner'n I did!"

Like British Columbia, California attracts a tremendous number of aged folks, most of whom seem to catch the train west, clutching their small nesteggs, hoping that the winter's sun will warm their cold old bones before the lily is put in their hands.

In no time at all, the men are wearing Bing Crosby shirts, the old ladies are mincing to market in yellow shorts and they're all cackling like mad when they pass mortuaries. Nobody would dream of dying in California. It's too nice a place to leave.

And of course you know the late Tom Brennaman made a fortune merely by kissing ancient matrons who'd come to California and regained the primitive urge.

Slightly Mad

California — and again, like British Columbia—also attracts a great many screwballs. There's hardly a coastal town, for example that doesn't have its "hermit," robed, sandalled and bearded, reputed to live in a cave in the hills, but usually on view padding about the streets.

One of the classic types is the weirdie we encountered in Laguna Beach. He has a splendid biblical beard, wears a flaming red jacket and stands at the main intersection nodding and gesturing to the occupants of the passing cars with such childish glee that everyone roars with laughter and gestures back.

Even California lunacy has its charms for, if you saw the same specimen in, say, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, you'd wonder why he wasn't locked up. The point is you have to be a little nuts to be in Moose Jaw to begin with.

Even people who can prove their sanity act light-headed in California. You have, for example, the "grand openings" of supermarkets or gas stations which has become a tradition in these parts. Anything that happened 15 minutes ago in California is a tradition.

The visitor from less fortunate places, in terms of climate, may be befuddled, too, by the enormous amount of activity. Everyone plays hard and long in California.

To traverse any highway is to see citizens by the thousands on the golf links, the tennis courts, racing Model "T's" on the hard-packed sand beaches, casting lines into the surf, burbling jauntily along on motor scooters, poised over easels, working movie cameras.

When we were in Arizona I wrote of the enormous western energy of the people. For California, multiply by four.

Why? Climate mostly. The crisp nights were made for sleeping, the long, warm days were made for living and you know when winter comes because the things start getting green.

The urge to get out-of-doors is a clarion call ten months of the year. The man or woman without a suntan is either a visitor of two days or one of the Hollywood and Vine types who only come out at night under a full moon.

Rich Diet

The high-powered Californian energy doubtless comes, too, from a simple case of vitamins. I don't know how anybody could live in this state and not end up a glutton.

Roadside eateries are everywhere, offering calories by the carload. Consider a light noon day snack in a typical "drive-in."

The hamburger is a double-decker. The hot dog is a foot long. California malted milks must be taken with a spoon. Orange juice sells by the fresh-squeezed quart. Avocado pears sell for as low as nine cents. I've eaten so many I'm beginning to look like one.

This kind of thing may explain the Californian youth, breast-fed, as it were, on an orange tree, spoon-fed from a horn of plenty, and just naturally eight feet tall. Well, maybe not eight feet, but the other day I found myself in a gang of high school students in Long Beach and discovered I was looking up at most of the boys and even a few of the girls.

They have the stuff for a good life and they seem to know how to use it. The people strike you as being as informal and relaxed as their clothes. Their representative homes are designed for something called indoor-outdoor living by the architects and are really quite wonderful.

The place has its faults. Indeed, the visitor may feel that all this is too flamboyant, too theatrical, too out of this world for his tastes. But as a way of life it's probably the world's finest carousel ride.

Freight Rates Go Up Dec. 15

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—Increases in freight rates on livestock will go into effect Dec. 15, the Board of Transport Commissioners ruled Friday, turning down appeals from farm groups and western governments.

In a split decision, the board gave the railways authority to boost livestock rates an average 13.7 per cent—12.2 per cent in the west and 17.2 per cent in the east —to yield them an estimated $1,500,000 a year in new revenue.

The decision followed several weeks of hearings by the board. The protesting parties included the governments of Alberta and Saskatchewan, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, the Maritime Transportation Commission, for the governments of the Maritime Provinces, and western farm groups.

Red Denies People Imported

TORONTO, Dec. 2 (CP). — A Communist member of Toronto City Council Friday described as unfounded a report that Communist families had been brought to Toronto from Northern Ontario to bolster the party's vote in Monday's Toronto civic election.

Alderman Norman Freed, a Communist seeking re-election in Ward 4, said in a statement that fewer people were added to the voters' list this year than in the last 10 years. He asserted he had received no reply to a telegram to Mayor McCallum urging a police commission meeting on the matter.

The report of the influx came Wednesday from Sergeant Dan Mann, chief of the city police anti-subversive squad, who said "we believe these Communists are being brought in with the idea of impersonating eligible voters."

Change 99-Year Lease

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP).—The Canada-United States Joint Defence Board has made recommendations to the two governments concerning revision of agreements by which the United States acquired a 99-year lease of bases in Newfoundland. An informant said Friday that he did not expect "any obstacle" to arise and that the recommendations, as submitted by the board, probably would be accepted by Ottawa and Washington. He could not say if Canada had got all she asked for.

Expert Testifies Explosion Wrecked Plane

QUEBEC, Dec. 2 — (CP) — Frank Francis, young air engineer who blamed a violent luggage compartment explosion for the wreck of a Canadian Pacific airliner in September, 1949, returns to the witness box today at the murder trial of Genereux Ruest.

The 27-year-old engineer employed by CPA at Vancouver, BC, appeared as a Crown witness yesterday at the trial of the watchmaker accused of figuring in a time-bomb plot to destroy the plane. Twenty-three persons died in the crash.

Francis, in the midst of his testimony when Quebec Criminal Court adjourned for the day, said examination of pieces of the wrecked plane pointed to a violent explosion in its left forward luggage compartment.

Andrew Stott, investigator for the Canadian Pacific Railway, said that when the airliner fell at Sault Au Cochon, 20 minutes out of Quebec, Sepember 9, 1949, debhis was spread over a distance of nearly a half-mile.

Jewellery salesman J. Albert Guay is under sentence to be hanged January 12 for plotting destruction of the airliner to murder his wife.

Earlier yesterday, witnesses told of shipment of a 25-pound mystery parcel aboard the CPA plane the day it crashed at Sault Au Cochon on a flight from Quebec to Sept Iles.

The mysterious cardboard box was one of the objects in the air liner's left forward baggage compartment, CPA employees said.

Premier Frost

Roy H. Parsons, George Benton.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., and Mrs. Philp; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McIntyre, W. H. Taylor, Warden Norman Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Reeve M. J. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston, Mr. J. H. Eastwood of Eastwood Construction Company, contractors of the city hall, assisting in the program; City Clerk Outram.

Citizens' Band

Peterborough Citizens' Band played selections before and after the function. Mrs. Frost was presented with yellow chrysanthemums by Mayor Swanston who was introduced by Ald. Sands opening the program in weather that was occasionally sunny and fairly favorable in its temperature.

Mayor Swanston introduced Mr. Hungerford, general manager of National Trust Co., Toronto, who are the trustees of Mr. Morrow's estate. His Worship said that Mr. Hungerford was for many years a personal friend of Mr. Morrow, with particular interest in Peterborough and understanding of his wishes in extending the munificent legacy to this city.

His Worship said that Mr. Hungerford had worked closely with the council and the special committee nominated by Mr. Morrow in his will, composed of Judge Smoke, W. H. Thompson, James Hamilton, successive mayors and also successive chairmen of the Board of Education.

Co-operation

"Mr. Hungerford had encouraged the proposal of a city hall, and I wish to thank him and his company for the co-operation they have shown our city authorities," Mayor Swanston said.

The text of Mr. Hungerford's address was as follows:

" This is a solemn occasion and yet a very happy one. It is solemn because we are honoring the memory of a fine Canadian and citizen of Peterborough—Mr. William George Morrow. It is a happy one because it marks the beginning of the fulfilment of something that was very dear to his heart—the building of a new City Hall for Peterborough.

Mayor Two Years

Mr. Morrow was one of Peterborough's most public-spirited citizens. His interest in civic affairs is evidenced by his record of service to Peterborough from 1907 until his death in 1939. He served on the city council, the board of education, the public library board and, for two years, as mayor. He at one time was president of the Ontario Red Cross.

I believe that this is an occasion quite unique in the history of this province, if not in the whole Dominion. I do not believe that anywhere in Canada has a gift of this kind been made by a private citizen. It is a happy coincidence that these ceremonies should take place in Peterborough's Centennial Year. All of you who have seen the plans will, I am sure, agree that the new City Hall will be one of which every citizen of Peterborough can feel justly proud. In presenting to Mayor Swanston Mr. Morrow's contribution towards the erection of the City Hall, I do it in the firm belief that our obligation to Mr. Morrow is being well and truly discharged.

Thanks To Mayor

In conclusion I would like to express sincere appreciation to those citizens of Peterborough whose continuing interest, counsel and steadfast support have been so invaluable. Our thanks must go to the Mayor, Mr. Swanston, the City Clerk, Mr. Outram, the Chairman of the Finance Committee, Mr. Waddell, and other members of the Council, and in particular to those other members of our Advisory Committee—Judge S. L. Smoke, ex-Mayor James Hamilton and Mr. G. Harry Thompson."

Bishop Berry

Brief addresses followed by Most Rev. Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough; Major Cyril Everitt, president of the Ministerial Association; and Rabbi J. Mayer, representing the Jewish citizens. They were introduced by Ald. Sands.

The beginning of the erection of the new city hall in the year of the centenary of Peterborough's incorporation as a town was an outstanding way of marking such a milestone in civic life, Bishop Berry said.

"That the major portion of the funds to be so expended should have been bequeathed to his native city by one of her successful sons is a tribute at once to the deep impressions left on Mr. Morrow's character by his upbringing in this environment, and to the lasting and generous dimensions of the gratitude in his heart.

"It can surely be only once in many generations that such a man arises to so endow his native city."

Bishop Berry said a city hall was obviously constructed and dedicated to "give to Caesar what is Caesar's. In temporal matters like police and fire protection, public health, parks, the administration of the city had its own field and responsibilities. Jurisdiction was also shared in some matters with the Utilities Commission. Finally there were the functions of education where spiritual values had a definite place.

"I pray that this new city hall may long stand as a house where godly men conduct the business of the city aware of God's presence and devoted to the general welfare, eager to enshrine justice and divine charity in its halls and offices.

Major Everitt

Major Everitt recognized the many school boys and girls in the assembly, and remarked that they would see more of the use of the city hall than would their elders. In some circumstances a century ago, Major Everitt said, when Peterborough was incorporated as a town, "I cannot but think that we must have had citizens invoking the blessing of God on the young municipality."

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God and all else will be added unto you." Peterborough had been blessed during those hundred years, and Major Everitt invoked the guidance of God and His favor upon the city and its administration in its new offices.

Rabbi Mayer

Quoting the 127th Psalm, Rabbi Mayer said all buildings were in vain unless they had God as their guide and guardian. He prayed that the citizens of Peterborough would dwell together in brotherhood and fellowship, that there would return the rule of law and reverence for divine things.

Premier Frost's Address

Introduced by Hon. Harold R. Scott, Premier Frost said he brought the congratulations of the four and a half million people of Ontario "to this fine, progressive community on this very auspicious occasion." He came without the trappings of office "as one of your near neighbors (from his own Lindsay) to inaugurate the building of this fine new city hall."

"It is a pleasure to pay tribute to one of Ontario's great municipalities and to tell you how proud those of us who live in this part of the province are of our friend and neighbor, the city of Peterborough."

"Peterborough has been fortunate in its citizens. It has had many benefactors. None was greater than the friend of many of us here, the late William George Morrow, who left a large part of his considerable estate to build for his fellow-citizens an official city building, worthy of Peterborough, her past and her great future. Today we have brooding over this place the spirits of great citizens of Peterborough, among them that of William George Morrow, all of whom have made such a contribution to the life of this community in the 130 years of its modern history."

Historic Crossroads

Indeed the history of Peterborough goes back beyond the days of Adam Scott, a man of brawn and enterprise who was the first settler. This location on the Otonabee River in the great Trent Chain is one of the historical crossroads associated with the very beginnings of America.

Early Explorers

"To this spot on the route from the St. Lawrence to the great fresh water sea which we know now as Lake Huron came the very earliest of the explorers of the interior of the continent. Champlain indeed came within seven years of his founding of the City of Quebec.

"Since the very earliest days, this place that was to be Peterborough has seen many of the great events of our history. It has seen the very first explorers, the missionaries, the fur traders, the nor-westers, and the Hudson Bay men. To this place came Peter Robinson whose name is commemorated in Peterborough, and it saw the coming of his settlers, those brave men and women who turned their faces from their homes across the sea to a new world, and whose battle against the massive forests of this county, and whose success is attested to by the magnificent prosperity of this city of 40,000 people and its prosperous countryside.

Dream Realized

At this time, when we see the realization of William George Morrow's dream of a city hall, worthy of Peterborough's history and her future, you citizens of Peterborough have great memories of other days. All of you have your own thoughts and recollections of the growth of this community.

Towering, however, above all other impressions and recollections, I am sure is the spirit and courage of those who laid the foundations of this community. Their faith and resoluttion is an inspiration to us today. Indeed, it was not the material wealth which they bequeathed to us which today is of value. It is their spirit, vision and strength, and great was the story of their lives. These are the things which are the keys to the Ontario and the Canada of the future.

These people came here with little of this world's goods, but they brought with them their churches and their spiritual background, all of which are with us today and which are the true foundation of old Ontario.

They brought with them their ideas of government. Many of them had come here because of their belief in a vision which they could only faintly see of a great nation growing up in the British tradition. These men and women brought with them ideas of democratic government. They evolved responsible government and a co-operation between races in a pioneer land. They laid the foundations for the Confederation of 83 years ago.

Founded Municipal Act

These people were the creators of our municipal government. It is just 100 years ago in 1850 that two great Canadians, one from Upper Canada — Robert Baldwin, and another from Lower Canada, Louis Lafontaine, brought into being the Baldwin Act, the forerunner of our present Municipal Act. It is just 100 years ago in 1850 that Peterborough became one of the first incorporated towns under this Act. It is fitting indeed in this centenary year that the City of Peterborough should mark another great step in her progress in the commencement of this very beautiful building.

Grown to Nationhood

Now in this city of 40,000 people with its prosperous countryside, we turn our eyes from those who have so well laid the foundations in the past to our great present and future. In those comparatively few years, Canada has come into being. We have become a great world power. From scattered little settlements across this continent, we have been welded into a great nation. We have become an industrial power. Our standards of living are of the highest. Our wealth has become fabulous.

Science has made the world small. The internal combustion engine has revolutionized transportation and indeed all life in Ontario. The weeks of travelling in sailing vessels by the first settlers of this place has now become a matter of a few hours by air.

The human voice is heard by radio around the world. The world has become small; so small indeed that wars and disturbances in what were far distant states are now of vital importance to us.

Not Scattered

We no longer are a scattered community, growing up under the protection of a mother country. We are a great nation, grown up and matured, living on the frontiers of the world with great and pressing responsibilities. All of this in those amazing years since Peter Robinson first brought his settlers to this place.

As we stand here in the centre of this twentieth century, we look back with gratitude on the accomplishments of a century and more, but true to the spirit and courage of our fathers we look forward on the century and more to come, with all of the responsibility that there will be, with the confidence born of a great background of tradition and history.

Ontario's Good Wishes

I have been honored taday in being asked to lay the cornerstone of this new building. In so doing I express the gratitude of all of our people for such great citizens of Ontario as your benefactor, William George Morrow. I congratulate the people of Peterborough on a fine city and community. I bring to you not only the best wishes of your friends and neighbours but the best wishes of the people and municipalities far and wide across our great province, who are very proud of Peterborough and her people.

Your Worship, I declare this cornerstone to be well and truly laid."

In the craftmanship of placing the foundation stone in its position at the foot of a rotunda wall, Premier Frost was helped by Ken McKenzie, stonemason, and guided by Mr. Eastwood. Beneath it was set a copper box of current records in microfilm, coins and other common articles.

The assembly which began its program with the singing of God Save the King closed with O Canada.

British Battalion Helps Americans Break Open Trap

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Northwest Korea, Dec. 2 (AP)—On a narrow rough road nine miles south of Kunu, the British Middlesex battalion helped an American regiment break through Chinese Communist on the way south toward a new United Nations defence line in Northwest Korea.

The Communists already had control of the main road running south from Kunu through Samso to Sunchon, key point of the new line.

The Reds also threw a block across a narrow road which parallels the railroad running south from Kunu.

The British Middlesex battalion attacked Communist strong points just east of this narrow road while the 9th regiment of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division moved down it.

By dusk Thursday, only one of three battalions of the American regiment had not made its way south and it was reported falling back southwestward toward Sinanju.

After its covering action, the Middlesex battalion disengaged and pulled back to the new defence-line area.

UN Troops Abandon Pyongyang, Chinese Push Ahead

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Dec. 4—(AP)—Heavily-outnumbered Allied troops, behind a rearguard shield, retreated south today from the former Communist capital of Pyongyang in northwest Korea. Dispatches said the withdrawal was orderly. In the frozen northeast, hordes of reinforced Chinese mounted a grave threat to five United Nations divisions. They were driving on the twin east coast industrial cities of Hamhung and Hungnam, and threatened to isolate the entire U.S. 10th Corps.

American troops were fighting desperately to break out of traps. The worst was just south of Changjin reservoir, supplier of power to Manchuria.

Five Chinese armies totalling 15 divisions—up to 150,000 men—were reported south of the Chongchon river and driving toward Pyongyang Monday night.

But AP correspondent Leif Erickson, at U.S. Eighth Army headquarters, reported that Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker was directing an apparently skilful escape of the allied forces.

Plan Seoul Perimeter

It appeared that the Eighth Army eventually might deploy in a defence perimeter around the republic capital of Seoul and its post of Inchon. It seemed unlikely that a solid line across the peninsula could be erected against such massive forces

The appearance of more and more Communists at the fronts deepened the threat to the entire U.N. position on the peninsula.

Gen. MacArthur estimated 818,000 Chinese are in North Korea and along the Yalu river boundary of Red Manchuria. He said another 200,000 Chinese are moving to the area from Central China.

Thus China appeared to have committed one-quarter of her armed strength of about 4,000,000 men to her undeclared war in Korea. MacArthur said preparations for this elbowing into the U.N. campaign against invading Korean Reds "were made long ago."

U.S. Gov't Ready To Push Seaway—Envoy

TORONTO, Dec. 4 — (CP) — Stanley Woodward, United States Ambassador to Canada, said today that his government realizes the urgency of the St. Lawrence seaway and hydro project, and plans to press for its adoption by Congress in 1951. In an address prepared for delivery before a joint meeting of the Canadian and Empire Clubs, he said he recently discussed the project with President Truman in Washington.

"I told him," said Mr. Woodward, "how much Canada wants to see a start on the project. He replied:

" 'So do we. It's an urgent matter and I intend to press it at the next session of Congress.' "

Mr. Woodward said the executive branch of the U.S. government realizes that the project "has a new urgency."

Building Up Strength

"We know that the demands of the present situation call for a start on the project and for its completion as rapidly as it is physically possible.

"In the United States, as in Canada, and as in the countries of our partners and allies, we are building up our military strength, believing that strength is the best guarantee of peace. Armed might is based on industrial might. Industrial might, in turn, is based on constant growth and development.

"New and better power sources and new and better means of transportation are needed to help develop an efficient industrial system. The St. Lawrence project will provide both."

Mr. Woodward cited the advantages of the project—cheap and more abundant power for industrial Ontario and New York state; an economical sea route into the heart of the continent, and a safe and economical route for the shipment of needed iron ores from the rich new fields of Labrador.

Protest Filed Against Will

LONDON, Dec. 4—(APY)—An unnamed defender of the English language has filed a court protest against the will of George Bernard Shaw.

There has been speculation that the wealthy Irish playwright left the bulk of his money to further a pet project—a revised alphabet to make written English completely phonetic.

The terms of the will are still secret, but the unknown objector has assumed that the speculation is correct.

He has petitioned the Probate Court to suspend probate of the will on the grounds that it would "gravely affect the majesty of the English language, and would have serious repercussions on English literature."

Badly-Frozen Woman Crawls To Road For Aid

CALGARY, Dec. 4 (CP). — A badly-frozen young woman crawled more than 200 yards through deep snow to the Calgary-Banff highway Saturday, flagged down a passing motorist and took him to a parked automobile where two persons were found dead and one other unconscious.

The women, 21-year-old Eileen Dodds of Olds, Alta., and Fred Kostaneck, about 21, of Calgary both are in serious condition in hospital here. Dead are Mildred Janet Anderson, 21, and Allan Edwin Butler, 22, both of Calgary.

It was not known immediately whether they were overcome by carbon monoxide in the parked car or were frozen to death.

Miss Dodds apparently came to and left the car for aid. It is believed the foursome parked the car off the highway, 18 miles west of Calgary, Friday night and left the motor running

7 Men Escape Death Hunting Pirate Loot

CHESTER, N.S., Dec. 4 (CP) —Another attempt to find Capt. Kidd's pirate treasure ended in near-tragedy during the weekend when a 25-ton diesel shovel plunged overboard from a barge.

Seven men on the barge escaped in the nick of time to a small boat being towed behind the barge.

Salvage experts will attempt to raise the shovel and move it to Oak Island, one of many islands dotting Nova Scotia's south shore where, legend says, Capt. Kidd buried his ill-gained wealth.

McAuliffe Refused Permission To Appeal

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 (CP).—Herbert McAuliffe, convicted as the machine-gun slayer of two tobacco farmers near Langton in southwestern Ontario last summer, has been refused permission to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Judge Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Cturt refused leave to appeal in a decision handed down during the weekend.

McAuliffe had unsuccessfully appealed in the Ontario Supreme Court.

He has been sentenced to be hanged at Simcoe, Dec. 19.

West Berlin Goes To Polls, Ignores Reds

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—(AP).—West Berlin, anti-Communist political fortress 100 miles behind the Iron Curtain, knocked out Communism again Sunday with a record 90.4 per cent. vote in municipal elections.

Disregarding Red threats and a Communist boycott, 1,504,414 of 1,664,091 eligible Berlin voters cast their ballots, complete official returns showed.

The dominant Socialists lost a third of their previous strength to the runner-up Christian Democrats and Free Democrats. The Socialists polled 653,974 votes, the Christian Democrats 360,829, the Free Democrats 3337,477.

But leaders of all three parties, headed by Socialist Mayor Ernest Reuter, pledged continuance of their three-faction city coalition as a united front against Russian aggression.

Need 3-Party Coalition

Reuter considered a three-party coalition necessary because "in view of the international political situation, it would be out of the question to form a government here dependent on a majority of only three or four deputies."

Unofficial sources said that of the 127 seats in the Berlin House of Deputies, 61 would go to the Socialists, 34 to the Christian Democrats and 32 to the Free Democrats.

Five western splinter parties appearing on the ballot here for the first time each failed to win five per cent. of votes and so got no seats in the new house.

Protest Ballot Boxes At Many Polls Unlocked

"There is nothing in the Act that says ballot boxes have to be padlocked," said City Clerk Outram in commenting on complaints from a rather large number of voters who telephoned or came personally to the Examiner around the noon hour today. Mr. Outram is Returning Officer for the city elections.

"The ballots are of such a large size and the hole in the boxes to receive them are so small that it would slow up the voting to deposit the ballots in that way," Mr. Outram said.

"Our polling officials are sworn to secrecy, and any way the boxes have to be opened at 7 o'clock to count the ballots."

Mr. Outram said these ballot boxes were some kind of inheritance or were the boxes used in government elections.

"I had no doubt about the secrecy of the balloting, but I had to think of the delays that would occur when a rush of voters came to the polls, and that was something to be avoided."

Immediately following the noon hour The Examiner received numerous complaints about unlocked ballot boxes. It was also understood complaints were made at the city hall.

Locked In Afternoon

Mr. Outram said early this afternoon that he isued instructions that the boxes were to be kept locked, and the poll official was to do the best he could in making deposits as quickly as possible.

There are two types of ballot boxes which the city has available. There are big, federal boxes, but these have small slots. There is a limited supply of smaller, old boxes (about half the size) owned by the city. These have bigger slots.

The selection of boxes and their numbering was assigned to a city hall employee. In most cases he picked out the bigger boxes with the small slots. The slots are big enough for federal ballot, but awkward for depositing this year's municipal ballots.

Mr. Outram decided not to waste time in renumbering and putting into use all the available small boxes with the big slots. It was in this situation that he suggested as a means of making the depositing of ballots easier in the small lots, that the boxes be left unlocked.

Blast Shatters Town Windows

DUNNVILLE, Dec. 4 (CP) — Damage estimated at upwards of $250,000 was caused today by an explosion and fire that destroyed the 21-year-old Griggs Flour and Feed Mill and injured the mill's night watchman.

One estimate was that the loss might reach $500,000.

Snowplows were used to clear glass from the main street of this Haldimand county town of 4,500 persons about 25 miles southeast of Hamilton after the blast shattered more than 95 per cent of the store windows in the downtown section.

Over a large part of the town, building walls cracked and plaster crumbled from interior walls. Apartment windows dissolved in a shower of flying glass.

The blast, which wakened residents two miles away, blew down a hydro power line running to a sub-station and blacked out the entire town for several hours. Some telephone lines also went down.

A-Bomb Use Opposed By Canada

Pearson Tells Parley Too Dangerous Employ Against China

OTTAWA, Dec. 4—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson today deprecated use of the atomic bomb against Communist China.

Warning that the risk of immediate general war has increased, he told the Federal-Provincial Conference advantages in use of the bomb would be "far outweighed by the reactions among the peoples of the world."

Mr. Pearson, in a major statement of government foreign policy, indicated Cabinet belief the A-bomb should not be used on China "while there is any chance at all" of preventing spread of the war in Korea.

But, he said, Canada should be among those governments consulted before "a decision of such immense and awful consequence" is taken—if it is taken—to use the bomb.

Russian Backing

Mr. Pearson said it is safe to assume China intervened in Korea with the assurance of Russian help if China herself is attacked in turn.

Thus, he told the conference, the present situation in Korea contains the seeds of general war not only with Communist China but with Russia, too.

He said as well:

1——Military information leads to the hope that the United Nations will be able to establish a stable, holding line in Korea.

2—The Western democracies must again attempt to reconcile their determination to resist aggression with the fact China has made it abundantly clear she regards UN action in Korea as menacing her national interests

Talks With Egypt

LONDON, Dec. 4—(AP)—Britain today opened political talks with Egypt aimed at confirming her role as defender of the Suez Canal. Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, beset by a Cairo demand that the Anglo-Egyptian treaty be cancelled, sought ways to preserve for the west the security of the vital canal zone. The talks began formally with a luncheon staged by Bevin for Foreign Minister Mohamed Salah el Din Bey of Egypt.

Britain And U.S. Stand Together Attlee Declares

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (AP). —Prime Minister Clement Attlee arrived today for talks with President Truman aimed at finding a common policy in the world crisis and averting the threat of a global war.

Titlee's big four-engined airliner "Cathay" rolled up on the national airport apron where President Truman, State Secretary Acheson, Defence Secretary Marshall and other officials were waiting.

After the greetings, Attlee made a statement for newspapermen.

He said his aim in the talks with Truman—which are to get under way Tuesday "is to align our policies in the new and troubled situation in the world and to find the means of upholding what we both know to be right."

He accused the Communist bloc of trying to "drive a wedge between our two peoples."

In his statement, Attlee said:

"I am very glad to come to Washington at this critical time to confer with President Truman.

"For many years past Great Britain and the United States have been agreed on the broad objectives of their international policy—the maintenance of peace, resistance to aggression, the improvement of living standards in all countries, the upholding of the democratic way of life.

"These objectives are again imperilled and we must take counsel together on how we can stand firm in their defence.

"Trouble always brings us together more closely than ever.

"The latest propaganda attempt of the Cominform to drive a wedge between our two peoples.

"They are wasting their effort. And never more so than at this time when we are waging together, under the United Nations, the struggle in Korea, in which the United States is carrying so heavy a share of the burden, but where we and other members of the British Commonwealth are playing our part."

20 People Injured

TORONTO, Dec. 4 — (CP).—Twenty persons were injured, none severely, when a street car and a road-oiling truck collided at an east-end tram loop today. Twelve passengers were treated at hospital for cuts and bruises.

World Crisis May Raise Income Tax

Ottawa To Introduce Old-Age Plan If Provinces Agreed

OTTAWA, Dec. 4—(CP)—An increase in Federal taxes was predicted today by Prime Minister St. Laurent at the opening of the Federal-Provincial conference on fiscal and Social Security matters.

Teh increase, he said, will be "commensurate with the gravity" of the international stiuation. He hinted that income taxes will be boosted.

He told delegates that Federal expenditures on defence had to be increased because of the menace of Communist aggression, and he added:

"The Federal government is faced with the task of finding the money to pay for these additional expenditures.

"I am sure that no one who considers carefully the figures of rising defence costs can be optimistic that these costs will be met without some increase in taxation."

Have No Option

Mr. St. Laurent did not refer to personal income tax direct, but he said:

Faced with the world situation to which I have referred, it is obvious that the federal authorities will have no option but to impose direct taxes to a degree commensurate with the gravity of the situation."

Personal income and corporation taxes are the major direct taxes imposed by the federal government. Sales taxes, excise taxes, customs duties and the like are considered indirect taxes.

Ask UN Assembly Deal With China

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP)—Britain, the United States and four other countries today formally asked the United Nations Assembly to take up as an urgent matter the Chinese Communist intervention in Korea.

The request was made in a telegram to U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie. Diplomatic quarters said it might be taken up by the assembly's 14-country steering committee either today or Tuesday.

The telegram was signed by the chief delegates of the United States, Britain, France, Norway, Cuba and Euador. These were the six countries which sponsored the Soviet-vetoed Security Council resolution calling upon the Peiping regime to withdraw its troops from Korea.

There was no indication whether the same resolution would be submitted to the assembly or whether it would be revised in an effort to brand the Chinese Communists as aggressors. This may be decided after consultations in Washington tomorrow between Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman.

Carrier Stalls, Tommies Get Push From Chinese

A U.S. ARMY HOSPITAL, Korea, Dec. 4 (AP)—Four British Tommies in a stalled weapons carrier got a push from obliging Chinese Communist soldiers.

The Communists permitted them to withdraw from a danger spot 15 miles north of Pyongyang.

Gunner Jimmy Moore, 24, of the 29th British Brigade, said one of the Reds told them, "We don't want to hurt you guys. We just want you to get off the peninsula."

"He spoke excellent English," Moore said. "This was last Friday morning. We were going to the front, but our wagon (weapons carrier) broke down and fell out of a convoy. After fixing it, we followed some American cars, hoping to locate our own, but broke down again."

Moore said four well-armed Chinese soldiers surprised him and his three companions while they looked at the engine. He added:

"They asked where we were going, and I said south.

"That turned out to be the right answer. They put their shoulders to our vehicle and pushed and the engine caught. We got out of the area quick, I'm telling you."

Moore said they caught up with an American halftrack and followed it, "but it ran over a land mine. The next thing I remember I was in a hospital in Pyongyang. I don't know what happened to my three companions or the fellows in the halftrack."

Third Remand For Mrs. Sullivan

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 (CP).—Bitter words were exchanged between crown attorney and defence counsel in police court today as the crown obtained a third remand in the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Marion Sullivan, 50-year-old Toronto society woman charged with the murder of her prominent lawyer husband.

No Cruise For Them

Half Princess Pats Sick On Rough Trip

PEARL HARMOR, Dec. 4 (CP) —Canada's first fighting contribution to the United Nations ground forces in Korea sailed on today to an uncertain future.

The big question aboard the 9,000-ton converted freighter, the Pte. Joe P. Martinez, was whether the Pats would be unloaded as scheduled at Pusan, in southeast Korea, or be diverted to Japan to undergo the two months' field training needed to weld them into a first-class fighting force. The decision is up to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, UN commander.

But for the moment, the thoughts of the 1,000 men of Canada's special brigade enlisted for service in Korea or elsewhere were on the few hours of liberty they enjoyed in sunny Hawaii Saturday. The brief time ashore was a storm-tossed passage from Seattle on the westward leg of the long voyage.

The battalion, leaving behind in the Fort Lewis, Wash., training camp the remainder of the 11,000-man special brigade, sailed from Seattle Nov. 25. For the few days, the men went through a fierce gale which tossed their ship about welcome respite from last week's half of them seasick.

Emergency Operation

On the night of Nov. 28, as the storm moderated somewhat, an emergency appendectomy was performed on Pte. Orval Campbell, 22, from the Niagara Peninsula town of Edwards. The operation, a complete success, ended two days of agony for young Campbell. Today he was recovering nicely.

The operation was performed by the regiment's medical officer, Capt. Ed. Karpetz, of Spirit Wood, Sask., on an operating table that lurched and heaved as the ship's captain strove to keep the vessel steady in pounding seas. Despite the difficult conditions, Capt. Karpetz removed Campbell's appendix in nine minutes. The young private, who wise-cracked under a spinal anaesthetic, was out of sick bay only 40 minutes.

The PPCLI was the first Canadian infantry unit to parade on Hawaiian soil. The Pats marched for an hour—chiefly to get the kinks out of their legs.

For the visit, more than half the battalion sported shaven heads. Many a curly lock fell before the shears on the westward cruise as the fad swept the ship. Those who didn't shave their noggins trimmed their hair to crew cuts.

Flood Threat Easing Around Calgary

CALGARY, Dec. 4 (CP). —Today is regarded as the crucial day of the Bow River flood situation in Calgary. It could herald the beginning of the end of the flooding or see the river go on another rampage as it did last Friday night, when it forced 3,000 persons out of their homes.

Everything hinges on whether the river can find a channel within its banks through a giant dam of ice which has choked the stream since Friday.

For 48 hours during the weekend the Bow behaved itself. But today, for the first time since Friday, it will carry a peak flow of water to the city from power dams further west.

The amount of power needed by the city governs the flow of water allowed over these dams. The power demand is greatest during week days when the city's industries are in full swing. The weekend flow was about two-thirds of Friday's.

Wait and See

First flooding, if there is to be more, is expected around 10 p.m., the time the first peak flow of water reaches the city. The second peak will arrive around 3 a.m. Tuesday.

Chief Constable Reg. Clements said he believes danger of further serious flooding may be ended if the river stays within its banks today.

The ice-jam, which formed in east Calgary at the Bow's junction with the Elbow River, now has built back upstream past the city's three main bridges. Low-lying residential districts in west Calgary now face threat of flooding for the first time this year.

Some of the 3,000 persons flooded out in east-central Calgary have returned to their homes, although water still fills their basements and great heaps of ice cover every inch of ground in the area.

Ontario Centres Hold Election

By The Canadian Press.

A cloudy day with light snow and temperatures hovering about the freezing mark greeted voters in most of the 23 cities and scores of towns, villages and townships in Ontario to whom Dec. 4 is election day.

Besides electing their municipal governments, many are called upon to pass on local projects involving a total of nearly $3,500,000. Six cities and six other localities will decide whether they wish to permit Sunday sport.

A Canadian Press Survey shows that eight cities and the town of Brockville have elected mayors by acclamation, but spirited battles for the mayoralty have featured other pre-election campaigns.

Smaller centres where a simiville, Lindsay, Port Hope, Preslar vote is being held are Brockcott, Whitby and Wolfe Island.

268,000 In Combat

In the actual combat areas, Chinese Communist forces were estimated at 268,000—with 194,000 in the northwest above Pyongyang and 74,000 in the northeast

In Seoul, President Syngman Rhee of South Korea warned against any compromise with the Chinese Reds: "in the end, we would be in a worse position than ever."

Maj.-Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commander of the U.S. Fifth Air Force, today ordered 40 B-26 attack bombers to blast every ridge and road skirting the treacherous escape route.

Roads Jammed

The Eighth Army, embracing the U.S. 1st and 9th Corps and remnants of the South Korean 2nd Corps, was moving southward through Pyongyang to new defensive positions. Roads were choked. Flames and smoke billowed from military installations destroyed by the UN forces to keep them out of Red hands.

Except for rearguards covering the retreat from the former Chongchon River line 40 miles to the north, no ground action in the northwest sector was reported up to mid-day Monday.

Pyongyang, a city of 300,000, fell to the Allies Oct. 20.

UN planes screened the withdrawal from the city with unrelenting strafing and bombing attacks on Red troop and supply concentrations to the north.

Fighters and bombers also flew in close support of hard-pressed UN forces in the northeast, where advance Chinese elements were reported within 15 miles of Hamhung.

With the help of their Corsair fighter-bombers, the 5th and 7th Regiments of the U.S. 1st Marine Division battled through Red traps to reach Hagaru on the south side of Changjin reservoir.

It was a bloody, 12-mile retreat on the west side of the big reservoir for the Leathernecks. At Hagaru they joined the U.S. 7th Division who escaped a Red trap on the east side of the lake. Casualties were heavy.

But their retreat through the winding canyon road back to Hamchung, 50 miles to the south, was cut off still. Six Chinese regiments were reported occupying mountain positions for at least six miles along the pass leading from Hagaru.

Transport planes made hazardous flights to and from a pasture at Hagaru to remove 1,200 wounded Americans Friday and Saturday. Far East Air Force headquarters described the operation as one of the "most daring" of the Korean war.

Southeast of the reservoir, an estimated 45,000 Chinese were reported massing for a drive on Hamhung and its nearby port of Hungnam.

A U.S. 10th Corps intelligence officer said Sunday that some of the Chinese advance elements were 15 miles from Hamhung with other build-ups with a 35-mile radius.

Under Pressure

Associated Press Correspondent Jack Macbeth reported that elements of the U.S. 3rd Division were under intensified Red Pressure near Huksu, about 35 miles west of Hamhung. Huksu, taken by the Chinese, was bombed heavily.

Farther north, at Hyesanjin, the 17th Regiment of the United States 7th Division was ordered to withdraw from positions along a 10-mile stretch of the Yalu River. It was the only American outfit to reach the Manchurian border.

World Crisis

Presumably any increases would be made effective through the 1951-52 budget. It may be brought down in March or early April.

Can't Revise Agreement

The prime minister told the conference the federal government cannot revise its tax agreements with the provinces to add "materially" to their immediate overall cost to the federal treasury.

At the same time, he announced the federal government will implement an old-age security plan as recommended by a parliamentary committee this year if it gets unanimous agreement from the provinces for a constitutional amendment.

The proposed plan calls for contributory pensions of $40 a month for all at the age of 70 years, and $40 pensions at 65 with a means test.

Mr. St. Laurent said his government would offer an optional revised basis for minimum payments to be made to provinces under the proposed renewal of the agreements.

But he emphasized this would not of itself affect the level of current payments unless there should be a substantial decline in the gross national product—one of the factors on which the offer was based.

He emphasized that defence expenditures and the possibility of higher costs for social security, which would call for additional taxes, would preclude his government from substantially increasing payments to provinces at this time. All provinces except Ontario and Quebec now have agreements with the federal government.

Ready To Co-operate

"The Federal government," Mr. St. Laurent said, "is prepared to enter again into so-called rental agreements with all provinces in terms similar to, though not identical with, the agreements now in force with eight provinces."

"In view of that circumstance," he said, "and of the prospect of further expenditures for social security, . . it will not be possible for the Federal government to make changes in the tax agreements which would add materially to their immediate overall cost."

The Prime Minister said in a 2,500-word address that the proposed new basis would give the provinces a "very substantial" increase in minimum guaranteed payments but, in certain circumstances, would not affect current payments, which are above the minimums.

Under the present agreements, the minimum payments are based alternatively on:

1. A flat per capita amount.
2. A smaller per capita amount plus 50 per cent of 1940 provincial taxes in the fields vacated by the provinces.

Third Form

The third form to be proposed by the Federal government, Mr. St. Laurent said, would increase the guaranteed minimum return in proportion to the increases in the gross national product—value of national production—and provincial populations between 1942 and 1948.

This, he said, would provide additional insurance to those provinces with agreements.

The agreements will be offered to all provinces for a five-year period starting with the termination of present agreements on March 31, 1952.

The Prime Minister made it clear refusal of any provinces to accept agreements will not be a bar to joint federal-provincial action in other fields.

"They will not be specifically related to any other aspect of federal-provincial relations," he said. "Universal acceptance will not be a condition of action nor a commitment to action in any other field."

Hopes For Co-operation

However, he expressed the hope that this time all provinces would enter into agreements. He said he hoped it would be found "in the best interests of the people in each province" that its government sign an agreement.

Lack of universality was by no means a fatal defect, but the Federal government believed that "under present conditions the public is apt to be better and more efficiently served if there is only one authority levying and collecting those taxes which have such an important effect upon our economic well-being."

Extra Cost

Turning to the propsed social-security plan, the prime minister said it would involve increased federal expenditure of about $250,000,000 a year.

It would be necessary to vest constitutional jurisdiction for the plan in parliament, and the working-out of the method of contribution would be a federal responsibility.

"Before seeking such an amendment," he said, "the federal government is of the opinion that we should have unanimous agreement of the provincial authorities.

"Of course, such an amendment should not deprive any province which wished to do so of the right to add supplements to the federal or the joint pension."

Don't Want Agreement

Premier Frost of Ontario indicated his government is not particularly anxious to enter into an agreement under which it would give the federal government exclusive use of the personal income, corporation and inheritance tax fields.

Mr. Frost told the federal-provincial conference on fiscal and social-security matters that his government is ready to listen to any proposal. But he felt that any province which could collect its own taxes and run its own affairs should be encouraged to do so.

All provinces except Ontario and Quebec have agreements under which the federal government was given use of the personal income, corporation and inheritance tax fields. In return the provinces received annual payments from the federal government.

Ontario and Quebec, he said, had elected to impose their own taxes and raise their own money to meet expenditures.

"I think it may be said that the provinces which are able to allow this course should be encouraged to do so. There now appears to be no reason why this arrangement should interfere with the federal government in its purpose of having a flexible tax policy by which there may be increases or decreases in personal income and corporation tax without offsetting action on the part of the provinces. The experience of these years has shown no such tendency."

Prices Dip Slowly On Toronto Mart

TORONTO, Dec. 4 (CP). — Prices declined slowly from their opening sharp drop as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Weekend news of the Korean war situation depressed prices over a broad front with losses ranging to more than $2.

Steels and papers led industrials down with a solid list of losses.

Base metals dropped over a wide front. Consolidated Smelters Hudson Bay, Noranda, and Quemont, key issues in the group, were all down $1.

Royalite and Home Oil led western oils down with 50-cent losses.

Golds showed a wide list of penny losses and were more quiet than the rest of the market.

A-Bomb Use

so greatly she is willing to risk general war.

3. It is particularly difficult at this time to assess the possibilities that general war will come.

Should Succeed

4. There is no reason why U.N. efforts to localize the Korean war should not succeed. If they don't, responsibility should be fixed firmly on Peking and Moscow. And if they do, the immediate danger of war would be removed but not the long-range threat.

5. Because western rearmament will become more and more important after 1951, Russia may consider her best chance of victory may lie in the months ahead.

"Because of this," he said, "and because of recent events in Korea, the danger of a major war in the immediate future has, I think, increased."

That is what the minister said on use of the A-bomb.

"There is some discussion going on at present whether the atom bomb should or should not be used against the aggressors in Korea. One consideration in this matter—and an important one—must be the effect of such use on the relations of the western world with Asia. The military, and others, may argue that the atomic bomb is just another weapon.

Greater Significance

"But, in the minds of ordinary people everywhere in the world, it is far more than that, and its use has acquired an immensely greater significance than any other aspect of war. The anxiety with which the possibility of such use is regarded has been strikingly and increasingly evident of late among our friends in Europe and in Asia. This anxiety is, I think, the main reason for the appeal, even in free countries, of the cynical Communist "peace" campaign.

"It would be hard to exaggerate the psychological and political consequences of the employment of the bomb, or the threat of its employment, in the present critical situation. The strategic use of the bomb against Chinese cities might conceivably reverse the course of military events in Korea now, but at the cost, possibly, of destroying the cohesion and unity of purpose of the Atlantic community.

"Certainly its use for a second time against an Asian people would dangerously weaken the links that remain between the Western world and the peoples of the East.

"The atomic bomb is the most powerful deterrent element in the arsenal of the free world. But it is universally regarded as the ultimate weapon. It should be treated as such.

"There has, of course, been a mass intervention of the Chinese Communists in Korea. In the present critical military situation, those who have their own forces engaged (and this applies, of course, particularly to the United States whose intrepid men are bearing the brunt of this fight) are obviously entitled to have full consideration given to the use of every available means of supporting the ground forces fighting under the United Nations command.

"This is natural and inevitable, but, before a decision of such immense and awful consequence, for all of us, is taken, there should be consultation through the U.N., particularly with the governments principally concerned. One of those would be the Canadian government, which has from the beginning been a partner in the tri-partite development of atomic energy.

"It is of supreme importance to the morale and survival of the free peoples that, if war comes, the responsibility should be clearly and inexorably fixed. While there is any chance at all of preventing an extension of the present hostilities, the advantages of using the bomb, or even threatening to use, are, I think, likely to be far outweighed by the reactions among the peoples of the world, and especially the peoples of Asia, which would follow that use."

Ontario-US Police Make 18 Raids On Gambling Ring

WINDSOR, Dec. 4—(CP)—Provincial and Detroit police anti-gambling squads pooled evidence today from 18 lightning raids in Windsor and Detroit Saturday, and plotted their next attacks on a suspected international gambling ring. In Windsor, two men arrested in an alleged race-wire relay centre linking Detroit with Toledo, O., were scheduled to appear in court on gambling charges. They are Cyril Drew, 28-year-old private detective, and Gordon Keltz, 27.

They were seized in separate offices of the Murray office building—one of six spots in downtown Windsor raided by 32 sledge-hammer-swinging Provincial Police officers led by deputy Provincial Police Commissioner E. T. Doyle.

All were suspected of being relay points for an international telephone hook-up which police said fed racing information into Detroit handbooks doing $15,000,000 in betting business annually.

Strike At Same Time

In Detroit, 53 vice-squad officers operating on a master plan with provincial police, struck simultaneously at 12 points—11 of them handbooks and the other a wire-service relay point. They arrested 75 men and said gambling charges against them would be laid later this week after comparing evidence gleaned in the Windsor raids.

The joint attack was made on 18 spots which Detroit police inspector Paul V. Slack said were members of the International Handbook Syndicate. It was planned in two months of conferences between provincial and Detroit police. Final plans were laid in a secret meeting in Detroit on Wednesday.

Alex C. Hall, Essex county crown attorney who co-ordinated the scheme, keynoted the new co-operative approach to the long-standing problem of breaking the handbook link between the two cities.

Share Evidence

"Evidence uncovered on either side of the border will be available for prosecution on the other," he said. Raids would continue, with interchange of information with Detroit, until gambling was wiped out.

"The Attorney General's Department has authorized the use of any provincial force needed to accomplish this," Hall added. "We are not deluded into thinking this raid has destroyed the racing information service."

Saturday's raids could be considered "only the start of a campaign."

Further charges against Drew and Keltz, are "still under investigation," said Windsor's acting police chief E. V. McNeill, provincial police inspector who took over Oct. 25 after the dismissal of police chief Claude Renaud and deputy chief W. H. Neale.

Although only two men were arrested in the six Windsor raids, "investigation is continuing and may involve others," McNeill said.

The provincial police raiding party was assembled from scattered points as far away as Barrie and Niagara Falls. The men were loaded into seven cars and were on their way to Windsor before being told of their destination.

Sledge-hammers were used to break soundproof double doors in the Murray building where Drew and Keltz were arrested. The building was known in the past as headquarters of the Acme News Service, a race-news system controlled by Howard Kerr, reputed kingpin of betting in Windsor. Racing information was seized and phone wires to Detroit disconnected.

Dismiss Charge Drunk Driving

A charge of drunk driving against Menzies McLaren, 208 Antrim St., was dismissed on the evidence of Dr. Warren Gamble that he had prescribed antabuse tablets for McLaren which could give the symptoms of a man being drunk.

They were tablets, he said, prescribed for alcoholics trying to stop drinking.

Traffic Officer Harold Mesley told the court he was driving the police truck west on Charlotte St. when Constable Sherman Kelliele called his attention to McLaren's car double parked.

They went back to the car and found McLaren outside the car trying to get another driver to give him a push to get started.

Both officers said McLaren was unsteady on his feet, smelled of alcohol, his pants were wet and appeared generally to be drunk. Both said they had seen McLaren before many times both drunk and sober.

Constable Kelliele said when he got into the car to drive it back to the police station, the battery and starter would turn the motor over, but it did not start immediately. He waved to Constable Mesley in the police truck behind him to give him a push and the car started in about 10 feet.

McLaren said he was on his way to pick up his mother when he became violently ill. He started back home immediately and on Charlotte St. west of George, the car "apparently stalled on me." He said the battery had gone dead and he couldn't get it started.

He told the court he had drunk two pints of beer a little more than an hour before.

Dr. Gamble said he had prescribed the antabuse tablets for McLaren last August. He warned him thoroughly that if he took the tablets and drank beer, he would become violently ill. The tablets make a person more sensitive to alcohol. He did not know if McLaren took the tablets every other day as prescribed.

Constable Kelliele said he saw no evidence that McLaren had been ill or had vomited.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said he would give McLaren the benefit of the doubt and dismissed the charge.

Students Receive Diplomas Norwood Commencement

NORWOOD, Dec. 4 (ENS). — The 51st annual commencement of Norwood High School was held Friday night in the Norwood Town Hall.

The program opened with two songs by the junior chorus under the baton of R. L. Mercer. This was followed by an address by the chairman, Earl Hamblin. Mr. Hamblin, a member of the new High School Area Board, told the audience that 85 per cent of the cost of the new school would be taken care of by the provincial government and the cost to the district ratepayer would be negligible, while the improved equipment would facilitate much better training for the children.

"The Man in the Bowler Hat," directed by R. MacMillan White, was the first of two one-act plays presented in the course of the evening.

Characters: John, Daniel Cleary; Mary, Joan Walsh; Hero, Richard Fredericks; Heroine, Ruth Wood, villain; Jack Young; chief villain, Jack Stackhouse; the man in the bowler hat, Randal Logan.

Field day cups were then presented to the following by Miss Honor Gibson: senior girls, Muriel Buck; intermediate girls, Elsie Clements; junior girls, Elizabeth Thompson; senior boys, James Thompson; junior boys; Ernest Spencer; prize for best shot in the cadet corps, Thomas Starke.

The IODE prizes were presented by the Regent, Mrs. Armar Weir to the best students in grades 10 and 12, Jack Stackhouse, grade 10, and Audrey O'Shea, grade 12.

The girls' physical training displays were under the supervision of Miss Honor Gibson and took the form of a dance by the senior girls and drill by the juniors.

The cadet corps gave a novelty drill and a song entitled "Our Sergeant Major."

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of intermediate certificates by the board chairman, Edgar Buck, to the following: Roy Ashe, Carole Baker, Shirley Brown, Ken Beamish, Elizabeth Chamberlain, Walter Clarke, Shirley Coughlin, Ruth Cuthbertson, Richard Fredericks, Connie Macpherson, Lloyd Oliver, Diana Howse, Laura Hutchinson, Lillian Lowery, Shirley Rusaw, Robert Spencer, Jack Stackhouse, Joan Whitney, Ruth Wood, Jack Youngs.

The presentation of graduation diplomas was made by Principal S. S. Breckon to the following graduates: Elizabeth Baker, Doreen Brown, Shirley Clysdale, Bernice English, Janet Giffen, Helen Hayes, Frances Hogg, Grace Horne, Madge Jones, Harry Lynch, Mary Lynch, Audrey O'Shea, Jasquelyn Rogers, Shirley Starke, Jean Would, Lois Stackhouse.

The second one-act play "Madame Turns the Tables," was under the direction of Miss Winnifred Turnbull. The audience was well pleased by the colorful costumes and the formal atmosphere of an earlier period in old England. The five lovely girls received the prolonged applause of the house. Characters: Mrs. Orpington, Muriel Buck; Jane Orpington, Lillian Lowery; Lady Titherington, Dorothy Stinson; Mrs. Carroway, Laura Hutchinson; Madame Rosignol, Shirley Godin; stage manager, Diana Howse.

The staff and pianist, Mrs. Fred Tredree, were called to the platform and thanked for giving their time and efforts in making the evening a success.

The senior glee club sang two songs "Trees" and "One World," the latter song being a plea as well as a prayer for world peace.

Cobourg Expects Moderate Vote

COBOURG, Dec. 4 — (ENS)— A moderate vote is expected today even although one of the questions is the Sunday sports plebiscite. For the first time in 10 years there is a contest for Public School Board representation, one in the East and one in the West Ward.

The 1951 School Board will have the problem of dealing with overcrowding in the Public School, and will also have to tackle the question of an east-end school. Two of the trustees seeking re-election have expressed their approval of the idea of an east-end school while their opponents are reserving their opinion pending further study.

The electors will also vote on the proposed natural gas franchise for the town of Cobourg. There is an election for Council with seven candidates, but no particular election issues involve the Council. A good labor turnout is expected because of the labor-sponsored candidates for Council and School Board, but the over-all picture does not indicate a heavy vote.

Stove Sparks Set Fire Damage Cottage

BRIDGENORTH, Dec. 4 (ENS) —Fire that started in a garbage can after an oil stove was lighed Sunday did comparatively little damage to a Chemong Park Cottage.

Living in the cottage are Mr. and Mrs. Ray McLaren and two children. The fire started about 5 p.m. Sunday when Mrs. E. McLaren was lighting the oil stove in the cottage.

Sparks ignited curtains near the stove, and jumped from there to a garbage can under the sink. The curtain fire was put out, but the blaze in the garbage can set fire to the wall behind the sink.

By the time fire trucks from Bridgenorth and Smith township halls arrived, a hole three feet square had been burned in the roof. Damage was mostly confined to the kitchen and the roof.

A neighbor of the McLaren's, Don McKenzie helped them carry out furniture and clothing.

Will Mr. Acheson Survive?

The question heading this article is being asked insistently in Washington nowadays. Many leading Democrats have insisted that U.S. Secretary of State Acheson be replaced, and he is a favourite target of the Republican Party. The critics insist that the post should be filled with someone who can deal with Congress on what they describe as "more reasonable terms". President Truman's reply to date is that he will never ask Mr. Acheson for his resignation.

* * *

How long Mr. Truman may hold to that remains to be seen, but it is clearly the only attitude he can properly adopt. It is true that Mr. Acheson has been somewhat maladroit in dealing with Congress and the public, but the instances of this were relatively unimportant. And it should be noted that, in dealing with both, Mr. Acheson has been placed in a false position by the President himself and by other members of the Administration.

* * *

More than a year ago, Mr. Acheson began to issue warnings about the state of world affairs; he began to speak frankly about the world crisis. Every time he did so, however, President Truman would tell a subsequent press conference that "everything is going to be all right"—a favourite phrase of his. Defence Secretary Louis Johnson would follow up with a few defence economies and some belligerent boasting. Now when Mr. Acheson has been proved right and the others wrong, one might expect a reaction in his favour; instead, the clamour for his political head has never been so loud and insistent.

* * *

The underlying reason for this is probably the genuine uneasiness that has been aroused by Senator McCarthy's vilification of Mr. Acheson and the State Department. Many who rejected McCarthy's absurd exaggerations nevertheless feel that they were to some extent founded on fact. Yet Mr. Acheson has been able to dispel that feeling in a very important group of men, and the feat indicates the possibility he might be able to do the same with other groups, given the opportunity.

* * *

The group was the Governors' Conference last Spring. It was hostile toward Mr. Acheson, so much so that Governor Dewey of New York had considerable difficulty in persuading them to allow the Secretary of State to appear. After four gruelling hours of exposition and cross-examination, the verdict of the meeting, as expressed by Governor Youngdahl of Montana, was that "what Secretary Acheson has been telling us certainly makes what Senator McCarthy has been talking about look like pretty small potatoes". This verdict, however, was virtually unheard in the voluminous abuse of Senator McCarthy' his followers, and his press, and the success of that campaign may now lead to the dismissal of Mr. Acheson.

Tax-Free Culture

An agreement has been signed by seventeen members of the United Nations at Lake Success, whereby books, paintings, films, sound recordings and scientific instruments will be admitted duty free if consigned to approved institutions and organizations. In other words, culture will travel tax-free between these countries, provided the books, films and the like are for public purposes. This agreement brought into being by UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) is an encouraging indication of sanity and co-operation for humanity's sake at a time when events seem to be insanely inhuman. Other nations are expected to give their adherence to the agreement as they have time to study it and secure government sanction.

Some great nations did not sign, including the United States, India, France and the Soviet Union. The United States, in sympathy with the purposes of the pact, is very touchy on matters affecting tariffs, and numerous departments of government, pressure groups and political leaders have to be satisfied before change can be made. India and France are studying the document.

Canada has no tariff barriers against books and works of art bought for libraries, universities, schools and similar institutions. They may be imported free of duty. However, the Canadian tariff system does put a strain on private persons who buy books and other objects designed to cultivate or amuse the mind. Books which may be bought in the United States for $2.50, cost in Canada as much as $3.50. The duty gives protection to the book-publishing industry in this country, but it is a protection at the expense of Canadian readers and, in effect, tends to discourage the buying of books and the building up of modest private libraries.

A book which attracted our attention the other day was advertised in an American literary magazine to sell at four dollars. It is advertised in Canadian journals at six dollars; the same book, same kind of paper, same cover. All that is different is that it is distributed by a Canadian publisher, though the Canadian firm really had little or nothing to do with the publishing of it. The price spread between books in Canada and books in the United States is greater than many Canadian purses can readily afford, and greater, we feel, than is good for the country. Are the publishing houses in Canada being given too much tariff protection, particularly when so many of them are so frequently acting merely as distributing agents for American books?

How Grave Is The War News?

Canada is fighting a war in Korea, a U.N. war sponsored primarily and fought by the Americans. If Canada has not yet its battalions in field position it might as well have, for they are committed, like the troops of a dozen other nations. What is Canada's war news?

What is the war news? It is difficult to say. The chief agency of it in these days is the American press and the American army. We get shocking stories. If we read between the headlines or even the American headlines themselves alone, we would feel doomed to the A-bomb, and that the world is on the way to extinction.

Splendid and informed and alert as the Americans are, they have not known the consequences of power long. Their perspective is short, and their newspaper headlines and their polygot, uprooted, scattered population make it shorter.

Modern (i.e. since 1485) history is blotched with threats of war and even war. Yet civilization has survived. Are the Americans over-fraught with the sense of their new responsibility and lacking in the attitude which should take a Peninsular war such as in Korea in their stride.

The Oxford Manner

People talk mistakenly of an "Oxford accent". That is bosh. There is no Oxford accent, unless it be the harsh, bucolic accent of Oxfordshire. There is a curious military Bath accent; there is a Mayfair accent; there is a false 'common-man's' accent such as aired by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who for his party's and constituents' sake makes a convention of dropping h's. Oxford has these three and fifty others besides. In general, Oxford settles for one accent which might be termed 'received southern English', which is more individual than BBC English, less blatant than Mr. Bevin's dropped aitches, and pleasant to hear. It is the English of an educated Englishman.

If Oxford must be used as an adjective, let it be applied not to accents or religious groups (Sir Alan Herbert, former M.P. representing the University fought against Buchman's 'Oxford Group' as a name), but to manner.

Here is a specimen of the Oxford manner which we cherish in a clipping from the city's daily newspaper the Oxford Mail, its issue of December 22nd, 1936. It is an obituary notice of the head of one of the great colleges:

Dr. Lancelot Phelps, Provost of Oriel from 1914 to 1929 often spoke his thoughts aloud. Once, he was listening to a long sermon in the course of which the preacher, after reciting a Biblical incident, asked, 'Now, what application has this to us, in our day?' Quite audibly, Dr. Phelps replied, 'None whatever, sir.'

Believing laughter to be a lost art, he would adjourn from dinner in hall to take a large pinch of snuff. Having sneezed heartily, he would guffaw at the top of his voice, while the undergraduates in the ante-room mimicked him in chorus.

A stickler for etiquette, he insisted on getting up from his death-bed and putting on a starched shirt for an evening meal. Tall, white-bearded and invariably wearing a black straw hat, Dr. Phelps was an outstanding figure in modern Oxford. At one time he collected spittoons.

Two Grand Old Men of Finland

Finland has two eminent octogenarians, the one most celebrated for his gift to all mankind, the other for his services to his own people. Sibelius the composer is 85. President J. K. Paasikivi is 80. Sibelius, living in honored retirement, needs no eulogy; his music is his eternal monument. President Paasikivi's monument is his country's courageous independence in perilous times and under the shadow of Europe's dominant state, Russia. His is a gallant spirit.

The Spanish press now demands the return of Gibraltar. Just the thing for Franco's Christmas Stocking.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THE discussion last Wednesday night on the CBC on the topic of modern art was fully worth listening to. A poet, a painter and a musician were cross-examined before a "jury" who stated their views in public. On one thing all were agreed—that a rift between the "modern" artist and the public had developed, and that this was especially true of music. It is obvious that this is a very unsatisfactory state of affairs, even though (as Mr. Robertson Davies suggested) certain artists "like the nail in their shoe" and deliberately cut themselves adrift from the vulgar throng. This would tend to put the blame on the creative artist. Certain artists (I use this word to embrace creative workers in all forms of art) deliberately retire to an "ivory tower" of their own making and cultivate an idiom so recondite that it can be understood and enjoyed by hardly anyone, even by the artist himself. They may succeed in gathering round them a small clique (or should I say claque) of indiscriminate admirers. Their tragedy is that the ivory tower which they have constructed with their own hands becomes a prison which they share with their small coterie. Perhaps the most tragic thing of all is that they do not realize that it is a prison. Their work is an ephemeral fad destined to oblivion. Under the Soviet system such people are given no opportunity to develop, and they are set to compose marching songs for the Red Army or draining swamps.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE still remains the problem of the artist who has something vital to say, and feels that the vocabulary of the nineteenth century is played out, shop-soiled. He must forge anew for himself out of his own artistic experience a new language, just as Beethoven had to do in order to write the last quartets. Only time will tell which is genuine and which is bogus. A work of art by a new composer will not yield all its secrets at one hearing, especially if written in an unfamiliar idiom: repeated performances alone will allow the public to assess its worth. Questions of this nature cannot be answered by an audience of tired businessmen and women with a smattering of critics, nor by a harassed Commissar. That is where both our system and the Russian break down. There still remains the suspicion that there are too many modern artists who are unsure of themselves. They misunderstand the true nature of originality, and in their efforts to prove that they owe nothing to their predecessors (what a futile task!) they only succeed in becoming unintelligible. Their puritan conscience strengnens them in their resolve by whispering to them that there is possibly something sinful or of a lower order in the sensuous enjoyment of music. This heresy is particularly noticeable amongst certain young Canadian composers, I regret to say. Typical of the ivory tower mentality in all its rigour was the remark of Barbara Pentland, the composer, on Wednesday night when she roundly declared that programme notes were "a bad thing", as they confused the listener with a whole mass of of irrelevant material. This is true of a certain type of bad programme note, but if all programme notes are a bad thing I must confess that I for one have derived an enormous amount in the understanding of music from these bad things, especially when written by that arch-offender Sir Donald Tovey. It was certainly unreasonable of her to condemn programme notes, and at the same time to blame the public for lack of education, as she did.

✧ ✧ ✧

HAVING vented my spleen against modern artists, or at least some of them, it is the turn of the public to recline on the operating table. The public is lazy. They expect to have new worlds opened to them with no effort on their part. They have always been the same, and I suppose they will always be so—with the possible exception of you, fair reader. This proclivity has if anything been accentuated in recent years by the invention of radio and the gramophone. By the touch of a button a tolerable reproduction of the sublimest compositions can provide a background to a conversation on the cost of living or the coming baseball season. Homemade music is becoming more and more pushed into the background. The average man will be prepared to admit that "classical" music is all right for those that like it—but this modern stuff....! The very distinction between classical and modern is false, as though the very fact of age confers added distinction to music. There are really only two kinds of music, good and bad. The older stuff has been sorted out pretty thoroughly by generations of audiences and critics (though I am sure that there are plenty of neglected or forgotten masterpieces still to be unearthed). All you have to do is to take for granted that Beethoven is "great", Bach is "great", and so on. Positively no effort required. The chances of hearing an inferior work by Stamitz or Graun or some other forgotten historical figure of the eighteenth century and being unable to distinguish it in all its poverty of invention from one of the "great" are so remote nowadays that it need give you no worry. When we come to the present age, however, critics and audiences haven't yet made up their minds, and you, as a member of the public have to make up your own mind about all these people. Your verdict may be endorsed by history. On the other hand it may not be remembered that in the eighteenth century Hasse and Graun were considered vastly superior to Bach.

✧ ✧ ✧

FINALLY, what about the critics. Have we been doing our job to help bridge the gap between artist and public? Are we giving the new composers a fair deal? You know, when I was listening to that CBC programme I was shivering in my shoes, waiting for the blow to fall. If artist and public were to unite in denouncing the critic as the scapegoat, and there are many hard things that can be said about us, there was no critic there to answer the charges. Yet the blow never fell. Perhaps it was the good old Anglo-Saxon instinct of fair play (never criticize a fellow behind his back), but I suspect that the real reason was that they both regarded us as insignificant. In Canada at this moment, perhaps yes, but elsewhere — critics have wielded considerable influence in crystalizing public opinion.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS an envoi to this discussion an anecdote. Someone was complaining to Picasso that he could not understand modern painting.

Picasso asked him what was his favourite vegetable. The man pondered and then replied that he liked onions as much as anything. "Tell me," said Picasso, "do you understand onions?"

"I invite foreign workers into the pits, and what do you get?"

It's An Offence In Ontario, Too

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE blacksmith of a village in rural England ran into considerable trouble recently with what is described as the "local authority". This local authority, it is said, is the village representative of the Labour Government, and one of its duties apparently is to see that the villagers adhere to the tenets of Socialism. The village blacksmith, clearly an energetic young man eager to establish a prosperous business, violated some of the strictest rules of the planners of Utopia, and was promptly desciplined for doing so.

✧ ✧ ✧

The blacksmith's offence was that he worked from early morning until late at night on many occasions. Quite often the tasks he worked at were emergency repairs of some farm machinery or other. It may be imagined the farmers were grateful for this emergency service, and since the smith was obviously ready to give it, one might expect that everyone would have been happy, especially since the service would help to maintain agricultural production in Britain, which is regarded as highly desirable nowadays.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Government inspectors, however, didn't feel happy at all. They warned the smith that he must stop working such long hours, or they would refuse to renew his shop license when next he applied for renewal. They had received complaints about the long hours he worked, they said; that sort of thing was very bad for morale, they declared, and it could not be allowed to continue.

✧ ✧ ✧

Commenting on this, The Hamilton Spectator vigorously condemns this aspect of Socialism. It declares that "Cynics of an earlier age used to say that the unpardonable sin was not in doing wrong but in being found out. Among modern Utopians the unpardonable sin lies not in being gainfully employed but in doing an honest day's work. To take a pride in one's job is plain subversion; to be faithful to one's task is nothing less than treason."

✧ ✧ ✧

We agree with The Spectator. This business of forbidding a man to work as long as he wants to is utterly wrong, in our opinion, as long as his prolonged labours do not force others to work longer than they wish as a consequence. We do not think it is altogether fair, however, to intimate that this form of petty dictatorship is peculiarly the product and practice of the Socialists. There is plenty of it in Ontario, placed on the statute books of the Province by the urging of men who are definitely not Socialists, approved by legislators who are decidedly not Socialists. And penalties are provided to punish men who work longer hours than others in their line of business, as well as to punish others who sell for less than their competitors. When these forms of enterprise are proved against persons, Ontario courts step in and punish.

✧ ✧ ✧

There are laws which forbid merchants to operate their shops outside certain hours. There are laws which force set hours of closing for certain service businesses, and in one instance there is a law forbidding Sunday sale, except as designated by selection of a limited number of dealers. There are laws which forbid farmers, who may be able to produce more cheaply, to sell for less than their competitors.

✧ ✧ ✧

These laws are operated in a Province governed by governments we like to think of as democratic. And they have been democratic, in that they retain many of the best features of democracy, under both Conservative and Liberal leadership. Nevertheless the people of Ontario can scarcely afford to point the finger of scorn at Socialists who carry out the wrongful policy of punishing individual initiative and industry. Ontario is doing the same thing, and has been doing so for some time—since considerably before the present Socialist Government of Great Britain came to power.

Changes In 'The Island'

(Charlottetown Guardian)

It used to be assumed that theft was kept at a minimum in this province by the difficulty of removing and disposing of the stolen goods. Much of the petty thieving that existed was for the purpose of converting the proceeds immediately into liquor at the nearest bootlegger's.

Times seem to have changed. Perhaps improved transportation works to the advantage of underworld enterprise as well as legitimate business.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Wherefore David blessed the Lord before all the congregation: and David said, Blessed be thou, Lord God of Israel our father, for ever and ever. Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine, thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all. Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all.

Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name. (I Chron. 29: 10-13.)

O Lord God of hosts, who is a strong Lord like unto thee? or to thy faithfulness round about thee?....The heavens are thine, the earth also is thine: as for the world and the fulness thereof, thou hast founded them. (Ps. 89: 8, 11.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God. (Ps. 90: 2.)

✧ ✧ ✧

O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgements, and his ways past finding out!....For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever. Amen. (Rom. 11: 33, 36.)

Letter To The Editor

WORTHY PETERBOROUGH

Sir: Though comparatively a stranger, or at best a visitor of several years and having ever been so hospitably and graciously received, I feel I would at this time like to pay my respects to your fair city, a city which I am sure stands for Truth and Righteousness and whose trust is in God; because of this, worthy to receive earth's best dignities. May He who I believe had been our Guide and Stay in the past be with you now, and help you to stand true in this so critical time; day by day making you more worthy of your honours and of His All-important Praise.

"PETERBOROUGH, I SALUTE YOU".

Squirrel Control

(Sudbury Star)

The Hydro management at St. Thomas has finally reached the conclusion that Canadian squirrels are just as tough as Indian fakirs.

For the second time this year a squirrel jumped from a nearby building to a high tension power line, causing an industrial shutdown, despite an "anti-squirrel" barrier of spike-studded planks.

If an Indian fakir can lie with his bare back on a "spike mattress" there is no reason why a Canadian squirrel with his padded feet cannot hop along the spikes in a plank.

If squirrels can chuckle, they probably do it often when they encounter man-made attempts to outwit their agility and ingenuity. Farmers try many methods of keeping squirrels out of the granaries in wooden barns.

Pearl Pirating Boosted In Australia By Illegal Trafficking Of Liquor

By LOUIS L. LECK

BRISBANE, Australia —(CP)— On the northeast corner of Australia where Cape Yorks juts into Torres Strait is Thursday Island—last relic of the tough Pacific which flourished at the turn of the century.

There the pearling fleet—about 100 luggers, cutters, launches and air force crash boats—turns a lush, tropical scene into a tawdry settlement.

Thursday Island is by nature a rock jewel set in blue seas, complete with trade winds and the scent of frangipanni. But the pearlers have built a town of shacks which flaws the jewel.

$1,053 a Ton

This year the pearling fleet will earn about $2,000,000 by selling shell, chiefly to the United States, at £450 ($1,053) a ton.

Shell is the fleet's mainstay—pearls themselves are merely a welcome addition to its income.

At one time the Japanese had a monopoly of the business. Now Australians skipper the boats and aboriginals do the diving. Under the profit sharing system which prevails the 200 to 300 divers are making big money—up to £1,500 a year.

The natives are not used to this wealth and despite efforts of the Queensland government the majority are squandering their earnings, assisted by scores of petty and not so petty racketeers.

Taxis at £2 an hour is a favorite but comparatively innocent racket. Liquor is the worst.

Forbid Natives Sales

Queensland law forbids the sale of liquor to any native or half-caste under jurisdiction of the protector of aborigines. On Thursday Island, however, there are a number of people of Asiatic or Melanesian blood not under the jurisdiction of the protector. These can obtain as much liquor as they want legally.

The liquor traffic has had the effect of boosting illicit pearl buying. This racket infects the entire settlement with an atmosphere of dishonesty and intrigue.

Last year hundreds of thousands of oysters brought in yielding only £8000 worth of pearls—officially. The catch is expected to be poorer this year.

75 Per Cent To Diver

Under current regulations 75 per cent of the value of the pearls found goes to the diver, the remainder to the boat owner. All gems must be disposed of by tender to licensed buyers after official valuation.

Despite the low value of the year's pearl catch, the island managed to support five licensed resident buyers.

Illicent pearls are to the lugger crews "ready money" on which no tax need be paid. The traffic has attracted to island men who cut in on the industry's profit without work and with little risk to themselves.

The biggest illicit pearl-buyer on the island boasts that he never pays cash. He trades in kind and at a flat rate—one bottle of rum for one pearl, large or small.

This man claims he handles five times as many gems as the average buyer, and twice as many as his closest illicit competitor, who pays in currency.

Firm Wins Medal At Exihibtion

OTTAWA, Dec. 4—(CP)—A Toronto architectural firm won top hononors Saturday in an exhibition of Canadian architecture with entries ranging from schools to churches. The exhibition is on display at the National Gallery.

John B. Parkin Associates easily outclassed 30-odd entrants. The firm won a gold medal for an exhibit in educational buildings and silver medals for top spots in commercial, ecclesiastical, hospital and industrial buildings.

The medals were awarded this year for the first time by the Massey Foundation. They have not been struck yet and will be presented at a later ceremony. They will be awarded biennially by the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada in recognition of outstanding achievement in Canadian architecture.

The gold-medal winning design shows plans along with inside and outside photographs of Oshawa High School. It covers a large panel in one of the three large rooms of the gallery where the exhibition has been arranged. Architects describe the plan as "presentation" and not a "working" drawing. It lacks the technical details and is simplified so the lay person can understand.

200 Attend

Some 200 persons attended the exhibition, officially opened by the governor-general, Viscount Alexander, accompanied by Viscountess Alexander. Among the guests were Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey of Port Hope, a trustee of the Massey Foundation, members of the diplomatic corps and architectural experts.

The three-man panel of judge was headed by Dean Joseph Hudnut of the school of design at Harvard University. Other judges were J. Roxborough Smith of Montreal, president of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada and Watson Balharrie, Ottawa architect and member of the school of architecture at McGill University, Montreal.

Mr. Hudnut said that, in his opinion, the competition "seems to demonstrate clearly that our new architecture will give thought to the expressive powers of technology and useful space."

No awards were made for house designs. Dean Hudnut said the jury was disappointed with the "meagre" representation in this field.

Name Richmond Batting Champ

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP). — Don Richmond, bespectacled third baseman of the pennant-winning Rochester Red Wings, was officially crowned today as the 1950 batting champion of the International League.

The 31-year-old left-handed hitter finished with a .333 mark in 140 games. Richmond banged out 191 hits in 573 trips to the plate. Among his blows were 31 doubles, 11 triples and 18 home runs. Richmond accounted for 298 total bases, scored 126 runs and drove in 99.

Another third-baseman, Ransom Jackson, the league's "rookie of the year," trailed Richmond. Jackson, who started and finished the season with Chicago Cubs, smacked .315 with Springfield. Don Thompson of Montreal finished third with .311, a point higher than Hal Price of Rochester.

Rounding out the top 10 are Al Stringer, Buffalo, .303; Gene Markland, Buffalo, .298; Del Wilbur, Rochester and Babe Barna, Baltimore, 205; Johnny Mayo, Toronto, .294; Johnny Welaj, Montreal and Ed Mierkowicz, Rochester, 293.

Richmond, who will report to the parent St. Louis Cardinals next spring, has had previous major league experience with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Charles Will Face Barone In Title Bout

CINCINNATI, Dec. 4 (AP). — The spotlight of the boxing world will centre on Cincinnati Tuesday night as Ezzard Charles and challenger Nick Barone battle it out in the first heavyweight title fight in Ohio since 1919.

No heavyweight champion has defended his crown in the state since Jack Dempsey gained the title July 4, 1919, by flooring Jess Willard. Charles, however, had promised earlier to fight in Cincinnati in appreciation of the support given by his home-town fans.

When the smooth-working Negro enters the ring at Cincinnati Garden it will represent his fifth defence since winning the National Boxing Association version of the championship June 22, 1949. He decisioned Joe Walcott in a 15-rounder that night.

MAURICE "THE ROCKET" RICHARD, of the Montreal Canadiens, tagged as modern hockey's best player, is shown above in one of the many such predicaments he runs up against during a season in the NHL. Opposing defencemen on each of the other five teams in the NHL hold and hook the star on his every attempt to score. No other player in this league has ever been watched so closely as the French Canadian on the Montreal squad. This action taken against Richard has slowed up his goal getting to almost nil in recent games. Richard's attempts to free himself from defenders has led to numerous battles and penalties for the Rocket. The offenders during the game when this photo was taken were none other than the Toronto Maple Leafs, the "Idols" of Canadian hockey fans.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto's Max Bentley picked up only one point in two weekend games, but he still leads the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Bentley scored a goal Sunday to bring his total to eight which, coupled with 21 assists, gives him 29 points, seven more than his nearest opponents.

Tod Sloan and Ted Kennedy, both of the Leafs, are tied for second place with 22 points, while Maurice Richard of Montreal, who scored a goal and got two assists Sunday, comes next with 19.

Bentley's 21 assists also make him top in that department, while Sloan's 13 counters give him a one-goal lead over Richard.

Turk Broda now has five shutouts, one more than Gerry McNeil of Montreal. Broda got his fifth Saturday night as the Leafs and Chicago played to a scoreless draw in which both Al Rollins and Broda saw action. Broda spent a longer time in the nets, and was given credit for the shutout.

Most penalized player in the league is Gus Mortson of Toronto, who has spent 52 minutes in the penalty box.

Badminton Notes

By RALPH CHARLTON

This is a busy week for the local badminton players. Cobourg comes Thursday and will use two courts, and Belleville comes on Saturday, when all courts will be used. Wednesday has Dick Birch, one of Canada's top players, here for exhibition matches with local players and Grant Henry of Millbrook. The club is lucky to have Grant available, as he is ranked up with Birch. The latter won the Canadian singles three times and the mixed doubles eight times, as well as holding all the provincial titles. He was playing captain and first singles player of Canada's last Thomas Cup team.

After playing here, Dick will conduct a badminton clinic for local players, especially juniors and beginners. All players of the city and district are invited. There will be a tourney for Peterborough players in Port Hope on Dec. 16. Winners of prizes in the recent dance draw were: 1st, Bill Legge, Oshawa; 2nd, P. Collis, 82 Victoria Ave.; 3rd, M. Craig, 158 Dublin St.; 4th, M. Baker, 242½ Charlotte St. Prizes may be had at the Market Hall.

Ski enthusiasts and the general public are invited to drop around to the Collegiate auditorium tonight at eight, this being the annual "ski night" put on by the local club. A number of colored movies on the sport, a lecture by Frank Scofield, noted Quebec pro, and a display of latest equipment. Some 400 members now in the Peterborough Ski Club, not to mention the hundreds of kids taken under the club's wing each winter for instruction. It looks like maybe a fine snowy and lengthy winter beginning for skiers around these parts, and Toby Westbye, Andy Rutter and other officials want to start the season off with a bang tonight.

Puck followers will be out in force this eve at 8.30 in Civic Arena as it's Belleville vs. the Petes in senior "B" play. The Petes currently are tied with Eagles for top place in a hot group race, whilst Redmen appear plenty hot, too, having beaten the scrappy Eagles in their last two starts—once here and next time on Quinte ice. While the Petes appreciate the efforts of Belleville against Eagles, they're pretty worried now over tonight's result. The Reds may take this winning streak seriously and treat all opposition alike. One thing sure, it'll be a fast and exciting struggle and probably mighty close either way.

Leading Sniper To Date

Arn Dugan still leads the Petes at bat with 10 goals and 11 assists for 21 points in 10 games—a shade better'n two points a tilt. Chum Eyria and Honey Tompkins are tied next with 15 points apiece. Big Jake Wade has been in on 13 goals so far, with Gus Leonard amassing 11 points to date, and Junior West and Freddy Garvey 10 each. Those are the main stickers up to this point, though we should mention that Jack Mortimer played only one game and was in on three goals. A few locals may fatten their averages tonight, but we expect no one-sided count.

Bill Crowley is top man on the Eagles' totem pole, scoring nine markers and aiding on eight more for 17 points in 10 games played. Bob Parnall is next with an even dozen points, while Bert Hill and Andy Milne are tied with 11 apiece. Several more have eight or nine points up to now—the Eagles seeing action tonight down Kingston way. Toodie Greenlaw, in his second appearance of the season, scored twice and aided on another last start in the Belleville arena, when Eagles lost. Joe Rochetta has been an absentee in recent games as a swollen hand slowly heals. So there you have your local leaders on the puck attack after 10 OHA senior games have been played.

High Count In Extra Heat

Lakefield Indians of the OHA intermediate "A" setup in this district are off tomorrow for a tilt in Lindsay against the Muskies of the Scugog. The other night in Cobourg, Lakefield dropped a 15-12 overtime decision. Yes, that's right—'twas 15 to 12 in extra time! More like a basketball or football score, eh? Scoring was pretty well spread around, we hear, in the wide-open tussle. Monday melees call for Bowmanville vs. Lakefield at Cobourg, with the Cobourg crew playing in Port Hope. Latter two teams are presently tied atop of the young schedule, with Bowmanville and Lindsay next, as Lakefield—still minus home ice for practices—having lost two in as many starts.

Dick Birch, one of Canada's outstanding badminton players, will strut his stuff Wednesday eve at eight in the Market Hall. He'll play exhibitions with some of the better local racqueteers and with Grant Henry of Millbrook. Grant rates right up there in the Canadian game with Dick. Latter is mixed doubles champ of Canada and won the Dominion singles crown three times, besides taking a raft of provincial titles. After the game, Dick will hold a clinic for juniors and beginners, but everyone interested can take it in. Cobourg players are here Thursday night and Belleville comes Saturday to take on the Peterborough talent.

Roger Bresnahan, who caught the immortal Christy Mathewson as first-string catcher for the New York Giants, died in Toledo, O., six years ago today. He was credited with inventing the catcher's shinguards which he introduced in 1907, and played with the Giants from 1902 to 1908.

England Lags In Cricket Tilt

BRISBANE, Australia, Dec 4 (Reuters)—After a battle of tactics in a day of extraordinary cricket on a treacherous wicket, England finished up today needing 163 runs with four wickets in hand to beat Australia in the first test.

Caught on a sticky wicket England lost seven wickets for 68 runs before declaring 160 runs behind Australia's first-innings total of 228.

Australia floundered even worse and, after losing the first three wickets before a run was scored, declared at 32 for seven.

Left needing 193 runs to win, England, batting for the last 70 minutes in indifferent light, scored 30 for six before bad light stopped play a few minutes early.

Twenty wickets, including those of some of the finest batsmen in the world, fell for 130 runs in four hours, and a game scheduled for six days was almost over in two days' actual play.

Optimists feel that England still holds an outside chance of success if the wicket becomes easier by Tuesday.

Batsmen still available to fight it include England's top bats, Len Hutton and Denis Compton.

There may be an interesting finish Tuesday, the fourth day of the match. There was no play Saturday because of the unfit state of the pitch.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Sam Snead won his 11h major tournament of the year Sunday as he coasted to a five-stroke victory in the 27th annual $10,000 Miami open golf tournament with a 72-hole score of 267.

Snead, leading money winner for the second straight year, carded a blistering three-under-par 32 on the front side over the 7,000-yard Miami Springs Golf Course and returned in one-under-par 34 for his third successive 66. He carded a 69 opening day. He was 13 under par for the four-day tournament.

The $2,000 first money cheque he picked up brought his total earnings for 1950 to $35,759.83.

Jack Burke, Jr., 27-year-old Houston, Tex., professional, and Dick Mayer, Old Greenwich, Conn., deadlocked for second position at 272—five strokes behind Snead. They each won $1,200.

Frank Stranahan, present British amateur champion of Toledo, O., won the amateur division in a walkaway with a 278 despite carding a four-over-par 74 on the final round. He had shared the lead with Mayer at the end of 36 holes when he carded a 65 on his second round.

Stan Horne of Montreal finished well down the list with a total of 293. He had rounds of 74, 68, 70 and 71.

At Detroit the Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks agreed on a National Hockey League trade Saturday that will send forward Steve Black and defenceman Lee Fogolin to Chicago. In return, the Red Wings will get left wing Vic Stasiuk and a player to be named next week.

Vic Toweel of South Africa loosed a vicious attack to retain his world bantamweight championship by stopping Britain's Danny O'Sulivan before 11,000 fans at Johannesburg on Saturday night. O'Sulivan, pounded to the canvas 20 times, did not come out for the 11th round. O'Sullivan weighed 117¾, Toweel 116½.

At Elmira, Ont., the first presentation of the Jack Calder Memorial Trophy was made Saturday night to Earle Weichel, talented 19-year-old Elmira athlete and scholar.

The trophy, donated by the Western Ontario Sports Writers' Association, is to be presented annually to the outstanding Western Ontario schoolboy athlete who combines scholastic talent with athletic ability.

Weichel is the first winner of the trophy which honors the memory of Jack Calder, a former member of the association who was Ontario editor of The Canadian Press when he joined the RCAF in 1940. He was killed overseas in 1944.

Now a student at Waterloo College at Kitchener, 10 miles from Elmira, Weichel is an oustanding track and field athlete and a star at football, basketball and hockey. He also boasts high school grades.

The presentation was made by Alan Rose, sports editor of the Brantford Expositor and president of the Sports Writers' Association. Len Taylor, sports editor of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record, reviewed Weichel's qualifications, and Fraser MacDougall, of the Canadian Press, honorary president of the association, told about Calder's career.

Montreal's St. George Williams College opened the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Valley Conference basketball schedule at Lennoxville, Que., Saturday by defeating Bishop's College 59-42.

Margaret Lord, secretary of the Women's Athletic Federation of Canada, announced at Hamilton Sunday night that the federation's biennial meeting will not be held this year because of the inability of Western Canada branches to send representatives.

Miss Lord said the federation hopes that representatives will be able to confer next summer during the Canadian women's track and field championships.

The Sportsmen's Association of Montreal tonight presents its annual award dinner at which 55 Montrealers who figured in Dominion championships in 1950 will be honored. Guest speaker will be Michael J. (Mike) Rodden, Kingston, sports editor and former prominent athlete.

Sent To Bruins

BOSTON, Dec. 4 (AP)—Boston Bruins now have a brother act in their defence corps. The National Hockey League club today obtained Max Quackenbush from Indianapolis and, in exchange, sent rookie defenceman Steve Kraftcheck to that American League team. Max is the 22-year-old brother of Bill, veteran defence player who has been one of few stalwarts of the Bruins in their faltering start this season.

Spitfires Take Nose-Dive To 7th Place

By The Canadian Press.

Everything happens to Windsor Spitfires.

For three years in a row they came up with a solid team that had Memorial Cup written all over it, only to get belted out by some underdog outfit in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs.

This season, they were up with the leaders when coach Jimmy Skinner drew a charge of assault and an indefinite suspension for taking a poke at an usher in the Barrie Arena two weeks ago. It looks now as if they'll fall out of the league cellar if they do not get Jimmy back soon.

They lost to Barrie the night Jimmy floored his usher. Then they won one for Tommy Ivan, coach of the parent Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. But since Carson Cooper took over the reins last Friday, they have been penalizing themselves to death.

They spent 61 minutes in the box at St. Catharines Friday as the Teepees drubbed them 8-1. On Saturday they reformed, cutting their penalty total to eight minutes, but two Galt goals during a high-sticking sentence to Eddie Joss started the Black Hawks off to a 5-3 victory.

Dive to Cellar

So the Spits, in third place only a week ago, have nose-dived to a seventh-place tie, with only the winless Waterloo Hurricanes and Toronto St. Michael's behind them.

Meanwhile Toronto Marlboros joined Barrie in first place with a Sunday afternoon victory over ninth-place St. Michael's and Oshawa Generals blanked Waterloo 7-0 to vault over Spitfires into a three-way tie for fourth place with St. Catharines and Stratford Kroehler.

St. Michael's Monarchs, pacemakers of the OHA major league, came a crooper when the tail-end Hamilton Tigers knocked them off 5-2 at Toronto while the second place Marlboros were reducing Monarchs' margin to four points by defeating Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 4-2 at Waterloo.

The Hamilton victory moved Tigers into a third-place tie with the Dutchmen, who dropped their second straight game to Marlboros in as many nights.

Al Buchanan, Bill Johnson, Bus Wycherley and Jack McKenzie tallied for Marlboros in a game that was marred by soft ice. Albert Wrightsell and Harvey Jacklin counted for the losers.

Fast Goals

Three fast first-period goals, two of them by Tom Smelle, gave the Tigers their victory over St. Michael's. Smelle added a third tally in the second period, while Ab Conick was the other Hamilton marksman. Willie Marshall, a junior playing his first game for the Monarchs, scored a goal and set up his club's second marker by Gord Hannigan.

The Junior Marlboros were sparked by two-goal performances by Bill McFarland and John Lumley, with Dan Windley and Earl Balfour netting the others. Dan MacDonald, Bill Dineen and Wally Weldrake scored for St. Michael's.

NHL Players Take Beating As Teams Just Break Even

By EDGAR SIMON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Six National Hockey League teams expended considerable effort and absorbed some physical punishment in order to get nowhere this weekend.

The six paired off for spirited home-and-home battles that left the league standings precisely as they had been before the first puck was fired.

The league leading Toronto Maple Leafs played to 0-0 and 3-3 tie with Chicago Black Hawks. Detroit Red Wings shattered Montreal Canadiens 7-1 in Montreal and took a 4-1 lacing from the aroused Habitants in Detroit. New York Rangers shaded the Bruins 3-2 in Boston and dropped a 5-3 decision on home ice.

The scoreless nature of the Saturday night struggle might make it sound like a goalkeepers' dream. Actually it was a goalkeepers' nightmare as both starting netminders spent some time in the Maple Leaf Gardens hospital.

First Out

Leaf rookie Al Rollins went out at the 6:50 mark of the second period when a Hawks' shot opened a 12-stitch gash over his left eye. Veteran Walter (Turk) Broda took over the replaced him in the nets Sunday night.

A few minutes after Rollins retired, Chicago's Harry Lumley stopped a puck with his nose, but finished the game and played Sunday night despite the resulting fracture. Toronto winger Howie Meeker was another casualty Saturday, suffering a twisted knee that kept him from making the Chicago trip.

The Hawks, possibly inspired by the presence of five of last year's Stanley Cup winning Red Wings in the lineup, opened a two-goal lead in the Sunday encounter, but faded in the last period to concede a point to the visitors.

Acquisition of defenceman Lee Fogolin, and winger Steve Black in a weekend trade for Vic Stasiuk leaves Chicago with only three men who haven't worn a Detroit uniform. But the Hawks looked like champs for two periods only.

Tie It Up

Roy Conacher and Pete Babando shot Chicago into a two-goal lead in the opening period, turning the tables on the Leafs by performing the leaders' favorite trick—scoring while the opposition is short-handed. Leafs' Max Bentley and Hawks' Bep Guidolin swapped second period goals. Then Ted Kennedy and Johnny McCormack tied it up in the last frame.

In New York, the Rangers ended a 24 hour exposure to the solitary heights of fifth place as Boston elbowed them back into a last-place tie.

Tony Leswick, Zellio Toppazzini and Buddy O'Connor had fired the scoring drives in the Boston encounter, offsetting unassisted counters by Bruin defencemen Ross Lowe and Bill Quackenbush.

With an encouraging home-town crowd of 13,675, the New Yorkers nearly did it again Sunday, overcoming a three-goal lead before they ran out of gas in the game's dying minutes.

Paul Ronty, Lorne Ferguson, Woody Dumart, Vic Lynn and former Ranger Dunc Fisher were the Boston marksmen. Toppazzini, Edgar Laprade and rookie Reg. Sinclair tallied for the losers.

Take Turns

Canadiens and Red Wings took turns looking like bush-leaguers in their two encounters. Every forward in the Detroit lineup picked up at least one scoring point Saturday night, with centres Sid Abel and Jimmy McFadden and wingman Jimmy Peters each clicking for two goals. Gaye Stewart picked up the final Detroit tally while Calum McKay was the only Montrealer to break through goalie Terry Sawchuk's armor.

The Wings scored four of their goals with the opposition a man short. Just to make it easy, they counted another while they had one of their own number in the penalty box.

But it was Detroit's turn to collapse in the final period of the Sunday game as Canadiens whistled home three goals to break a 1-1 tie.

Rookie defenceman Tom Johnson poked in the winner and Maurice Richard and McKay added the insurance markers. Montreal's Elmer Lach and Detroit's Metro Prystai had connected in the opening frame.

Grain Famine Felt In Spring

MONTREAL, Dec. 4 (CP) — Effects of the grain famine currently facing maritime ports will not be felt here until spring, shipping men said Sunday.

With the port due to close at the end of the week, shippers now are loading four ocean ships with grain. Three more are scheduled to load within the next few days.

"We hope to get all these ships out with grain but this hand-to-mouth operation will mean we will be faced with almost empty grain elevators when the season opens next spring," one grain man said.

The grain famine which has hit Eastern Canadian ports in the last four weeks had already resulted in 15 ships, originally bound for maritime ports, being re-routed to United States ports, harbor officials said.

Montreal now is without any surplus of exportable grades for the spring harbor opening. Only 800,000 bushels of exportable grades were in elevators today. Elevators have a total capacity of 15,000,000 bushels and usually start the season in april with backlog of 1,000,000.

Total exports to date this season are 82,574,324 bushels against 92,275,603 bushels at this time last year.

1-Legged Vet Helped With House-Moving

RICHLEA, Sask., Dec. 4 (CP)— Robert Whillans, a veteran of the South African and First World Wars, lost a leg a year ago. Now he knows that the friendly pioneer spirit still lives in this community 80 miles southwest of Saskatoon.

Neighbors worked three days moving his house to a new location, insulating it, lining it with beaver board, laying new linoleum and installing electric lights.

Eston branch of the Canadian Legion paid all costs and Legion members donated their time.

Says Forests Wasted

TORONTO, Dec. 4 (CP). — Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, said Saturday the Ontario government has not taken effective steps to "stop the present alarming wastage of our forests."

Have 4-Point Plan

MONTREAL, Dec. 4 (CP). — The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) Saturday announced adoption of a four-point program designed to increase earnings of union members in some 240 companies across Canada.

Col. Deroche Dies

KINGSTON, Dec. 4 (CP). — Col. Alexander Pierrepont Deroche, 69, a graduate of Royal Military College here, died Saturday. He was Director-General of Engineering Services during the First World War. He was a native of Napanee.

Still Hopeful

TONOLULU, Dec. 4 (AP). — Arthur R. Menzies, chief of the Canadian liaison mission in Japan said Saturday he believes something still can be done to prevent the outbreak of a third world war in the far east. Menzies, with his wife and two sons, is en route to Tokyo.

Pilot Saves Crowd

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 4 (AP). — A National Guard pilot gave his life Sunday to fly his flaming plane away from scores of Sunday drivers who were watching him take off. An internal explosion in the F-84 jet flown by Lieut. Arthur Bradley set the plane afire on the takeoff from nearby Hensley Air Force base. He flew the plane over about 100 automobiles filled with spectators rather than risk plowing through a wire fence and into them.

Have Repair Plan

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Dec. 4— (CP).—The New Brunswick Council of Labor Saturday adopted a resolution asking that repairs to vessels of Canadian registry be carried out at Canadian shipyards. The resolution, approved unanimously at the council's fifth annual convention, also asked that a tax of 50 per cent of repair charges be assessed by the Dominion in cases where ships are served at foreign yards.

Place 42 Polls Of 61 In City In Public Buildings

Placing 42 of the 61 polls in public buildings today provides a saving in rental charges for taking the municipal vote. This has been an economy of long standing. City Clerk Outram who is the returning officer for the day's balloting, said he had been directing the trend somewhat away from the use of schools such as King George, of doubtful facility in weather causing slippery sidewalks on the east Hunter St. hill.

Polls in the old Ashburnham town hall were also removed, because they were upstairs. Convenience to the public gets priority over economy, Mr. Outram said.

However there are still two-thirds of the polls that are free of property charge. Twelve of the 13 polls in the south ward are not tagged for rent. Two polls at King Edward School, two at May's two at Sacred Heart, two at Prince of Wales, three at South Central, and No. 4 poll is at Bethel Baptist Church, at Mervin and Romaine Streets.

In the Centre Ward all the five polls are in public property, three in the city hall and two at Central School.

There are no private properties used in the west ward. The twelve polls are in schools, South Central, Prince of Wales, Queen Mary, St. Peter's.

Only three of the twelve places in the North Ward are in public buildings. They are Park Hill School and Central School. The ratio is three in seven in Ashburnham. They are placed in Immaculate Conception School.

In Claraday Ward seven of the ten polls are allocated to schools, Confederation, St. John's and Grove.

The Deputy Returning Officer is the person responsible for the taking of the vote in each subdivision that has been marked out for election purposes.

In private stores and other such places, the owner, from whom the voting place has been rented, is required to furnish a table and three chairs and a place assuring secrecy to the voter.

The polls opened at 11 a.m. today and close at 7 p.m.

850 To Musicale

Citizens demonstrated the need for Sunday afternoon entertainment in Peterborough when 850 crowded the Salvation Army Temple Sunday for the monthly musicale. Numbers by the Temple band and choristers received hearty applause and most sincere appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Dorothy Goldie, guest soloist, and her accompanist, Mr. Charles Allen. Mayor M. J. Swanston was chairman, introduced by Major C. Everitt.

To make room for the steadily-increasing number attending these musicales, which have been held the first Sunday afternoon of each month for the past year, excepting in the summer, the bandsmen did not sit in the Temple as on previous occasions. The crowd still overflowed accommodation there and about 50 took seats in an ante room where loud speakers brought the program to them.

"I don't know yet what arrangement we can make for next month," said Major Everitt. The first musicale of the new year will be on January 7th.

4 Cars Pile Up On Highway, Blame Icy Spot

Icy roads resulted in a pile-up of four cars on No. 28 highway, 2½ miles south of Peterborough Saturday afternoon with an estimated damage of $400. No one was injured.

Joseph A. Cook, 31, of 55 Isabella St., Toronto, was driving towards Peterborough when he saw an icy stretch on the brow of a hill. He applied his car brakes and his car skidded to the shoulder. About five minutes later, Kenneth McIntyre, 22, of Frederick Ave., Peterborough, hit the same strip of ice and skidded to the north ditch where his car overturned.

Car number three belonged to A. E. Morley, 29, of Chamberlain St., Peterborough. Morley stopped his car to give assistance to the two cars in the ditch and his car was hit by Ernest Smithies of Kingston, who was unable to stop because of the ice. Smithies' car skidded around and the rear fender crashed into Morley's car.

Damage to Smithies' car was estimated at $150; Morley's car, $50; McIntyre's car, $100; and Cook's car, $50.

Constables J. G. Healey and A. C. Russell investigated.

Obituary

FRANK J. McINTYRE.

The funeral of Frank J. McIntyre, son of Archibald A. McIntyre, a former Mayor of Peterborough, will take place Wednesday on arrival of the CPR train from Toronto, where he died Saturday, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The graveside service will be conducted by Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. McIntyre was for years engaged in commercial business in Toronto, chiefly as a traveller in territory extending to the Pacific Coast. He was until about six months ago with Dresses Limited. He had been in declining health a year.

Mr. McIntyre leaves his wife, the former Gertrude Stewart, his father Mr. A. A. McIntyre, and brother Spence McIntyre of Detroit, Mich.

Five Outdoor Rinks Planned In City Poor Ice Conditions Last Year Blamed

Poor conditions for ice-making on outdoor rinks last year resulted in the parks department deciding to have only five outdoor rinks this year. These rinks will be placed at Riverside Park, Inverlea Park, Stewart and McDonnel Sts., Turner and King Edward Park.

Armar Butcher, superintendent of the city's parks, said today that the cost of four days' skating last year was over $2,000. The children, he said, obtained most of their skating on the Civic Arena's artificial ice.

The reduction from 10 to five maintained by the parks department will be made up in additional time for skating and hockey at the Civic Arena. Through the officials at the arena, the parks department and Superintendent Wightman of the Board of Education, the school children will receive free time in the arena under a schedule drawn up by the schools and the arena.

The schools will have free skating time at the arena Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. until 11.30 a.m. Time will be allotted in the afternoon from 3.30 until 5 p.m. for the school hockey leagues.

The change this year will double for the students the amount of time they have in the Civic Arena. All this time is free.

Plans last year first included 10 outdoor rinks operated by the city and five other organizations with the assistance of the parks department. Two years ago there were 21 hockey and skating rinks throughout the city.

1950 Building In City Nears $4,000,000 Mark

Peterborough is close to a $4,000,000 building year as reflected in the permits issued today through the office of City Engineer Chalmers. The new peak and record of 1949 has already been passed this year, and if December comes up with $100,000 in permits the total will be over the four-million line.

As tabulated today by Miss Jean Elcombe of the engineering department, the comparative totals are as follows:

Permits issued in November, 1950 were: 7 garages $3,100; 39 dwellings $313,950; 45 miscellaneous permits, $77,485. Total—91 permits for $394,535, and for the eleven months to the end of November $3,908,388, as compared with the total for twelve months last year of $3,781,799.

Permits for November last year were:

13 garages	$ 3,450.
26 dwellings	188,800.
53 miscellaneous	72,450.
92 permits	264,700.

Total for the eleven months to the end of November last year was $3,713,489.

The increase of new realty create this years is now $294,899 more than the total for the eleven months to the end of November last year.

The fact that 39 new houses were begun last month, as compared with 26 a year ago, indicates a sustained momentum of Peterborough building.

Average estimated value of the houses for which permits were taken out last month was $8,050 as against $7,206 in November 1949.

Six Townships Go To Polls

Six Peterborough county municipalities are holding municipal elections today—five of them include contests for the reeveship.

Reeve E. J. Leeson and ex-reeve Ernest W. Seeney are having a two-way battle in Havelock; both the council and school board were acclaimed.

Ex-reeve William E. Griffiths and Donald Anderson are expected to have a close contest in Belmonth-Methuen. And there is an election for council and one of the two school areas.

Warden Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther, reeve for six years, is being opposed by Norman Bolton. The school board trustees were acclaimed but there are five candidates for the four offices of councillor.

Reeve Harry Reid and Dick Stewart are fighting it out for the 1951 reeveship in Otonabee. There is also a contest between Roy Spears and Dave McIntyre for the deputy reeveship. Both council and trusteees were returned by acclamation.

In North Monaghan Reeve Melville Johnston is being opposed by Willard G. Waterman, former councillor and deputy-reeve. Six candidates are running for the four offices of councillor. And there are five candidates for the three vacancies on School Area No. 2.

Nine candidates are running for council in Harvey.

Stove Explodes Man Is Burned

When a gas stove exploded on Saturday night and threw him 10 feet across the kitchen, Wilfred Davies, 222 King George St., suffered first degree burns to his face and arms as well as severe shock.

Mr. Davies was attempting to light the oven to cook a roast of beef when the explosion occurred. The blast shook pipes in the rooms on the second floor of the house and threw him across the room upsetting the kitchen table.

His wife rushed into the kitchen, closed the oven door and shut off the gas valve. Dr. Robert Bell was called to attend Mr. Davies' burns on his face and arms. The DeLaval Company employee was not moved to the Civic Hospital until Sunday evening. Hospital authorities said today he was much improved, and is expected to be out in two or three days.

More Shopping Less Buying

There just isn't any Christmas rush—yet.

Last Saturday was the peak day to date, but it was all perfectly normal; in the usual scheme of things once Christmas is two or three weeks away.

The trend towards more shopping and less buying that has been noticed most of this year is showing up in Christmas shopping. More than one merchant reported that Christmas shoppers are doing a lot of looking before they buy.

Scramble To Begin

Merchants expect that towards the end of this week the scramble for presents will begin in earnest.

"It's just like last year. They wait until they have only a couple of weeks to go before they start buying, and they come in in mobs then," said one.

Department stores were not unusually busy, and several downtown stores had no customers at all. The five-and-ten stores had no more buyers than usual, and only a few stores seemed to have anything in the way of a crowd.

"Give them a week. They'll be out," predicted one store manager.

Oshawa Man Charged 65 mph Through City

George Zackarow Oshawa, ignored a summons to appear in the Peterborough police court in answer to a charge of speeding about 65 miles an hour in Peterborough.

He was arrested by provincial police and brought here. This morning in police court he pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $15. Because he had put the provincial police to the trouble of having to go and get him, travelling expenses were added to court costs for a total of $14.50.

1752 Treaty Basis Of Indian's Appeal

DARTMOUTH, N. S. (CP). — An elderly Micmac Indian is appealing his conviction for hunting deer illegally on the basis of a 198-year-old treaty.

His wife, Mrs. Margaret Phillips, is using the case in an effort to champion the cause of Indian rights.

Sentence against Phillips was adjourned to allow clarification of the law.

Mrs. Phillips produced a copy of a treaty, signed by the governor, which says, in part: "It is agreed that the said tribe of Indians shall not be hindered from, but have free liberty of hunting and fishing as usual."

Business Men Plan Program

For the first time in years the Peterborough Business Men's Association will be entertaining the ladies Wednesday night at a Ladies' Night in Queen Mary Auditorium.

The party was postponed last Wednesday due to the power cutoff and was to have been held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The club was not available for this Wednesday night, and the school auditorium was selected.

Guest speaker for the evening will be James Wharry, vice-president and general manager of the Quaker Oats Company of Canada.

Joseph A. Jebson, president of the association, said today that the business highlight of the night would be the announcement of the closing hours throughout the Christmas season.

A buffet supper will be provided by the Examiner.

Normal Students In City Schools

Students of Peterborough had a full week of urban teaching for the first time this term. Normal school last week.

During the first part of the week the teachers-to-be observed the home teacher and then carried on the classes with the teacher's timetable.

This was one of two weeks that the Normal students have in the urban schools during their scholastic year. Another week will be held just before Easter. The students also have two weeks of rural teaching. One week will be held immediately following the Christmas holidays and the other after the Easter holidays.

In most cases the students taught in their home cities or towns and in the urban school nearest their home. Thirty-four of the 125 students were teaching in Peterborough's schoolrooms. Others were teaching at Belleville, Kingston, Cobourg, Bancroft Lakefield, Campbellford, and other Normal school areas.

The Normal school masters visited the students during their week of teaching.

Infant Daughter Dies Autopsy Scheduled

Bonnie Arlene Barnes, seven-months-old daughter of Kenneth R. Barnes and the former Daividine Creig, Lakefield highway, died suddenly in hospital this morning. Hospital officials reported that the autopsy had not been completed and therefore cause of death is unknown.

Born in Peterborough, the baby girl leaves a sister Christine and a brother, Kenneth.

The funeral will be held at the Belleghem Funeral Home Tuesday at 2 p.m. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

Weather Takes Snow Spoils First Skiing

Skiers suffered a cruel blow over the weekend as rain and warm weather took the snow. A year ago they enjoyed a fair weekend of skiing, a both Kemp's hill on the Warsaw road and at Bethany.

The change in the weather Saturday quickly softened and melted the snow so that skiing was impossible. Snowfalls earlier last week built up the ski enthusiasts' hopes when eight inches, 4½-inch layer of old snow with another four inches of fresh made ideal conditions for early skiing.

It Was Harmless

CORNERBROOK, Nfld.—(CP) —A small snake found when a crate of bananas was unpacked caused much excitement here. It was sent to St. John's and thence to Toronto, where a museum expert has found it was a small type of boa constrictor, harmless except for its sharp teeth.

Head-on Crash Injures Three, Horse Is Killed

BANCROFT, December 4 — (ENS)—Three residents of the Bancroft district are in hospital after a jeep crashed head-on into a sleigh at dusk Saturday. And one of the team of horses drawing the sleigh had to be shot.

The accident was a mile west of Bancroft on Highway 28.

Ross Storey, 55, a passenger on the sleigh, and Elvin Robbins, 14, the jeep passenger, are both in Toronto hospital with head and internal injuries. Their condition today is described as "fair."

Norman Maxwell, driver of the jeep in which Robbins was a passenger, received minor injuries. He is reported to have been driving the jeep back to the village shortly before 5 p.m. Saturday.

Both Collided

Cause of the crash is not known but somehow the jeep ran into the horses and sleigh with such violence that one of the horses was thrown onto the hood of the jeep. It was later shot.

Huston Card of the Monk Rd., the sleigh driver, was returning to his farm home when the accident happened. Storey, a passenger, was within half a mile of his home.

Maxwell is the son of Wilfred Maxwell, and Robbins the son of Walter Robbins.

Dr. S. S. Lumb of Bancroft attended the injured. Robbins and Storey were taken to Toronto General Hospital. The others were treated at the Bancroft outpost.

Provincial Corporal Archie Grayling and Constable John Hawkins investigated.

Drunk Driver Gets 7 Days

Pleading not guilty to a charge of drunk driving, but offering no defence or argument on the charge, Julian Morin, R.R. 1, Lakefield, was found guilty in police court today and sentenced to seven days in the county gaol.

Traffic Officer Harold Mesley said he found Morin slumped over the steering wheel of the car stopped on King St. at Park St. The car was part way across the Park St. cross walk.

He said he had to shake Morin several times to get him awake. When Morin climbed out of the car, he was very unsteady on his feet and smelled of beer. His eyes were bleary and his speech thick.

Constable Sherman Keliele said Morin staggered as he climbed out of the car and fell against the side of the car.

Leaves Hospital To Cast Ballot

An employee of one of Peterborough's industries telephoned the Examiner this afternoon this little story with a significant moral of British political liberty.

"I have been in St. Joseph's Hospital for the last two weeks, and in conversation with my doctor this morning he decided for me that it would be all right to go out to vote, but I would have to go back for another week, before I return to work.

"So my wife and I went to the polling place, and I remarked to her as we came away, 'Mother, this is one of the few countries in the world where ordinary citizens like you and me can go to the polls and mark our ballots in secret, and without bayonets at our backs.

"If all of us would only realize the full meaning of our Canadian franchise that is the great gift and heritage of our British ancestors. I voted for the two by-laws because I think they are necessary to the steady development of Peterborough, and there was nobody in or near the poll noticing whether I voted or in any way interfering with my freedom of decision.

"When you see what has happened in the many other countries, and look at the number of Communists in a city like Toronto, one naturally feels a keener awareness of the liberty that is represented in the casting of our votes today."

Norwood Man Fined For Careless Driving

In his plea of guilty to a charge of careless driving in which he sideswiped another car on Lansdowne St. Saturday afternoon, Lloyd Mackey, RR 1, Norwood, was fined $15 and costs in police court today.

Constable Eldon McDonald told the court he answered a call to the accident east of the Lock bridge. He found Mackey's car in the north ditch where it had hit a hydro pole.

The other car, driven by George Monteith, RR 1, Peterborough, was in the roadway.

He said Monteith had told him Mackey had been driving in the centre of the road. The constable said Mackey smelled strongly of beer and was not too steady on his feet.

Both cars were extensively damaged.

Sunday Afternoon Caller Finds Four In Home Unconscious From Coal Gas

Four people were overcome with coal gas fumes Sunday afternoon. Only the quick thinking of an afternoon caller, Ben Smith, 35, 442 Cameron St., saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Pulford and Mr. and Mrs. D. McKnight of 630 Sherbrooke St. Hospital officials reported today that Mrs. McKnight is the only one of the four that is out of danger. Mr. and Mrs. Pulford are still semi-conscious and seriously ill. McKnight although not out of danger is showing signs of improvement.

Smith, who made a business call on Pulford just before 2 p.m., told police that he was just about to turn away after receiving no answer from his knocking when he heard a groan. He looked in the bedroom window which is beside the front door and saw Pulford and his wife on the bed. Foam was coming out of Pulford's mouth. Smith broke into the house, smelled the coal gas and dashed to a neighbor's house to call the police and fire department.

The McKnight's, who live in the upstairs apartment, were found unconscious on the floor.

Dr. J. M. Wishart and Dr. R. M. Matthews worked on the two couples and an Emerson resuscitator was used on Mrs. Pulford for 30 minutes to no avail. All four were then taken to the hospital where they were given oxygen treatment.

Pulford was the first to be taken out of the emergency ward at 4 p.m. McKnight was out at 4.30 and the two women were out by 5.

Dr. L. W. Thompson was also called in on the case.

Police reported that the damper door of the furnace was found closed.

Constables Harold Mesley and Allen Edminson investigated.

Morning Voting Light As Usual

Morning voting was light in the city, according to reports from polling places. Most polls reported not much difference torm last year's balloting.

One Ashournham poll, at Howland's grocery, Douro Street, reported "more voting than last year," although the exact number of ballots cast was unknown. At Mrs. J. C. Finnie's, Armour Road, only a few voters had come out, and a few more had started to come in during the noon hour.

At the three West Ward polls in Queen Mary School, the voters were "coming well" and had started to come in as soon as the polls opened.

In Claraday Ward, the returning officer at 838 Lock Street, said there was "not much change" from other years as far as the morning vote was concerned. Sixteen had voted so far at that poll.

South Ward Polls

Only 44 ballots were marked at three South Ward polls up to 12:50 p.m.

Mrs. J. R. Earnshaw, 116 Princess Street, reported the 18th ballot being marked at that time, indicating that voters passed up the morning hour, deferring duty until the long stretch in the afternoon until 7 p.m.

William Lawson, grocer at 445 Albert Street, relayed from the DRO the information that nine ballots had been issued at that poll opposite the CGE.

Mendell Braund, grocer, Chamberlain Street, said 17 ballots were issued at the poll in his store up to five minutes to 1 o'clock.

That was an exceedingly light total for two hours of opportunity "to get out and vote." However, it is altogether likely that the people will respond during the afternoon.

Jaycees Call 9984 By Phone To Get Out Vote

Smashing existing records the Junior Chamber of Commerce contacted 9,984 voters in their annual Get-Out-The-Vote telephone campaign conducted Saturday and Sunday.

Operating from the City Buildings, radio Station CHEX and from their homes forty operators logged over 4,000 telephone contacts.

Bruce Edwards, Civic Affairs chairman, said that the support of his committee and the appreciative reception by the citizens made this campaign "the best in the Jaycee record book." Without the combined support of all the citizens, he said, "we could not have achieved our goal."

Commencing early Friday night the telephone campaign swung into action with Jaycees operating from their homes. On Saturday this phase of the operation continued. Shift work began at one p.m. Sunday, and three shifts operated until 9 p.m.

Got Voters' List

Through E. A. Outram, City Clerk, the Jaycees received copies of the voters' list. These were taken by the Study Group on Civic Affairs membership and the telephone numbers indicated on the voters' lists. "This is a very important phase of the operation," said Mr. Edwards. "It was this step that slowed down our work in previous years."

During the telephone campaign the Jaycees were assisted by Mrs. W. E. Fanning, Mrs. Chas. Pilon, Mrs. L. L. Maguire, Mrs. W. Williams, Mrs. R. Arnott and Mrs. W. E. Metheral, members of the Study Group on Civic Affairs.

In the campaign generally they were received with a variety of answers: "Yes, we certainly are going out to vote," "My wife and I will be there," "Thank you for the reminder," and many other complimentary replies.

"In our campaign last year our total was just over 4,000 calls," said Gerry Grady, Junior Chamber president, "but the increase this year is due to the assistance we have received in preparing the lists for the weekend telephone barrage."

Members Differ On Car Exports

LONDON —(CP)— The future of the small British motor-car in Canada was discussed by three speakers in a recent House of Commons debate on Anglo-Canadian trade.

R. S. Russell, Conservative, said the British car exports now running as the rate of 70,000 a year had "knocked the bottom" out of the used-car market in Canada. He wondered whether the present scale of exports could continue without reaching the saturation point.

M. Macpherson, Labor member, said he believed Britain was paying too much attention to motor-cars and not enough to the kind of engineered goods and capital equipment that Canada would need in the future.

But Sir Peter Bennett, Conservative, disputed any argument that Britain was exporting too many cars.

"I do not agree that this is a temporary business," he said. "I don't see any reason why we shouldn't keep the market for the small car."

Dope Addicts On Increase

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—The United States, Canada and Britain Saturday reported a sharp increase in dope addicts—victims who have "graduated" from marihuana to heroin.

Post-war prosperity, a desire for "kicks," international tension, and a greater availability of heroin because of increased smuggling from Italy and Turkey were responsible, the UN Commission of Narcotics was told.

In the U.S. one in every 3,000 of the general population—or an estimated total of 53,000 persons—is a heroin addict, Harry J. Anslinger, federal narcotics commissioner, reported.

"Most of them are young hoodlums and their wages sometimes are shocking," he said. "All started by smoking marijuana cigarettes. Now 80 per cent of these young hoodlums are graduates to heroin."

Col. C. H. L. Sherman, of Canada told the commission that never before has the heroin traffic been so prevalent, with street peddlers now selling as much as half a pound at a time instead of merely a few grains.

Saw Steel Ban Coming Toronto Bought Piping

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—Toronto will be able to go ahead with four outdoor artificial ice rinks this winter in spite of a government ban on the sale of steel, effective Jan. 1 because the city had the foresight to purchase steel piping in advance, Mayor McCallum said Sunday night.

A ban on the sale of steel for dance halls, theatres, arenas, rinks, amusement parks, recreation clubs or halls, holiday camps, stadiums, race tracks and bowling alleys was announced Saturday by Trade Minister Howe in Ottawa.

Even defence contractors must wait their turn to obtain steel under another order which creates a system of priorities for the delivery of steel on defence production. The system became effective last Friday.

Housing Unaffected

Housing will not be affected by the ban, Mr. Howe said, nor will commercial office buildings or manufacturing plants except those of the kind specifically mentioned. His order re-establishes a steel control administrator's office as a means of coping with a steel shortage that may affect Canada's defence program.

The Toronto East Arena Gardens, to be built at Gerrard and Main Sts., may have to do without artificial ice until the government order is eased or lifted, Ald. Ross Lipsett said.

Oliver Master, assistant deputy in the Department of Trade and Commerce, said in Ottawa Saturday night that completion of each project now under construction, will depend on what stage has been reached.

He said this was the meaning of the announcement that in the cast of non-essential buildings now under construction, deliveries can continue to be made, but only after special permission has been obtained from the department.

To Take Charge

Denis Harvey, the department's commodities director will take temporary charge of the steel program. W. H. Fitzpatrick of Montreal, manager of Atlantic Steels, Ltd., will be his deputy.

A prominent Toronto Liberal said last night that he interpreted the order to mean that hardships will not be placed on those who have buildings partially constructed. He was certain that orders now in for steel will be honored.

The government announcement says steel suppliers also will be ordered not to sell to builders of breweries or liquor factories and stores, or to those producing outdoor advertising signs, or to tobacco, soft drink or confectionery factories or stores.

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"A-1"

Today, when we say a thing is "A-1" we mean that it is the very best, first-rate.

In its strict sense this term is associated with shipping. Lloyd's Register of British and Foreign Shipping classifies the character of a ship's hull by letters, and the condition of the cables, anchors and stores by figures. Thus, "A-1" means hull and fittings first-rate. By the same reckoning "A-2" would signify hull first rate, with fittings second-rate.

Second Woman Elected RCA Is Guest of Local Painters

Seventh annual exhibition of the Peterborough Group of Painters was officially opened by Yvonne McKague Housser, RCN, on Saturday evening at the Public Library.

One of Canada's foremost women painters, Mrs. Housser received her early training as a scholarship student at the Ontario College of Art under J. E .H. Macdonald, and studied and painted subsequently in Paris, Vienna and New Mexico. She began exhibiting in national and Empire exhibitions at the age of 25, and her work is represented in the National Gallery of Canada and the Art Gallery of Toronto.

Already a member of the Canadian Group of Painters and the Ontario Society of Artists, Mrs. Housser has recently been elected a member of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts. She is the second woman to receive this honor.

Introduced to the guests by Mr. J. O. Londerville, Mrs. Housser expressed her pleasure at being in Peterborough on this occasion. "I look upon it as further proof of the growing interest and respectability of the arts in Canada that a local group could produce a show of such merit and scope," she said. Mrs. Housser added a word of praise for the physical aspects of the show. She stressed the importance to the artists of an interested and intelligent public on whom they could rely for understanding and encouragement. She believes that the modern experiments beyond realism in art and reflections of the chaotic changes in the modern world.

"The contemporary trend toward abstract patterns could stem in part, from a new perspective opened up by increased air travel" she remarked. Similarly, she felt, the strongest sense of rhythm in many pictures is the artist's expression of the scientific discovery of motion in matter.

Mrs. Housser expressed delight at the achievement of the 11 exhibitors and felt that the group showed growth and vitality as evidence in their experiments in pattern and color. "I hope your group will continue to grow in stature and that the time is not far distant when you will have a permanent gallery worthy of your city".

A large group of friends was on hand for the opening. Members of the Women's Art Association, the Men's Sketch Club and the Brush and Palette Club were present. Mayor M. J. Swanston and Alderman A. B. Burrows represented the council.

Coffee was served by members of the newly-formed Artists Anonymous Group and other friends of the members. The gallery was festive with bouquets of mums.

The pictures will be on display until December 16.

Some unusual hand-made novelties, were sold, among them felt over-arm bags in which to carry shoes when wearing winter overboots that will be such a convenience. There was also home cooking.

Tapestry Pleases Queen Elizabeth

EDINBURGH — (CP) — A beautiful tapestry woven here to the order of Queen Elizabeth had one departure from design.

When the Queen and Princess Elizabeth recently inspected the work, they noticed an "unauthorized" four-leaf clover had been worked in near the centre. The Queen smiled when Richard Gordon, one of the artist weavers, explained the emblem was "a lucky token for Prince Charles."

The tapestry, nine feet by seven feet, took six months to weave at the Dovecotte Studios, founded by the Fouth Marquess of Bute.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Casserole Dishes Withstand Criticism

The holiday mood that I'm possessed with has to stretch for many weeks yet and I hope I have the vitality and the viands to keep it rolling.

I'm well supplied with party food ideas, but those three-a-day meals occur twenty-one times to the one time most of us entertain in a week.

A letter I received from "Jo" brought me to earth with a bang. She wistfully wished that cookery editors would give readers more casserole dishes and not so everlasting many cakes, cakes, cakes.

She was not accusing me of this surfeit of cake recipes, but certainly did ring the bell on the casserole cookery For so many men dislike "made" meat dishes that I go easy on them. But in this day of high-prices going higher by the hour it is a crying necessity and duty of every household cook to fashion casserole dishes that withstand the criticism of the most finicky eaters.

One obvious thing has happened. The prices of fancy fish such as shrimps, oysters, tuna has not risen as much as the price of meat and we should profit by that and include them in our regular menus.

That is why I am giving you this:

◇ ◇ ◇

Corn and Oyster Casserole

with its pint each of oysters, milk and corn, which serve six. (This dish is ideal for those of you who expect an oyster dish with your turkey dinner, so clip it for reference two weeks hence.)

Butter baking dish generously, sprinkle with fine cracker crumbs, put in layer of cream-style corn, more cracker crumbs, then one-third of one pint of oysters, more crumbs, more corn, dots of butter and repeat until you have 3 layers of each, using up 1 No. 2 can of cream style corn. While you are putting in the layers add 1 pint of milk, adding it while you are layering—not when the dish is full. Garny says this is the secret of its success. Finish with crumbs and dots of butter and a little cream and salt and pepper and paprika. Bake 40 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. Do not make more than three layers of the oysters because they will not cook through in 40 minutes if you do.

Grandma's Cheese Puff

Eight slices day old bread, 8 ounces cheddar or processed cheese, 3 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika, 2 cups milk. (When supplies are low this dish can be made with substitutes: Use evaporated milk diluted with water instead of whole milk; use less cheese and more eggs or use less cheese and add some ground left-over meat like ham or pork ground.)

Trim crusts from bread or not just as you wish, cut them in halves to form triangles and put in ungreased shallow baking dish. Cover bread with layer of cheese slices cut rather thick. Top with remaining bread. Beat the eggs very well, and add salt, pepper, paprika and milk and beat. Pour over bread and cheese. Let stand 1 hour to soak. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 1 hour until puffed and golden and custardy. If economy is pour purpose this dish is ever so easy to swallow.

DOROTHY DIX

Woman Would Leave Family Jobless Man Who Can Dance

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Can you help a very unhappy woman? I am 35 years old with three small children. My husband is a good man and a good provider, but he isn't at all lively and gay. After work he just sits down and reads the newspaper while I love to go out dancing. Last week I went to a dance with a friend and met a fellow of 25 with whom I have fallen violently in love. He has no job, but I could always get my old one back at my former office. He wants me to run away with him and I am tempted to do so. Do you think I could be happy with him away from my babies? Please help me. I don't know which way to turn.

Dorothy Dix

BEWILDERED

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: When a married woman with a good husband, a good home and children gets a brainstorm that makes her even contemplate throwing them in the discard for a boy without a penny to his name, she needs to have her head examined.

Consider What You'd Lose

Put your husband and children and home and place in society and your comfortable living on the scales and weigh them against disgrace, poverty, the loss of your children, with only the compensation of having somebody to dance with. And without money you can't even dance much. Nor will you feel much like dancing if you have to support your husband and come home dog tired at night.

Your own complaint against your husband is that he doesn't want to step out of nights. It has always seemed to me that that is the least fault that a huband can possibly have, and that it is hard to pry him out of his easy-chair of an evening is because he has worked so hard all day trying to make money for her that he is exhausted.

And the children. The babies. Believe me, if you forsake them you will never know one single moment's happiness. No man's love will compensate you for the love of your children.

If you run off with this man you will lie awake at night wondering who is taking care of them, wondering if they are covered up in their sleep, wondering if they miss you, and your soul will sicken with you as you know that they will grow up to be ashamed of you. Don't commit this criminal folly, I beg of you.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: What hope is there for widows? I am 45. Have two fine sons, working their way through college, and I have a job, so I am better off than many. But in a few years, two or three probably, my sons will be gone about the business of life for themselves and what, then, is there in life for me and for the thousands of women like me? There is small chance for us to marry and establish homes again because men prefer young wives. Can you offer any cheer to widows in general? There are so many of us.

M. D. G.

ANSWER: There are, but few of them take such a pessimistic view of the lot of the widow as you do. Most of them are having a grand time being free and independent and doing all the things they could not do when they were tied down by a husband and young children.

No one would minimize the grief that a woman feels in the loss of a husband whom she has really loved and who has been an ideal mate to her. That leaves a wound in her heart that will never cease to ache, but nursing a sorrow that cannot be cured and mourning over a loss that cannot be filled does not bring back our dead, nor restore our happiness. It only weakens us and makes us less able to fight our battle of life.

So the brave thing to do is to lock your grief away. Realize that the part of your life to which that belongs is gone for ever, but that you have many years before you in which you can be happy and find life good and amusing if you will only make it so. Happiness doesn't drop into many of our laps. We have to go out and find it, but our search is nearly always successful if we hunt hard enough.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 16, rather pretty, but I wear glasses. I have noticed that girls not so attractive as I am, but who do not wear glasses, are much more popular both with boys and girls. Should I wear my glasses and be comfortable when I go out, or should I discard them during school hours and not see very well?

C. R.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Wear your glasses. They have nothing to do with your popularity or lack of it. Modern glasses are not disfiguring. Often they give a piquant expression and light up an otherwise dull face.

What's Right

A friend telephones you just as you are rushing to leave the house to keep an appointment.

WRONG: Feel you have to finish the conversation, even though it will make you late.

RIGHT: Explain the situation and say, "May I call you back?"

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Separately Planked Chops Give Party Touch to Meal

Meals for two can be given the pleasant intimacy of a continental cafe if the menus are well planned and if there is a slight effort put into the preparation and serving of the food. For any number of ideas for small serving recipes, how to stock your kitchen, how to purchase for two, and how to dress up dishes so that they have charm as well as taste, you should get the "Meals for Two Cookbook." This is the twenty-first title of the series that is being made avail to readers of The Examiner a book-a-week.

Like the earlier cookbooks in the series, Meals for Two is full of beautiful photographic illustrations that suggest any number of serving ideas besides explaining some of the text. The recipes range from cocktails to desserts and, while they are scaled down to small family cooking, they include simple quickies and complicated chefs' specialties.

Here is a recipe from Meals for Two that could certainly be made for a large family too, but it is especially charming for a tiny dinner party because it builds up the actual size of what would otherwise seem to be very small pieces of meat:

Planked Lamb Chops

Loin lamb chops (1½ inches thick), Salt and pepper, Brussels sprouts, cooked, mashed potatoes.

Remove bones from meat and roll chop around large "eye" of meat. Preheat oven to moderate (350 deg. F) and place the chops 3 inches below broiler heat. Brown chops on both sides and season. Place chops on individual planks, with Brussels sprouts and border with mashed potatoes pressed through a pastry tube. Place under broiler heat until potatoes are browned; serve immediately. Serves 2. Wrap a strip of bacon around each chop before broiling.

To obtain this delightful Meals for Two Cookbook all you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c to the Examiner office, your carrier boy, any of Braund's Home Food Markets, or to the Dominion Master Market By Mail, send 30c (5c for postage and handling) to Cookbook department, Peterborough Examiner.

Must Be Ready For Worst U.S. Envoy Says

TORONTO, Dec. 4 (CP)—Stanley Woodward, United States ambassador to Canada, said today that no one "can be sure that war will not come" and that the free world can only "hope for the best—and prepare for the worst."

"We hope to preserve the peace and avoid war," he said in an address prepared for delivery before a joint meeting of the Canadian and Empire Clubs of Toronto.

"We must be ready to negotiate, but we must make it plain that we will not appease—that we will not sacrifice the principles we believe honest and real for any false hope of peace."

Mr. Woodward reviewed Canadian-American relationships, including the recently-negotiated agreement on economic co-operation, and said that President Truman has told him that he plans to press Congress again in 1951 to adopt the long-awaited St. Lawrence seaway and hydro development.

"New Urgency"

Mr. Truman and his government knew that Canada was anxious for an early start on the project and that, in the light of the international emergency, the scheme had a "new urgency." The U.S. government was prepared to back the project "most earnestly."

Canadians and Americans, long-time good neighbors, had found themselves "on the brink of the precipice—and we see before us the abyss of war."

"But when a crisis comes, we stand together. And the rest of the world has come to realize that Canada and the United States live and stand together—representing the North American view and a mutual approach to the problems of the day."

They had stood together during the Second World War and, through the Hyde Park agreement, had pooled their resources for the winning of the war. When the war ended, many of those joint actions were dropped but the "basic relationship of co-operation and interdependence and the neighborliness remained."

"And so today, when aggression once more threatens our security and the peace of the world, we are drawn instinctively together again," said Mr. Woodward.

Plumbers See Good Year Despite Controls

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating is one of the first organizations to come up with his predictions for 1951.

It finds the outlook good, even if some adverse effects may be expected from shortages of materials and controls.

The institute's generally-optimistic view, means, of course, that it thinks other lines of business, which create demand for its products, will also be good.

With the construction industry continuing at a high level, employment at a post-war peak, increased government spending, and a strong trend towards modernization of farms and farm homes, demand for the products and services of the plumbing and heating industry is expected to continue at record levels during the remainder of 1950 and the beginning of 1951.

Predict High Level

While shortages of steel and other vital materials, general international unrest, the government program to control instalment buying, and higher taxes are bound to affect sales generally during 1951, the 1950 sales curve is assured of ending at a high level.

There are some signs that the business curve is reaching a temporary plateau, but despite government controls and numerous other facts sales volume in 1951 should approximate the 1950 level.

At a cost of millions of dollars and employment of thousands of new employees, the industry is working at record capacity to overtake the increasing demand for its many products and services coming from many sources.

Production in most lines was stepped up sharply in 1949, was increased further in 1950, and output could be boosted in 1951.

Premiers' Friend Ottawa Barber Dies

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 (CP)—Paul E. (Red) Tasse, barber to Royalty and a personal friend of two Canadian Prime Ministers, died early today.

The 62-year-old red-thatched barber, who for years handled the No. 1 chair in the barber shop of Ottawa's swank Chateau Laurier Hotel, had been ill for several months, suffering from cancer. He had retired on pension.

Tasse made news more than once because of his close friendship with the late W. L. Mackenzie King and the late Viscount Bennett. He served them as barber for years and sometimes they confided their troubles to him.

Omemee Society Holds Supper

OMEMEE, Dec. 4 (ENS)—Miss Hazel Wilson, of Peterborough, was guest speaker at the annual supper of the Omemee and District Horticultural Society.

Guests of the society were welcomed by president J. A. Bent, and the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, pastor of the church, extended a hearty welcome to all. Mr. Zufelt spoke of the supper as a highlight of the year's activities; it gave, he said, an opportunity for fellowship as well as a chance to talk shop.

The award of merit for outstanding service went this year to E. A. Corneil and was presented by district representative R. G. Heard. In his reply, Mr. Corneil told of some amusing incidents in connection with his early attempts at horticulture. He also spoke of the privileges of membership and called attention to the growth of the society to its present membership of 110. Mr. Heard announced that the district picnic would be held at Nicholls Oval, Peterborough, in June of 1951.

When introducing Miss Wilson, Mr. Bent alluded to the glowing self-sufficiency of the society. It had several within its membership, he said who could give competent advice in many lines of horticulture.

Miss Wilson outlined the extent and purpose of a tour of Western Europe which was arranged and directed by the national council of the YWCA last summer, and which she made with twenty-three other Canadian girls and two girls from Trinidad. She was pleased, she said, to share it through the pictures she had taken during her trip. These were put on the screen by Mrs. Florrie Smith, of Peterborough, while Miss Wilson explained their significance and related interesting stories in connection with them.

A vote of thanks was extended to Miss Wilson.

Belmont Plans To Plow Roads

HAVELOCK, Dec. 4 (ENS) — The main item of business at the Belmont and Methuen council at their meeting on Saturday was the removal of the snow from the roads.

On motion by Councillors Whitney and Newton it was decided to engage R. A. Blythe and Company of Toronto to do the snowploughing in the townships of Belmont and Methuen from December 20th, 1950 to March 20th, 1951, by a bulldozer of a rating equal to a T.D. International 14, with a snowplow and wing and when feasible that a truck with snowplow and wing be used. The council will pay $250 per month standing time for the three month period as stated and $6 per hour for the bulldozer while working and $5 per hour for the truck and snowplow when working. A performance bond of $750 will be placed in the hands of the treasurer as a guarantee for faithful performance of this work.

On motion by Councillors Anderson and Whitney, Robert Marshall, road superintendent was instructed to contact Marmora and Lake Townships in regard to an arrangement for snowplowing the Marmora-Belmont boundary north from Cordova.

U.S. Wolves Really Shy Says Marta Toren

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4—(AP)—Would you believe it? Marta Toren, Swedish beauty, says American wolves are really shy.

The actress is speaking of the human male wolf, not the timber variety. Her observation is part of an attempt to understand the nature of her adopted-land. She has had some trouble understanding the American temperament.

"Why do Americans think it is so important to hide their emotions?" she inquired.

"I think it is a healthy thing to show your real emotions. But whether it is in dating or in making movies, Americans seem to hide their feelings.

"Back in Sweden we do not have what you call a wolf. That is because the people have an open minded attitude about emotions. If they feel a thing, they show it. But the American wolf is really shy and uncertain. He hides his shyness by being abrupt."

No Emotions

Miss Toren had this complaint about Hollywood movies: "They are all about why people feel instead of how they feel."

"They don't show any real emotion," she explained. "They simply try to explain the reasons for emotions. In most of my pictures, I have played the femme fatale. What I would really like to do is honest love stories, such as Garbo used to do."

"Kim" falls short of expectations. Partly filmed in India, it has color and Errol Flynn. But Flynn has a secondary role and the plot tries to take in too much territory. The result is a talky film with too little action. Dean Stockwell is adept as the English orphan who poses as a native and gets into the intrigue of India, 1880. A misguided epic.

Letter Threatening Death Received By Crown Witness

QUEBEC, Dec. 5—(CP)—During an angry argument between lawyers today at the murder trial of Genereux Ruest, prosecutor Noel Dorion said a letter threatening death was received Monday by a Crown witness. The veteran prosecutor, conducting the case against the crippled watchmaker charged with murder as a result of an airline crash that killed 23, said the threat was delivered to Mrs. Paul-Emile Bergeron.

Dorion made the revelation just after the black-haired, blue-eyed 36-year-old witness told of having seen time-bomb parts—dynamite caps and powder, and a box containing an alarm clock and a dry cell battery—in Ruest's lower town apartment a few days before the crash.

An argument broke out over questions put to Mrs. Bergeron by Irenee Simard, Ruest's lawyer, about the women's personal relations with the cripple.

Mr. Dorion leaped to his feet waving in his right hand a piece of paper he described as a "letter received Monday threatening death to this witness."

When the trial adjourned at noon, Dorion said the threatening letter received by Mrs. Beregron was anonymous. He declined to discuss it further or reveal its text.

The defence lawyer told the court he was within his rights in trying to discredit the crown witness. He wanted to show Mrs. Bergeron had tried to get $300 from Ruest to conceal the birth of a child and because he had refused now wanted to "get even."

Simard said he would try to establish that this happened shortly before Mrs. Bergeron's husband was to finish a five-year penitentiary sentence and return home.

Red Unions Start Criticism Drive

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 5 (Reuters)—Russia's artde unions start a five-month self-criticism drive this month to step up armaments and general production.

According to Russian newspapers reaching here, officials and members will criticize themselves and each other during the election of the new union boards throughout the Soviet Union between now and April.

The trades union organ, Trud, says critics will complain that the unions are not getting enough out of the workers. They are, for example, failing to make the slowest man work at the pace of the fastest.

Other criticisms against the unions will be failure to organize production "competitions" among the workers—the classic way of forcing up production in Russia.

Fired By Police Commission Ex-Detective Elected Mayor

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 4—(CP)—As mayor-elect of London, Allan J. Rush today finds the path wide open to a position of authority on the police commission which fired him last summer without stating a reason.

The 43-year-old ex-detective won a decisive victory in a battle of ballots Monday over four other opponents, including Mayor George A. Wenige who sat on the commission when Rush was dismissed.

Rush, a native of Stratford, who at one time lived in Vancouver, declined comment following his election on whether he would seek to remove the cloud under which his 16-year career as a policeman came to an end.

"I want to make a good mayor—the best," he said surrounded by jubilant members of his family and friends. "If necessary I intend to go to former mayors for advice and assistance."

Not Protest

The quiet-mannered, bespectacled Rush said he did not support the view of some citizens who backed his campaign that the result was a protest by the electors against the police commission's refusal to grant him a hearing.

"My friends are using the word protest, but I am not. I conducted a clean campaign. As a police officer I always treated people the way I wanted them to treat me, and I uesss they did not forget."

He promised to co-operate with the "entire council," to resign his job in a locomotive factory and become a full-time mayor.

Mr. Wenige, the 76-year-old deposed mayor, said the people had made their choice and he accepted it.

"Now that Mr. Rush is to become a member of the police commission, let him tell the public why he was fired. No one knows better than he why he was dismissed," he said

Rush polled 12,083 votes, almost double the 6,054 polled by his closest rival, Joseph Allan Johnston, a former mayor Ray A. Dennis, another former mayor, placed third with 4,851 votes; Mr. Wenige fourth with 3,880 and Chester M. Burdick last with 140.

Chinese Reds Demand Say In Korea

Must Be Equal Party In Deliberations Indian Delegate Told

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 5—(AP)—Communist China has demanded a "full voice" in any Korean settlement, sources close to India's foreign ministry said today.

These sources said India's delegate to the United Nations, Sir Benegal N. Rau, after talks in New York with Peiping representative Wu Hsiu-chuan, reported the Chinese insistent that they participate as an equal party in deliberations on the Korean question.

Rau, these sources said, told his government that peace for Asia—and perhaps for the whole world—depends on the United Nations acceding to Peiping's demand.

The Indian delegate is reported to have advised that it is vital that the U.N. decide on the matter as soon as possible.

Wu arrived at Lake Success at the end of last month, as first representative of his government to go there. He went in answer to a Security Council invitation for a Peiping representative to participate in discussions on the Chinese Communist charge of aggression by the United States in China.

Only On Red Charges

Wu made it clear, however, that he would discuss the situation in Korea and China only in relation to the Communist charges. He would not speak on American charges that Peiping was guilty of aggression because of intervention of Chinese troops in Korea.

The Security Council has repeatedly rejected Russian demands that the Chinese Communist government be seated in the U.N. and that the representatives of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government be expelled from the organization.

The foreign ministry sources said the talks between Rau and CHINESE REDS

Icy Roads Stall London Traffic

LONDON, Dec. 5 (Reuters).—Road traffic into London was slowed to a crawl today by ice-glazed roads after the area's coldest night of the winter. Trains were running as much as 15 minutes late after Monday night's light snow froze solid.

As the temperature dipped to 31 degrees in London and 21 in Manchester, the electricity authority made big cuts in power supplies to homes and factories so that circuits would not be blown because of over-use. Many British homes are electrically heated.

Snow was seven inches deep in Northern England.

Snow continued to fall in parts of Western Europe today. The Netherlands had falls of six inches in some places. Belgium had its heaviest snow of the year on Monday.

Alleged Layng Slayer Sentenced To Death

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP).—Stanley Buckoski, wanted by Toronto police on a murder charge, was sentenced to death Monday for a Los Angeles slaying.

The 24-year-old Buckoski, also known as Frank Miller, was convicted of killing Mrs. Helen Edmunds, 82, when she surprised him last Feb. 1 in a burglary attempt here.

Judge Charles W. Fricke, who found Buckoski guilty without a jury, also pronounced the sentence of death in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber.

Toronto police want Buckoski as the alleged slayer of Alfred Layng, shot as he chased the gunman in the $1,000 holdup of a groceteria a year ago August.

Seek Phantom Thief

LONDON, Dec. 5—(Reuters)—Police today opened a wide-spread manhunt for a phantom jewel thief who they believe flies to Europe after each job and drops his loot by parachute. The thief is known as "The Wraith." In the last six months he has robbed British country homes of gems worth more than £100,000. No one has ever seen him and he never leaves clues.

Premiers Decide To Hold Secret Session

OTTAWA, Dec. 5 — (CP). — The federal-Provincial fiscal conference decided today to takes its problems behind closed doors and seek to work out solutions there.

As the last of the provincial general statements ended, Prime Minister St. Laurent suggested the conference might wish to deal in private with the two main items on its agenda— renegotiation of tax agreements with the Federal Government and steps towards greater socialy security.

The conference agreed and then adjourned at 12:25 p.m. until 3 p.m.

Mr. St. Laurent indicated that Finance Minister Abbott would elaborate on the government's fiscal proposals at the afternoon session. Then, as suggested by Premier Frost of Ontario the conference may appoint sub-committees.

There was no indication of just how long the conference will meet in private. If it follows the pattern of previous such meetings, there will be one more public session before the conference comes to a close, possibly Thursday.

Before adjourning for lunch, the delegates heard Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland warn that the new province might have to seek annexation to one of the other provinces within 10 or 15 years if it does not get fairly rapid economic development.

His province, he added, had found "most depressing" Federal statements Monday calling for a reduction of Federal and Provincial expenditures on public services and other such matters.

Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan urged that the provinces, which now can levy only direct taxes, be allowed to apply an indirect provincial sales tax as a means to bolster faltering revenues.

He suggested also that the Federal government take over responsibility for all phases of old-age pensions.

To Re-invade If Have 'Dunkerque'

Work On Agreement To Build Up Forces In Europe

LONDON, Dec. 5—(AP)—British informants reported today President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee have agreed that United Nations forces should re-invade Korea even if the Chinese Reds force them to quit in a Korean "Dunkerque."

The sources said Truman and Attlee also agreed that the United Nations should do everything possible to avoid getting into a state of open war with Communist China.

The decision was taken during the 90-minute meeting at the White House Monday, informants said.

The American and British leaders were faced with a decision whether then the United Nations should write off Korea completely. The unqualified decision was "no," the source said.

Last Resort

A United Nations withdrawal from Korea was discussed as a last resort only.

The policy is, if possible, to stabilize the military situation by getting up a defence line which Gen. MacArthur's forces can hold against Chinese Communist pressure—and then to negotiate a settlement with the Peiping authorities if possible, the source said.

Truman and Attlee were said also to have agreed to try to avoid taking any action which might touch off a war against Communist China.

Stave Off War

They ruled out, for instance, suggestions that U.N. forces in Korea bomb Manchurian bases.

Information in possession of the British government is that an attack on Manchurian bases by U.N. forces would bring Russia into the fighting, the source said. Russian-manned aircraft are believed to be based in Manchuria in some strength.

Lacking a clear picture of Red China's immediate objectives in Korea, Britain seems to be thinking along these lines:

If war with Red China cannot be avoided, Western efforts should aim at staving it off or as long as possible. They believe Red China with Russian help in air power might sweep Western forces out of Hong Kong, Indo-China, Bur-

Bookkeeper Jailed

TORONTO, Dec. 5—(CP)—Elsie Arnetta Teasdale, 33, who admitted stealing $38,000 from a law firm which employed her as bookkeeper, was sentenced today to two years less a day. Also charged is Mike Manos, 27-year-old private detective, whom Magistrate Walter W. McKeown described as "a wretched creature" who drew Miss Teasdale into crime. Manos is awaiting trial.

Red Troops Enter Pyongyang, Allies Fleeing

TOKYO, Dec. 5 (AP).—Chinese Communist troops tonight were reported entering abandoned Pyongyang respite heavy air blows that left an estimated 2,000 enemy dead on the approaches to the desolate city.

The Fifth Air Force said masses of Chinese Communists were caught in a death trap earlier in the day by swift jet fighters on the Taedong river north of the one-time North Korean capital.

The first Communist satellite capital to be wrested from Red control, Pyongyang was open for the return of its Communist masters.

Masses of Chinese Communist troops, the vanguard of more than 1,000,000 which Gen. MacArthur said had been committed to the Korean campaign, had turned the tide of battle.

In the northeast, marines and infantrymen fought to break out of a deep Communist trap clamped south of Changjin reservoir. Other Chinese masses mounted twin drives to cut off the entire 10th Corps of five divisions.

Protect Retreat

On the northwest front, British and South Korean troops in a rearguard shield protected the fleeing Eighth Army which less than two weeks ago was rolling northward within 50 miles of the Manchurian border.

There was no major contact reported with the Chinese today. The Eighth Army's retreat on wheels was too fast for the foot-slogging Chinese.

There was no indication as to where or when the Eighth Army would make a stand. AP correspondent Leif Erickson, at Eighth Army headquarters, suggested it might go all the way to the Seoul-Inchon area in South Korea, 165 road miles south of Pyongyang.

The Eighth Army faced the mounting threat of a flanking

Burrows and Herbert Young, M.D., and Norman Graham who defeated Ald. Adam Sands for the fifth vacancy in the council by 881.

The returns as announced were: H. T. Rehill, 6603; Ald. J. E. Gillespie 5673; Ald. Arthur B. Burrows 5580; Ald. Herbert Young, 5393; Norman Graham 4182. They were elected for two years.

The mayoralty vote of 9,616 was close to 50 per cent of the eligible total of slightly more than 20,000 persons on the municipal list, as compared with 36.5 per cent last year. Citizens were slow in getting into action prior to the noon hour Monday, but they must have flocked to the polls later in the afternoon.

Mayor Swanston carried 60 of the 61 polls. The exception was No. 6, one of two polls at May's School that gave Dodds 54 to Swanston's 40.

First To Report

The first voting place to report to the city hall Monday night was No. 60, Moffat's store on Monaghan Road, in Claraday Ward. It gave Swanston 37 to Dodds' 31, and clearly pointed the order in which the aldermanic candidates were likely to cross under the wire when the last figures were counted.

Mayor Swanston began piling up his majority from the outset, taking the first nine polls in a row. Ald. Dodds broke into the win column for the pall at May's School, tenth to be heard from, but all the others registered majorities in the Swanston column. It was an emphatic decision by the municipal electors in this year of Peterborough's centenary, and it is likely to give Mayor Swanston the honor of being the first Mayor to preside in the new city hall, assuming that the work is completed and the furnishings in place within the next twelve months.

Wins In Gallop

Harold Rehill went out in front of the aldermanic race, and won in "a common gallop." The first three polls gave him pluralities: Moffat's Store No. 60; Central School No. 20; and No. 12 poll at Prince of Wales School.

Ald. Burrows carried the next

Ask UN To Halt Interference Of Red Chinese

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 5 (AP)—Six countries, including the big three western powers, called upon the United Nations Assembly today to act immediately to stop Communist China's intervention in Korea.

The demand was contained in a formal memorandum filed with U.N. secretary-general Trygve Lie by the United States, Britain, France, Ecuador, Cuba and Norway. It followed Monday's request that the Chinese intervention be put before the 60-country assembly for debate.

The new document was both brief and mildly worded. It was submitted to conform to assembly rules which require an explanatory memorandum to accumpany any request for taking up new business.

It will be a basis for discussion by the 14-member steering committee which was called for this afternoon. If the steering committee gives the go ahead, the full assembly will decide whether to give the question a full airing.

Russia has no veto in the steering committee, and it is certain that six countries would not have taken these preliminary steps without assurances that the majority would rush the matter to the assembly for action.

When the Chinese question reaches the floor of that 60-member body, the sponsoring powers are expected to introduce a resolution substantially the same as the one Russia vetoed in the Security Council last week.

That draft called on the Chinese to refrain from aiding the North Korean aggressors, and promised to respect their frontiers and legitimate interests in Korea.

Train Misses 30-Ft. Plunge

MEAFORD, Dec. 5.—A derailed CNR passenger train missed by a few inches Monday a 30-foot plunge into the freshet-swollen Big Head River.

The locomotive jumped the rails as it rounded the last bend into Meaford station. More than 40 feet of rails and road-bed were ripped up.

Had the engine continued a few seconds longer, witnesses said, it would have toppled down the steep embankment, pulling several passenger cars with it. Trainmen said the soft ground helped stall the momentum.

Truman Charges Chinese Doing Best Provoke War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP).—President Truman said today the leaders of Communist China have deliberately confronted the world with "the grave risk of general conflict."

"We are struggling to preserve our own liberty as a nation," the President said. To meet the threat posed by Communist imperialism the United States must enlist "the combined resources and the common determination of the free world."

The big-scale Chinese Red intervention in the North Korea fighting, Truman said, is just "one part" of the Communist scheming to "dominate the world."

The President, speaking between momentous conferences with Prime Minister Clement Attlee on means of avoiding a new world war, said in a speech for a meeting of the mid-century conference on children and youth:

"All of us are aware of the grave risk of general conflict which has been deliberately caused by the Chinese Communist leaders. Their action greatly changes the immediate situation with which we are confronted. It does not change our fundamental purpose to work for the cause of a just and peaceful world."

The United States will remain firm in its resolve to work through the United Nations in the hope of building "a world order based on freedom and justice," Truman said, and he added:

"That is the only way out of an endless circle of force and retaliation, violence and war — which will carry the human race back to the dark ages if it is not stopped."

Waterman Ousts Johnston In N. Monaghan

After a 12-year term as reeve of North Monaghan township, Melville Johnston was decisively defeated Monday by Willard G. Waterman, former councillor and deputy reeve, 205 to 120. Mr. Waterman's majority was 85 votes.

Three of the 1950 council were returned along with Fred Stenson, a trustee in 1950 who made his successful bid for council this year. Altogether there were 13 candidates—two for reeve, six for the four offices of councillor and five for the five trustee posts.

Mr. Johnston has been 18 years in North Monaghan politics and is now completing his 12th term as reeve. During his reeveship he has had to face only three elections, and this is his first loss. Mr. Waterman was defeated in his bid three years ago.

The three 1950 councillors returned were Walter Brown, who headed the poll with 225 votes; Lloyd Whittington 210, and Archibald Patterson 153. In third place was Mr. Stenson, a newcomer, with 208.

James S. Roberts, a councillor last year, was last with 101.

Heads Trustee Poll

Courtland Lillico headed the trustee poll with 100 votes. He was followed by Clarence Laing with 98, and Elwood Johnston with 91.

Nelson Parrington, a 1950 trustee, and Howard Berry, were defeated.

The other two trustees on School Area No. 2, — neither of whom were up for election this year—are Henry Batten and George Whitfield.

The four trustees for School Area No. 1—returned by acclamation—are Ernest Horton, Elwood Thompson, Herbert Hewitt and Charles Ross. And the fifth trustee, not up for election this year, is Eric Johnston.

Trading At Standstill On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Dec. 5 (CP). — Trading slowed almost to a standstill as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Following Monday's sharp drop prices opened firm and then climbed higher.

Industrial advances ranged to more than $1. Papers, steels, agricultures, liquors and banks showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Constructions were lower and the rest of the board tended mixed.

Base metals advanced over a broad front with gains up to 75 cents. Hudson Bay and Consolidated Smelters went against the trend for 50-cent losses.

Western oils brightened with small gains. Senior golds gained fractions while junior producers firmed quietly.

Chiang Offers Troops To Aid UN In Korea

TAIPEI, Formosa, Dec. 5 (CP) —Chiang Kai-shek warned today that if the Korean question is settled by "another Munich," war may break out at any time. He pledged Nationalist China's full support towards averting it.

Chiang told a specially-summoned press conference that he stands by his earlier offer to send troops to Korea, declaring "if the commander-in-chief of the UN forces is given full authority in strategy and this calls for military support, we shall certainly give it."

In a written statement, Chiang said that any major decision at the Truman-Attlee conference in Washington would have to be translated into action through the United Nations.

Both council and trustees were returned by acclamation.

Following is the 1951 municipal slate for Otonabee: Dick Stewart, reeve; Dave McIntyre, deputy reeve; Councillors, Norman McConkey, William Chambers and Peter Mather; Trustees Wellington Sutton and Frank Savigny.

Wu were "extremely cordial" but added that the question of Red China's participation in any decision on Korea must be solved before details of a possible peace settlement could be considered.

The reports said Wu emphasized to the Indian delegate that China is directly concerned in a Korean settlement, claiming his country has a long history of close relations with her neighbor.

Prime Minister Nehru is calling the signals for the Indian delegation to the United Nations through close contact with Rau, but official sources said it is unlikely he will take personal action at this end, unless there is a complete breakdown in the New York talks.

November Was Wetter, Colder

More than twice the rain and snow fell this November as fell a year ago. James Harrison, Peterborough weather recorder, reports that the total precipitation was 3.89 inches this November compared with 1.57 in 1949. (An inch of snow is estimated to be one-tenth of an inch of rain).

Here are the figures: November 1950—2.6 inches of rain and 12.5 inches of snow, the equivalent of 3.89 inches of rain; November 1949—.64 inches of rain and 9.25 inches of snow, the equivalent of 1.57 inches of rain.

It was also 10 degrees colder last year. Here are the statistics: November 1950: maximum temp. —75 degrees on Nov. 1; minimum —14 degrees on Nov. 22; average —36.7 degrees. November 1949—maximum—59 on the 10th; minimum—12 below zero on the 25th; average 26.6 degrees.

ma, Formosa and make Japan almost untenable.

That, the informant noted, is looking at things at their worst.

A more optimistic view is that the Peiping government may show a disposition to negotiate when its forces reach the 38th Parallel. Britain would then favor peace talks primarily because the only other immediate course open would be to keep on fighting.

Another Factor

A factor in British thinking is that the Russians might use the same technique employed in Korea by the Peiping government if U.N. forces got bogged down in a war with Red China—the technique of sending "volunteers."

A situation could then develop in which the Western powers would be making a major military effort in the Far East, leaving a weak Europe at the mercy of Russia's Western armies.

British officials estimate Russia has something like 40 mobile, well-equipped divisions scattered along her Asiatic front.

Build Up Forces

In Washington, Truman and Attlee today were reported working toward an agreement that the west must build up heavy military forces in Europe with all possible speed to offset reverses in Korea.

Some word of the progress of their talks, which opened here Monday, was possible from Truman today. He was to address a White House conference on children and youth (at 10.15 a.m. EST).

The president was to meet the British prime minister at lunch, before holding their second session with their advisers.

Truman and Attlee opened their conference Monday in the cabinet room of the White House executive offices less than seven hours after the British leader arrived here from London. They were flanked by diplomatic and military policy makers and aides.

Truman opened the session by asking Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, to report on the military situation in Korea and the Far East.

Grave Situation

Bradley is understood to have stressed the extreme gravity of the plight of Gen. MacArthur' United Nations forces under massive attacks by Chinese Communist troops. MacArthur estimated Monday that they number 1,000,000 in Korea or en route there. From this it appeared uncertain whether a new UN defence line can be established and held.

A joint statement issued after the White House session apparently was designed to counter reports of sharp Anglo-American differences over Korea and Communist China. In effect it predicted that Truman and the prime minister would conelude their talks with solid understanding on major issues.

No Change In Dollar

MONTREAL, Dec. 5 — (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 4 13/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Monday's close. That is, it took $1.04 13/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93½ also unchanged.

Charter Meeting Of Historical Society Tonight

Charter meeting of the Peterborough and District Historical Society will take place at the Public Library tonight.

An organization meeting was held October 12 when a temporary committee was nominated to plan the charter meeting. Since then the committee met and have arranged the agenda for tonight.

Main event of the charter meeting will be the election of officers. However as an interesting sidelight arrangements have been made for several people interested in local history to give short addresses composed of historical anecdotes.

Starting Point

As pointed out by William Graff at the organization meeting in October the society will have four fields of activity that will provide a starting point. First and most important will be the collecting and labelling of historical material, and the proper use of this material.

Another important field will be the preservation of historical sites and finally promotion and publicity to acquaint the community with its history.

The organization committee has drawn up a list of candidates for tonight's election.

move by Chinese swarming down the rugged and lightly-defended centre of the Korean peninsula.

Air Force Active

Allied airmen reported hammering a 2,000-man concentration of Red Chinese Tuesday afternoon at Koksan, 50 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

Eighth Army headquarters said this force posted a potential enveloping threat to Allied troops in the area. The Chinese force was only 35 miles from the retreat route of the Eighth Army.

Guerrillas mounted harassing attacks for another 50 miles south of Koksan.

MacArthur's headquarters said guerrillas had stepped up attacks so sharply that it was impossible to fix the forward line of the Chinese advance.

But the Chinese were rolling southward all across the Korean peninsula.

Air observers reported a rising tempo in both rail and road movement of Red troops from the Manchurian border.

Long Convoy

One 30-mile-long convoy was signted moving toward Changjin reservoir in north central Korea. A spokesman estimated this convoy probably was carrying two Chinese divisions — up to 20,000 troops—toward the area where 1st Division marines and 7th Division dough boys are trapped.

Night flying B-26 light bombers hammered at the long enemy convoy which wound steadily south with lights blazing.

The Fifth Air Force said its planes were making a death trap of the Taedong River north of Pyongyang.

Maj.-Gen. Earle E. Partridge, Fifth Air Force commander, said F-80 Shooting Star jets caught masses of Chinese trying to ford the river Tuesday and killed 2,000.

Bomb Pyongyang

U.S. planes hit the devastated rail yards at Pyongyang, rocketing and fire-bombing supplies the Eighth Army had left behind, and struck a Red ammunition train near there.

B-29 Superforts bombed the Kanggye area, an avenue for Chinese forces swarming into Korea and reported centre of the Red Korean nigh command.

As U.N. troops left Pyongyang, terrified Korean civilians also abandoned the city.

They waded the icy Taedong River, crawled across the spans of shattered bridges, or crowded into small boats. They were mainly a mute and miserable horde, chilled and hungry. Infants wailed on the backs of their mothers. Older children trudged stoically alongside their parents and the aged. All were going south—most knew not where—but away from the Chinese Reds and the Korean Communists.

Northumberland Fusiliers of the rearguard Commonwealth 29th Brigade blew the last two bridges across the Taedong at Pyongyang.

Then they moved south with the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders and Middlesex Regiments of the Commonwealth 27th Brigade and some South Korean units.

The city then was left as prey for the Red wave from the north.

Air observers Tuesday reported the Chinese already had swept over the Pyongyang airfield east of the city proper.

The situation in the northeast appeared to be even more dangerous for the Allies.

LAKELAND, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP). —Nearly $20,000,000 damage was inflicted on Florida's winter crops by the late-November cold wave, the federal-state frost-warning service said yesterday. Protection to crops by heating and other methods saved millions in additional losses.

Toe Blake's Father Dies In Sudbury

SUDBURY, Dec. 5—(CP)—Wilmer Blake, 77, father of Hector (Toe) Blake, one of the National Hockey League's all-time hockey greats, died in hospital here Monday.

A native of Angers, Que., and a resident of the Sudbury district since 1901, Mr. Blake was employed as craneman at Victoria Mine for the Mond Nickel Company until 1913 when he was transferred to Coniston, eight miles east of here, where the Blake family lived. He worked as a locomotive engineer there until retiring in 1941.

Surviving besides his widow are seven sons and four daughters.

Tie In Harvey Brings Recount

A recount will be necessary in Harvey township to decide whether Kenneth Junkin or Kenneth Hunt is to be fourth councillor. Both men polled 170 votes.

The other three councillors who were elected Monday were Tom Gordon, who headed the polls with 194 votes; Charles Johnston with 179 and James Irwin with 178.

Mrs. Bruce Hall of Buckhorn, township clerk and returning officer, has sealed the ballot boxes and will bring them to Peterborough for a recount before Judge S. L. Smoke, county judge. If the tie remains she will have to cast the deciding vote.

The 1951 reeve for Harvey is Charles Flynn who succeeds Gale Elliott, reeve for the last two years. Mr. Elliott defeated Mr. Flynn in a hot election in 1948. He was returned by acclamation in 1949 and 1950 but did not stand this year.

UN Flag Flies At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5 (ENS)—A newly-acquired United Nations flag now flies proudly between the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes on the stage of the parish hall where the Campbellford Rotary Club holds its weekly meetings.

Rev. John McKibbon of Christ Church gave the dedication address at the Monday meeting of the Campbellford Club.

"The history of man's symbols is the history of man's progress through the centuries," he said. The traditions of the new symbol are still in the making, and the job of making these traditions is entrusted to us all.

"We must strive to bring the world together spiritually, so that we can have everlasting peace," said Rev. McKibbon, so that new generations will be stirred when they see the U.N. banner, and think of all it stands for.

He said there was a need for a deeper dedication. We must dedicate ourselves as men and as Rotarians to uphold all the banner stands for.

President A. K. Loucks thanked the speaker for his dedication address.

The flag was secured through the International Service Committee, of which Rotarian Bert Taylor is in charge.

Plan To Place In Campbellford New Street Signs

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5 — (ENS)—Contracts for a complete house numbering system and also for a supply of new metal street signs were let at the regular December meeting of the Campbellford council held on Monday night. The Roofer's Supply Company represented by Mr. J. Holt were given an order for 80 sign units at a cost of $10.15 each. These will be mounted on steel posts which council will procure elsewhere. The signs are of a modern type now in use in the larger centers.

An order was also placed for a complete system of house numbering. All the council members, with the exception of Councillor Douglas Maybee, were in favor of the new signs and house numbers.

The complete job of placing signs and house numbers will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000.

An order was also placed for a new seven-foot snow plow to be used on the new town truck. The cost of the plow is $1,442 installed in Toronto with fully automatic hydraulic controls.

Ask For Repeal

A petition from the independent garage operators was presented requesting the council to repeal bylaws number 1597 and 1592. These by-laws were passed some time ago and restricted the hours of gasoline outlets within the corporation. A case against one independent operator is now pending.

Wesley Sweet, one of the independent operators addressed council and said sufficient names were attached to the petition to warrant the repeal, if council so desired. T. E. Hall, another independent operator quoted from the Factory, Shop and Building Act where it stated council had the authority to repeal the law.

Councillor Nicholas moved the bylaw be repealed, which appeared to meet with the favor of the council, but Councillor W. A. Kingston reminded members of the legal aspect of the case, whereby the defending lawyer in the lawsuit against bylaw 1597, stated that the bylaw was not legal and therefore was not a valid bylaw. Therefore council would be repealing a bylaw that does not exist. The matter was turned over to the legal advisor before further action is taken.

Bylaws providing for the appointment of two members to the new high school area board will be passed at the next meeting.

The sum of $3,000 for sidewalks and $5,000 for road improvement was earmarked for next year's budget, on approval of the municipal board. This money was voted out of this year's surplus, and it was felt that the money would be best spent in this manner, and still provide for a lower tax rate next year if at all possible.

Guy Ferrill was granted a license to operate an automobile wrecking yard on his property on Front St. north.

The bylaw to provide pensions for town employees was given its third reading.

A bylaw providing for the election of officers for the coming year was passed, polling places in the four wards chosen, poll clerks and returning officers were named.

The next council meeting will be held on December 18, with nomination day set for December 22.

Finished Lumber is sorted and piled for drying

The sawn, edged and trimmed lumber now drops down to the boardway for specie, width and thickness on to wagons. It is then hauled to the piling ground for drying.

★ ★ ★

The processing of the log to lumber is done on the top floor of the mill. All of the engines and shafting are on the ground floor. Freshly sawn lumber is also piled on "Jacks" and rolled on to truck platforms. This is hauled direct to our Peterborough Yard and piled for drying prior to using. This reduces double piling when drying space is available. Lumber can be seen leaving the trimmers to come down to the boardway.

Good And Lively Voting

Yesterday's voting in the city was finely characteristic of Peterborough. It was a tempered vote, a middle course between a clean sweep (for which there had been some loud shouts) and the same old broom. The voters showed an overwhelming preference for the tried administration of Mayor Max Swanston. They gave their largest vote to a newcomer to the Council table, Mr. Harold T. Rehill, and also elected another newcomer, Mr. Norman Graham, but reaffirmed their confidence in three present aldermen, Mr. James Gillespie, Mr. Arthur Burrows and Dr. Herbert Young. The two present members of the Board of Education seeking re-election were successful, and Mr. Gordon reappears with popular approval. Mrs. Kathleen Bell, running for office for the first time, was given a large vote. The Collegiate by-law was accepted, the hospital by-law was rejected.

* * *

We congratulate Mayor Swanston on his return to office by a two-to-one vote. Alderman Hurrell Dodds now drops out of municipal office completely. He has served the city vigorously for six years as alderman and made a forceful impression on civic life during that time. Alderman Sands also disappears from the council table after a decade of service. His rejection at yesterday's polls is by no means a mark of ingratitude for that service he has given. In general the voting showed that the citizenry believe that all sections and categories of people can be well served by candidates who are themselves not sectional or supported by this or that special group: labour, Legion or ladies.

* * *

Strong confidence was expressed in the Board of Education and its plans. The acceptance of the $585,000 by-law to build a new Collegiate was a tribute to the care with which the Board has assessed the need and made its plans, and to the ratepayers' magnanimous concern for the good schooling of Peterborough children.

* * *

The $300,000 additional hospital by-law has been defeated. The ratepayers, in the last three years so generous in their support of hospital plans, expressed their irritation if not their disapproval of the working out of the financial arrangements for the new Civic Hospital, completed except for roads, sewers and kindred matters. The Council and hospital authorities now have a problem to face, for some of the expected $300,000 was spent even before the bylaw was proposed.

* * *

The mayoral contest and the by-laws were sufficiently important to draw a heavy vote; the work of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Women's Civic Affairs study group undoubtedly stimulated it. In the elections for mayor and aldermen 20,196 were entitled to vote. Actually 9,610 cast their ballots, a percentage of 47.5. The vote for aldermen last year was only 36.5 per cent. This is a significant increase. The liveliness of the by-law questions was shown by the voting: 9,177 ratepayers were entitled to cast ballots on them, and 5,858 did on the Collegiate by-law, 5,820 on the hospital by-law; or nearly 64 per cent. This was a brave showing.

All in all, Peterborough can congratulate itself on its good sense and democratic display at the polls.

Rebuking The Slackers

There is really nothing to do but gape in amazement when the Washington Times-Herald refers to the British and French nations of the world as "slacker empires". This is what it said: "In a fateful moment of American history, with the Korean front failing apart and our army in retreat, the United States turns to the United Nations and to its nominal allies, and there finds NO support. At the very moment that the Red onslaught has developed its surprise fury, Britain and France, the slacker empires, prove their utter undependability as Allies . . . . they are at the old futile game of appeasement . . . "

Ah well, rookies in world politics are just as noisy and know-it-all as rookies in anything else. This is the first time that the U.S.A. has been first to get mixed up in what may be an important fight, and it has gone to their heads.

They were cautious enough—not slack, for we do not use that word of Allies—in the First Great War. It was in 1917 before they made a move, and we have seen that war dated 1917-18 in American writings. They maintained their neutrality then, even though the Lusitania, with great numbers of Americans aboard, was sunk. And in the Second World War they did not get into action until after Pearl Harbour. In those two wars, they enjoyed about 1800 days of neutrality, during which the slacker empires did the dirty work.

We wish we were the editor of the Washington Times-Herald. What exciting editorials we could write if we had no memory, no knowledge of history, and no gratitude!

What Stand Will The U.S.A. Now Take In Korea?

When the United States intervened in Korea on behalf of the South Korean Republic it took a calculated risk. It assumed that Russia's re-armament program, like the American, was only getting under way, and that the Russians had too great a dread of the American stock-pile of atomic bombs to risk war. The Korean war could be contained; that was the gamble.

The calculations seemed correct until a fortnight ago. As the Korean war went on into months, with mounting success for American and U.N. arms, the risk seemed to lessen. In fact, the western and South Korean troops crossed the 38th parallel between South and North—it was a moment which this newspaper and many others anticipated with some dread—without a raised Russian or Chinese Red arm. But last week, at the very border of Manchuria and the apparent close of a successful campaign, came full-scale Chinese eruption into the Korean war. Nearly a million men of the Chinese Red army are pouring into Korea. This has challenged the whole underlying assumption on which American policy has been based. And it is threatening the American-U.N. hold in South as well as North Korea. Why have the Communists taken, at this late stage of the Korean war, the risk of major war?

It must now be assumed that they are not as fearful either of global war or of the atomic bomb as the Americans believed. The Chinese Reds onslaught in Korea has already shown that the Chinese leaders have a total disregard for the lives of their soldiers, and may not be very much concerned if civilian cities and villages are wiped out. And the Chinese armies are proving that now is not a late stage in the Korean War. They are showing up strongly enough to prove that the timing of their entry into Korea is not important to them. They have the power to enter when they want to.

American and U.N. policy in Korea must be re-assessed in view of these facts. The reassessment must not be made by generals in the field—by General MacArthur, for instance. It is for foreign offices, U.N. Councils and the heads of states. In support of the generals it must be said that the American military had not originally proposed intervention in Korea; in fact, the General Staff had written off Korea as untenable. The decision to go to the aid of the South Koreans was political, not military. Now the armies are committed, and at this moment the American general staff if being proved right in its belief that the Korean peninsula is indefensible against total Russian and Chinese attack.

Can a way be found to prevent total war, to settle the Korean issue without further extension of hostilities, and at the same time to preserve Western and U.N. principles and interests? Mr. Acheson has said: "No one can guarantee that war will not come. The present crisis is extremely serious. Whether reason will prevail is only partly for us to decide. We must hope and strive for the best while we prepare for the worst". Thus indirectly Mr. Acheson has conceded that the decision between war and peace, though it rests mainly with the Eastern aggressors, is "partly" dependent on the American attitude and decisions.

Prime Minister Attlee has now begun his conferences with President Truman. There is hope that reason will prevail, and some of that reasonableness must be forthcoming from the U.S.A. Britain, whose long experience in dealing with red-hot international situations should be studied with respect by the U.S.A., is taking the stand that U.N. (and American) objectives in Korea should be limited and that nothing should be done to bring the western world into conflict with China. The western world is not ready for a two-front war. It is better to withdraw from North Korea than to be kicked out of all Korea and involved in a major war at the same time.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is good news that beer may once more be bought by the keg in Ontario. Nothing makes a handier seat in the furnace room than an empty keg.

The New York World-Telegram shrieks that in the present Eastern Crisis British leaders are showing very little chin. As contrasted with the USA, which has shown a startling lack of forehead.

Paradox, Uncertainty At Lake Success

By KENNETH HARRIS
(In New York)

ON the face of it the situation at Lake Success is paradoxical. When asked "What is the U.N. going to do in Korea" delegates point out that the answer must come from their Governments. On the other hand Governments have their eyes turned anxiously to the U.N. where, sitting at the Security Council table, are the only accessible representatives of the Chinese Communist Government.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN delegates say that the matter rests with their Governments they mean that although the pattern of U.N. procedure in Korea is already clear, whether that procedure will have any effect depends on whether their Governments are prepared to enforce it. The resolution of November 10 calls upon the Chinese Communists to withdraw their forces from North Korea and assures them that the Manchurian frontier shall be respected. Vetoed by the Soviet Union in the Security Council, this resolution can be put up to the General Assembly, which by virtue of powers assumed last month can recommend member nations to enforce it.

✧ ✧ ✧

NO major Power will want to enforce this resolution with all its terrible implications until it is convinced there is no alternative. On the other hand, to vote for this resolution and then to refrain from enforcing it would be to put the United Nations on the fatal path taken by the League of Nations.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN this situation, obviously, governments must proceed with the gravest deliberation. That their eyes should be riveted on Lake Success, where their delegations are working like beavers to sound the Communist representatives, is equally obvious. The only chance of avoiding the passing and carrying out of the resolution on the one hand, and of "backing down" on the other, is to find some common ground between the Chinese Communists and the United Nations.

✧ ✧ ✧

SO far these efforts have not succeeded. Mr. Wu's (Head of Peking Government's delegation at Lake Success) one speech has been completely uncompromising. Roughly he has said: "Get out or there will be war". Delegations are still trying to hold behind-the-scenes talks with him to find out if this is the Peking regime's one and only contribution.

✧ ✧ ✧

SO far only the Russians can get near Mr. Wu. Nobody else knows whether he has any powers to negotiate, whether he is sending reports back home, or whether his instructions are to say his piece and keep saying it until he is recalled.

✧ ✧ ✧

SOME delegations are pessimistic. They point to the uncompromising tone and content of Mr. Wu's speech and his refusal to see U.N. activities in Korea as anything but American aggression. What, they ask, can Britain and the U.S. say which they have not already said. Others, including the Indian delegation, consider that Mr. Wu may have pitched his speech "high" knowing that it is easy to come down in diplomatic bargaining but impossible to get up.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHY did he come at all if this was all he had to say another delegation is asking. If the Chinese Communists distrust the U.N. it is only natural that their representative should test U.N. claims to be a patient, fair and above all peace-desiring organization. This is nothing to do with "appeacement". In our attempt to avoid what may be an unnecessary as well as irrevocable clash we are yielding to the Communist representatives only time, patience and the right to state their case. This is not appeasement but basic U.N. policy.

✧ ✧ ✧

MEANWHILE, one of the most striking features of the proceedings this week is the change in attitude taken by the U.S. It is not so much a change in policy—the U.S. is irrevocably committed to U.N. principles—but a change in the tone and manner of presenting it. Two weeks ago Mr. Austin (U.S. delegate to the U.N.) spoke like a man who had already formed his conclusions on the subject, was convinced that there was nothing to be said for the other side, and was ready to condemn. How he sounds like a man, who, though seeing the same things, sees them in a different perspective. It is unlikely that he would again ask for the Chinese Communists to be "summoned".

✧ ✧ ✧

NOT that there is any hint of appeasement in his tone. It is just that, chilled perhaps by the new gravity of the situation, he seems to have "simmered down".

Why? Why? Why?

(Midland Free Press Herald)

Rule G of the North American railways makes it an offence for any employee to drink while on duty. Yet trains run on steel rails.

Aeroplane companies forbid pilots to fly within 24 hours of taking an alocholic drink. Yet co-pilots are available to take over the controls in case of emergency.

Canadian automobile drivers, with nothing to guide their course and no co-drivers, are legally free to drink and drive.

No one is allowed to take charge of a railway locomotive without years of experience and training.

No one is permitted to pilot a passenger plane without a thorough and arduous series of examinations and hundreds of hours of flying experience.

An automobile driver's licence can be sesured in Canada following a most casual examination or, in some provinces, by merely sending a dollar or two through the mail.

Yet, while railway engineers and aeroplane pilots are forbidden to drink and drive, there is no similar restriction on a car driver.

Traffic on the railways is regulated by persons other than the locomotive engineers.

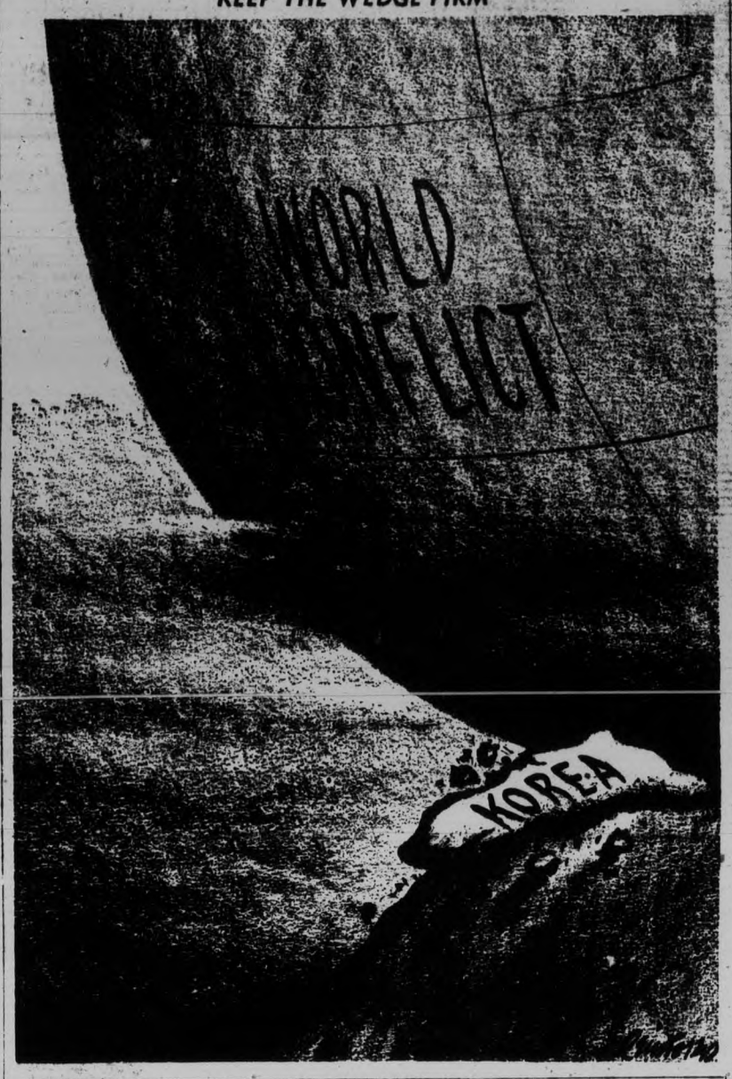
Traffic on the airways is regulated by persons other than the pilots.

Traffic on the highways is almost entirely controlled by individual car drivers.

Yet a railway engineer and a pilot cannot drink and drive, but a car operator can.

Why?

KEEP THE WEDGE FIRM



Speak for Freedom

(PROFESSOR A. R. M. LOWER IN THE WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

I THINK of democracy as a society which manages to keep free and at the same time incorporates a considerable measure of social justice. Our Canadian democracy has a commendable regard for social justice but it is, I think, weak in its concern for freedom, partly for the reason that this has been such a large, loose-jointed country, one in which so few have been able to comprehend the body politic as a whole.

Contrast England, the crowded island where "you have to stand up for your rights." Contrast the United States where national freedom was fought for and where national freedom was transmuted into individual conceptions of freedom. Canada has had few trumpet calls to liberty: she has been a protected child.

The result is that it is easy for authorities to invade liberty. Canadians are docile. In such a country power will easily and swiftly drift to those who exercise it. This drift of power suggests the query: Who does exercise power in Canada? Not the average M.P. Possibly not even the average Cabinet Minister.

Who writes our legislation? Who decides what taxes are to take our money away from us? Who makes our tariff? Who decides the line we take at the United Nations? Who controls the Mounted Police? (The Mounted Police pretty well control themselves.)

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is hard to say where public policy comes from. Sometimes it may come from Ministers. More often, it is to be suspected, it originates with senior civil servants, to whom many Ministers are a step down in intellectual ability and several steps down in education.

Wherever the exercise of power is, it is not very directly or very often in the people of Canada. Of course, every now and then, the people may vote out a government. This privilege of changing our apparent masters seems the best guarantee we have so far stumbled on for freedom, but, given the increasing centralization of power behind the apparent masters, its effectiveness tends to decrease.

What then can be done? Well, we can "leave it to George," as most people in practice do. This is what the trade unionist did until he woke up and discovered he was drifting into the clutches of "the Commies"; when he very creditably cleaned house.

We could take seriously writing letters to the editor, but I know we won't—the Canadian people are not literate enough for that. We could write to and otherwise badger our M.P.'s. I do not know how much of this is done but I hope there will be more.

We can organize pressure groups, the more the better. A "League of Protesters" would be a useful group—people who would undertake to write letters, organize meetings, circulate petitions, on all manner of subjects from failure to fix holes in the roads to Bills of Rights.

This country needs more people who will assert themselves, fewer conformists, more stubborn non-conformists: blessed is the man who makes public scenes to get his private rights.

✧ ✧ ✧

FINALLY, we can demand legal guarantees. We have now reached the point in our national existence where a restatement of the political faith is needed. The faith of freedom has been proclaimed across the centuries in great documents such as the English Bill of Rights and the U.S. Declaration of Independence.

We Canadians need the faith restated for us, in our own words. I think of no more suitable vehicle for the faith of freedom than a Bill of Rights appended to an amended Constitution.

There is little prospect of a great prophetic voice coming out of Ottawa, as Churchill's came out of England: the next best thing is a constitutional statement, something of the same moral authority as a text of Holy Writ and at times a law that the courts will enforce.

But don't think that Premiers and Ministers in conference assembled will give it to us. We cannot expect from them much beyond the expediency of the moment: the great fundamentals must grow out of the pressure of informed opinion.

When the pressure becomes great enough, Ministers will decide that they have been thinking that way all the time and translate public pressure into legislative language. Get out and press.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ahaziah the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned two years over Israel. And he did evil in the sight of the Lord, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin. (I Kings 22: 51, 52.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And Ahaziah fell down through a lattice in his upper chamber that was in Samaria, and was sick: and he sent messengers, and said unto them, Go, enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron whether I shall recover of this disease. But the angel of the Lord said to Elijah the Tishbite, Arise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria, and say unto them, Is it not because there is not a God in Israel, that ye go to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron? Now therefore thus saith the Lord, Thou shalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die. And Elijah departed. (II Kings 1: 2-4.)

He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death. (Ps. 68: 20.)

And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; and continued his speech until midnight. And there were many lights in the upper chamber, where they were gathered together. And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

And Paul went down, and fell on him, and embracing him, said, Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him.

When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed. And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted. (Acts 20: 7-12.)

Unconsidered Trifles

On the suburban train, Jenkins had just finished reading a long letter he had received that day from his old home town. Mellowed by the happy memories it conjured up, he turned to the morose stranger beside him and genially remarked, "Did you ever get a letter that brought back visions of the past?"

Stark misery stared out of the other's eyes.

"Have I?" the man cried. "Only today I got one from the Government telling me I still owed them $1,500 on my 1944 income tax!"

"It's a dreadful thought—but at £500 a head to train a conscript you let run out at £3,000 a year."

Dismiss Charge Against Woman

TORONTO, Dec. 5 — (CP). — Magistrate Walter W. McKeown Monday dismissed charges that Mrs. H. E. Taylor, owner of Canadian Health Aids Company, advertised apple cider vinegar and crude black molasses as treatments for obesity, gallstones, heart disease and high blood pressure.

Mrs. Taylor was charged under the Food and Drug Act, which says an advertisement constitutes "any representation made by any means whatsoever directly or indirectly for the purpose of promoting the sale of any food or drug." It lists a number of diseases for which treatment may not be advertised, since, medical authorities say, no cures exist.

Two inspectors of the Federal Health Department said they seized vinegar, molasses and pamphlets in Mrs. Taylor's Toronto store. The pamphlets, offered free of charge, said that Cyril Scott, a British pianist, "advises" apple cider vinegar for obesity and recommends that persons suffering from gallstones, heart disease, and high blood pressure "try" crude black molasses.

Magistrate McKeown, in dismissing the charge, said neither "advises" nor "try" is synonymous with "treatment."

Charges Lack Of Unity Endangering U.S.

TORONTO, Dec. 5 — (CP). — The president of the National Canners Association of the United States said Monday that Americans, because they treat politics as they would baseball or football—"we want our side to win" — have endangeded US unity.

Henry P. Taylor, of Walkerton, Va., told the annual convention of the Canned Foods Association of Ontario:

"In politics, we want our side to win regardless of any other consideratioin. As a result, our politicians do not seek to compose their differences or to reach a settlement which will serve the essential ends of justicee and the public good, but they attempt to exploit every possible technical advantage to muddle the issue.

"The most important result of all this is a lack of national unity. But there are indications that the US is becoming united in the face of dangerous world events."

TORONTO, Dec. 5 — (CP). — Ralph E. Morden, 42, of Wellington, was trapped 20 minutes in his automobile on Monday after it went out of control on the Queen Elizabeth Highway just west of here and crashed into a tree. He suffered a fractured hip and facial cuts.

Men who worked with fire axes, hammers and chisels to free him included R. W. Rees of Niagara Falls, Ont., and T. Leslie of London.

Constable Stewart Brown of the Ontario Provincial Police said the impact pushed the steering wheel and post of Morden's car against the windshield and drove the front seat forward, so that Morden could not move.

Acquit Driver Drunk Driving

Lloyd Dafoe, who lives about six miles east of Havelock, was found not guilty in police court Monday of charge of drunken driving.

Provincial Constable Donald Erskine told the court that Nov. 24 he had gone to a house suspected of selling beer illegally. As he was driving the cruiser out the laneway from the farm house to Highway 7, he saw a car approach and turn into the laneway.

He went to the car to check it and asked Dafoe to get out. He said Dafoe was unsteady on his feet and he asked him to walk a short distance up the lane. He was unsteady as he walked, the constable said.

Constable Erskine testified Dafoe told him "There was nothing I could do about it because he had too much drag."

Constable Erskine said he had heard similar statement many times.

Havelock's Chief Constable Bay M. Bell, who was with Constable Erskine, said Dafoe staggered continually whenever he walked from the time he was arrested until he was put into the county goal in Peterborough.

Joseph Hill, Belmont township, said he had been with Dafoe all afternoon and evening. They both had only three pints of beer in a hotel in Stoco near Tweed.

"You usually have something to drink in your home, don't you?" Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked.

"At the time I didn't, although I usually do," Hill answered.

Dafoe testified the only reason his walking might not have been normal was that he was stiff from having been driving a long time.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said there was no question in his mind that Dafoe was staggering, no evidence that his driving had been unusual, he gave Dafoe the but on the point that there was benefit of the doubt and dismissed the charge.

PUBLIC COOPERATION VITAL IN INFLATION FIGHT-B. C. GARDNER

Bank of Montreal President Reviews Anti-Inflation Responsibilities of Business, Public and Government—Strong Action Needed

GORDON BALL, GENERAL MANAGER, ADVISES CLOSE SCRUTINY BY BUSINESS OF INVENTORIES, CREDIT EXTENSION, PLANT EXPANSION IN RELATION TO CAPITAL RESOURCES

Montreal, Dec. 4—While 1950 has been a year of continued progress in Canada's business and industrial life, inflationary pressures of growing proportions are becoming a matter of grave concern, according to B. C. Garner, president of the Bank of Montreal, who addressed the bank's shareholders at their 133rd annual meeting today. The solution, he said, lies not alone in the hands of government, but in the conduct of businessmen and of the public as well. He maintained that Canada's defence program should not be regarded as a "business as usual" project, and advocated a "pay-as-you-go" policy for government.

The bank's 1950 operations were reviewed by Gordon R. Ball, general manager, who reported resources at the year-end of $2,190,000,000. This was a record figure for an annual report, as was also the amount for deposits —$2,063,000,000. Savings and current accounts, he said, now totalled more than 1,800,000 in Canada—and increase of over half-a-million in the past six years.

Quick assets, with investment holdings of more than a billion dollars, were reported at $1,602,000,000—an amount equal to 76.2 per cent of all the bank's liabilities to the public. Current loans, at the record year-end figure of $528,000,000, were up $41 million over the year.

Reasoned Confidence

Summing up the 1950 economic picture in Canada, Mr. Gardner said that the year's developments "have once again confirmed the views of those, at home and abroad, who have maintained a reasoned confidence in the Canadian business outlook and in this country's impressive long-run potentialities".

But there were shadows across the picture, too, the president said. "We live today in an eerie twilight, not between peace and war but between cold war and an all-out struggle," he commented. "Even while we long for peace and work for peace we must meet the exigencies of the present moment and, as best we may, prepare for what the future may bring."

The claims of the increased defence program upon man-power and materials, Mr. Gardner said, had come when civilian demand for consumer and capital goods was already "pressing heavily upon the ceiling of available supply." Thus, the requirements of partial mobilization, while relatively small, made for inflation to a degree far out of proportion to their size.

Drawbacks of Controls

The anti-inflationary methods of complete mobilization appeared inappropriate at present, the president continued. To control price also meant regulating supply; restricting demand through stern fiscal measures and through wage and salary ceilings; protecting domestic prices against increases in import costs; plus obtaining public acceptance of the regimentation involved. To attempt all this now could introduce "serious elements of friction" into the economy.

However, national security at this critical stage could not, he said, be maintained 'on the cheap'. Increased use of manpower and materials for defence inevitably demanded some readjustment of living standards. To avoid the strains and injustices of inflation, this readjustment would mean enlisting the understanding, levelheadedness and cooperation of people in all walks of life behind wise and forthright governmental policy.

As to governmental responsibility, Mr. Gardner stated that a strict "pay as you go" program was best suited to the times. This would require the courage to cut off the frills of governmental outlays remorselessly and to present an uncompromising front to demands from any quarter for unnecessary additions.

Public Cooperation Vital

Intelligent public cooperation was "vitally necessary" to provide a smooth transition from a peacetime economy to partial mobilization, the speaker maintained. Hoarding, or panic-buying by producers and consumers, could not but weaken the economy. However, national security could only be achieved if those concerned with collective bargaining and industry-labor relations had a high sense of social responsibility. Widespread attempts to obtain "increases in income out of proportion to increased living costs and without corresponding gains in productivity" could achieve nothing but a wage-price spiral—a race no one could win.

"Putting the matter in its simplest possible terms," Mr. Gardner added, "if we as a nation insist on doing less and less for a dollar, we can hardly complain if the dollar does less and less for us."

General Manager's Address

In reviewing the bank's year, Mr. Ball commented particularly on the increase in the number of savings and current accounts, expressing appreciation of the confidence reflected by the figures.

"In the conduct of our business," he said, "the paramount considerations continue to be the safeguarding of the funds placed with us by our depositors, and the extension of progressive, efficient and friendly services to the vast number of Canadians and others who make use of our facilities to a steadily increasing extent."

Commercial loans for inventory purposes showed a mixed trend, Mr. Ball commented. In some lines there were recent evidences of stock-piling. In many industries, plant extensions and replacements were still proceeding and the effect on working capital had, in some cases, increased the need for bank loans. Greater demand for consumer credit was also reflected in some measure by B of M loans and discounts.

Warning on Commitments

Mr. Ball noted that upward price pressures appeared general, but there was a "good deal of instability" in specific situations. Some prices had risen so rapidly that corrective declines might be expected and, in fact, had occurred in certain lines. He cautioned businessmen against making commitments solely in anticipation of price increases, adding, too, that they might well scrutinize their policies as to inventory, credit extension and plan expansion in the light of capital resources.

The speaker expressed hope that any increased taxation which might be found necessary would show due regard to the desirability of building up business resources out of profits, "the soundest of all methods of raising capital." This applied with particular force to smaller businesses.

The general manager reported that importers and exporters throughout the country were making increased use of the world-wide facilities of the B of M Foreign Department, which enlarged its relationships abroad during the present year.

The time was ripe, the general manager suggested, to re-examine the usefulness of exchange control. While Canada had gone far in removing barriers to international commerce, the "complex and expensive" mechanism of control remained. With Canadian holdings of gold and U.S. dollars at high levels and with the need of maintaining a fixed exchange-rate now removed, Canada should give "a vigorous lead" in eliminating this control as soon as conditions permitted.

High Praise for Staff

Mr. Ball said 1950 had been "another year of superb performance by the men and women of our staff." It had been a period of great activity, he remarked, with heavy demands upon all departments, which were met with "smooth and cheerful efficiency."

Staff training continued to receive special consideration at all levels, Mr. Ball stated. Every endeavour was being made to reduce working hours by simplifying routine, mechanizing operations and improving conditions.

"The welfare and development of our employees are under continuous study," he emphasized. "In line with our policy of constantly reviewing the problems of our staff, particularly in respect of changes in living costs, we have instituted a general salary increase during the year, of which the greater benefit is felt by those at the lower salary levels."

Petes Stop Redmen, 5 To 3 To Continue Winning Ways

The high-flying Petes continued their winning ways in the OHA senior "B" grouping here last night at the expense of the climbing Belleville Redmen with a 5-3 victory before 1,200 fans in Civic Arena. In a rather close-checking but clean fray, both sides stepped lively and played good positional hockey most of the route, neither crew opening up too much as they showed respect for the other side.

The count was 2-1 for Belleville in the first frame, but the Petes earned a 2-0 margin in the second heat to lead 3-2 going into the third, where they again had a slight scoring edge. The locals drew four of the seven minor penalties. Ron Horton suffered a cut over the eye in the third on an accidental high stick and had to retire.

Wade Leads

Jake Wade was in on three goals for the Jopling bunch, with Arn Dugan and Curly Mason in on a pair apiece, while Gus Leonard, Honey Tompkins, Chum Fryia and Johnny Davison had a point each. Jack Wardhaugh assisted on three for the Wally Bent band, Jack Green being in on three and Brian Mulvihill two as this trio shone for the visitors. Vern Goyer picked up an assist. Both goalies turned in a neat effort. The Gus Leonard line looked best for the Petes going both ways. Lou Schmidt played a solid defence game for Belleville.

Dugan scored early from Wade for the Petes. Davison's holding penalty was not costly. Later Green slapped in one at close range with Wardhaugh and Vern Goyer aiding. Play was fast and pretty even in the late stages, with Belleville taking a 2-1 lead late on a corner passout to Mulvihill, Green and Wardhaugh fashioning the play.

Showed Hustle

Gus Leonard cuffed home Fryia's rebound to start the second as they showed a lot of hustle. Later it was ragged and rather even. Horton was gated for boarding but forechecking by Tompkins, Fryia and G. Leonard kept the Redmen off the scoresheet. Vern Goyer got it afterward for interference but was back when Wade backhanded one home on Mason's passout. Semark and Horton roughed it to draw penalties and Davison followed for holding. Some lights went out with 23 seconds to play and that part of the period was left over till the third stanza.

Green counted early from Wardhaugh and Mulvihill at close range on nice combination to tie it up at 3-all. Wardhaugh was waved over then for high-sticking but returned shortly before Dugan banged in a passout from in front of the net, Mason and Tompkins earning assists. Dugan's goal later was ruled no good as he was in the crease. Davison's screened shot on Wade's pass clinched things. Horton went off hurt as Belleville pressed, but they couldn't beat Harding the rest of the way. Teams:

Belleville, Goal, Laforte; defence, Schmidt and V. Goyer; centre, Wardhaugh; wings, Green and Mulvihill; alternates, Jones, Day. McDonald.

Petes, Goal, Harding; defence, Davison and E. Leonard; centre, Wade; wings, Dugan and Mason; alternates, G. Leonard, Tompkins, Fryia, West, Garvey, Collins, Millar and Horton.

Rodden Raps Quality Of Cup Final

MONTREAL, Dec. 5 (CP). — Michael J. Rodden, sports editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard and former athletic star, coach and referee, said Monday night the recent Grey Cup final was one of the poorest east-west games "I have ever seen and not because of the field."

Guest speaker at the Sportsmen's Association of Montreal dinner, he said "Hamilton Tigers of 1928 would have knocked the daylights out of both clubs."

(Toronto Argos defeated Winnipeg Blue Bombers 13-0 in a muddy field in Toronto last month.)

Mr. Rodden also deplored modern hockey supervision which permitted flagrant violation of the rules with respect to holding and interference.

Of football he said: "I've often been accused of opposing introduction of the forward pass. That's wrong. I welcome it as a coach but felt, and still feel, our game belongs to Canada and to Canadians."

Sports Travellogue

During his talk he unfolded an interesting travellogue through memory's lane. He touched the high spots from Haileybury to Kingston with many intermediate spots, in both serious and light vein.

He bounced from Ottawa College to Queens and then to McGill Universities, as a student-athlete; switched to his days as one of Canada's most successful football coaches; with Argonauts and with Hamilton Tigers; and recounted tall tales of hectic and humorous experiences during 12 years as a referee in the National Hockey League.

Tommy Manastersky, backfielder for Montreal Alouettes 1949 Grey Cup champions, was honored by the association. The group selected him as Montreal's "athlete of the year."

SPS Gridders Honored At Big Dinner

Senior and junior rugby teams of St. Peter's High School were honored at a banquet held at the Kawartha Club Monday night when they were guests of the Catholic High School Athletic Advisory Board, and the function was attended by 135 people.

Leather windbreakers went to the junior "B" team which won the Lakeshore title, and followed this victory up with a win over their senior colleagues in the school. The seniors placed second in the Ontario Catholic Rugby Conference, and each player was awarded an official school crest.

Frank Tindall, coach of the Queen's University rugby teams, and assistant professor of physical education at the university, was guest speaker, and illustrated his talk with a movie of a Queens-Western intercollegiate game in slow motion. During the film, Mr. Tindall called attention to the various plays and the weaknesses and strong points of the players taking part in the game.

Little Things

During the course of his remarks he put emphasis on the little things in life, which are so important not only in athletics but in every phase of human behaviour. He stressed team play and co-operation, and outlined many of the benefits that result from participation in athletics during the school years of a boy's life.

Mr. Tindall from his remarks looks on Peterborough as a producer of fine rugby players and singled out Don Griffin, a former St. Peter's student, and Jack Sisson and Moe Richardson of the Collegiate for special praise. All three played for Queen's this year.

He was introduced by Rolly Hull, president of the Advisory Board, who was chairman, and the thanks of the gathering was eloquently and humorously presented by the Rev. Monsignor P. Butler, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Thomas Cavanagh, one of the leading supporters of the school teams presented the Cavanagh Trophy for the most valuable player on the senior team to Gerald O'Reilly.

The St. Peter's Key Club trophy to the most valuable player on the junior team went to Jim Clarke, and was presented by Terry O'Neill, Key Club president. In each case the player was voted the award by his teammates.

Get Windbreakers

Presentation of crested leather windbreakers to the juniors was made by Rev. J. Coughlan, and crests were also presented to the girl cheer leaders by Bernard Jones.

John Lynch, coach of the juniors who took over when Dick Ouimet had to retire because of business pressure, was honored by the junior players who presented him with an engraved cigarette case and lighter, John Hickey making the presentation, and expressing the gratitude of his team-mates.

Immediately after, Denis Fitzgerald presented Mr. Lynch with a wrist watch on behalf of the fathers on the Advisory Board. A roar of approval greeted Mr. Lynch's statement that he would be back next year.

Fred Allore, coach of the senior squad, was also honored, receiving a gift from the senior players. The presentation was made by John Armstrong.

Rev. Father Coughlan was included in the recognition, when Dick Foley of the junior team presented him with a windbreaker, the same as the players received, and Bob McCoy who managed both teams also received a windbreaker.

Dr. Harold Worton, noted rugby referee was pleasantly surprised when he was called to the head table and presented with a handsome initialled club bag, a gift from the Advisory Board for his unselfish work in coaching and as referee. He spoke briefly commenting on the marvellous team spirit that characterized the playing of both teams.

Dick Ouimet, first coach of the juniors, was similarly honored and received an initialled club bag from Denis Fitzgerald on behalf of the Advisory Board.

This, the second annual banquet arranged by the Advisory Board, was an outstanding success, and chairman Roland Hull paid tribute to the cheer leaders who decorated the dining room with school colors, streamers, and plaques.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Canadian Press is polling sports editors across the country to choose outstanding athletes and teams, pro or amateur, of the half century drawing to a close. Canadians only. Well, naturally, we can't speak with authority on the real oldtimers, not having been around 50 years ago. But we know something of the past 25 years in Canuck athletics, and can get opinions of an earlier era from older gents here. The 22nd question asks about the most significant sports trend in that period, and we figure it was the broadcasting of games, fights, etc., by radio. Biggest upset we think was when England won the world's hockey title over Canada.

* * * * * * *

A dramatic highlight was the Calgary invasion of Toronto, with all its noise and color. We rate Bobbie Rosenfeld top woman athlete and Lionel Conacher best of the men. Larry O'Connor must be remembered as a great track and field performer, George Young hit the headlines in swimming, as did Sandy Somerville in golf, Joe Wright Sr. as an oarsman, and News Lalonde was among the best in the old field lacrosse game—besides being an ace puckist. We put Howie Morenz atop the hockeyists, and Jimmy McLarnin leading the Canadian boxers—though Tommy Burns reigned briefly as world's heavyweight champ. Edmonton Grads led in basketball. Ah, well, lots of room for arguments in trying to compile such a list.

Playoff Recipe By Cook

OHA senior "B" convener Lorne Cook of Kingston advises that the playoff setup in this group will have first and third, second and fourth teams in best-of-five semi-finals. The best-of-seven finals must be over by Mar. 21, he says. There are six teams in the group, counting the Gananoque intermediate "A" entry which plays an interlocking schedule, wins or losses counting in our standing. The Gans play a double schedule with all teams but Petes and Eagles, who play them home and home games, due to the long trips, with these games being four-pointers. The bolstered Gans will be here shortly to play either one of the local teams.

* * * * * * *

Oshawa Bees tackle the Oddfellows here tomorrow eve at 8.30 in Civic Arena, an OHA junior "B" fixture. This mid-week puck attraction should draw well, as the juniors are in quite a group scramble now, only a few games separating the leaders from the tail-enders. The IOOF-ers are approximately in second position now, though the standing switches almost daily, with games here, there and elsewhere. The potent Bees, made up of a number of junior "A" prospects and leftovers, will give Bun Kingdon's speedy squad a hot go of it, but the Links aren't unduly worried. They think they can take 'em here. But only after a sizzling scrap.

Petes Keep Climbing

There's no stopping the Petes lately as the Belleville Redmen—pretty hot themselves recently—found out here last eve, taking the lemony side of a 5-3 senior "B" count. A fairly fast, clean contest, ragged in spots as they checked closely, with the Jopling squad having a little more scoring punch. We especially liked the line of Gus Leonard, Chum Fryia and Honey Tompkins for their hustle both ways, but the Wade-Dugan-Mason line actually led the team in points garnered. The trio of Green, Mulvihill and Wardhaugh shone for the Redmen, and the game was plenty close all the way. Ron Horton received a cut in the third and had to retire. A good game to view, and the Petes are now alone in first place.

* * * * * * *

Down in Kingston, the Nylons yanked out a 4-3 verdict o'er the Eagles. Several of the latter's regulars were missing from the lineup, and we're not sure that all those shown in it by Mike Rodden are right. At that, the Magee men made it mighty close in a typical Nylons-Eagles' rugged duel. But the loss drops Eagles to second slot, and they must ice a full team every tilt to keep up there in this gruelling senior "B" grind. There isn't a weak sister in the loop now and there's no coasting in the circuit this semester by the looks of things with the schedule a bit more than one quarter finished. Coombs got a cut over the eye last eve, but Rochetta is back in action. He, Coombs and Munroe scored Eagles' goals, with Vitarelli and Greenlaw each having an assist.

Cobourg Defeats Sunday Sports

COBOURG, Dec. 5 — Electors defeated the Sunday sport proposal by a vote of 1,069 against and 883 in favor of it. The Cobourg Ministerial Association were active in the campaign against the open Sunday, while representatives of various sports sports trend in that period, and we figure it was the broadcasting of games, fights, etc., by radio. Biggest upset we think was when England won the world's hockey title over Canada.

Prizes Won By Skiers At Annual Gathering

Movies and equipment were shown, and lectures given at a well-attended "ski night" get-together by the Peterborough Ski Club last evening in the Collegiate Auditorium. A number of visitors took in the event, staged annually by the club to start off its season's activities.

Miss Eleanor Whittaker ,11 River Road, won the first draw prize with ticket 979. It is a season's tow ticket for Kemp's Hill, donated by the tow owners. Mr. R. Gray of Empress Hotel, a recent arrival here, won the second prize, a tow ticket for the season for Bethany, given by the local club, with ticket 413. Miss Lahring Parsons, with ticket 917, won the third prize, a nylon parka, donated by Ashby's. Her address is 104 Douro Street. The fourth prize went to Mr. Len Vass, 1205 Clonsilla Avenue, skis by Clapper's, for ticket 14.

City Carpetball

King Billie paid a visit to the Legion Hall to meet Glen's No. 6 and close battles resulted. The Orange-squeezers went into the lead in the first game—but the Glens came from behind twice to tie it, the last time in the 11th frame. But the White Charger scored one in the final frame to take it 9-8. The second game saw Orangemen again take the lead until the 10th end when the fighting Glens tied it at 9-9 but again the White Charger won out by taking the last two frames and game 14-9. Two swell games.

The Quakermen had as their guests St. George's No. 10. The Full-O-Pep team lived up to their name in the first game and, even though the Saints came within striking distance in the 8th end, they allowed the Quakers to score a big five in the net frame, which proved sufficient for them to take

Nylons Drop Eagles A Peg In Hot 4-3 Puck Struggle

KINGSTON, Dec. 5 — Three quick goals in the second period gave Kingston Nylons a 4-3 verdict over the Peterborough Eagles in an OHA senior game last night at Jock Harty Arena. The win gives the Nylons a strong hold on third place.

With Referee Bill Holway keeping a firm grip on the players, 11 penalties, including three misconducts, were handed out. Joe Watts, Nylons, and Munroe and "Dootch" Vitarelli, Eagles, were given the misconducts.

Kingston goals were divided among four players, Joyce, Catlin, Aitken and Gerow, with Joyce and Gerow also picking up an assist apiece. Munroe, Coombs and Rochetta were the Eagle goal-getters.

Joyce Scores

Nylons iced the puck at the start of the game, but Vitarelli missed the net from the face-off. McKeown, Joyce and Aitken carried play to the Eagles' end, and after McKeown missed the net, the puck bounced off the boards on to the stick of Joyce, who scored at 11:35. Udall saved a long shot by Lalonde, with play slowing down considerably. Coombs and Patterson were sent off, Coombs for roughing and Paddy for high sticking. A cut was opened around Coombs' eye.

Watts followed shortly with a minute penalty for tripping and a 10-minute misconduct for losing his temper with Holway.

Hill was foiled on a scramble around the Nylons' net, but with the tems at full strength again, Munroe intercepted a pass from the corner and beat Udall.

At 3:07 Coombs took a shot at Udall who deflected the puck straight up in the air, it dropped in front of the net and Coombs knocked it in. Nicholls saved a couple of goals and then Munroe was given his first penalty of the game, a two-minute effort for tripping McKeown.

With the teams again at full strength Catlin poked the puck in from the side of the net on a pass from Gerow. McKeown overshot the net and Eagles eased the presure briefly. Munroe was given his second penalty of the period, this time with a misconduct tacked on.

Nylons Ahead

Aitken put the Nylons one goal up soon after on a pass from Joyce at 15:35. Vitarelli's received the second Peterborough misconduct penalty for "sassing" the referee. A few seconds later Gerow, on a pass from Partis and Joyce, scored the last Nylon goal.

The two Peterborough players were still sitting in the penalty box when the third period began. Nothing happened for the first two minutes as both teams played cautiously waiting for a break. Plumb was penalized for boarding but the Nylon defence kept the puck out of their net. Munroe returned to his seat in the sin-bin with a tripping penalty. Vitarelli got a break but couldn't beat Udall.

With both teams at full strength, Rochetta scored, assisted by Vitarelli and Greenlaw. Plumb and Lalonde were sent off for fighting. With but a few seconds remaining, Lalonde and Harrison started a little fisticuffs along the board with Harrison throwing the only decent punch, an uppercut, before they fell to the ice. They were given five minutes each.

Peterborough: Goal, Nicholls; defence, D. Mortimer, Munroe; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli, Greenlaw; subs, Parnall, Milne, Lalonde, Montgomery, Smith, Hill, Coombs, F. Mortimer.

Nylons: Goal, Udall; defence, Patterson, Plumb; centre, McKeown; wings, Joyce, Aitken; subs, Watts, Londry, Catlin, Gerow, Partis, Potts, Armstrong, Morrison.

Referee: Bill Holway; linesman, Bill Reason.

Toronto Holds Monopoly In NHL Statistics

MONTREAL, Dec. 5 (CP). — Toronto and the National Hockey League could well be regarded as synonyms these days.

With almost one-third of the league's 70-game schedule played the Maple Leafs have a comfortable lead over the five other clubs, the individual scoring race is mainly a battle among Toronto players and Turk Broda is pacing goalies in shutouts.

However, the Leafs also are by far the most penalized team and two Toronto players are fighting, literally speaking, to become most penalized player of the league.

Leafs lead the pack with 34 points—14 victories, four losses and six ties. Detroit is making a battle of it, boasting 26 points, while Montreal and Chicago are deadlocked three points behind the Wings. The lowly Boston Bruins and New York Rangers have a mere 15 points each.

Bentley Leading

Max Bentley, Toronto centre, has a total of 29 points to top all point-getters. He has scored eight goals and assisted on 21 to lead in that field, five assists ahead of team-mate Ted Kennedy.

Tod Sloan, tied in second place with Kennedy, is top sniper with 13 goals to his credit. Both Torontonians have 22 points, three more than Montreal's Maurice Richard, only non-Leaf in the top six.

The Rocket has been slowing down some, losing his early sniping honors to Sloan. Richard has 12 goals and seven assists.

Broda has five shutouts, followed by Montreal's young Gerry McNeil with four.

Broda's individual average of 2.12 for goals scored against compares with a 2.09 mark for Detroit's Terry Sawchuk. Al Rollins, who has seen action in only nine Leaf games, has an average of 1.44. The Vezina Trophy is awarded on a team average basis and Broda's and Rollins' averages together give Toronto a team advantage of 1.96.

Not to be outdone in any department, the Toronto team has also spent more time in the penalty box than any other club. Their 294 minutes of penalties top Montreal by 48 minutes.

Gus Mortson of the Queen City squad is most penalized player with 52 minutes. Close contenders for that "first" are Toronto's Bill Barilko and Ted Lindsay of the Detroit Red Wings, who so far have sat out 49 minutes for misbehaving.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Chances appear to be good that there will be a third Canadian team in the International Baseball League next season.

Word from St. Petersburg, Florida, is that Ottawa has paved the way for taking up the Jersey City franchise.

Frank J. Shaughnessy, president of the International League, said he has been advised by Ottawa that they have transferred their franchise in the Border League to Cornwall.

New York Giants, who own the Jersey City franchise, will control the Ottawa club if it gets into the International League.

The two other Canadian teams in the eight-squad triple-A league —just one step below the big leagues—are Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Royals.

Rivalry between the Canadian teams has been sharp over the years and an Ottawa entry would undoubtedly become a part of that rivalry.

A report from Ottawa Monday said there was a barrier in the way of the Ottawa withdrawal from the Border League. That was said to be a demand by the Border League for $10,000 for rights to Lansdowne Stadium where the Ottawa Nationals played home games. Although there was nothing definite on this, it appeared that the difficulty had been ironed out.

One of the big factors in favor of Ottawa getting the international franchise is that it isn't a television area. That was the cause of Jersey City's downfall at the box office.

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League have called up defenceman Clare Raglin from their Indianapolis farm club in exchange for defenceman Marcel Pronovost.

It marks the first time in the NHL for the 23-year-old Raglin who will join the Red Wings in New York Wednesday to play against the Rangers.

Pronovost, who will report to Indianapolis the same night, was one of the Red Wings' brightest rookies last season but has not been able to match that form this year.

George Selkirk, former New York Yankee right fielder, has been named manager of Kansas City Blues.

Selkirk, a native of Huntsville, Ont., formerly managed Binghamton, N. Y., of the Class-A Eastern League.

Kid Gavilan of Cuba won a unanimous decision over Tony Janiro of Youngstown, O., in the 10-round feature bout of the Cleveland News boxing show before 9,342 fans at Cleveland Arena Monday night.

Gavilan's quick left hooks and right crosses to the head won seven of the 10 rounds and had the Ohioan close to a knockout in the eighth. Only endurance and experience enabled Janiro to weather a barrage of rights to the head and body.

The gate was $61,269. Gavilan weighed 148, Janiro 157.

Tommy McLean and Denny Smith have been charged with theft of two pairs of skates from the Vancouver Kerrisdale Monarchs hockey club.

They are former members of the Monarchs and are charged with taking the skates—the ones they used while playing there—when they left for Lethbridge to join an amateur intermediate team.

The warrant charging theft was sworn in Vancouver by Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, club president.

Both were remanded for preliminary hearing.

New York Rangers of the National Hockey League have recalled veteran forward Alex (Killer) Kaleta from Hershey Bears of the American League.

Kaleta, a prime favorite with Madison Square Garden fans, will join the team in time for Wednesday's game with Detroit Red Wings in the Garden.

The Rangers sent Kaleta to Hershey a few weeks ago as part of the deal that brought Zellio Toppazzini and Ed Harrison to the Rangers from Boston. The Rangers will have to send another player to Hershey to replace Kaleta.

Halwood, owned by F. Turcotte of Mattawa, Ont., and driven by Leon Tarcotte, scored a double win in Monday's feature, a classified pace, at Dufferin Park, in Toronto.

Off the pace for most of the trip, Halwood overhauled the leaders to win the first heat in handy fashion over Pat B. from the stable of Wells and Hess of Morrisburg, Ont. He had a much easier time of it in the second, going to the front early and having no difficulty in maintaining his superiority.

Buddy Cold Cash, owned by A. J. McKinley of Toronto was runner-up. Pat B was placed second in the summary with a 2-3 standing.

The secondary feature was won by Nancy Patch, owned by R. Walker of Allenford, Ont., and driven by Joe Hodgins. Her win was also in straight heats.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP).—Ab Demarco, improving with age continues to enjoy a commanding lead in the American Hockey League's individual scoring race.

The 34-year-old centre of Buffalo Bisons has collected 44 points and is sailing along with a 13-point lead. Grant Warwick, who plays right wing on Demarco's line, Red Sullivan of Hershey and Jackie Gordon of Cincinnati are tied for the lead in playmaking at 24 assists each.

OVERHEATED HOMES CAUSE COLDS

We all look on the common cold as a nuisance. Few of us, however, take even the simple precautions to help ward off infection and prevent its spread. For example: getting lots of sleep, eating plain nourishing food, wearing sensible clothing indoors or out, maintaining an even and moderate temperature in the home. In other words, building resistance. Look after yourself during the danger days of winter. Help to avoid colds—the greatest single cause of lost time—lost work. That's "Good Citizenship".

Woman Heads Ottawa Polls

OTTAWA, Dec. 5 (CP).—This capital has a new mayor and its first woman controller in history following Monday's civic elections.

Taking over as chief magistrate for a two-year term is Grenville W. Goodwin, 52-year-old optometrist, who led the incumbent, Mayor E. A. Bourque, by a wide margin. The other candidate, Dr. G. M. Geldert, retired physician, ran a weak third.

But the surprise of the campaign was the extraordinary success of Dr. Charlotte Whitton, writer, lecturer and welfare worker, in the race for the four board of control positions.

Many had expected her to gain a seat, but the stocky, five-foot-two firebrand, running in her first campaign against men with years of experience on the board, headed the poll by an overwhelming margin.

Dr. Whitton, a 54-year-old native of Renfrew who likes nothing beter than a good political fight, highlighted an otherwise-dull campaign from its start some weeks ago. Before the campaign was over, she was "Charlotte" to just about everyone in the capital.

Supported by practically every women's organization in the city, she campaigned militantly for the feminine vote. But the results made it evident that a large percentage of men were among her supporters.

Former Warden E. W. Seeney Chosen As Reeve Of Havelock

HAVELOCK, Dec. 5—(ENS)—Ex-reeve E. W. Seeney, former warden of Peterborough county, was elected reeve of Havelock at the municipal elections on Monday by a majority of 30 votes over his opponent, Reeve E. J. Leeson.

With approximately 78 per cent of the voters going to the polls, the contest was a close one, as the following standing at each poll indicates:

	Advance Poll	West Ward	East Ward
Leeson	8	139	111
Seeney	15	144	129

The vote for Mr. Seeney, 288; and for Mr. Leeson, 258.

The council were re-elected by acclamation with three members of the 1950 council returned—B. A. Curtis, William Longmuir and Bert Jewell. Ex-reeve Fred Pollock is the new man. Mr. Pollock was nominated for the reeveship but withdrew in favor of Mr. Seeney. He takes the place of John Davidson who did not qualify.

at Confederation School, one of three polls, No. 57, but Rehill returned to front-running form for the next five polls. Ald. Young broke that series by leading at No. 6, May's School; but Rehill, with a steadily mounting plurality, took the next two polls, Lawson's store on Albert St., and McMahon's, Monaghan Road south. The next poll, May's No. 5 went to Ald. Young, who carried two more in the early returns. Ald Burrows took a 133 vote at Central School, No. 38 in the North Ward, but Rehill settled down into a long string of poll victories from all parts of the city.

A review of the polling score sheet counted 49 polls for Rehill, and one tied; five for Ald. Young, three for Gillespie, and two for Burrows plus his tie at Poll 35, Park Hill School, with Mr. Rehill.

Set Pattern

The first poll at Moffat's store indicated the pattern of the new council. Burrows placed second to Rehill followed by Gillespie, Young, Graham and Sands. The only change at the end was in the second position to which Gillespie climbed along the back stretch of the telephonic race.

The results for the five vacant seats in the aldermanic group left the standing without change from the first report at nearly 7.45 p.m., half an hour later than usual, as follows: Rehill 784; Burrows 657; Gillespie 638; Young 507; Graham 464; and Sands just outside the top five with 416.

In the ward totals, Swanston carried every one, as did Rehill.

Apparently the thinking of the electors, and their choices for the council of 1951, showed little divergence all around town.

They retained three of the experienced aldermen, welcomed Mr. Rehill's offer of service with a handsome reception nearly all the way down the polling line, and then gave the nod to Norman Graham. The voting for the council positions, including the mayoralty, was plainly evident of a general desire to make use of aldermanic experience and maturity with a moderate infusion of "new blood."

Congratulates Winner

At a public meeting following the election Mr. Leeson congratulated Mr. Seeney and said it was no easy task to be reeve of Havelock. He recalled that he had been in the contest for the reeveship and had been elected six tims and defeated six times. He stated that there were about 175 voters in the village who did not go to the polls. He extended best wishes to the counucil for 1951.

Reeve-elect Seeney thanked the voters for their support and said he would do his utmost to make good the confidence placed in him.

Short addresses were made by Councillors Jewell, Curtis and Longmuir. They did not see how taxes could be lowered very much but said they would do their best to keep them down. Mr. Longmuir said there was some paving that had been left for 1951 and he hoped that it could be finished on George Street.

To Practice Economy

Councillor Pollock said his colleagues had stated that they did not think taxes could be lowered but he was saying that economy must be practised and he would make every effort in 1951 to lower them. He reminded the audience of the statement made at the nomination meeting about the high rate of business taxes prevailing here and the effect there would be on business places in town if there was not something done about it.

Reeve-elect Seeney retired from municipal office at the end of 1945 after serving 17 consecutive years—10 as reeve and seven as councillor. He was warden of Peterborough County in 1941.

BRIDLINGTON, England, Dec. 5 (Reuters)—A vivid blue flash lit up the snow-shrouded countryside near here for several seconds Monday night. The flare extended over an area at least eight miles wide. A flash of blue lightning blew out all the fuses in the town of Dungeness last Saturday night.

Mayor Hiram McCallum Returned For 4th Term In Stiff Race

TORONTO, Dec. 5 — (CP) — In the tighest mayoralty race in almost 20 years, Mayor Hiram McCallum early today was returned to office for a fourth consecutive term.

The strong showing by his underdog opponent, Controller Allan Lamport who took the lead from the first ballot count after Monday's civic election, kept the issue in doubt until early this morning.

The last 10 of the city's 1,038 poling subdivisions turned defeat into victory for the incumbent. The final count gave Mr. McCallum 86,491 votes, Mr. Lamport 84,987.

It was the closest finish since 1931 when William Stewart defeated the late Sam McBride by 313 votes. At one stage during the race Mr. McCallum trailed by 6,000 votes.

Reds Fare Badly

With developments in Korea and the international scene focussing, attention on communism, Red candidates fared badly in their bids for election to other posts. At stake were four control board posts, 18 aldermanic seats and 12 vacancies on the board of education. Only one of six communists was successful, Mrs. Edna Ryerson returned for her seventh term as member of education. But her total vote dropped from 9,384 in the last election when she led candidates in ward 5 to 6,555 in placing second Monday.

Stewart Smith, in another unsuccessful bid for election to board of control, lost considerable ground in polling only 28,249 votes compared with 45,418 the last election.

Only one of nine candidates supported by labor made the grade—Herbert Orliffe elected to board of education for ward four. Among the also rans were Ford Brand, candidate for board of control, and Lester Nelson, aldermanic candidate, both of whom had the point support of the Toronto Labor Council and the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council.

Board Of Control

The four board of control seats were won by John M. Innes, Leslie H. Saunders, David Arthur Balfour and Joseph L. Shannon. All but Mr. Shannon held office last year.

The total vote cast from among the 378,500 person eligible to vote was just under the record-breaking 45.5 per cent last Jan. 2 when commercialized Sunday sports was an issue.

Mayor McCallum, 50-year-old owner of a printing business, got his first term by appointment in 1948 when he replaced Robert H. Saunders, who resigned to head the Ontario Hydro Commission. He was re-elected in 1949 and again last January.

A strong advocate of the plan for amalgamation of Toronto and suburban municipalities, Mr. McCallum during the campaign had the support of all three Toronto daily newspapers.

Mr. Lamport, who successfully supported the Sunday sports bylaw at the last election, campaigned against amalgamation.

For the fifth time voters turned down the two-year term for council posts, and they did it decisively. The vote against was 104,347 compared with 63,679 for. In Jan. 2 last the margin against was only 22,000.

Sell Poultry Business To Pay Off Debts

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 5—(CP)—A Huron County poultry business will be sold to pay off debts owing to about 200 creditors totalling more than $76,000.

This was disclosed at the first meeting in the Middlesex County Courthouse Monday of creditors of Sheldon D. Wein and Kenneth H. Wein, of Exeter, carrying on a partnership business known as "Lakeview Poultry Farm and Lakeview Turkey Farm," who recently made an assignment in bankruptcy.

In examinations read by Gordon Tennent, official receiver in bankruptcy for this district, the brothers attributed the failure of their business to loss of flock from illness caused by unbalanced feed.

Belmont-Methuen Elects W. E. Griffith Reeve For 1951

HAVELOCK, Dec. 5 (ENS). — With three small polls to be heard from, Oak Lake, South Lake, and Lasswade—reurns show that W. E. Griffith, a veteran of municipal campaigns since 1908, was elected reeve of Belmont and Methuen townships by a majority of 99.

His opponent was Donald Anderson, a member of the 1950 council.

Five candidates were in the field for four seats on the council. Three of the 1950 councillors were re-elected with Councillor Robert Wrightly heading the poll with 303 votes. Councillor Geo. Newton, entering his 12th consecutive year in that office, was second with 294 votes, and Councillor Norris Whitney was fourth with 260 votes. The new member is Gardner Gawley who ran third with 266 votes. Randal Quackenbush, a new candidate, was defeated. He polled only 213 votes.

For school trustee for School Area No. 1 the successful candidates were: Charles McConnell with 107 votes and Frank Wrightly with 85 votes. Reginald Barton was defeated. He polled 65 votes.

School Bylaw Passes Easily, Hospital Loses

Peterborough voted its children a new $585,000 high school in Monday's election, but refused a $300,000 bylaw to finish off work on Civic Hospital.

On the high school bylaw, the vote was 3530 to 2329, all wards giving it a majority.

For the hospital, the vote was not as decisive—3,266 to 2,546—and all but two wards voted against it. West ward favored the hospital work 582 to 569 and centre ward gave it an even break —81 to 81.

Total number of votes cast on the collegiate bylaw was 5859 and 5812 ballots were cast on the hospital bylaw; 9237 could have voted on both money bylaws.

Carries 50 Polls

The collegiate bylaw carried 50 of the 61 polls and tied one. The hospital bylaw carried a mere 15 polls and lost the remaining 46. Centre ward favored the hospital three polls to two, but the vote was a tie.

Wards most heavily favoring the collegiate were Claraday and north ward where the votes were 585-255 and 807-532. Centre ward gave it 109 votes for to 51 against. South ward voted 765-623 for it, and west ward 720 to 446. East favored it 544 to 421.

South ward voted most strenuously against the $300,000 hospital bylaw, defeating it 841 to 538. In the other wards, the vote was close, and follows: centre—81-81, west—582-569, north—610-733, east 386-573, Claraday — 349-477.

In the west ward, eight polls voted against the hospital and four voted for it, but the vote went in favor of the hospital.

William Ovens President PC Association

WILLIAM OVENS

William Ovens was Monday night elected president of the Peterborough Progressive Conservative Association at the association's annual meeting in the Kawartha room of the Empress Hotel.

In being elected by acclamation, he replaced James Juby, who has been president of the association since 1945.

None of the other executive offices of the association were contested. Elected by acclamation were: first vice-president, Henry Batten, North Monaghan; second vice-president, Mrs. Maurice Holt; third vice-president, Richard Sanderson, Havelock; fourth vice-president, Frank Foster; fifth vice-president, Bert Lockheed, Norwood.

Re-elected secretary was Mrs Floyd Curtis and treasurer, Douglas J. Lawrie.

Mr. Juby in turning over the job of president said: "I realized I was getting a bit old for the job. I'm very happy to turn it over to you."

Mr. Ovens told the retiring president, he had completed a "job well done."

Speaking to the members of the association, he said: "There is a job for all to do." He asked them for their co-operation in the work the association would do.

Of the members of the new executive several were former members: Mr. Batten, Mr. Sanderson, Mr. Lockheed, Mrs. Curtis and Mr. Lawrie.

Finds Working People Fair, Sound In Their Demands

Canada offers greater opportunity than any other country to its people who are willing to work and have initiative and courage, the Hon. Charles Daley, minister of Labor in the provincial cabinet told members of the Peterborough Progressive Conservative Association at its annual meeting Monday night in the Empress Hotel.

He has found, said Mr. Daley, that the working people of Ontario were fair and sound in their demands.

Organized labor, he said, had taken a share in developing in Canada a higher standard of living than in any other county in the world.

Finger On Communists

He said he believed Communists played a relatively small part in the labor movement in Canada. The labor movement had been quick to put the finger on Communists and clear them out of the labor organizations, even though sometimes Communists had risen to high positions.

The very best way to combat Communism, he said, was to improve social conditions, to bring greater equality to education and social services in order that there would be no fertile ground for the "isms' 'to grow in.

Industrial development had been tremendous since he took office in 1943, the minister said. Each year the government had approved development amounting to $60,000,000.

Hours of Work Act

In recent years the Department of Labor had added several important pieces of legislation to provincial statute books. One of the most important was the Hours of Work and Vacations with Pay Act which provides for a maximum working week of 48 hours, with an eight-hour working day and one week's vacation with pay for all workers.

Before many years, he said, there would probably be a 40-hour week maximum and two weeks vacation with pay.

Another statute of importance was the Workmen's Compensation Act. Recently it had been broadened to take in all hospital employees who contracted tuberculosis, ordinarily not a disease on which compensation was paid. In the years since the act was first introduced by the Conservatives, compensation had been raised from 66 2-3 per cent to 75 per cent and allowances for wives and children increased.

The latest act was the new Labor Relations Act with its system of conciliatory provisions which were designed not only to help settle disputes but to act as delaying measures to allow time for a cooling off.

In the year it has been in operation it has been very successful, he said. Of 320 disputes referred to the Board, in a 150-day period, 220 had been settled by government-appointed conciliation officers.

Recently the Act had been extended to take in all municipal employees.

Work In County

Before introducing the speaker, the Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, outlined work that was done on the roads in the county last summer.

On Highway 7 which was now part of the Trans-Canada Highway, the stretch between Havelock and Marmora had been improved. Work on the ninth line of Dummer township which was used by many to drive to Stony Lake from the Norwood area, had been completed.

The road around Stony Lake to the Nepheline mines was completed as well last summer. The north shore of Stony Lake was also being opened up with a new road which would make available a new tourist area.

This was also true of a road in the Little Cedar Lake-Cedar Lake area. In Chandos township near Salmon Lake another road was being provided.

Tenders were being called for on the road from Buckhorn to Bobcaygeon and work on that would start first thing in the spring. In Harvey township a road from Lakehurst to Buckhorn was going to be improved. The road in Galway township in the Kinmount area was being improved.

This fall, soundings were going to be made of the bottom at Gannon's Narrows at the north end of Ennismore township where a shaky floating bridge still offered a hazardous transportation into Harvey. He said he was hopeful it would be done away with next fall and replaced with a causeway similar to that on Chemong Lake.

12-Cent Raise In New Contract

A contract has been signed between the Peterborough branch of the National Grocers Co. Ltd. and Local 505, Retail Wholesale and Department Store Workers (CIO-CCL) giving 14 employees a wage increase averaging 12 cents an hour.

Warehousemen and drivers are affected by the wage increase.

The starting rate is now 82 cents, with a boost of about five cents an hour (depending on the job classification), when the employee joins the permanent staff.

Other provisions of this first contract to be signed between the union and the Peterborough branch include: two weeks holiday with pay after a year's service; a 47-hour week; nine statutory holidays; and 10-minute rest periods twice a day.

The contract is effective to November 15, 1951.

Dr. Honey Heads Board Polls, Gordon Second

Three old members of the Board of Education were returned Monday in the civic elections. Fourth place on the board went to one of the two newcomers—Mrs. Kathleen Bell.

The three old members are: Dr. Ralph C. Honey, Frank H. Jobbitt (chairman the past two years), and W. B. Gordon. Mr. Gordon was a member in 1946-48; did not run in 1948.

Dr. Honey headed the polls with a total of 6,146 ballots cast for him, a margin of 357 over Mr. Gordon, who ran second with 5,789 votes.

Votes for Mrs. Bell totalled 5,604, and for Mr. Jobbitt, 5,202 The losing candidate, Louis John Sparrow, received 4,368 votes.

Dr. Honey headed 35 of the 61 polls in five of the 6 wards, and tied one poll with Mr. Jobbitt. Mrs. Bell took 10 polls and Mr. Gordon 10. Mr. Jobbitt led in five.

Early in the evening, Mr. Jobbit and Mr. Sparrow were running a close race for the last spot on the Board of Education ticket. At one time, only five votes separated them. But as the later polls came in, Mr. Jobbitt established a clear lead.

Election Night At City Hall

By HARRY THEOBALD

"I'll stay for ten polls and then I'm going to the hockey match no matter how the vote is going," said Arthur R. Bennett as he arrived at the city hall Monday night in good humor for whatever verdict the polling held out in its progress of incoming returns. He wasn't in the first five when the first poll was heard from, and by the time the ten arrived he may have been losing hope in the prospects.

Harold Freeman landed in the committee room of the city hall at 7.10, and did a great job of hustling news to the Examiner in a co-operative way. He was helping John F. Callaghan of the Bank of Montreal staff on one phone while Harry Hamley, assistant City Clerk, listened at the other.

Doug. Miller was the first of the Aldermen to check in for the results. Ald. Hugh Weddell was shortly after him. Miss Olive Johnson was Deputy Returning Officer and Miss Marjorie Oliver was poll clerk at Moffat's store on Monaghan Road south. They turned in the first complete count from mayoralty to bylaws: time was 7:38, with a big margin to spare over the next poll checking in. Once upon a time it was outside the thinking of city fathers that women could be trusted with the serious and important business of taking charge of a poll.

Peterborough's ratepayers did not shirk duty as a community when they voted in favor of the Collegiate Institute bylaw. There is not a member on the Board of Education, including Mr. K. S Wightman, superintendent of schools, who has any desire to pay a dollar more than necessary in taxes, but they are closest to the school problem as it continues to expand, and they have the satisfaction of knowing that the ratepayers accepted their recommendation for that largely expanded south end of the city.

Mr. Chris. Wood celebrated his 86th birthday by going to vote at St. Peter's School.

Among those who looked into the counting room were Dick Raine, retired from city administration, and that former Warden of the county, Peter Mather, who was reeve of Otonabee for years, and has all the experience and ability to propose him for a place on the city council.

Gordon Hancock came with Charlie Huffman, and was elected for chalking up the running score on the blackboard, and worked fast.

Fred Hills brought a quip with him, suggesting that the job should be finished by 4 a.m. because the Utilities Commission had to cut the power for an early hour.

The first six polls gave Mayor Swanston a majority of 220 over Ald. Hurrell Dodds. That was a tuft of straws pointing the way the mayoral wind was blowing.

James Hamilton and George A. Macdonald were also present as former mayors and now somewhat elder citizens with an appraising eye on the council as it changes its personnel. Arthur Pitchford looked in as a recent trustee of the Board of Education.

Charge Woman Damaging Hughes' House

Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C., in police court today reserved judgment to Wednesday in the case against Mrs. Merrill Montigny charged with wilfully committing damage to the residence and furnishings of Thomas G. Hughes

Mrs. Montigny had been living with Hughes at 633 Monaghan Rd. where Hughes carries on an auto wrecking business.

Hughes said Mrs. Montigny became angry with both him and her brother, Jack McPhail, who works for Hughes and lives in the same house. While McPhail and he were in their bedrooms, Mrs. Montigny began breaking windows.

Telephoned Police

Hughes phoned the police and they came down after about five calls. While the police were there Mrs. Montigny threw a flower pot through a dining room window about four feet square. Altogether said Hughes, the accused broke five windows, four of them in the kitchen.

"I don't care about the damage," said Hughes, "as long as I get rid of her."

Asked by acting Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry what value the windows had, Hughes answered, "I don't know and I don't care."

Woman Charged

Defending Mrs. Montigny, Norman J. Crook asked Hughes if the accused worked for Hughes Auto Wreckers.

"No, she worked for me," Hughes answered.

"Did she drive a truck in your business?" Mr. Crooks asked.

"Yes, and she upset it too," Hughes answered. "She was drunk at the time."

"Have you been drinking this morning Tommy?" Mr. Crooks asked Hughes.

"Yes."

"How many?"

"Maybe five or six."

Asked if he had been in jail any time, Hughes said "Oh, quite a few times." He said he had been in the Guelph reformatory for nine months.

"They said I pounded this dame." (He was not referring to Mrs. Montigny.)

Sergeant Leo Murphy and Constable Edward Niziol said they answered the call to Hughes' home. While they were there an argument broke out between the two again and Mrs. Montigny threw a flower pot through a ventian blind and window in the dining room.

Evidence of Drinking

Sergeant Murphy said Mrs. Montigny was highly excited and had been drinking and "used very, very foul language." He said Hughes had also been drinking.

Taking the witness box, Mrs. Montigny said an argument had started at noon. Hughes and her brother left the house and she was left to take care of the business. She said she had a partnership in the business and was the only licenced operator in the business.

Before going downtown, said Mrs. Montigny, she put away deeds to the property that had been under discussion. When she returned about 7.30 p.m., she found her brother lying on the kitchen floor. Hughes was "draped over the chesterfield."

She woke her brother and asked him if Hughes had been drinking. Her brother said yes. Just then Hughes got up and started cursing her "calling me a lot of filthy names and told me to get out." (He was apparently charging her with stealing the deed to the property.)

The accused went to the telephone to call a cab and "the phone was pulled off the wall by Mr. Thomas Hughes."

Mrs. Montigny then took the keys to a truck and went out to drive away. But Hughes grabbed the keys and ripped out some of the wiring of the truck.

Mrs. Montigny then decided she would wait outside in a truck for Hughes to go to bed, "but it got too cold." She knocked at the kitchen door hoping her brother would answer. Hughes came to the door and said he would not unlock it. She threatened if he wouldn't open the door for her, she would come through the window "and I did."

When she climbed inside, Hughes poured a bottle of beer over her. Mrs. Montigny said she still had the stick in her hand she had used to break the window. She started after him. She chased him up the backstairs, along the hall, down the front stairs, through to the kitchen, and up the back stairs again.

On the second time around, she said Hughes jumped in her brother's bed and hid behind him. She then decided she would go "for the officers of the law." She was just backing the truck out when the police arrived.

They all went into the living room and got into another argument.

"I will admit I called him a few violent names," the accused said.

She testified that Hughes told her she didn't have any criminal record, but he was going to see she did and dared her to break another window.

"The flower pot was sitting there very conveniently and I tossed it through the window."

Ballot Boxes Must Be Locked Law Says; But Unlocked Do Not Invalidate Elections

Should ballot boxes be under lock and key during the time of the voting? If they are not kept locked, can an election be declared invalid? These questions are in the minds of Peterborough voters who yesterday, between opening polling hour of 11 a.m. and until about two in the afternoon, found ballot boxes either completely unlocked, with the Deputy Returning officer opening the lid to deposit ballots, or so fixed that the lid could be raised sufficiently to allow a hand to be inserted.

The situation developed, as explained in Monday's Examiner, because Provincial or Federal ballot boxes were put into use, along with some other, older smaller ones with bigger slots. The Federal or Provincial boxes have round holes, about the size of a five-cent piece, for depositing the folded ballots. Usually the ballots of a general election are small, with the names of only two or three candidates printed on them.

The municipal ballots for Monday's voting were much larger. City Clerk E. A. Outram, as Returning Officer, decided to permit some of the ballot boxes to remain unlocked so that the ballots could be deposited readily, without delaying the voters and causing line-ups at the polls. This measure of expediency backfired.

Protests against the unlocked boxes, and heated indignation that the secrecy of the ballot was being disregarded, started to pour into the Examiner and the City Hall at noon. By one o'clock outraged voters were appearing in person to object and tell of one poll after another where the boxes were unlocked. Just before two p.m. Mr. Outram ordered all boxes to be locked and ballots to be deposited through the holes as best they could.

Legal Opinion

Should the boxes have been locked? The Examiner has obtained legal opinion from T. J. Carley, KC, its solicitor, and he quotes the Municipal Act which says that the ballot boxes "shall be made of durable material, provided with lock and key, and so constructed that the ballot papers can be deposited therein and cannot be withdrawn without unlocking the box."

Because many ballot boxes were unlocked for part of the day, can the elections be declared null and void, and must new elections be held? There is another section of the same act which says that even if the provisions of the Act (about taking the poll, locking the ballot boxes and the like) are not fulfilled, or if there is a mistake or some irregularity, the elections can still be valid. What matters is that the principles of the Act be adhered to. If the principles, such as the secrecy of the voting, are carried out, the election is valid, even if rules and regulations have not been adhered to.

Before yesterday's elections could be declared invalid, proof would have to be given that in actual fact, the secrecy of the ballot was violated. It is not enough to show that there was an opportunity to violate the secrecy of the ballot. Monday there was the opportunity, but there is no evidence that, despite the unlocked boxes, the voting was not kept secret. All deputy returning officers are sworn to secrecy.

There is no suggestion whatsoever that Mr. Outram or his deputies with their unlocked boxes intended, or did in fact permit, any violation of the secrecy of the ballot, or that the results of the elections were affected.

Here is the full legal statement given to the Examiner by Mr. Carley:

While we have not had the opportunity of going into the matter thoroughly, nevertheless there are certain provisions that we would draw to your attention:

Section 94 of the Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1937, Chapter 266, provides as follows:

94—(1) Where a poll is required, the clerk shall procure as many ballot boxes as there are polling subdivisions.

(2) The ballot boxes shall be made of durable material, provided with lock and key, and so constructed that the ballot papers can be deposited therein and cannot be withdrawn without unlocking the box.

Section 128 of the Municipal Act provides that on the close of the poll the deputy returning officer shall in the presence of the poll clerk and any candidate or agent present and in full view he shall open the ballot box and count the number of votes for each candidate, giving full opportunity to those present to examine each ballot paper.'

Section 135. — (1) provides 'The deputy returning officer shall then immediately lock and seal the box, and any candidate or agent present may also affix to it his seal and the deputy returning officer shall then forthwith deliver it personally to the clerk'.

Not Invalidating

Section 163 provides: 'No election shall be or be declared to be invalid:

(a) for non-compliance with the provisions of this Act as to the taking of the poll or anything preliminary thereto or as to the counting of the votes; or

(b) by reason of mistakes in the use of the prescribed forms; or

(c) by reason of any mistake or irregularity in the proceedings at or in relation to the election;

if it appears to the tribunal by which the validity of the election or any proceedings in relation to it is to be determined that the election was conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in this Act, and it does not appear that such non-compliance, mistake or irregularity affected the result of the election'.

The whole object of the Municipal Act is, of course, to preserve the secrecy at the poll and as to voting. It is in keeping with this that the provision of the locking of the ballot box is made. However the curate of the provisions of Section 163 are intended to avoid invalidating an election unless it can be shown to the Court that failure to perform the duties has in fact resulted in a violation of the secrecy provisions to such an extent that the result of the election or voting was affected..

The case of Wilson v. Wardsville (1911) 2 O.W.N. 914 is on point. In that case for the voting on a local option bylaw a deputy returning officer was supplied with a coffee tin with a screw top. The ballots were inserted through a hole which the deputy returning officer cut in the top. Afterwards the tin was sealed. On an application to quash the bylaw it was contended that the furnishing of such a receptacle for votes was a fatal non-compliance with the statutory requirements. Section 138 (2) of The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1903, provided that ballot boxes should be of durable material and provided with a lock and key. HELD, the irregularity was one within the curative provisions of s. 104 of the Act.

The whole questions resolves itself into whether the absence of the ballot boxes being locked resulted in a violation of the secrecy of the ballot".

Mr. Outram's Statement

Around midnight Monday night Mr. Outram remarked to the Examiner: "We'll have to get rid of those objectionable boxes. I don't think the city ever bought ballot boxes. Some were borrowed from time to time from provincial and federal authorities, in all probability, and we keep them in storage in the city hall basement. At times of general elections we would be asked to supply certain numbers of those boxes, and usually they came back to us. After this experience they should be thrown out, and suitable boxes for our own use should be obtained."

Mr. Outram admitted that it was quite "a hectic experience," but on the other hand, he said, he had every confidence in the fidelity to their oaths of secrecy taken by the school teachers and others engaged as deputy returning officers and poll clerks.

Even so, the citizens demonstrated that in no circumstances would they yield any safeguard of the secrecy of the ballot.

Friends Predict Shirley Temple To Wed Black

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5 (AP).—Today Shirley Temple is free to marry television executive Charles Black, and that's what Hollywood expects her to do — perhaps at Christmas time.

Just a year ago the former child star tearfully filed for divorce from John Agar. Now her waiting period under California law is over and friends predict that she will wed the handsome son of a wealthy San Francisco family.

Shirley, who is 22, will not commit herself.

Nor is Black any more informative. His reply to the marriage rumor is "No comment."

But it is no secret to Shirley's friends that he has won her heart. He has been her only romantic interest since her divorce from actor Agar.

Met On Vacation

Shirley met Black in Hawaii where she and her daughter Susan were vacationing after the emotional trial. Black was then assistant to the president of a large pineapple concern. Soon afterwards he moved to Los Angeles where he sells time for a television station.

Black was graduated from Stanford University in three years and did post-graduate work at Harvard and Stanford. He distinguished himself in the navy during the war, rising from seaman to lieutenant-commander in six years of service throughout the Pacific. Acquaintances describe him as "extremely manly."

"He's calm and conservative—a solid-citizen type," said one of them. "He inspires confidence."

One thing is certain — Shirley is much happier than she was in the days before and after her break was Agar. Then she was far removed from the vivacious girl known to movie fans.

Transportation Worry

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 5 (CP) — St. Thomas electors will be faced with the problem of finding a transportation system after Dec. 20. A proposal of city council to subsidization of Bluebird Coach Lines for another year at a cost of $27,500 was defeated by 496 votes. The company said it would cease operation at the end of the year if subsidization was not forthcoming.

Jealous of Honor

TORONTO, Dec. 5 (CP) — A "miss-take" almost turned away one voter Monday in the civic elections here. A woman voter who insisted she was a "respectable widow" would not vote untill her name was changed on the list from "Miss" to "Mrs." The change was approved by city hall.

REACH FOR A RENNIE

British Commandos Still Making Things Bad For Enemy

By DAVE McINTOSH

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 5—(CP)—British Commandos still are making things nasty for the enemy—a sharp needle here, a hard jab there.

There are 250 of them operating in Korea. Half came from England; the other half was drawn from those fighting against the Communists in Malayan jungles.

During the days of the Pusan bridgehead, the Commandos operated from a Japanese base. They slid out in destroyers and submarines at night, landed far up the enemy coast to wreck bridges, tunnels, rail lines and communications.

Biggest job was near Sinamju, on west coast where they hauled 4,000 pounds of TNT ashore and set it off under a bridge. After that, they set the whole valley ablaze and then withdrew in their rubber boats to the waiting warships.

As of a few days ago, the Commandos were working with a United States Marine outfit, patrolling at night and taking prisoners.

Sometimes the entire 250 pad off into the cold night. "Just depends on how many prisoners we want," said Capt. Derek Pounds of Plymouth.

Casualties Light

The Commandos have lost three men, all killed. There have been no wounded.

One man was killed accidentally by his chum. The men were clambering back into their rubber boat after a raid when a rifle snagged and discharged. Another man was found dead on the beach. The third man "popped his head up at the wrong time".

Many of the Commandos are veterans of raids on the African, Italian, French, Dutch and Norwegian coasts. They still blacken their faces, carry wicked daggers and pack explosive on their backs for raids.

After the Inchon landing, the Commandos went on the prowl for guerrillas. "We chased them all over the countryside but neither of us did much damage," Pounds said.

A Slight Mistake

TORONTO, Dec. 5 (CP)—One man who appeared at the polls in Toronto's municipal election Monday was peeved when he was told his name was not on the voter's list. He was downright angry when further advised that the city clerk's office had him listed as dead. His strenuous objections apparently convinced polling officials that he was alive. He voted.

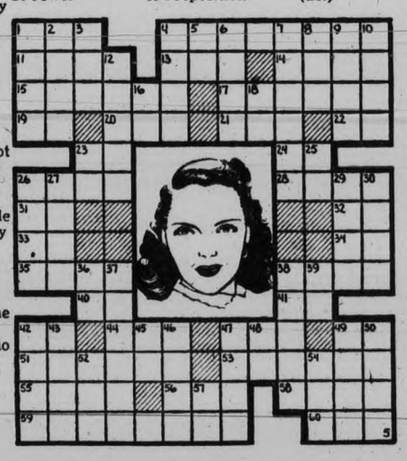
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Canada Will Soon Have Highest Living Standards

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

If Canadians really have that inferiority complex of which they so often accuse themselves, perhaps it's because they read so many statistics which put them ahead of the rest of the world, but second to the United States.

The current issue of "Industry," published by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, tackles the question from another angle which may bolster the national ego. It says:

Prideful United States propagandists have for years pointed to the statistical record which shows Americans as possessing most of this and most of that and most of the world's bathtubs.

Canadians, for the same length of time, have been told they were the happy possessor of the second highest living standard in the world.

But there have been several significant reports in the newspapers recently which indicate that living standards in this country are going higher.

Saunders Gives Boost

Robert Saunders, chairman of Ontario's hydro system, in announcing recently provincial progress in switching from 25 to 60-cycle power, said that in the township of East York, a thriving middle-class section of suburban Toronto, there were in the average home 5.5 pieces of equipment requiring a change-over. In a California change-over mentioned by Mr. Saunders, there was an average of less than one piece of equipment per house.

This, he contended, indicates that Ontario living standards are the highest in the world.

Now, this is a rather broad statement because, although East York probably possesses fewer electrical gadgets than the denizens of Beverly Hills, they are bound to have far more than the greater mass of poorer Californians.

But, while East York's condition may be better than the average across Canada, there is no doubt that Canadians' possession of those things that contribute to a good living standard are far from meagre.

Suspend Publication

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP) — Flair magazine will suspend publication after its January issue, a casualty of the tense Far East political situation, its publishers said Monday.

Talked Into Jail

WINDSOR, Dec. 5 — (CP) — Stephen Sabo, of Detroit, talked himself into a 30-day jail term after he had pleaded guilty to having 1,000 smuggled cigarettes. Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan explained a jail term would be given if there was any evidence Sabo intended to sell the cigarettes. RCMP Constable Grant McIvor said there was no such evidence. But Sabo interrupted to say he hoped to make "a little extra money" on the contraband smokes. He was sent to jail.

Plan Rehabilitation

TORONTO, Dec. 5 — (CP) — Rehabilitation of those now in Canada's United Nations force is already being planned, Maj.-Gen. E. L. Burns, Deputy Minister of Veterans' Affairs, said Monday. He spoke to a meeting of the Eastern Association of College and University Business Officers.

Norway Labor

OSLO (CP).—Labor peace in Norway was assured for another year when the Federation of Labor and the Employees' Association announced acceptance of a proposed agreement on wage compensations to offset increases in the cost of living. Of union members voting, 71 per cent were in favor.

Municipalities Losing Rights Oliver Declares

TORONTO, Dec. 5 — (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal House leader, said Monday night there is a master-servant relationship between the provincial government and the municipalities.

He said in an address prepared for delivery on a CBC Ontario network in the free-time political series, "Provincial Affairs," that Premier Frost's Progressive Conservative government has "constantly and persistently . . . invaded fields that were purely municipal in character."

Municipal councils now could do little in the way of enacting legislation and were fast becoming "administering units" for the provincial government.

"True," he said, "the government gives grants to municipalities but invariably the giving (is) so hemmed in by provincial direction that in the final result the local government has at once lost its autonomy over its own affairs and pays more in local taxes."

This applied to education, highways, social legislation "and every other field in which the province makes conditional grants."

The municipalities and the province "should be partners—not the master-servant relationship presenly existing."

Montreal Play Goes To Broadway Theatre

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (CP). — "Ti-Coq" (Little Rooster), a play by Gatien Gelinas, better known to French-Canadian threatregoers as Fridolin, will open on Broadway in February, it was announced Monday.

The play, now at Montreal's Gesu Theatre, will be presented here by Fridolin Productions in association with the Shubert Brothers. Originally done in French in Montreal, the play ran for two years there. Fridolin will be featured in the play with a bilingual cast, many of whom appeared in the original French version.

A spokesman for the attraction said it will be the first time that a "bilingual cast capable of presenting a play in two languages, has been assembled" in New York. It will be the first all-Canadian production to reach Broadway.

WALL SAVES THEATRE—Only a thick brick wall saved the Empire Theatre as flames engulfed four adjoining business blocks in a $500,000 fire in Thessalon, Ont. No one was injured, but 15 persons were made homeless.

The youth's father—Gordon R. Stephen—said Monday that although his son had offered no "definite reason" for his sudden departure from Queen's a week ago, he "possibly" would return to Kingston and resume studies in the near future.

10,000 GM Workers To Get Pay Boosts

OSHAWA, Dec. 5 — (CP). — General Motors of Canada limited announced Monday that 10,000 employees will receive pay boosts as a result of increases in the official cost-of-living index during the last three months.

Some 8,000 hourly-rated workers' cost-of-living allowance goes from three to five cents an hour, effective December 23. About 2,000 salaried employees will get $25 for the period December 15 to March 15, instead of the $15 they received for the previous three months.

The pall-bearers were Victor Irwin, Vernie Heath, Richard Morton, Robert Scarlett, William Loge, and Howard Finch. Burial was in Rylestone Cemetery.

United States People Expect To Suffer Attack In New War

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (CP). — The United States, almost unscratched by the enemy of two world wars, is unprepared for enemy attacks in the event of a third.

Therefore, with the world situation steadily worsening, civil defence has become a subject of intense activity almost overnight.

In the First World War, the enemy dented the United States mainland by a few acts of sabotage only. The closest approach apparently made by German military forces occurred July 21, 1918. In plain view of bathers on the beach near Cape Cod, Mass., a U-boat poured shells into a string of four barges and sank them.

In the Second World War, the enemy made deeper pinpricks.

On a Monday evening, Feb. 23, 1942, a Japanese submarine surfaced near Santa Barbara, Cal., and shelled an oil refinery.

Other Activities

About the same time another Jap submarine shelled shore batteries at Astoria, Ore., and a plane released from a submarine dropped incendiary bombs near Brookings, Ore., in an attempt to set forest fires. Other sub-based aircraft are believed to have flown over Seattle.

Air-raid scares agitated Los Angeles, San Francisco, New York and other cities, but there appears to be no proof that enemy planes visited any of those places. Anti-aircraft batteries in Los Angeles actually fired at "planes" in one such "attack."

In 1944 and 1945, the Japanese sent thousands of bomb-laden balloons floating across the Pacific. Many landed in Canada and the United States, and one killed a woman and five children picnicking near Lakeview, Ore., May 5, 1945.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation says there were no cases of enemy-directed sabotage in the last war. Eight German saboteurs were brought to Florida and Long Island, N. Y., by submarines in June, 1942, but they were arrested in New York and Chicago. Six of them were sent to the electric chair, the other two imprisoned and deported after the war.

In the fall of 1944 two more Germans landed from U-boats on the coast of Maine and were caught almost at once. A military commission sentenced them to be hanged but President Roosevelt commuted their punishment to life imprisonment.

Six months before the Japanese attacked the American naval base at Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, the office of civilian defence was created in the United States. Thousands of air-raid wardens were appointed.

Today the sense of urgency is returning, and not only to coastal cities. No one believes the United States could go through a third world war with only false alarms and pinpricks.

A federal civil defence administration has been created and Congress has been asked to put this agency on a sound legal basis and give it broad powers.

This, Congress is likely to do. There is a widespread feeling that any future war is "for keeps."

A-Bomb Defence

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP). — The only defence against the atomic bomb is dispersal from large centres to country areas, said William Farren, South Porcupine fire chief, in an address recently. He attended the fire school at Toronto where civil defence was a major topic.

Actress Returns To Find Changes

NEW YORK (AP).—It was a vastly-changed Broadway which Irene Dunne saw the other day when she returned to the scenes where she starred in musical comedy before going to Hollywood in 1930.

The Kentucky-born movie star returned trimuphantly from London where she played the part of Queen Victoria in "The Mudlark."

The Ziegfeld Theatre and the Shubert Theatre are still going strong, but Miss Dunne found the other theatres where she had played here were either turned into movie and television theatres or torn down completely. Even "Shubert Alley" now is a smart lane of elegant shops.

Miss Dunne said the part of Queen Victoria was difficult because of the make-up and because of her own height.

"Victoria was 5 feet 2 inches tall, and I am 5 feet 5½ inches," she said. "We solved that by me playing in my stocking feet beneath my floor-length dresses, and by having chairs built larger to give the impression that I was short."

The make-up was a more difficult problem. Miss Dunne has a thin, classically chiselled face. So a special mask was made for her, giving her a double chin and pump cheeks with only her eyes being left as they naturally are. A new mask had to be made every day, then glued on.

Child Art Show Attracted Many

OTTAWA (CP). — More than 5,000 persons have seen the Swedish exhibition of children's art brought to the National Gallery here under the sponsorship of the Swedish Legation.

The exhibition is returning to Sweden but Mrs. Per Wijkman, wife of the Swedish Minister, says it may come back to Canada later to visit other cities here.

The display contains more than 100 water-colors done by children up to the age of 14 for a competition organized by the National Gallery at Stockholm and the magazine "Folket I Bild" (People In Pictures).

Mrs. Wijkman says the contest has been held annually for more than six years. The Swedish National Gallery keeps the best work in its permanent records.

Christmas Music of Ages In Six Scene Panorama Presented by Study Club

A panorama of Christmas music carefully selected after intensive research, was presented Monday afternoon by the Music Study Club of the Women's Art Association, comprising the studio program for December.

Narration, prepared and read by Mrs. F. E. Hooper, greatly enhanced the knowledge and pleasure of the audience. The book which the Music Club is studying this year is entitled "Music through the ages" and in keeping with this idea the musicale was based on "Christmas music through the ages."

Six periods, each representing an era in Chistmas music, outlined from the early church in the 12th century to modern times, and the music of living composers, including "The Wondrous Birth" by Frederic G. Mann of Peterborough, which was also a bow to the centennial celebration of 1950.

Imaginary scenes were set by Mrs. Hooper in all but the fifth period—19th century England, the period of Waites or Noel Singers. For this the songsters impersonated singers around Charles Dickens's house and illustrated with "God rest ye merry, gentlemen" and "Silent Night."

The first scene described was a monastery in Italy where originated not only the Christmas carol, but also the Christmas Mystery Plays. The second was a village market place in 15th century England, illustrted with music of the folk song in three legendary Christmas carols.

An Italian chapel in the 16th century housed the carol making of the Mediaeval Church and in illustration Mrs. James Goldie sang a carol written in 1649 entitled "The Cradle."

The fourth period was illustrated with music in Bach's time by Gwen Craw and Charles Allen playing at two pianos "Jesu joy of man's desiring" and "Sheep may safely graze," and Mrs. D. B. Gordon in a Bach solo, "O little one sweet, O little one mild."

The Club set up a committee of Mrs. H. V. Dobson, Mrs. J. Goldie and Mrs. G. W. Craw to arrange the musicale. The research was done by Mrs. Hooper who wrote the narrative in keeping with the numbers selected.

Mrs. Craw played the accompaniment for carol singing by the entire group, in which the audience joined, with Miss M. Clarry conducting.

Singers were Mrs. T. Aspinall, Mrs. C. Allen, Miss E. Anderson, Mrs. A. B. Burrows, Mrs. C. Crowe, Mrs. G. H. Cutmore, Mrs. C. Carson, Mrs. H. V. Dobson, Mrs. J. Goldie, Mrs. D. B. Gordon, Mrs. V. Morphet, Mrs. J. Matthews, Mrs. C. H. Marrs, Mrs. W. G. Ovens, Mrs. W. R. Philp, Mrs. C. E. Potts and Mrs. H. R. Scott.

In opening remarks Association president Mrs. N. D. Seaton referred to the forming of the Club three years ago, as a branch, and at the close she expressed most sincere thanks for the very lovely program which has been presented annually since that time.

Mrs. Charles Allen, convener of the Music Study Club, accepted the thanks on behalf of her associates. Also the special message extended to Mr. Charles Allen who filled in on the two-piano team owing to unavoidable absence of Mrs. R. R. Baker.

No Extremes for Spring '51 As Styles Gain In Subtlety

TORONTO, Dec. 5 — The big news in the fashion world for 1951 is that women —at long last —are going to be permitted to wear what they like. This was seen to day when the annual two day spring preview of fashions was opened.

Fashion commentator Rosemary Boxer said "No one fashion, no single silhouette will completely dominate the fashion scene next spring."

Instead of the style regimentation seen for the last several years— the "new look," the tubular "sheath silhouette" and others —the show forsees the fashion aim of every Canadian woman will be to select that which is most becoming to her way of life and which best expresses her own personality.

The keynote of the spring showings is comfort and represents a successful way of life.

The new style developments are not startling. Instead, the emphasis is toward modification.

The mood is calmer. The silhouette has lost much of last year's exaggeration and gained considerably in subtlety.

Extremes of fullness have given way to clever draping, frequently asymetrical. The slender and ample silhouettes find equal favor. Restrain and simplicity recur again and again in the foreshadowed styles.

Fabrics and colors will play leading roles in the 1951 fashion world. Pure silk prints will be sheen as well as tissue failes, taffetas, shantungs and heavy laces.

The country's top designers have turned to suit fabrics which have more than ordinary "surface" interest, such as soft tweeds. Colors range from the still--new burnt orange through a spectrum of golds and purples.

The impotant suit silhouette to be worn in the Easter parade and on Canada's boulevards and thoroughafres nex tspring is the box jacket with a slender skirt. These were seen here today alike in plain materials, two-tones and check. The softly feminine line has replaced the more harshly tailored cut of yesterday.

Coats.

Spring coats, generally speaking, are full. This was noticeable in both long and short styles. Headed for a tops in style is the pyramid silhouette.

Collars are tremendously important and sleeves have achieved a new interest, particularly in coats and suits where the new three-quarters push-up sleeve found much favor.

Dresses.

Toronto designers emphasize slender silhouette in afternoon frocks, with the sheath or side-draping on narrow skirts most popular. Evening gowns are luxurious in colors and fabrics.

Chance Purchase Starts Museum Of Rare Shakers

TORONTO (CP). — A chance five-cent purchase at an auction sale started Mrs. Frank Owen of Brockville off on an interesting and rewarding hobby — the collection of odd pepper and salt shakers. She now has almost 800, accumulated since she first bid five cents to buy a box sight unseen.

Inside the box were five shakers of various shapes and sizes. From there on her hobby grew almost in spite of herself, she confessed in an interview here. She came to Toronto to show them at two charity bazaars.

"It wasn't long before friends were sending them to me from vacation spots and for Christmas and whenever they saw a pair I didn't have," she said. "Now I am a member of the Good Neighbor Salt and Pepper Club of Los Angeles, Calif. Before I even had my diploma, 39 members had sent me pairs."

Duplicates Rare

Duplicates, which are rare, are no problem—she just trades them off to other collectors.

The collection includes a big squirrel with salt in its tail and pepper in its head; a camel and its Arab driver; a mouse and a piece of cheese; a "salt" bride and "pepper" groom, standing before a roly-poly minister. It also includes delicate, old, hand-painted perfume bottles which long ago were turned into shakers. Some of these are more than 125 years old.

What does she use on her own table?

"Well, dear me," she said with a laugh, "I just use an old tin for pepper and a store spice bottle for salt."

DOROTHY DIX

Going With Married Man Wastes Girl's Best Years

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young girl and my mother disapproves of my going out with a married man. Why shouldn't I do so if I want to I find married men much more attractive than the boys. Also they give me a better time, because they have more money to spend. I think my mother is old-fashioned in her ideas. PEARL.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: The time will come, Pearl, when you will wish you had listened to your mother's advice. There are any number of good reasons why a girl should not go out with married men. The one that should appeal mostly to her conscience is that when she does so she is doing a deadly wrong to a sister woman. Of course, the girl's alibi is that the man who philanders with her is not true to his wife anyway, but what the man does is no excuse for the girl's part in the sordid transaction.

It's No Accomplishment

Many girls go around with married men because they think it shows how fascinating they are to be able to take a man away from his wife, but that is where they make their big mistake. It is no trick at all for a pretty, slim, gay young girl to wheedle a middle-aged man from a wife who has got tired and sobered down bearing children and helping him make his fortune. The real test of a girl's attractiveness is in being able to charm a young man into assuming her board bill and shopping ticket for life.

Occasionally a girl succeeds in making a man divorce his wife and marry her, but not often, and she seldom builds a house of happiness on the ruins of the home she has wrecked. Sometimes the girl falls so much in love with the married man who cannot and will not marry her that she ruins her own life by becoming a "back-street wife," or else she becomes sour and cynical with the knowledge that she has wasted all of her youth and beauty and enthusiasm on a man to whom she was one of many playthings, and who threw her away when he got tired of her.

And the silliest of girls must know that if she goes with married men single men will pass her up. She will be out of their class for one thing, and, for another, the world always believes the worst of an affair between a girl and a married man, and not many young men want a married man's leavings. Every girl who goes out with married men does something that she prays no other girl will do to her when she marries.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What attitude is it possible to take toward old people whose ideas seem ugly and wrong to us and yet who are tied to us by bonds of blood or marriage? The Bible says "Honor thy father and mother," yet I have found that the hardest of all the commandments to obey. Our minds expand by studying and reading and contact with life, while the minds of the old are static. How can one honor an outmoded, narrow and intolerant point of view? How can one honor a censorious attitude and mind that refuses new ideas? I have obeyed the command to honor my parents, and the unuttered retort, the meek silence and polite attention for a long, drawn-out, dull period have been a veritable torture. It seemed the only course at the time, yet I wonder whether it was wise.

MRS. H. C. L.

ANSWER: Every kindly act is more than wise. It is a benediction that blesses those that give and those that receive, and I am sure that the knowledge that you showed your old parents tenderness instead of irritability; that you bit back the sharp speech, and that you made their last days happy will be among the things that you will like best to remember when you audit your account with life.

It does not seem to me that we are justified in taking any attitude toward the old except that of infinite patience and infinite kindness. And this is a hard saying because old age is not always sweet and lovely and appreciative. It is not even often so.

We may well remember that these old fathers and mothers scrimped and saved to give up the education they never had But for them we might still have the closed mind that refuses new ideas; the narrow, intolerant point of view which we deride. They lifted us into a world above themselves and opened doors through which they knew they could never enter. And so the least that we can do is to make a few sacriifces for those who have made so many for us.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: At what age is it advisable for a boy and girl to marry? Also what should be the minimum amount of the boy's salary? DICK.

ANSWER: I do not think any boy and girl should marry until they are in their twenties, because up to that time they are immature and incapable of knowing what they want in a husband or wife. The amount of money that a young couple should have to marry on depends upon the scale of life to which they have been accustomed. It should cover the way they are willing to live, with a little over for emergencies and for the rainy day that is sure to come to us all.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Remain Traditional Dishes For Christmas

"Marj." wants recipe for "Spiced Beef" and since the recipe specifies eleevn days for making it it's high time it appeared in this column.

✧ ✧ ✧

Spiced Beef

(This is usually served cold, but if it is to be reheated slice it and heat it through in top of double boiler uncovered.)

Buy eight pounds of rump beef, or lean brisket point; 1 teaspoon each black pepper and mace, 1 whole nutmeg freshly grated, ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 onion, ⅞ cup moist brown sugar, 2 teaspoons ground cloves, ½ pound salt, 1½ pints beef broth, 4 sliced carrots, small sprig thyme, 4 sprigs parsley. Miv the dry spices with the sugar and rub the surfaces of the meat with this mixture, rubbing it in well, then let the meat lie in it for 2 days in cool place, covered. Then rub the salt into the beef, using all of of the salt and being patient and rubbing it well. Let it lie for 9 days, turning the meat over every day. It should be in cool place. Quickly wash off the meat but do not let it soak. Place in large stewing pan, cover with beef broth, bring to boil, skim off scum, add the vegetables and thyme and parsley. When boiling, cover and reduce heat to simmering point and simmer 3½ to 4 hours or until quite tender. Allow to cool in this liquor. When ready to serve stick it all over with cloves as you would a baked ham. Slice with very sharp knife in very thin slices.

A traditional accompaniment for this is horseradish sauce, made by folding well-drained horseradish into stiffly beaten cream.

✧ ✧ ✧

Steak and Oyster Pie

This is ideal for Christmas Eve supper or, if you can still think of food, for late supper on Christmas night itself. In my brother's home it is one of the dishes included in their New Year's day entertaining.

It may be made the day before eaten, and served either hot or cold. Died-in-the-wool Britons will prefer it sliced thin and cold. If to be re-heated cover top with greased brown paper and place in cold oven and turn on heat and heat up to 275 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, when pie will be heated through.

Two pounds best tender beefsteak, 1 cup plump oysters, salt and pepper, 1 or 2 cups sliced mushrooms, 2 hard-cooked eggs sliced thin 1 cup cold water, pastry as rich as you know how to make—the amount required uses 4 cups flour. Beat steak with rolling pin to break fibres and cut into 2-inch squares, ½-inch thick. Line sides of large deep casserole with pastry. Put steak in bottom, season with salt and pepper, cover with the cold water. Put mushrooms, then oysters over it in layers. Cover with the sliced hard- cooked eggs. Put on well-gashed pastry crust about one-quarter inch thick. Seal edges. To further insure seal, put strip of pastry all the way around outside of top of edge, sealing it with cold water to dish and edge of pastry. Brush top with beaten egg to give it a yellow color. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for one-half hour, then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour longer.

For clearer and darker turkey gravy use cornstarch instead of flour, rubbing it to a paste with cold water, and cooking over boiling water for 15 minutes, to cook starch thoroughly. This is a big improvement on flour gravy.

Cookbook of The Week

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

To prepare meals for a tiny family so that there will be plenty of variety without waste is a difficult thing, but all the answers are in this week's cookbook release, "Meals for Two Cookbook." This is the twenty-first title in the series of twenty-four cookbooks which are being made available for only 25c each to readers of The Examiner.

Meals for Two has shopping suggestions, a list of necessary equipment, and recipe after recipe designed for just two portions. Besides there are many suggestions for preparing certain foods in larger quantity and varying the final preparation from Meals for Two so that there will be no monotony of leftovers, Here, for instance, is a recipe for refrigerator rolls which is particularly practical to have on hand in the small household because it can be varied in so many ways. Some of the variations are included:

Refrigerator Rolls

¾ cup milk or water
1-3 cup sugar
3 tablespoons shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 cake yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs, beaten
4 cups sifted flour

Scald milk or use warm water add sugar, shortening and salt cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in lukewarm water; add eggs and mix well. Add to milk mixture Add ½ of flour and beat thoroughly. Add remaining flour and mix well. Grease top of dough slightly; cover bowl closely with waxed paper and towel, fastened with a rubber band. Chill. About 2½ hours before baking, cut off amount of dough needed. Shape into rolls, plain, cloverleaf or Parker House. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk, about 2½ hours. Bake in greased pan in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 25 to 36 minutes. Makes 2 dozen.

If desired, brush rolls with melted butter before baking.

Pecan Rolls

Use ½ refrigerator roll dough. Roll into oblong piece ¼ inch thick. Spread with ¼ cup soft butter, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ cup chopped pecans. Roll up lengthwise; cut off 1-inch slices. Butter muffin pans liberally and sprinkle with brown sugar and chopped pecans; place slices on top Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake as directed for refrigerator rolls. Makes 1 dozen rolls.

Remove from pans as soon as taken from oven and serve upside down.

Coffee Cake

Use ½ recipe refrigerator roll dough. Cut into 12 pieces. Roll out slightly; roll each piece in soft butter, then in cinnamon and sugar. Place in 2 rows of 6 each in greased 8 x 8 inch) pan. Dot with butter; sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar, then with grated orange rind. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 45 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

It is so easy to obtain your copy of Meals for two. All you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present the coupon with 25c to The Examiner office, your carrier, Braund's Home Food Markets or to the Dominion Master Market. By mail, send 30c (5c for mailing) to Cookbook Dept., Peterborough Examiner.

Delbert Olan Elected Reeve Of Cavan

Delbert Oland toppled Robert Armstrong from the Cavan township reeveship Monday with a 513 to 406 vote. Fairy heavy voting was recorded.

Harold Bradburn and John H. McKnight, both councillors for the last two years, headed the poll for council with votes of 657 and 656, respectively. Joseph Thorn won the third council seat with 438 votes. He was well ahead of the two defeated candidates—George W. Howden 254 and Howard Berry 189.

For the North Cavan school board Harold Hooton headed the poll with 251 votes. He was followed by Bruce Sargent 246 and the defeated candidate, Gordon Staples, 243.

Marshall Fallis, a newcomer, received 246 votes to head the South Cavan poll. Russell Bonner, a trustee for two years, and Donald Lang, another newcomer, tied with 189. Should there be a recount one of them must rank as a defeated candidate because there are only two vacancies on the school board.

Lloyd Hooton, councillor for the last five years, was acclaimed deputy reeve.

Hospital Bylaw Election Issue

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 5 (CP)— Ratepayers here will vote Jan. 1 on a $1,000,000 money bylaw for a 136-bed hospital extension plan, instead of the $1,750,000 proposed two weeks ago.

If the bylaw fails, the city's total hospital accommodation will be reduced to 45 beds, two old wings in the General and Marine Hospital, built in 1893 and 1912, having been condemned by the provincial health department as "unfit and unsafe."

City council proposed two weeks ago to have the city underwrite a debenture issue of $1,750,000, plus interest and charges, but this amount would have been reduced considerably in terms of direct cost to the city by contributions from Grey and Bruce counties.

Unofficial opposition was expressed to this plan because of uncertainty as to what actual costs to the city would ultimately be. Under the new scheme as approved by city council Monday night, the city's share will definitely be $1,000,000 plus debenture costs.

The balance required for the project will, above provincial and Dominion grants, be arranged separately with the counties and outside municipalities involved. No revision was made in the hospital construction plans.

Dr. R. T. Potter Elected Mayor Of Belleville

Dr. R. T. Potter was elected Mayor of Belleville on Monday. He had 3,462 votes, a lead of 1,356 over his rival H. J. Allin.

In the aldermanic race, where seven will be elected, this was the standing: W. H. Rollins, 2,419; A. D. Duffy, 2,229; D. A. Thomas, 2,244; W. B. Lattimer, 2,194; W. J. Countryman, 1,778; E. G. Porter, 1,673; H. J. Clark, 1,656; E. H. Liddle, 1,567; A. R. Temple, 1,546; H. J. Armstrong, 1,385; N. C. Wilbur, 1,118; C. C. Clark, 1,101; J. M. Wood, 1,055; C. F. Leggat, 593.

On the health unit bylaw, 1,172 voted for and 819 against, and the natural gas bylaw had 2,847 votes for and 1,482 against.

Edward Joseph Lynch

Funeral for the late Edward Joseph Lynch, 63, of Peterborough, was held today from the Duffus Funeral Home to the Sacred Heart Church. Requiem mass was said by the Rev. G. F. Sullivan who also said graveside prayers. Pallbearers were Melville Guyatt, Bernard Leahy, Fergus Moher, Edward and Peter Shaughnessy and Joseph Ryan. Burial was at St. Peter's cemetery.

Major Drope Re-Elected

Major R. E. Drope, Harwood, manager of the Harwood Co-operative creamery, was re-elected president of the Ontario Creamery Association last week at the annual convention held in Toronto. The Ontario Creamery Association comprises all the butter manufacturing plants in Ontario.

Dislikes Pressure

SASKATOON, Sask — (CP)— The Saskatoon and District Labor Council at a recent meeting said school children are being "pressurized" into giving money to charitable organizations because the donations are made public. It passed a resolution urging all donations to be anonymous.

Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"THE APPLE OF THE EYE"

Something uncommonly dear to us is often referred to as "the apple of our eye."

Literally, this "apple" of which we speak means the pupil of the eye because in ancient times the pupil was thought by all to be a round solid ball very much like an apple. Because of this we speak of "the apple of our eye" when we mean something or someone extremely dear to us.

the first encounter 17-10. The final game saw the Southend Saints take the lead and hold it through until the finish and take it by a 14-8 score.

St. Luke's Midgets were at home against Legion No. 5. The Midgets came from behind twice to deadlock it—but the Old Sweats, having the experience and reserve power, went on to take the game 13-8. The Midgets really caught the Legion napping in the second encounter by scoring a big six and then rubbed it in by allowing the Old Sweats to tally in only four ends, while they grabbed the rest and the game 17-7.

SOE No. 8 were the opponents of the Smoke-eaters at the Fire Hall and the fire laddies were rolling along in nice style to the tune of 10-3—when all at once the Sons captured the next five ends and game 12-11. The final game saw the Sons continuing their winning streak until the 7th frame leading 8-4—then the Smoke-eaters cleared the smoke out of their eyes and proceeded to take the last five ends and the game 12-8. Two great battles.

The final game of the week saw Legion No. 7 vs. Legion No. 3 and they were also two swell games. The first game was a nip and tuck affair all the way with the Big Bens showing a reserve of power to take the last two ends by singles and the game by a score of 11-8. The second encounter was a battle of singles until the 8th frame when the Legionnaires scored a big four and took the lead by one—but the Big Bens came back to tie it up in the next frame. The Legionnaires showed the reserve power this time by taking the last three ends and also the game 10-6.

Schedule for the week of Dec. 12: Fire Hall No. 9 vs. St. Luke's No. 1; SOE No. 8 vs. St. George's No. 10; Legion No. 3 vs. LOL No. 2; Glen's No. 6 vs. Quaker's No. 4; Legion No. 7 vs. Legion No. 5.

There will have to be an executive meeting called soon to decide where St. Luke's team will be playing their doubles as all the rest of the doubles have always been played at the Legion Hall. The last warning is out, re draw tickets. As the draw takes place at the Legion bingo next Wednesday evening, Dec. 6, all tickets and money must be turned in to A. Pilling not later than that date. Please co-operate.

A complaint has been delivered in regard to running shots. The rule says, "No running shots are allowed. The referee shall, according to his judgment on a running shot, have power to stop ball and remove same and allow game to proceed." Each member can co-operate by being sure he is not guilty in this regard.

Both F. Bell and W. Wilson are again in the hospital and we all wish them a speedy recovery.

Standing to Dec. 2:

	W	L	T	Pts	Av
Quaker's No. 4	8	5	1	17	58%
SOE No. 8	8	5	1	17	54%
LOL No. 2	7	4	3	17	50%
Fire Hall No. 9	6	4	4	16	54%
Legion No. 5	7	5	2	16	48%
Legion No. 3	5	5	4	14	50%
Glen's No. 6	7	7	0	14	49%

Legion No. 7	6	8	0	12	43%
St. Luke's No. 1	2	12	0	4	43%

The league race still stays very tight with three teams deadlocked for first position and only five points separating first and ninth place. Keep up the good work.

Roach Report Recommends Accident Prevention Handled By 3-Man Board

TORONTO, Dec. 5—(CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court Justice today proposed sweeping revision of the province's laws dealing with accident prevention in industry. Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, in a report on an inquiry into the operation of the Workmen's Compensation Act, recommended that accident prevention be brought under direct jurisdiction of the three-member board which administers the Act and that labor should share in the program. Accident prevention now is handled by employer associations.

(British Columbia and Alberta are the only provinces where accident prevention comes under direct jurisdiction of the Board.)

This recommendation was in line with a suggestion made by Labor representatves and opposed by management spokesmen during Mr. Justice Roach's inquiry. His 125-page printed report was compiled from 48 briefs and other submissions made during 17 days of public meetings here in December, 1949, and early this year.

Exhaustive Study

The 30,000-word report also reflected an exhaustive study of similar legislation in Britain and Canada's other provinces, excluding Newfoundland which has no comparable law.

The inquiry was the second conducted on operation of the Act since its inception May 1, 1914—it went into operation Jan. 1, 1915—as the vanguard of Workmen's Compensation Law in the Dominion. The late Mr. Justice William E. Middleton conducted the earlier inquiry in 1931-32.

Mr. Justice Roach made several recommendations on other features of the Act, including these:

Quicker Payment

Reduction of the waiting period following a personal injury before compensation is payable from seven days to four working days; (in the interval the disabled worker now receives medical aid, but in cases where the disability lasts less than seven days he gets no compensation);

That the maximum yearly earnings on which compensation is allowable in the case of non-fatal accidents be increased from $3,000 to $4,000; (this figure would put Ontario ahead of Saskatchewan, only other province where the maximum now is $3,000. In all other provinces it is $2,500);

That the amount for burial expenses in case of fatal accident be increased from $125 to $200; and where the body has to be transferred a considerable distance for burial, the sum allowed for extra expenses be raised from $125 to $175;

That members of municipal volunteer fire brigades be covered by the Act; and that its provisions be made applicable to all persons who under the Criminal Code of Canada are required to assist in arrests or in preserving the peace, such as sheriffs (police already are protected);

Urge Act Extended

Extension of the Act to cover any industry in a class now excluded, empowering the board to accept on application four or more workmen under terms and conditions to be determined by the Board;

That full compensation be paid in a case where an accident causes any injury to a workman and it is aggravated by some pre-existing physical conditions (in such cases now the board allows only 50 per cent of the amount that would normally be awarded).

Mr. Justice Roach's suggested revision of the Act on accident prevention excluded the mining industry which already is covered in the Ontario Mining Act.

It also would not apply to industries which are individually liable to pay medical aid, compensation and so on to the board in respect of workers, such as railways, street railways, express, telegraph and telephone companies; navigation, towing and warine wrecking; municipalities; commissions and school boards, and the Crown.

Important Part

"The prevention of accidents in industry is a subject of no less importance than is compensation for injuries sustained as a result of such accidents," the commissioner said. "It is infinitely more important that, where possible, an accident should be prevented than that it should be permitted to occur and the victim be compensated. It is therefore appropriate that an Act which provides compensation to the victims of industrial accidents should contain provisions dealing with prevention of such accidents."

"In my respectful opinion, the present provisions of the Act dealing with accident prevention are not adequate and need revision.

"Since accident prevention is of common interest to both employers and workmen it would seem logical that they should both actively participate in any organized system the purpose of which is to lessen industrial accidents . . . It seems to me that the workmen are much more vitally interested than the employers. If a workman is maimed in an industry ,the employer has to pay the compensation but no monetary allowance can ever adequately compensate a workman who has to go through the balance of his life minus an eye, or a hand or some other member.

Want Labor Participation

"My first criticism of the present system is that it does not provide any means which will ensure the active participation of Labor in the work of accident prevention."

He also criticized as "much too remote" the relationship between the board and eight accident prevention associations formed under provisions of the Act and approved by the board and government.

". . . There is no statutory obligation on any of those associations to report to anyone . . . They owe no duty to anyone. There is no statutory obligation on them to continue to function and the extent to which they function is their own business. Although it is not likely to happen it is pertinent to observe that if any one of them ceased to function tomorrow there are no provisions in the Act for the carrying on of the important work of accident prevention."

Among other things, his suggested revision would give the board power to:

Investigate places of employment and determine what safety devices or other reasonable requirements should be adopted for the prevention of accidents and the prevention of industrial diseases;

Apply To Both Sides

Make rules and regulations which may apply to both employers and workmen for the prevention of accidents and industrial diseases;

Appoint advisory committees on which employers and workmen shall be represented to assist the board in establishing reasonable standards of safety in employments and to recommend rules and regulations;

Charge any class, sub-class or employer with the cost of any expenditure made for its benefit, including the cost of investigations, inspections and other services for the prevention of accidents.

The board also would be empowered to order installation of safety devices, and to apply sanctions against employers who failed to do so within the prescribed time limit.

Where the board decided that any association already established was effectively carrying out accident prevention in industries it represented, the board would have power to adopt the association as its agent for the purpose of carrying out administration duties.

The eight associations currently functioning are the Lumbermen's Safety Association; Ontario Pulp and Paper Makers Safety Association; Mines Accident Prevention Association of Ontario; Class 20 Accident Prevention Association of Ontario; Electrical Employers Association of Ontario; Construction Safety Association of Ontario; Ontario Highway Construction Safety Association Class 21; Industrial Accident Prevention Association.

Shouldn't Pay More

On industry's financial contributions towards operation of the Act, Mr. Justice Roach found it unfair that additional money necessary to provide for increased benefits in respect of past accidents should be levied and collected from the employers.

This resulted from increases in the percentage of average earnings on which benefits are computed from 55 per cent in 1914 to 62 2/3 in 1920 and 75 in 1949.

He recommended deletion of the respective section of the Act and the substitution of a provision that such money be paid by the government to the board out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

He held that main reason for increasing pensions awarded in respect of past accidents was changed economic conditions, and that the burden of providing such assistance as was necessary as a result to the workman or his dependents should be borne by society as a whole and not one group — industry.

Unfair Assessment

Mr. Justice Roach also deemed it unfair that some employers are subject to double assessment in cases where their chief place of business is in Ontario and an accident happens to a workman employed outside the province.

To offset this he recommended that the board make arrangements with workmen's compensations board of other provinces to avoid duplication of assessments on the earnings of workmen protected at the same time under the laws of two or more provinces.

With respect to the seven-day waiting period, he said he was convinced that there should be some waiting period and if the disability extended beyond that period, compensation should be payable from the date of the accident. Labor representatives had asked that it be completely abolished, while industry spokesmen urged that it be retained.

Mr. Justice Roach noted that in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Quebec if the disability continued for seven days, and in New Brunswick for four days, compensation was payable from the date of disability. In the Western provinces if the disability lasted three days or less no compensation was payable.

It also was pertinent that the work week in many industries had been shortened since the Act was first passed, and to leave the waiting period at seven days in the face of the shorter week meant increasing the amount of the worker's contribution.

Count Working Days

He said the present waiting period included some non-working days, and since the purpose of the Act was to compensate the injured worker for loss of earnings he felt the waiting period should be "working days" but that they should include all holidays for which the workman, if uninjured, would have been paid without working.

On industrial disease, he recommended only a minor change affecting silicosis, suggesting that the word be substituted for "stone workers' or grinders' phthisis." In his opinion he felt the system now in use in dealing with claims based on alleged compensable silicosis was "entirely adequate."

"The presence of compensable silicosis can only be determined by authorities who are experts on the subject, and it would be utter folly to give either management or labor any voice in determining that question."

Court Rebukes Justice Chevrier

TODONTO, Dec. 5—(CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Monday rebuked Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier of the Ontario Supreme Court for calling in "outside assistance" in reaching a decision in a case arising from a family squabble over house.

The court quashed his decision in favor of Mrs. Annis B. Robinson, 37, who disputed possession of the house with her parents, Albert E. Cowl, 72, and Mrs. Ena Cowl, 70. The court also ordered a new trial.

When the testimony of witnesses clashed at a hearing last January, Mr. Justice Chevrier remarked:

"I'm going to get at the truth and it's going to go badly with those who are trying to deceive me."

The Appeal Court judgment said he called in investigators from the Ontario Attorney-General's department and used their findings in reaching his decision.

Mr. Justice W. T. Henderson said in his verbal judgment, concurred in by Mr. Justice F. D. Hogg and Mr. Justice C. W. R. Bowlby:

"I do not think any judge has the right to go out and get the opinions of anyone outside of what is said to him in court."

India Urges Cease-Fire In Korea Now

Would Let Chinese Take Part In All Negotiations

NEW DELHI, Dec. 6—(AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told parliament today that India has suggested a cease-fire in Korea and establishment of a demilitarized zone, followed by negotiations in which Communist China would take part.

Nehru did not make clear when the Indian recommendation was made, but observers believed it referred to earlier efforts to halt the United Nations drive below the Manchurian border, rather than any Indian action since the Red Chinese offensive began.

The Prime Minister said the situation is changing so rapidly that it is impossible for anyone to suggest what might be done.

The only hope at the moment, he added, is that the Washington talks between Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman "will lead to a peaceful way out of this situation."

Outlining the government's foreign policy, Nehru told parliament: "The fate of the world depends on the big powers—what they do or not do.

"It depends more on the United States, the United Kingdom, Russia and China than all the other countries in the world put together.

"I make an earnest appeal that these countries make every effort to solve the present tangle by peaceful methods. The consequences of not doing so are too terrible to contemplate . . . We will do everything in our power to promote peace and avoid war."

Nehru expressed hope that "there will be no question now or hereafter of use of the atomic bomb," which he said has become "a symbol of incarnate evil. If circumstances force the world to use it, it means the world has surrendered to evil."

Judith Coplon Wins Appeal For New Trial

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 rAPf—A United States appeals court Tuesday reversed Judith Coplon's conviction and ordered her retried on a charge of plotting to spy for Russia.

The court ruled that Miss Coplon's arrest by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents without a warrant was illegal. All three judges agreed.

The decision gives the 29-year-old former government girl a fresh chance at freedom from a 15-year prison sentence imposed on her in New York last March 9.

But it does not affect a 40-month to 10-year sentence hanging over her in Washington on a separate count. She was convicted there of stealing government secrets from her justice department office. She is appealing that conviction, too.

Miss Coplon was depicted by the government during her trial as a furtive agent of the Soviet, a cold-war accomplice of the enemies of her native land.

Convicted Too

Convicted with her in New York was Valentin A. Gubitchev, 33, a married Soviet engineer and at that time a United Nations employee. He chose to be deported rather than serve a 15-year prison sentence when given a choice by this government.

The FBI told of tapipng Miss Coplon's telephone wires, shadowing her to secret night-time rendezvous with Gubitchev and finally running both of them down in a chase through the heart of New York.

In her purse, agents testified, they found notations of government secrets intended for relay by Gubitchev to the Soviet.

But Miss Coplon denied stealing any secrets. She said she made a few notes from government papers but only to use as source material for a novel she hoped to write about a government girl's life in Washington.

PYONGYANG ABANDONED—Reds closed in on Pyongyang, defended only by British troops covering the retreat of UN forces to a secret defense line (jagged symbol))near the 38th parallel. Chinese invaders smashed through the central mountain area (1) and may link with North Koreans around Suan (2) for a drive to the coast which would seal Allies' land escape route. Marines and GIs south of the Chosin Reservoir joined up north of Koto (3) but still had to fight (broken black arrow) through two Chinese divisions to reach Hamhung. GIs and South Koreans at Hyesanjin (4) and Chongjin (5) were also pulling back.

Ottawa Limits Spending On Civil Defence

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP).—The federal government isn't planning any large-scale spending splurge on civil defence, informed quarters say, and certainly nothing even remotely comparable to the $3,100,000,000 program proposed by Washington.

The feeling in high official circles here appears to be that civil defence—as contrasted with military defence—is primarily a non-federal responsibility and that the load should be apportioned accordingly.

The question of financial responsibility wasn't settled at a federal-provincial civil defence conference here in August and isn't under discussion at the current conference on fiscal matters, but it is said to be "under consideration."

Haven't Bomb Appeal

Ottawa's reaction to word that Washington is proposing a whopping amount of aid to cities and states runs something along these lines:

Canada simply hasn't the "bomb appeal" to match that of the U.S., and thus her preparations don't need to be so lavish. Canada isn't planning any mass shelter building now, although the U.S. treasury would, under its program, pour $2,000,000,000 into that. From Ottawa's standpoint, defence dollars can better be put to military purposes. There is a feeling that the steel shortage will forestall a lot of the proposed U.S. shelters.

For the score of Canadian communities earmarked as potentially-vital targets, there will be some help from Ottawa in the form of training of key personnel, broad guidance and advice; help in establishing warning systems and in provision of some equipment such as new fire-fighting gear.

Its cost, however, will not be great, and the big share of the burden for local organization will be left with the cities and the provinces. This is believed to be the thinking with regard to potential targets such as Montreal and Toronto which, from the standpoint of national defence, are basically civilian areas with relatively little of military character within their borders. It goes even more so for smaller communities outside the score of vital areas.

BELMONT RESULTS

Complete returns for Belmont-Methuen which were not available in time for Tuesday's paper, gave William E. Griffith a majority over Donald Anderson of 124 votes. Mr. Griffith polled 312 and Mr. Anderson 189. Councillors: Robert Wrightly 337, George Newton 334, Gardner Gawley 301, and Norris Whitney 300. The defeated candidate, Randal O[illegible]enbush, polled 257. Trustees in School Area No. 1 are Charles McConnell and Frank Wrightly. Reginald Barton ran third and was defeated.

Want Canada Have Sea Role

TOKYO, Dec. 6 (CP)—When and if the third world war comes, Canada would more than likely play a vital role at sea.

The Canadian navy has had a lot of experience in anti-submarine warfare. Many military authorities here believe that victory for the democratic world in a future war might hinge on the ability to keep ships afloat.

Russia now has at least 300 submarines, deadlier than those with which the Germans started. It would take long, hard years to hunt down and kill that many subs, which, in the meantime, might clean the seas and pen up United States forces on the North American Continent. North America could then be hit almost at will.

Officers said they believe Canada, as a relatively small power, should continue to concentrate on building anti-submarine weapons—destroyers and carriers whose planes could seek out subs.

Press Secretary Dies Suddenly

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP).—Charles G. Ross, press secretary to President Truman, died in his White House office early Tuesday night.

The 65-year-old veteran newspaperman had suffered a fainting spell shortly after a press conference in which he reported on the second Truman-Attlee meeting.

Ross, like President Truman, was a native of Independence, Mo. He served four years with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

"He was gone before I got there," Maj.-Gen. Wallace Graham the president's physician reported. He said Ross had been laughing and talking with two NBC representatives who were preparing to make a voice recording of the statement Ross had just made to reporters about the Truman-Attlee conference.

Suddenly he slumped in his chair and Graham said death occurred almost at once. Graham said that Ross during a period of three years had suffered several light attacks—the last about two months ago.

Russia Lays

Vishinsky reiterated his old charges that the U.S. is guilty of aggression in Korea, called Gen. Douglas MacArthur "the evil genius of our days, a war maniac," and denied that the Communist Chinese government was responsible for intervention in Korea.

Old Story

Vishinksy recited Communist Chinese statements—which outdid Russian attacks on the U.S.—as a guide to "peaceful settlement" in Korea.

He called on the assembly to "ponder" the words of Peiping's Wu Hsiu-chuan in its consideration of the Korea question.

He wound up with this statement: "The notion that armed forces of the Chinese People's Republic are fighting on the side of the North Koreans is a nightmare of fantasies to befuddle world opinion."

Kenneth Younger, British minister of state fresh from the Truman-Attlee conferences in Washington, said there was no chance of solving the problem in the Security Council.

"We cannot close our eyes to events in Korea and what is happening to UN forces simply doing their duty in carrying out UN resolutions," Younger said.

The assembly met as powerful new proposals for an arranged truce piled up in the UN, with echoes in London, New Delhi and other capitals.

Attlee said that "differences of emphasis" in British and American policy are inevitable, due to the different geographical conditions of the two countries.

His talks with Truman, he added, "are enabling us to understand each others' point of view."

Need Understanding

Attlee went on to say that understanding is the first essential for forming a common policy. The ends which both governments seek, he asserted, "are not in dispute or doubt."

Turning more specifically to the Korean war, Attlee cautioned against what he called short views dictated by emotions.

Military operations, he said, are a means to an end, and in this case the end is to establish conditions for lasting peace.

The people of the Far East have a right to live together as neighbors and the long term objective of the United Nations, having this in mind, should be to try to get rid "of the causes of war."

Japanese Ships Free To Enter

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP)—Japan's highly competitive merchant shipping fleet—barred from Canadian waters for almost a decade—again is free to enter Canadian ports and compete for Canadian cargoes.

The government decision, first made public in a dispatch from Tokyo, is in line with the policy to ease restrictions in Japanese-Canadian trade which has increased many times over pre-war totals.

For example, imports from Japan in the first eight months of 1950 totalled about $8,000,000, almost three times higher than the $3,000,000 in the same period of 1938. Exports to Japan, at $14,500,000, were riding at about the same level as 1938, but officials believe this may be sharply increased before the year is out because of big wheat buying by Japan in Canada.

Expected Soon

The first of the postwar Japanese sea-going transports is expected to reach Canada soon, to pick up cargoes of wheat on the Pacific coast for shipment to Japan.

There may follow a swift increase in the peacetime invasion of Canadian ports by deep-sea bottoms—Japanese ships to bring tea and textiles, toys, fruit, and fish for Canadian markets and to haul away flour and machines, whisky and beer, canned meats and radios for markets in Japan and elsewhere.

Officials recalled that in prewar years, before Japan entered the Second World War by the devastating bombing of Pearl Harbor in 1941, Japanese merchantmen did an extensive business on both coasts of Canada.

Rare Falcon Shot On Coast

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C. (CP)—One of the rarest falcons in North America was shot recently near this cariboo district town, 200 miles north of Vancouver.

The bird, a black Gyrfalcon, was brought down by Hermie Maurice at Alkali Lake ranch. It measured 24 inches.

Only four of these have been found in British Columbia. The first one was killed in 1903 and now is in the Provincial Museum at Victoria.

The falcon's habitat in the Canadian northland extends to within 500 miles of the North Pole. They occasionally move south in the winter.

No Estrangement

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 — (AP).—The Duke of Windsor arrived today and was greeted with fervent kisses by his wife, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson. They laughed heartily at published reports they were estranged. The reports arose when the Duchess preceded him from Europe by several weeks.

Rivalry In West Over Old Relics

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man.—The West must be getting old. There are indications of interprovincial rivalry over the custody of its relics.

Ben Richardson, vice-chairman of the Portage La Prairie Museum says Manitoba is losing many valuable pieces because of the Manitoba government's "wait and see" policy.

Richardson said an official of the Saskatchewan Museum recently carted off carloads of historic relics from Manitoba and added "it is apparent Saskatchewan is building up a well-stocked museum with articles from Manitoba."

Museum work is forging ahead in Saskatchewan in contrast to a static or even backward policy in Manitoba, he charged. "Something should be done while there are still items available upon which to build a first-class museum."

Supplied by Air

Elements of the U.S. Army's 7th Division were cut off in the frigid wasteland. They were being supplied by air. Planes were removing wounded who had survived a five-day fighting retreat down both sides of Changjin reservoir.

While ground forces saw little action, allied planes strafed and bombed the enemy all the way from the fronts to the Yalu river boundary of Manchuria.

The Fifth Air Force said its airmen had killed or wounded 1,500 Reds up till noon today. These included 150 killed in Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

The planes in 250 sorties struck 13 enemy towns and destroyed 33 vehicles, 16 boxcars, several tanks 44 carts, five supply dumps and other installations.

They roared down on bridges, rail yards and airports. F-51 Mustangs destroyed at least four of 20 Russian Yak-type aircraft on the field at Sinuiju, in extreme northwest Korea. Then they bombed the field. A later flight of F-80 jets found the field abandoned.

The remainder was in contributions to various relief organizations.

Italy Expects Rich Harvest Of U.S. Dollars

ROME, Dec. 6—(AP)—Italy expects to reap a rich harvest of export dollars in the United States and Canada in 1951 by filling markets left unsatisfied by North American industry's devotion to armament production.

Upsurges in exports to the two North American countries in September, plus indications of a rising demand for products traditionally provided by Italy and others yet to be introduced on these two markets have whetted industrialists' appetite.

Preliminary figures from the ministry of foreign commerce put the Italian exports to the United States in September at 152 per cent above the September, 1949, total. Exports to Canada in September 1950 were 230 per cent above those of the same month in 1949.

Big Jump

September Italian exports to the United States were valued at $9,542,000 compared with $3,765,000 in September of 1949. Italian exports to Canada in September brought a total of $738,090 against $222,000 in the same month in 1949.

The foreign commerce ministry expects the increases to continue and go even higher.

Rising prics in Norteh America following the opening of the rearmament program, said one financial newspaper, is considered by the ministry circles as a major factor. These increased prices allow Italian products to better compete on the Canadian and the American markets.

It is expected this condition will continue, although allowance must be made for a rise in Italian costs from higher priced imported raw materials.

Woman Loses House Battle

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (CP). — Another skirmish in "the battle of Moffat's gate" was fought Tuesday at Osgoode Hall. Mrs. Hazel M. Moffat lost.

Mr. Justice A. H. Aylen of the Ontario Supreme Court ordered her to close the gate and to move her house—near St. Catharines—to at least 150 feet from the Queen Elizabeth Way, double-lane highway between here and Fort Erie.

Mrs. Moffat and the Ontario Highways Department have been at odds for five years. The department claims she flouted a provision of the highways improvement act which prohibits erection of houses within 150 feet of the Queen Elizabeth and forbids construction of private entrances to the highway—unless permits are granted.

Mr. Justice Aylen was told that Mrs. Moffat was refused the necessary building permit in 1945—but built the house anyway—within 150 feet of the highway. Two years later, the private gate was erected.

"The attitude of the highways in this matter," said Mr. Justice Aylen, "seems to have been one of considered tolerance."

Loses Damage Suit

TORONTO, Dec. 6—(CP)—A damage action in which a father sought $11,000 from Toronto's Harbor Commission for injuries to his 10-year-old son's right hand Tuesday was dismissed in Supreme Court. The boy, Bryan Shaw, fractured his hand two years ago when the lift bridge over Keating Channel crushed it. The court "could not find that safeguards were not sufficient."

Unlocked Ballot Boxes

Within an hour after the Peterborough municipal polls opened Monday, there was a storm of protest about unlocked ballot boxes. In poll after poll the lids of the ballot boxes could be lifted completely, or were so fixed that they could be opened sufficiently to insert a hand into the box. The reason for these unlocked boxes were not sinister or nefarious. Many provincial or federal ballot boxes had been put into use. Their ballot-slots have the diameter and thickness of a five-cent piece, too small to receive Monday's municipal ballots easily. The Returning Officer permitted these boxes to remain unlocked so that ballots could be put into them under the open lid. After three hours of this, and a clamour of protests, he sent out the order to lock them up, despite the too-small openings for ballots.

* * *

The Municipal Act requires that ballot boxes be kept under lock and key during the voting. Fortunately for Peterborough there is a saving clause in the Act to prevent the invalidation of Monday's election and the expense of another. Despite irregularities in voting procedures (such as the unlocked boxes), this clause says that an election is valid, unless the principles of the Act have not been adhered to, and unless there is evidence that the secrecy of the vote was violated and the results thereby affected. Even though the unlocked boxes provided the opportunity to destroy the secrecy of the ballot, it seems that the secrecy was not violated (for one thing, all returning officers are sworn to secrecy) and there can be no doubt that the elections results were as the voters intended.

* * *

The boxes should have been kept locked. The situation should not have been allowed to occur. The protesting voters were fully justified in their indignation.

* * *

The incident resulted in a healthy, reassuring display of democratic sensitivity. In countries like Canada, democratic privileges such as secret voting are taken for granted—too much for granted, many fear. Peterborough voters demonstrated Monday that they are jealous of their rights as democratic citizens. When there was a direct indication that these rights were not being granted, or were being abrogated, the citizens were thoroughly aroused and some of those who came to our office were fighting mad.

* * *

So genuine was the concern, so vigorous the protest, that we are almost glad that the ballot boxes were unlocked to provide the occasion for the display of jealousy of privileges often thought to be unregarded. This spirit and alertness will protect Canada from despotism, provided its citizens are equally sharp to spot and resist less obvious, more vital infringements of democratic and individual rights.

Why Was The $585,000 By-Law Accepted, The Lesser Rejected?

Peterborough ratepayers voted Monday on two money by-laws: the one to provide $585,000 for the building of a new, second collegiate school; the other for an additional $300,000 to finish the grounds, roads and sewers of the Civic Hospital. The ratepayers voted a sound Yes to the school, a very firm No to the Hospital. Why? Obviously they were not frightened by the sums involved, for they approved the more expensive bylaw.

We believe that the reason was that the Board of Education proved the need and desirability of their project, and the Council and hospital authorities did not. This is not to say that the $300,000 for the hospital was not a necessary and worthy expense. We believe it was.

The Board went out to the people with their project. They built up a studied, careful, reasonable case. Their members, the school superintendent and the school principal addressed clubs, meetings, (which were, as usual, reported). They answered questions, and finally put an advertisement in the paper. Their case obviously satisfied 3,530 ratepayers who voted for it in these times of high and higher taxation.

The hospital authorities and Council rested their case almost by the mere statement that the money was needed. There were no speeches direct to ratepayers and which this newspaper could carry to others by reporting. There was much confusion in the minds of citizens about the reasons for the additional request, and little attempt was made to clarify it. There was too slight an appeal to the intelligence of the ratepayers and too much reliance on their generosity already munificently exhibited in the major hospital project. Peterborough ratepayers are not mean penny-pinchers, but they have to be convinced of the reasonableness and need before they will vote money for a project.

Korea From A Chinese Point Of View

The American army with scattered troops of other U.N. nations appeared on the Asiatic mainland—South Korea—in considerable force: hundreds of thousands of troops, tanks, planes, guns and the like. Two months ago they had succeeded in liberating South Korea from the North (Red) Korean invaders. For one reason and another, they did not stop at the 38th parallel, the dividing line, but went on with ever-rolling power into the Communist satellite state of North Korea. They rolled through North Korea, took its capital, and reached the very borders of Chinese Manchuria. When would they stop? The American General MacArthur had given no assurance that he would stop at the Manchurian border, nor had Washington.

A rich prize lay almost within the grasp of the Americans: the engineering, and heavy industry, the hydro-electricity, the iron ore and the coalfields of Manchuria, which form the arsenal of the Far East. These were the arsenal behind Japanese expansion up to and during the last war. The majority of this prize lies within 150 miles of the Korea-Manchuria border which the hordes of American and U.N. forces—all foreigners — were approaching in strength. Was the power of the Far East to fall into American hands? Was the United States to be allowed to establish foreign rule over all Korea, suzerainty over Manchuria, and sit on the Korean border, and within half an hour's striking distance of the chief northern ports, the chief mines and hydro-electric developments of the Far East?

Thus may have reasoned, in part, many Chinese and Russian people, and other peoples, India, for instance, not tarred to the Communist stick. At any rate, Red China struck.

Shocking Conduct of a Deer

With a deep sense of shock we read of the unsporting conduct of a white-tailed buck in Wisconsin; a hunter shot it, and the buck stood still, gazing at him; but when he raised his gun to shoot again, the buck charged, smashed a valuable rifle, injured the hunter in the chest with its antlers, and when he drew a knife to kill it, ran off into the woods. The hunter is in hospital, being treated for shock, and no wonder.

Isn't it enough that hunters have to run the risk of being shot by fellow-hunters, without the added risk of being attacked by deer? And what has become of the once-dependable docility of deer—the very quality which makes it a favourite with hunters everywhere? If deer are going to be as savage as bear, they will soon find that they are not being hunted at all.

The obvious agency to deal with this problem is the local authority issuing hunting licenses. If money is taken by a government for a license, that government should afford some protection for hunters while they are in the woods. What is the matter with the game wardens? Can they not segregate and destroy all savage deer before the yearly hunt begins? A few repetitions of the Wisconsin incident will serve to keep all law-abiding and peaceful hunters out of the woods.

Peace Was Not Wonderful

"We have but lately reached the termination of a war, long, bloody and expensive beyond example. The peace that has opened upon us, though hailed with rapture by all nations, has not brought the usual fruits of peace in its train". Thus the Kitchener-Waterloo Record quotes another paper. The paper was the Edinburgh Scotsman in its edition of January 25th. What year? The year 1817. Napoleon had been defeated at Waterloo two years before.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Several banks are boasting that they have made it easier to borrow. Now they can get down to the real job—making it easier to pay back.

The Winnipeg Free Press says that the Conservative party has "repeatedly committed suicide". That just shows how lively it is; once is usually enough.

The Danish Minister of Justice, a woman, says that she does not think the world would be any better if governed by women. When loyalty to truth overrides loyalty to sex—that's news.

ON THE MARGIN

80 Novel Miles Off Nova Scotia

THE NYMPH AND THE LAMP by Thomas H. Raddall (McClelland & Stewart).

ONE approaches a new Canadian novel with special interest. Will this be it which sets the world by the ears and Canada firmly on the literary map? Will it be an advance on other Canadian novels? or give our literature a new direction? And will it, one asks in a small voice, be good to read as a story, putting aside Canadianism, literary pretentions and the feeling which so many of our authors self-consciously give, of being a fighting patrol in the van of a Canadian awakening? "The Nymph and the Lamp" is a good story and well-told but it is not the Canadian literary Promised Land. Perhaps we should be thankful it is not; Promised Lands can be miasmatic and uncomfortable.

Thomas Raddall is a good craftsman and he has served a literary apprenticeship. His penultimate book was "Halifax, Warden of the North", written in anticipation of the bicentenary of Halifax's founding. It was reviewed in these columns more than a year ago. His competence in historical writing is therein fully shown. He has written many short stories on maritime themes. This is his first contemporaneous novel. Its setting is a lonely island outpost eighty miles from Nova Scotia, inhabited by a handful of lighthouse men and their families, wireless telegraphists (of whom his hero, Matthew Carney, is chief), and wild ponies. He calls the island Marina. Perhaps Maritimers can identify it by its proper name and place. The time is 1920-21.

There is great honesty, even modesty, in the writing of this book. One feels with relief that the author has not set out to do the Great Canadian Novel; he is telling a story, and giving it an authentic, vivid setting. Thus "The Nymph and the Lamp" is better than most novels which would be great. This reviewer stayed up until three in the morning reading it, because he could not put it down. The story, thin as it is, is sufficient to tantalize until the end is reached, but it is in the detail of the settings that Mr. Raddall achieves real distinction, and the book its greatest interest.

The story is made-to-measure, off the Hollywood hook, even. Matthew Carney, chief telegraphist on the lonely island, is forty. He takes his first leave to the mainland in ten years. He meets in Halifax a lonely, hardening, spinster clerk, thirty-ish, a former school-teacher. He takes her back to his island as his wife. Disillusionment seems to set in. A queerly-attractive, presumed misogynist at the station, a man called Skane, better educated and younger than Carney, becomes the second man in a familiar triangle. The resolution of the problem is rapid. (The story moves almost too quickly at the end, as if the author had had his say, was tired of his creatures and scene, and wanted somehow to get everything tied up in an agreeable movie-style package in a hurry.)

The Nova Scotian and barren Atlantic island settings are given with the eye of an artist and from the heart of a man who knows these parts and the way their people live intimately—not always affectionately, but with the nostalgia which the unlovable often engenders after long experience of it. Mr. Raddall obtains his mastery not by clever writing or remarkable interpretive ability, but through careful observation of both small and great in the people and things he sees. He sets these down with more than camera fidelity. The book has the detail and over-all pattern of a primitive painting which achieves its own kind of perspective. It is with the occasional sweeping generalization that it falls off in quality. Even his Conrad-like touches with evocations of the power of sea and sky and wind do not quite rise to their purpose.

This is not an introspective book. The workings of his characters' minds and hearts are to be sensed from what they do and look like. When the author would probe deeper into his people, he does not come up with the stuff of life. In fact, the people of his story seem to be puppets, moving and speaking without inherent life. No doubt this was partly the author's intention: men against the sea, against a barren lonely island. It is a weakness, however, that his characters are without vitality of their own. That is not to say that there is a lack of movement: the wildness, even savagery of the pony hunt, is tumultuous, in a two-dimensional way.

It is a good story, throwing light on a part of Canada and the way some of her people live. T.J.A.

QUORUM, by Phyllis Bently (British Book Service).

A RATHER dull tale centred about a committee meeting in a Yorkshire town, the business of the meeting to arrange a site and formulate a plan for a textile pageant. The story opens around the committee table and then flashes back to the early morning and follows through the day of each person there. Each of these people has a problem that, in some curious manner, hinges on another member of the committee and each problem is solved (for better or worse) at the end of the meeting or the end of the book. This reviewer found the book stuffy and slow. S.S.T.

CHRISTMAS WITHOUT JOHNNY, by Gladys Hasty Carroll (Macmillan Co.).

THIS is the story of the ten days preceding Christmas and the events which take place on them as they effect a nine year old boy. None of the incidents is important in itself but combined they create a burden too great for Johnny to shoulder alone. His parents and his teacher seem to be totally unaware of his difficulties and it is only his chance acquaintanceship with an understanding school superintendent makes the 'fairy-tale' happy ending possible.

There is not much one can say about this book except that it was obviously written by someone who knows, loves and understands little boys very well and that it will make anyone else who knows, loves and understands little boys cry like mad. S.S.T.

DOUBLE FUSED

Alberta Crown Oil Land Lease Sales

(CALGARY HERALD)

THE Western Canada Petroleum Association, a representative organization of oilmen, is seeking an important change in the policy governing the sale of Crown leases. It argues that the change which it seeks would be "good for both the government and the industry."

At present, lands on which the government holds mineral rights are sold by competitive bidding. The government, as the seller, frequently exercises its right to refuse all bids on the grounds that none of them is high enough. The W.C.P.A. wants this changed so that the government will accept the highest bid, regardless of its amount. This, the association claims, would permit "competition within the industry to fix the value of the said reserves."

Alternatively, the W.C.P.A. proposes that parcels of Crown reserves should be offered for public sale subject to an upset or reserve price. In other words, the government would set a minimum price and sell to the highest bidder, provided his bid was more than the prescribed minimum.

It points out that the government sometimes withdraws parcels from sale, considering that the tenders are too low, in the hope that the value of the land will subsequently increase and that the parcel will bring more money if offered again at some later date. This, complains the W.C.P.A., amounts to a gamble on the government's part.

We agree that some gambling risk is involved; the government must take the chance that exploration on surrounding parcels will indicate that no oil is likely to be found on the parcel concerned. But is this an unjustifiable gamble on the government's part?

The government holds these lands as trustee for the people of Alberta. As Mr. Tanner (Alberta's Minister of Mines and Minerals) has pointed out frankly on more than one occasion, the government's duty is to extract as much revenue as it can get, on the people's behalf, from the exploitation of Alberta's oil reserves. If, at any moment, the government considers it is not being offered enough for the sale of a parcel of Crown lands, then it has an undoubted right, and even an undoubted duty, to refuse the offer in the hope that a better offer will come along later.

Letter To The Editor

EMERSONIAN NONCOMFORMITY

Sir: In the Examiner's generous report of a talk which was part of the P.C.V.S. Commencement Exercises last Friday evening, a misprint occurred which not only misrepresented seriously Emerson's thought, but also suggested an interpretation of the talk which is exactly contrary to the speaker's intention.

In printing the Emerson quotation "Whoso would be a man must be a nonconformist." the report, possibly through a mechanical error, omitted the "non" from the word "nonconformist".

The intention of the talk was to urge a lively and discriminating nonconformity in young Canadians today.

It is ironic that such a misprint should occur in a newspaper which so singularly has followed the Emersonian injunction "to go upright and vital, and speak the rude truth in all ways."

Sincerely,
GORDON ROPER.

There's A Difference

(Wall Street Journal)

A teacher went to the principal of his school and protested against the appointment of a younger man to a senior position. He demanded to know why his 20 years of experience had been overlooked. "My friend," said the principal, "you really haven't 20 years of experience. You have had only one year's experience 20 times."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord, Keep ye judgement, and do justice: for my salvation is near to come, and my righteousness to be revealed. (Isa. 56: 1.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: so shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.

For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree: and it shall be to the Lord for a name, for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off. (Isa. 55: 10-13.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but to him that soweth righteousness shall be a sure reward. (Prov. 11: 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Say ye to the righteous, that it shall be well with him: for they shall eat the fruit of their doings. (Isa. 3: 10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And they shall build houses, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. They shall not build, and another inhabit; they shall not plant, and another eat: for as the days of a tree are the days of my people, and mine elect shall long enjoy the work of their hands. They shall not labour in vain, nor bring forth for trouble; for they are the seed of the blessed of the Lord, and their offspring with them. (Isa. 65: 21-23.)

Cheaters Fined

(Windsor Star)

In the year ending March 31 last, 26 persons were prosecuted for violations of family allowance regulations, 24 of them being convicted. Some were fined as high as $1,200 and some even sent to jail.

These prosecutions should serve as a warning. Those who benefit from family allowances should be the first to approve the punishment. Cheating is particularly obnoxious when it is done in connection with a social welfare system intended to ensure that children of this day and age shall have opportunity to have proper food, clothing and care.

With tens of thousands of family allowance cheques going out each month, this number of prosecutions is very small. It suggests unless some other cheaters aren't being caught, that the great majority of recipients are playing the game. Any who break the law should be brought to court.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor

Take a letter: "Dear Mrs. S. J. Claus—Thought we'd write you this time instead of your old man. The 'we' refers to the writers and his ulcers, and your old man, of course, is Santa. In the past, he's given us a few things, so we felt we should supply him with a second initial—hence the 'J.' Least we could do. Reason we're writing you is because S.J. is seldom at home lately, unless the papers are lying. We see where he's at local downtown stores this, that and the other day, that he's appearing in a Toronto parade another time, and that our Chamber of Commerce and businessmen are having him here for three days just before Christmas. How the heck can a gadabout like that attend to his correspondence, or get anything done at home?

* * * * * *

"But the papers don't mention you accompanying him around at all. Kind of grim for you, huh? Though our missus may feel likewise about us during the long and hectic hockey season. At least we don't go around ho-ho'ing and having a whale of a time. But the point is, you must be at home a lot and therefore must do a lot of the work old S.J. is getting the credit for. Sorry, but we might as well write to you as have our letter to Santa shelved till out in January. The old coot certainly didn't read our missive last year. Otherwise, our requests wouldn't have been so balled up. Dealing directly with you, we feel things should work out better this time.

Enclosed Is The List

"It's not that we want so much, but then there's no point in getting a flock of useless stuff, eh, Mr. Claus? Anyway, we're enclosing a list of suggestions and hope you can stuff the things in your old man's bag ere Christmas Eve. The sheet is typed for easier reading and there's some stuff listed on the back, too. We should have sent it sooner but didn't want to omit anything of importance and that took a lot of figuring. Anyway, Mrs. C., do what you can and have a happy holiday yourself. Give Claus our regards, too, and tell him to take it easy on the corners in this weather. Yours, CJP."

There, that's out of the way. And here's an OLA item from Bun Morganson's column: "Ontario senior lacrosse clubs will eliminate the centre faceoff after a goal is scored for a month's trial when they resume play next spring, Secretary Chuck Rowan announces. The CLA asked the OLA to try out the basketball rule after a goal is scored. The ball will be given the goalie to resume play. Weston, Mimico, Hamilton, St. Catharines and Toronto were given permission to play winter exhibition games in Rochester, Hornell and Lockport, N.Y. Owen Sound's Mann Cuppers and Peterborough declined the winter games as most of their players are engaged in hockey."

Oshawa And IOOF-ers

There's hockey tonight at 8.30 in Civic Arena. An OHA junior "B" joust betwixt Oshawa Bees and the local Oddfellows. And it ought to be another speedy, exciting struggle. These teams are practically tied just out of second place and fighting hard for every verdict, so they won't spare the horses here tonight. Bun Kingdon's crew are showing more fight every time out, as they're realizing now that they are in a rugged group with well-matched teams, and victories gained now are as good as those won late in the season. Junior hockey is fast and full of thrills, rating crowds as large as the senior squads draw.

The old story of the mother partridge limping away from her brood to lead a fox—and then suddenly swooping off when Reynard was at a safe distance—was enacted by Gerald at the Brock last night. That was in the main mat bout and a hefty crowd cheered heartily. Gerald is adviser to one Lord Athol Layton, who opposed Lee Henning in the main scrap. Lee got peeved at Gerald for his advice, so he chased him around outside the ring. Gerald side-stepped deftly and backed away, and Lee finally found out that he had been counted out during his chase. He was mad enough to chew 28-cent beefsteak. But his nibs won the main event and the fans flocked out happily. The semi-final saw Pat Flanagan and Les Ryan go to a limit draw, while George Scott and Toar Morgan—who runs the Lindsay rink now—were both counted out of the ring in the prelim.

Athol and Gerald Trim Lee In Main Bout of Mat Card

Teamwork as exemplified by the English paid off last night at the Brock Arena when Lord Athol Layton won the deciding fall of the main mat bout before a big crowd. Lee Henning was busy chasing Gerald (friends and adviser of his nibs) around outside the ring while Referee Sammy Gotter tolled off the count. Lee never did catch up with the tricky Gerald and he was furious on returning to the ring and finding that time had run out on him. However, Layton went after him again after the bell and showed his superiority as the fans cheered.

Henning, weighing 250 pounds, took the first fall of the main go in 14 minutes with a slam, after thoroughly roughing up Athol, a handsome 256-pounder, with the referee trying in vain to keep up with his illegal tactics. He used fists, knees, feet, eye rasps and yanked at the Briton's locks to put him in position for the softening-up process which preceded the grand slam. Earlier, Layton proved too fast, clever and clean in a speedy session, his long reach angering the tricky Henning, who resorted to his roughest tactics.

Gets Equalizer

Lord Athol took the second fall in just 10 minutes. He used a flying head scissors to pull Henning back into the ring and pin him, after Lee had stepped outside the ropes to threaten Athol's second. Layton offset kicks and tough stuff pulled by Lee with some judo—slashing him about the neck with the side of his hand and cashing in on that extra reach as well as his superior speed. Lee proved strong and mat-wise, but was outclassed on straight grappling. He threatened Gerald at times, but the other answered with upraised stool or umbrella as the crowd cheered the Englishman and booed the Iowan.

The final fall came in eight minutes with Lee counted out. He had been taking a beating and stepped out of the ring. There he decided to go after Athol's adviser. The latter jumped to his feet, threw his stool in front of Lee and backed cannily away. With the crowd on their feet, Henning kept after Gerald while the count went on. Police finally got between the non-combatants, and Lee climbed back into the ring. He was roaring angry to find he had been counted out—and claimed it was a short count. The pair mixed again with Lee taking the worst of it before he finally departed yelling blue murder while the crowd cheered. Layton stayed to sign a bunch of autographs.

Goes to Draw

Pat Flanagan, at 228, and 226-pound Les Ryan of Boston, battled to a 30-minute draw in the semi-final. Les was rought but plenty willing, while Pat put on his usual fast and colorful bout to draw most of the cheers. While Ryan got away with a lot of rough stuff, he was warned often by the very vocal referee, and Pat appeared innocent, but worked in some wily tricks of his own. They dished up a lot of keen action and drew cheers when they shook hands at the finish.

The prelim between George Scott, a Hamilton 222-pounder, and Lindsay's 241-pound Toar Morgan (arena manager there), finished in a draw in 21 minutes when both were counted out of the ring. Toar roughed it up early and a double- rocking-chair grip had to be broken up. Scott got the fans with him as he showed style, while Morgan played it the hard way, but he had to slide under the ropes at times for protection. Toar had more experience, but could not step as lively as his younger opponent, both roughing hard at times to keep the bout moving in lively fashion and to keep the fans heated up.

Bird Leads Imps To 5-3 Victory

COBOURG, Dec. 6—Bobby Bird led the Bowmanville Imperials to a 5-3 win over Lakefield here Monday night in an OHA Intermediate game. Bird whipped in three goals and passed for another. The last goal to Bird's credit came after Lakefield had pulled the goalie in the last minute of the game. Maxie Yourth and Moore split the other two Bowmanville goals.

Don Padget was the outstanding star for the losers, picking up a goal and an assist.

Jim Quigley worked hard in the Lakefield cause but was slowed up when Buckwheat Cowle, Bowmanville defence stalwart, stopped him in the second stanza. Cowle, a rough and ready rearguard, had a half dozen feuds going at one time with the Lakefielders.

Bowmanville — Goal, Hooper; defence, Batten, Cowle; centre, Bird; wings, Yourth, Moore; alternates, Pitts, Farrow, Dion, Lintner, Bagnell, Cox.

Lakefield—Goal, Byers; defence Conlin, Joplin; centre, Padget; wings, Hunter, Birch; alternates, Henry, Fawcett, Quigley, McIndoo, Chittick, Dunford, Wasson, Blewett.

Referee—Rowden, Port Hope; linesman, Johnston, Cobourg.

Deaf, Cherney, Bickell's, Campbell and Edgewater against Hunt's, Mongraw, Odeon, Modern, McWilliams, Wood, and Caccavella.

Lethbridge Leafs Enter Paris Series

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 6—(CP)—Lethbridge Maple Leafs, one of Canada's most amateur amateur teams, will carry Canada's colours into the 1951 World Hockey Championships at Paris next March.

Leafs, an intermediate team, sprang into existence two years ago when Lethbridge Maple Leafs of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League were forced to disband because of inability to meet high salaries.

The new Leafs, bolstered by a number of former senior players and some young talent more interested in play than pay, travelled the Rocky playoff trail on a shoestring last year to win the Western Canada Intermediate, or Senior B, title.

The Leafs, with a few new players from the ones that comprised last year's line-up, are slated to pack their gear and head east Dec. 16. They will play an exhibition game in Melville Dec. 17, then continue to Halifax where they will board the Scythia for England Dec. 22.

Toronto Marlies Wallop Waterloo Hurricanes 6-2

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros Tuesday night took over sole possession of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A loop with a 6-2 victory over the last-place Waterloo Hurricanes.

The second half of the junior doubleheader also produced a hometown winner, St. Michael's —runner-up for tail-end honors in the 10-team loop—upsetting the third ranking Guelph Biltmores 4-1.

Tuesday night's contests completed a full round of games with each team having played a home and home series with all rivals.

The Marlies' win gives them a two-point bulge on the second-place Barrie Flyers who were idle. Bill MacFarland was the big gun for the Dukes, scoring twice and assisting on one. Don Peart, Earl Balfour, John Lumley and Wally Maxwell got singletons. Buddy Evans and Paul Oliver scored for the hapless Hurricanes who haven't been able to blow up a victory this season.

Costly Victory

The win for St. Michael's was a costly one. Art Clune, hardest-hitting defenceman the Irish have was taken out in the first period with a fractured ankle. It was his first appearance in three weeks, after a previous ankle injury.

Willie Marshall, Butch Ratchford, Dan MacDonald and Bill Dineen scored for St. Mikes. Ken Laufman for Guelph. The last Toronto goal was scored on an open net after coach Alfie Pike withdrew goalie Cliff Hicks in favor of an extra forward.

St. Michael's won their fifth game of the season with one of their best games this year. Only the stellar goal-tending of Hicks kept the score from being doubled.

NHL Teams Try All Kinds Of Old Strategy

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

In this modern age when really good hockey players seem to be scare, hockey coaches whose teams are not successful are forced to stick to a confined path of strategy in order to find a winning combination.

They can get the odd player from another team in a give as good as you get trade, they can bring up some young hopeful from the minors or they can try line shuffling.

All forms of this threadbare strategy will be on display tonight when the six National Hockey League teams are in action.

When the last-place Boston Bruins play host to Chicago Black Hawks they will have a new defenceman on the ice—Max Quackenbush, who comes up from Indianapolis in exchange for rookie defenceman Steve Kraftcheck. Max joins his brother, Bill, a veteran defenceman, and Boston officials are hoping the brother combination might help toward bolstering the sagging attendance this year.

More Shuffling

The line shuffling will be tried by coach Neil Colville of New York Rangers, now tied with Boston, when they play at home against Detroit Red Wings.

Colville, remembering that Rangers started their climb to the playoffs at this time a year ago, is switching his three forward lines. He's reconstituting the Don Raleigh-Pentti Lund-Ed Slowinski threesome which had considerable success in the second half of last season.

Zellio Toppazzini, who has been most effective since joining Rangers, teams up with Edgar Laprade at centre and Tony Leswick at right wing, and veteran Buddy O'Connor will centre Reggie Sinclair, a promising youngster, and Eddie Kullman.

Colville is also using the major-minor switch. Alex (Killer) Kaleta, popular with New York fans is coming back from Hershey Bears after a three-week stretch in the American Hockey League.

Detroit Red Wings, on the other hand, are trying a player switch despite the fact they are solidly entrenched in second place. Marcel Pronovost, a defenceman from Shawinigan Falls, Que., who shone as a rookie in the early part of last season, has been shipped to the Wings' farm club at Indianapolis while Clare Raglin, a 23-year-old rookie, gets his first chance at big time hockey.

ROOKIE TOM JOHNSON turned in one of his most effective games with Canadiens at Detroit recently, and also came up with the game-clinching goal in the 4-1 victory. The rugged rearguard was working overtime with "Butch" Bouchard on the injury list, and he seemed to relish the extra work.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

National Hockey League records show that goalies Turk Broda and Al Rollins together have played in more games this season than their club, Toronto Maple Leafs.

The mathematical puzzler came out of that scoreless tie last Saturday between Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks. What's more, Broda gets credit for the shutout.

It happened that thin man Rollins was severely cut by a flying puck at 6:50 of the second period. Fat man Broda came on and finished out the game.

Since Broda played 33 minutes and 10 seconds compared with Rollins' 26 minutes and 50 seconds the statistics compilers at the NHL awarded the shutout to Broda—he served a longer period of play.

But they also decided each goalie should be credited with participating in a game, to include individual records. That's how it happens that officially Broda has played in 16 games, Rollins in nine—for a total of 25—but the Leafs have played only 24 games.

Laurent Dauthuille of France, a leading contender for the world's middleweight boxing championship, scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Otis Graham of Philadelphia in the feature bout at the Montreal Forum last night.

Both fighters weighed 157¾.

Some 6,000 fans paid about $21,000 to see Dauthuille, who fights out of Montreal, beat Graham.

Only knockdown came in the fifth when Dauthuille dropped Graham with a right to the chin. Graham managed to ride out the storm.

The dusky Philadelphian fought defensively most of the time. Judge Leo Germain gave six rounds to Dauthuille, two to Graham and called two even. Judge Desse Green scored it five, three and two while Judge Rene Ouiment had it seven, two and one even.

George Selkirk, new manager of Kansas City Blues of the American Association, is not one to let things slide—not when he can win himself a name as an inventor.

Selkirk, who succeeded to Babe Ruth's job in New York Yankees' outfield, has patented a harness to save legs and uniforms when baseball players practice sliding. The harness, which fits around the waist and knees, is made of padding, canvas and other hardy materials. The player wears the harness over his regular uniform.

Selkirk, who was born in Huntsville, Ont., says he conceived the idea for his invention in 1946 when Bobby Brown, now a regular infielder with New York Yankees, was learning the game with Newark Bears of the International League.

Selkirk then was manager of the Bears, and he tired of seeing Bobby sitting on the bench with injuries received in slides.

Featherweight Lou Alter of Montreal lost by a technical knockout in the first round of a scheduled eight-round fight with Tony Lombard of South Africa in London last night.

The Canadian boxer suffered a badly-cut right eye.

Alter scaled 124½ to Lombard's 130.

Charles KO's Barone, Seeks New Foes

By FRITZ HOWELL.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 6 (AP). — Ezzard Charles, the heavyweight fistic crown fitted more firmly on his head after Tuesday night's 11th-round knockout over Nick Barone, seeks new foes to fight.

The champ admitted he needed more work, despite a better than fair punching job on the stocky Syracuse ex-Marine who forced the fighting from the opening gong until a ringing right blasted his hopes in 2:06 of the 11th session.

Tom Tannas, co-manager of the Cincinnati Negro, today was to meet Al Weill of New York, matchmaker for the International Boxing Club—and there was a chance that a new title scrap was in the making. Tannas and Weill said Tuesday night that there was nothing definite on the next bout for Charles but that it might be held in Detroit against an opponent still to be selected.

First Knockdown

A gross gate of $53,334.50 was paid by 10,085 home-town fans to see Charles in his first appearance here as champion, and the crowd almost tore down the Cincinnati Garden Arena as the king of the heavies handed Barone his first knockdown and knockout in 58 fights.

Barone, a sterling scrapper at close range, beat a tattoo on Charles' ribs in the early going, but the champ finally found the way to beat his stocky foe at his own game. Barone, his favorite style ineffective against the classy champ, finally tried to outbox Charles, and that led to the startling finish.

After Barone had weathered blows of all kinds, his knees were buckled early in the 11th by a stout right to the chin. He hung on until Charles pushed him away and then battered him to the floor with a flurry of rights and lefts climaxed by a "this is it" right to the chin.

Service Knocked Out

WINDSOR, Dec. 6 (CP).—The international race-news wire service knocked out in last Saturday's joint anti-gambling raid in Windsor and Detroit has not yet recovered. "The whole gambling situation was reviewed and to the best of our knowledge no wire service has been operating since Saturday," crown attorney Alex C. Hall said following a Detroit meeting with law officials.

To Appeal Decision

REGINA, Dec. 6 — (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway announced Tuesday it will appeal a King's Bench Court decision that the provincial government may levy its mineral tax o nrailway property. The case stems from the Mineral Taxation Act of 1945. Under it, owners of mineral rights are taxed three cents an acre. The tax may be 50 cents an acre in areas designated producing areas.

Small Comfort

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP). — Mattresses have been installed in the women's section of the local police cells. But male prisoners will still have to sleep on hard iron cots.

LONG, LONG TRAIL—A long line of GIs of the 24th Infantry Division withdraws along the Chongju-Pakchon highway, before the attacking Chinese Communists.

Port Hope Redmen Beat Cobourg 7-6

PORT HOPE, Dec. 6—Port Hope Redmen gained leadership of the OHA Lakeshore Intermediate A Hockey League Monday night as they outlasted Cobourg Pavs for a 7-6 win. The Redmen are undefeated this season, winning three and tying two.

Port Hope had a definite edge in the first half, holding a 7-2 lead. However, Cobourg came back strongly and in the last two minutes of play had the Port Hopers bottled in around their own net. Except for spectacular work on the part of Jim Hehn in the Port Hope net the score might well have been tied.

Buck Legrow and Fred Casey were standouts for Port Hope, while Smith and Scott were best for Cobourg.

NO DREAMER

Louis Honore Frechette, French Canadian poet who died in 1908, was also a lawyer and member of parliament.

St. Mikes Lead In OHA Statistics

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (CP). — A three-game winning burst during the last week moved Toronto Marlboros into undisputed possession of second place in the Ontario Major Hockey series. Toronto St. Michael's remained in first with 18 points, four ahead of Marlies.

Three points behind Marlboros are Hamilton Tigers and Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen, each with 11 points. St. Mike's commanding lead was largely due to two triumphs over Marlboros, each worth four points.

St. Mikes paced the league in both offensive and defensive individual statistics. Johnny Ubriaco topped the marksmen with 19 points, four more than teammate Gord Hannigan, Marlboro Bill Johnson and Hamilton's Murray Comfort, all tied for second.

Goalie Phil Hughes of the Irish led the goaltenders with a 2.8 a game goal against record.

Oshawa's "terrible twins," Alex Delvecchio and Lou Jankowski pulled away from the heap in the OHA Junior A League's scoring race. Delvecchio has sniped 21 goals and 21 assists for 42 points, and Jankowski 16 goals and 23 assists for 39.

Don Simmons of St. Catharines Teepees displayed the lowest goals-against average among the league's regular goalies, 2:58 in 17 games.

Canada's Steel Supply Taking Limelight Again

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canada's supply of steel takes the limelight again.

It takes it because there isn't enough steel, and so the following question is asked with renewed vigor:

"What are we going to do about it?"

The question was asked, in effect, at a press conference Tuesday by W. F. Holding, president of General Steel Wares, Ltd., Toronto, and this year's president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

He gave the opinion that Canada must expand its steel-producing facilities by 1,000,000 ingot tons a year—close to one-third of present production. It would cost about $100,000,000.

Here is the situation:

Canada is currently producing some 3,300,000 tons a year, more than double her pre-war production. Most of it is made by Steel Co. of Canada, Ltd., Hamilton; Algoma Steel Corporation, Ltd., Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, Ltd., Sydney, N.S.; Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd., Hamilton; and Atlas Steels, Ltd., Welland, Ont.

She is also importing from the United States and Europe more than 1,000,000 tons, but with the likelihood that she will be getting less in the coming year, because steel is short everywhere.

Already Acted

If you ask the big companies what they are doing about the shortage, they will probably say: "We have spent $100,000,000 since the war in doing something about it—in expanding production."

Whatever the expansion to date, it isn't enough to take care of today's needs, and this affects everybody. For steel goes into hundreds of everyday products.

The lack may cause shortages in some civilian items; and the government already has banned its sale for dance halls, theatres, and other non-essential construction.

Mr. Holding states that the shortage increases costs because some times the wrong types must be made to do.

It can cause unemployment, even if temporarily, if the cutback in civilian production is not met at once by the labor needs of defence programs.

Didn't Foresee Boom

Now, if there is such a demand for steel, why aren't people dashing in to build steel mills?

For one thing, it seems fair to say, not many people foresaw the long continuance of the virtual boom which has lasted through the post-war years and which now has thrust upon it the demands arising out of a threatened third world war. There was considerable opinion, in the early post-war years, that existing facilities would be more than enough.

Further, steel plants are expensive and take a long time to build; are perhaps the most complex of industrial ventures; and there has been a hesitancy to risk over-expansion at current high costs. A steel mill built now might find itself at a competitive disadvantage with one built if and when costs are lower.

Mr. Holding, though stating that Canada's steel production is "woefully inadequate" for her economy, offered an excuse for the limited expansion. He said:

"The investor in recent years hasn't had a great deal of encouragement from the standpoint of return on his money. He is double-taxed, first in the taxes which his company pays, and then as an individual. Private enterprise would take the reins if it could see a reasonable reward for the hazards which are inevitable in an enterprise like this."

The Rev. M. C. Davies, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, opened the modern building which contains all the county judicial and business offices.

W. C. Thomson, Liberal leader for Ontario, spoke in the evening at a banquet. He traced the history of the county and its building and said the new structure was a memorial to county officials.

Canadian Soldiers' Appetites Confound U.S. Logistics

AT SEA WITH THE 2nd BATTALION, PPCLI, Dec. 6 (CP) — The 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, now Korea-bound aboard the United States troop carrier PVT. Joe P. Martinez, twice has confounded the United States' newfangled science of logistics.

Theoretically logistics has something to do with getting the right number of men, with the right equipment, at the right place, at the right time, to knock hell out of the enemy.

The shiny new Diesel locomotives hauling the battalion from Vancouver to Fort Lewis, Wash., ran out of gas near Seattle. For more than an hour the Patricias waited while the Dieselized railroad hunted up an idle steam engine to complete their journey. They sailed all right, on Nov. 25.

Then the troop ship ran short of potatoes.

The PVT. Joe stocked 35,200 pounds of potatoes before leaving Seattle—enough, they thought, to carry her to Pusan and back again.

Disappear Fast

Almost 7,000 pounds were used up during the first five days of her outgoing voyage. Potato consumption then was restricted to one meal a day, with spaghetti, macaroni and vegetables being drawn on to replace them.

Except for potatoes, the ship's food front is holding up admirably.

Most of the cooking is done by PPCLI chefs, while kitchen fatigues are done in turn by details from both the Canadian and United States contingents. Some 400 American soldiers are shipmates of the 1,000-odd Canadians.

In charge of the galleys have been Sgts. John K. Moore of Yorkton, Sask., and Mervin Gordon of Saskatoon, operating under the ship's own superintending chef, Joe Gatlin of Seattle.

Running the steamers, which before the voyage has ended will have handled the potatoes, 2,100 pounds of cabbage, 510 pounds of cauliflower, and carrots, beets, peas, beans and other vegetables from the ship's stores—are Ptes. Charles Webster of Winnipeg and Magnus Jensen of Drumheller and Calgary.

Plenty of Work

There's plenty of work ahead for the PPCLI's carving chefs — Ptes. Calvin Williams of Winnipeg, Walter Fenn of Portage La Prairie, Man., and Hubert Pagan of Orillia. The meat lockers hold whole carcasses of beef, pork, and lamb.

Baking for the troops are Ptes. Terry Labrash of Saskatoon, Andrew Grey of Winnipeg, William Morgan of Montreal and P. A. Martin of Restigouche, Que.

Chief Steward Bob Alloway of Seattle, Wash., says he has never seen troops eat as heartily.

And chief cook Gatlin echoes he has never had such willing help in the kitchen.

The other night the troops were to have tinned pineapple for dessert. Ten cases of 24 tins each were drawn from stores the night before.

Tins Vanish

But they had disappeared by the time they were to be opened and prepared... and unconfirmed reports were that individual tins were auctioned below decks at from 25 to 50 cents each.

Anyway, as 1,400 troops filed past the serving position from which pineapple would have been ladled that night, and each said "yes" when asked whether he would have pineapple for dessert, Pte. Gordon Coonie of Toronto solemnly went through the motions of dishing some out from an empty tray.

"Don't drop any of the juice," wisecracked the battalion commander, Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone of Edmonton and Salmon Arm, B. C., who stood nearby.

And 1,400 troops got the point. No food has been lifted since.

New Methods Said Needed In Salt Codfish Industry

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.—(CP). — The salt codfish industry in Newfoundland is "old-fashioned, antiquated, inefficient and unprofitable," in the opinion of Premier J. R. Smallwood.

Addressing the Society of United Fishermen at their 77th annual meeting here he said "the island has failed to keep up with the times.

"If John Cabot were to return to Newfoundland today he would find that the gasoline engine had replaced sails and oars, and that the codtrap had been added to the hookline and jig... Other than that there is no difference in our fishing methods than 450 years ago."

He told the gathering there are about 28,000 fishermen on the island, about 20,000 of them on the northeast coast. He compared their fishing grounds to a narrow belt of water about four miles thick and following the winding coastline. "If the fish come in," he said, "our fishermen work like dogs and catch them. But if the fish do not come in, the fishermen go on the dole."

Premier Smallwood spoke of the government's plans for modernization of the fisheries. He mentioned the newly formed fisheries loan board which would be given from one to five million dollars to enable fishermen to finance new and better boats and fishing gear, and to teach them more modern methods of catching fish.

He said the government has studied fishing methods in other countries and would soon put some of these practices into operation in Newfoundland.

In this connection he said that next month a boat of the Norwegian type would be launched here. The new type boat would be capable of fishing in all seasons and with all types of fishing gear, the Premier said.

Boys' Town Thrives At Winnipeg Church

WINNIPEG —(CP)— Winnipeg has its "Boys' Town". Seventy-five "citizens," between 12 and 17 years old, elect their mayor and councillors and meet every Monday night in the basement of St. Matthew's Anglican Church.

For five cents weekly, they can play basketball, floor hockey and table tennis and pound the punching bags.

Supervisor Ed Dock, who has been in youth work 12 years, says three major aims of Boy's Town are good sportsmanship, organized athletics and closer relationship between the boys and the church.

Shipping Record Set At Welland

PORT COLBORNE, Dec. 6 (CP) —An all-time record in tonnage passing through the Welland Ship Canal already has been established this season of Great Lakes navigation.

There were 13,873,217 tons of commodities moved through the waterway up to Nov. 25. This is about 900,000 tons above the figure for the corresponding period last year.

That year a new record of 13,644,129 tons of freight passed through the canal by the close of navigation. Tonnage this season up to Nov. 25 already exceeds this mark by 230,000 tons.

Traffic was heaviest in the latter part of the current season and a heavy movement of coal was the big factor in the setting of the new mark. A total of 4,809,029 tons of coal passed through thee canal up to Nov. 25, 1,486,742 tons more than the tonnage of this commodity up to the same date last season.

There was an increase also in the movement of ore up to this same date. There were 1,556,726 tons of coal passed through the than in the same period in 1949.

Vessel passages up to Nov. 25 totalled 149 more than those up to the same date in 1949. The comparative figures are 7,282 against 7,033.

Jewish Chairman Approves Carols

TORONTO, Dec. 6 (CP)— J. Irving Oelbaum, chairman of the central committee of the Canadian Jewish Congress, said today that Christmas Carols express the universal brotherhood of man which is one of the basic concepts of Judaism and Christianity.

Commenting on a sermon by Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg of Holy Blossom Temple in which the Rabbi said the singing of carols should be banned in public schools, Mr. Oelbaum said in a statement:

"As Christmas carols have a religious connotation, we believe their singing should be kept on a voluntary basis, with due regard to the sensibilities of minority groups."

Rabbi Feinberg had urged the ban on the singing of carols in schools "because they violate the principles of democratic education."

Flood Threat Ends In Calgary Section

CALGARY, Dec. 6 (CP)—The Bow river flood threat in Calgary is virtually over today. The river is flowing swiftly beneath a giant ice jam which had choked it off at its two forks in East Calgary for almost one week.

City engineer Ivor Strong reported at 2 a.m. that the Bow had cut a channel under the ice jam, which had formed a solid wall from the surface down to the bed of the river.

About the only remaining threat is poised by a reservoir of water behind an eight-foot dam of ice which formed Monday night at Keith, half a mile upstream from the village of Bowness, which is eight miles west of downtown Calgary.

Young People Hold Meet At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 6 — (ENS)—An inter-church meeting of the Baptist young people, the United Church young adults' club and the Presbyterian UR Welcome club were guests of the Chi Rho Society of Christ Church at the parish hall on Monday night.

Percy Melville, president of the Chi Rho Society, welcomed the visitors. This was the first such inter-church meeting for the Baptist group, and he made special mention of this fact and expressed his thanks to the visitors for their attendance.

After a sing-song, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. O. Benor, there were scripture readings by Rev. J. McKibbin, pastor of Christ Church.

Dr. Ross F. Richardson and Reuben Eason gave a cornet duet, and Bruce Elmhirst gave a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Southern.

Rev. W. J. Gilling, MBE, rector of St. Luke's Church and rural dean of Peterborough, was guest speaker. Introducing the speaker, Rev. McKibbin told of his long record of military service, during which he served overseas for seven years and rose to the position of senior chaplain with the rank of liuteneant-colonl.

In his talk, Rev. Gilling said that it was becoming increasingly difficult to sell young people on Chrstian teachings, even in this time of world crisis, when spiritual matters and prayer should be foremost in the minds of all people.

Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the Chi Rho ladies at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Ruth Thompson, president of the Young Adults' Club of the United Church, expressed the thanks of her club for the excellent program, as did Mrs. Ron Hazell of the UR Welcome Club and Mrs. Clarence Young of the Baptist Young People.

Evacuate 2 Villages As Lava Pours Down

CATANIA, Sicily, Dec. 6 (AP) —The villagers of Renazzo and Milo, menaced by an oozing tide of lava from erupting Mount Etna, were ordered to leave their homes today.

The evacuation order was given as the glowing stream ate its way through a chestnut grove and moved down the eastern slopes of the volcano to the outskirts of Renazzo, a hamlet of 600.

Firemen from Catania and Messina stood by with trucks to move out the villagers and their belongings.

A mile further downhill the 1,500 residents of Milo also were moving out under orders. The wines for which the hamlet is famed were placed in fire-brigade tankers and taken to storage places in Catania.

The ancient volcano of Etna began its latest upheaval Nov. 25.

Protest Violations

BERLIN, Dec. 6—(AP)— The Russian news agency Adn reported from Tirana Tuesday night that Albania has sent a note to the United Nations protesting "eight new violations" of Albanian territory by Greek military aircraft and a speedboat. The note asked the U.N. to "take effective measures to prevent a repetition of such border provocations carried out by the rulers in Athens in the interest of Anglo-American war-mongers."

British Commons Turn Down Amusement Shows On Sunday

LONDON, Dec. 6 (CP).—Britain's "storm over Sunday" blew itself out with an overwhelming majority of members deciding in favor of sedate Sabbaths.

By a vote of 207 to 97, the House of Commons decided that even punch and judy shows should be barred on Sundays during next year's Festival of Britain. The Festival, planned as a symbol of British recovery, is to be open from May to September, 1951.

"Punch and Judy attacks the sacred British institution of matrimony and encourages crimes of violence," James MacColl, a Labor member, told the house.

The vote, taken in committee stage, of a bill allowing the Festival proper to remain open on Sundays, followed a Commons decision last week that an amusement garden in Battersea Park, one of the Festival attractions, should be closed Sunday.

Some members sought to have the effect of this ruling softened. This week, Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross offered to help draft an amendment to permit "harmless amusement."

Turned Down

This would include a children's boating pond, a children's pets' corner and a punch and judy show. But when the vote came, the House expressed its feelings that no amusements, oven of an innocent kind, should be expressly exempted from the Lord's Day Observance Act during the 1951 Festival.

When a fair was held in Battersea Park 115 years ago, a Battersea missionary wrote:

"If ever there was a place out of hell which so surpassed sodom and gomorrah in ungodliness and abomination, this was it."

Britain has a world reputation for tolerance and political freedom, but the storm over Sunday has been raging for centuries.

Ivor Brown, writing in the Sunday Observer, said that it has been going on since the days of Charles I, when—so it was chronicled—the Lord to "prove his loving kindnesse" slew a summoner to Sunday football with a thunderbolt and terrorized the teams with a "filthy stinke."

Order Maple Leaf Player Kennedy Pay $2,664 Damages In Accident

TORONTO, Dec. 6 — (CP) — Theodore (Teeder) Kennedy, Port Colborne-born captain of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, Tuesday was ordered to pay damages of $2,664 arising from a traffic accident in which Harold Shepherd, 14, was injured and another boy died.

An Assize Court jury, after hearing the suit brought by Shepherd and the Children's Aid Society of which he is a ward, fixed damages at $3,088.25. However, Kennedy was required to pay only half of the amount since Shepherd was found 50 per cent responsible for the accident.

The jury awarded $1,120 to the society.

Shepherd and Bobby Armstrong, another ward of the society, were struck by Kennedy's car last winter in the northend of the city as the Leafs captain was en route to Maple Leaf Gardens to play in a National Hockey League game.

Shepherd had both legs fractured and was in hospital nearly five months.

Kennedy said he was travelling at less than 20 miles an hour, and saw the two boys when they were less than 20 feet away. He jammed on the brakes but the car "slid right into them." Mrs. Kennedy, only other defence witness, termed driving conditions at the time as "wretched" with snow "coming from all directions."

Liquor Board Curbs Building

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 — (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario Tuesday announced curtailment of construction by the Labor Control Board of Ontario of all buildings requiring the use of structural steel.

His announcement followed a statement from Trade Minister Howe last weekend imposing restrictions on the use of steel for "amusement" purposes.

In a statement, Mr. Frost said his government will "co-operate to the fullest extent with the government of Canada in directing the use of steel to the purpose best suited for security of the nation" and that further construction planned by the Liquor Board will be deferred "until the present emergency situation has eased."

The board will also refuse applications for licences to sell alcoholic beverages until it has established that the applications do not involve use of structural steel, he added.

Warn Home Rule Costs Money

LONDON, Dec. 6—(Reuters)—Conservative member Sir Herbert Williams told advocates of Scottish and Welsh home rule in the House of Commons Tuesday night that they should be ready to meet the cost of their policies.

The English, he maintained, subsidize both Wales and Scotland. "If you want home rule—pay for it," he said.

The "plain truth" is that Welsh economy was dependent on England, Sir Herbert said.

"For what?" chorused the Scottish members in pained surprise.

"For finance," Sir Herbert retorted, standing his ground.

Challenging the wrath of the most easily roused section of the Commons, the Welsh and Scottish members, he said he is quite sure the forthcoming investigation of Anglo-Scottish financial relationship would show that—under the present taxation system—Scotland is subsidized. Similar study of Wales would show the same dependency.

CHRISTMAS SHORTBREAD: "Could you give me a recipe for Shortbread Cookies? I am entertaining my husband's family for Christmas for the first time and want to serve the works."
Here you are. Beat 1 cup of butter until creamy but not oily. Sift ½ cup corn starch, ½ cup icing sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour four times. Add to the butter a little at a time. Work in with a spoon as long as possible, then turn mixture on floured board and knead till mixture cracks slightly. Pat gently to 1/3" thickness and cut with fancy cutters or roll into small balls and press flat with a fork. Bake them in a moderate oven (320 deg. F.) for 20 minutes. This will yield about 100 small cookies.

FIREPROOF CHRISTMAS TREE: "My family always insists on having a Christmas Tree every year but I am scared to death of fire. Can you tell me of any way to fireproof a tree?"
We certainly can. Make a solution of 10c worth powdered boracic and 10c worth of powdered borax (you can get them at Tamblyn's) and 1 gallon of hot water. Then just spray that on your tree.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS: "We are getting ready for our Sunday School Concert and would like a book of well known Christmas Carols with music—not too expensive so that we could get several copies. We have no music store in our village. Could you tell me the name of a book that we could order in Toronto?"
The Promenade Music Centre on Bloor Street West have a 30c book—Christmas Carols Old and New—which we think is just what you are looking for.

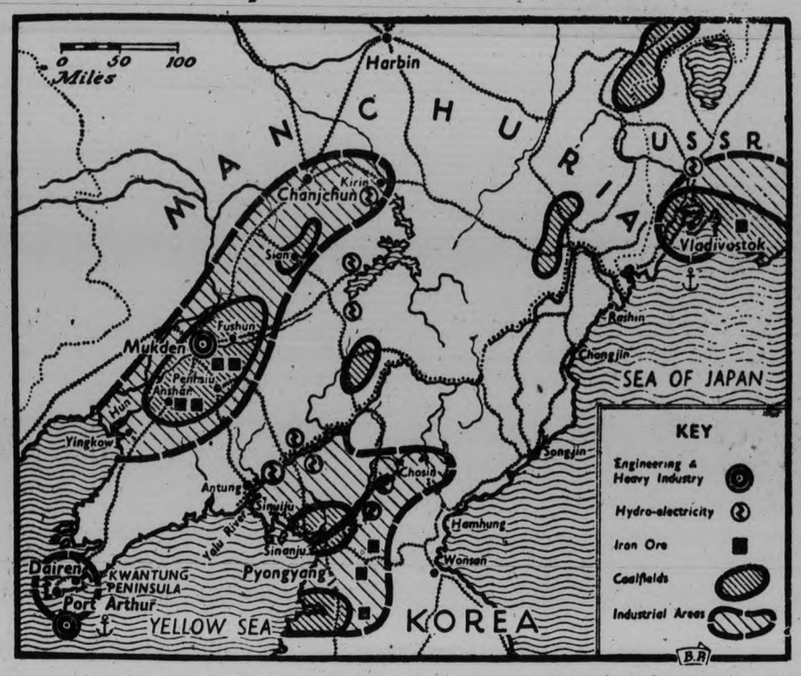
Great Granary and Arsenal Linked



Between Vladivostok and Port Arthur, Russia's two Pacific naval bases, lie Manchuria and Korea, separated by the Yalu River, whose waters supply power for newly developed hydro-electricity plants. This system has been built within recent years to feed the Manchurian and Korean industrial areas, which, ten years ago, were the arsenal behind Japanese expansion.

Rivalry for possession of the Chinese province of Manchuria has existed for 100 years. It was the prize for which Russia and Japan fought at the beginning of the century. Now, due to Japanese industrial development, it is six times stronger than the Soviet Far East in manpower, industrial production and food. By international law it should revert to China, but the Russians, though acknowledging Chinese sovereignty, have linked the Manchurian granary and arsenal to the economic and strategic power now being developed in the Soviet Far East, and control the railways. The re-acquisition of Port Arthur has provided an ice-free port, for which the marine and shipbuilding yards of the Amur River, frontier between northern Manchuria and Russia, are building vast quantities of submarines. The heavy industries of Manchuria, which include steel and engineering, support this Soviet program.

Strike Ended At Steel Plant, Get 12-Cent Increase

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 (CP)—End of the six-weeks strike of 1,200 employees of the Canadian Tube and Steel Products, Ltd., was announced Tuesday by W. E. Bowen, general manager of the Montreal plant. He said employees were scheduled to return to work this morning.

Representatives of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and company officials accepted a propsal Sunday for ending the strike. The proposal provided an increase of about 12 cents to a minimum wage of $1.05 an hour for all employees, irrevocable check-off with membership in the union on a voluntary basis and changes in the vacation clause of the former contract.

The proposal was unannimously accepted by the membership.

In addition to the general wage increase, the new contract provides for 2½ cents an hour, retroactive pay for each hour's work from Nov. 7, 1949, to Nov. 7, 1950; a 44-hour week and the creation of a joint committee to study a life, sickness and accident insurance plan.

IN 50 YEARS ALUMINUM HAS GROWN TO BE A LARGE PART OF CANADIAN LIVING

Port Alfred, Que.—unloading bauxite

Port Alfred—loading aluminum

"... add a pinch of bauxite"

It is a recipe for a bigger, richer, more comfortable Canada.

The "pinch" is scores of shiploads of the red earth — bauxite — from British Guiana. A three-thousand-mile ocean journey ends at Port Alfred on the Saguenay River. Then the bauxite goes by rail to the electrical "kitchen" at Arvida a few miles away. There aluminum is refined from the bauxite by using electricity provided by harnessing the same Saguenay.

You see, the Saguenay provides two essentials for making aluminum — deep water for cargo ships and cataracts for power — within a few miles of one another.

Standing on the dock at Port Alfred, you see something unique. You watch freight cars filled with bauxite disappear over a hill and return with shining aluminum. The process of turning bauxite into aluminum has added Port Alfred and the city of Arvida to Canada's living space, and opened new opportunities for thousands of Canadians.

Firemen Seek $300 To $400 In New Scale

Salary increases of $300 to $400 in most instances are listed in the terms of the proposed working agreement for 1951 which the members of Local No. 519 of the Fire Fighters Association have sent to the council. It was referred Tuesday night to the fire and light committee.

The proposed salaries and the present rates are set out as follows:

	1951	1950
1st Assist. Chief	$3715	$3350
2nd Assist Chief	3515	3150
Captains	3215	2850
Electrician	3215	2850
Mechanic	3215	2850
1st Class Fireman	3015	2650
2nd Class Fireman	2915	2550
3rd Class Fireman	2790	2425
4th Class Fireman	2665	2300

It was near the end of this year that the council and the Union straightened out their 1950 wage scale. It was referred in June to a board of arbitration, but the midsummer holidays intervened, and nothing was heard of the matter again until a month ago.

$150 This Year

The Union received $150 increase for each man, as the major item in their presentment of last December.

The reference to vacations and substitute holidays proposes that all the firemen shall receive 14 days with pay and an additional nine days' vacations with full salary for all who have been employed with the city 15 years or more.

It is also suggested that all employes shall receive nine additional days' holiday in lieu of employment on statutory holidays, to be obtained in a manner mutually agreed upon by executive of Local 519 and the fire and light committee. There is another proposal for sick leave plan for employees off duty as a result of accident or illness not attributable to or incurred in the performance of duty as a fireman.

To Screen With Shrubs To New Substations

City Planning Board suggests that the auxiliary substations of the Utilities Commission should be bordered with suitable shrubbery. One is on Romaine St., another on Clifton St., in Ashburnham, and work is under way on the third, on the east side of High St.

The recommendation of the Board, specifically referring to the High St. unit was: "Since its construction is under way, we desire only to suggest that sites of all substations in all areas be properly and suitable screened by the planting of shrubbery."

Not Recommended

The Board did not recommend the application of C. Doughty and Son to establish a cement block manufacturing plant and building supply depot on the west side of Rogers St., north of Tivey St.

The Board reported that it saw no objection to granting the request of H. Albert & Co. to open a scrap metal yard at the corner of High and St. Mary's Streets, "inasmuch as permissible use under light industry zoning includes machine shop or other metal working shops which, we believe, would include a scrap metal, iron-processing plant, but it does not include storage of junk, scrap iron or other metals or auto-wrecking yard."

The executive committee were authorized to set up committees to deal with matters such as the drawing up of a constitution, finances, projects, programs and entertainment.

William Graff was authorized to invite Dr. J. J. Talman, librarian of the University of Western Ontario, London, to address the next meeting. Dr. Talman is a past president of the Ontario Historical Society and the Canadian Historical Society and is well acquainted witht he organization procedure of local societies.

It was decided that the closing date for charter membership in the society will be decided by the executive committee and announced in the near future.

DelaFosse, Miss Florence Atwood; Honorary vice-presidents, George M. Douglas, Sister Patricia, Mark Burnham, F. D. Kerr; president, H. L. Representatives of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the University Women's Club will be selected by their respective clubs later.

Brotherhood Week Plans Laid

Plans for the Brotherhood Week Feb. 18 to 25 were started at a meeting of the Service Club Council meeting at the YMCA Tuesday night.

Represented on the council were the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Y's Men's Club, B'nai B'rith, Kinsmen Club, Soroptimist Club and Optimist Club.

Fred Overend and William Graff outlined some of the plans the council is considering for the week.

They asked that the many service clubs in the council co-operate as they had last year to acquaint the public of the week and its purposes. Service clubs may get films from the Film Council which deal with racial prejudice: "The World We Live In" and "Prejudice."

The representatives all agreed to tell their clubs of the special week and ask them to take an active part in supporting the week's activities.

National Director Expected

Plans are being made to bring Willard Johnson, National Program Director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews to Peterborough as a highlight of the activities of the week. Among many other related organizations Mr. Johnson served as consultant in inter-group relations for the American State Department High Commission in Germany this year.

A resident of Des Moines, Iowa, he has also been a consultant on numerous radio programs such as The Greatest Story Ever Told, Light of the World and Superman.

Dollar Stays Steady

MONTREAL, Dec. 6—(CP) — The American dollar opened at 4¾ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.04¾ Canadian to buy $1 American. The pound sterling was $2.93⅜, also unchanged.

Red Patch Club Developing Recreation Area

By late spring the Red Patch club will have the first building completed on its 30-acre property for a war veterans' convalescent camp and recreation area. The property is on Eel's creek, eight miles north of Burleigh Falls.

This was announced Tuesday night by Gil Downer, president of the Red Patch Club, at the annual dinner commemorating the Battle of Ortona. About 150 were present.

Cost of erecting the buildings will likely come to $2,000. The land was donated by the Crown.

Eventually the club intends to have cabins built to accommodate convalescing veterans, and needy veterans and their families. The lodge, consisting of a main room, store room and kitchen, should be completed by May 1.

It will be the main centre for picnics and other outings.

The cabins will be finished later in the summer.

Red Patch officials say this project is the only one of its kind in Canada and their various money-raising schemes are for the purpose of financing it.

A 100-yard road is being built in from Highway 28.

The Rev. W. C. McGarney exhorted the veterans to live a Christian life. "We'd all be barbarians today if we weren't Christians," he said.

"If there is no religion you have a situation like the one in Asia today," he said. And he stated a person must live what he believes.

The Rev. Walter Gilling briefly recounted the Battle of Ortona and the part played by the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment.

After the turkey dinner there was a dance and social evening.

Seven New Men On Directorate

Seven new members will be admitted to the Chamber of Commerce Directors for 1951 as shown by election results reported to the Examiner today by James Fraser, manager. The remaining eight of the 15 directors were re-elected.

The ballot boxes were opened and ballots counted by the scrutineer committee Tuesday night.

Those re-elected were: Bert Austin, Gordon Dobbin, James Dutton, Jr., J. E. Girven, John W. Madden, T. E. McKay, P. D. Scollard, W. Ross Thompson. New directors are: R. B. Arnold, E. G. Baker, P. S. Dallin, Charles H. Huffman, F. Gordon McGavin, B. H. Myers, Ernest J. Young.

The members of the scrutineer committee were W. J. Cunningham, George Carphin, H. J. Powell, D. J. Lawrie, W. E. Franks, Roy Girven and Harold Inman.

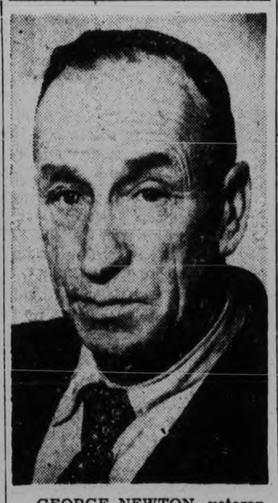
LINDSAY, Dec. 6 — Former councillor Charles O. Hodgson defeated his brother, Christopher Hodgson for the reeveship of the township of Somerville. Charles Hodgson received 318 votes to Christopher's 173.

Charles Brohm, township assessor, headed the trustees with 338; Ed Lyle received 215 and Bert Palmer 212. Stanley Smith lost his position on the board with 183 votes.

The reeve and deputy-reeve of Dysart township in Haliburton county, were put in by acclamation. Elected to council were Carl Hussey, Bert Curry and Holly Sisson.



GEORGE NEWTON, veteran member of the Belmont and Methuen Council, whose success in Monday's election will give him 12 consecutive years as councillor. Mr. Newton was in second place being only three votes behind Robert Wrightly who headed the polls. Mr. Newton was the only member of the Belmont-Methuen Council to retain his seat for 1948 and came back again in 1949 with a record vote of 482. In 1950 the council received an acclamation.

Judge Suggests Disfranchise All Communists

Disfranchisement of all persons "owing their allegiance to a certain foreign power" was suggested today by Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay in his charge to the grand jury for the General Sessions of Peterborough County.

His reference to Communists thinly veiled, the judge declared that "it is high time those of that persuasion were disfranchised and not permitted to play a part in any government of ours."

The challenge the Western world faces in the East must be accepted, said Judge McGibbon, "even though it is something of which we wish no part."

"Never in our time have we been so challenged," he went on. "It is a grave situation, gentlemen, and we must protect our way of living that has been bought at such a sacrifice."

"Will our way of life continue, or must we take up arms? We hope that by the present talks in Washington some means will be devised by which we may continue our method of living."

Judge McGibbon said that the democracies must rededicate themselves, adding that "we do not apreciate properly" the benefits we have.

Helps In Emergency

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)— President Truman "drafted" Stephen T. Early today for temporary service as his press secretary. Long-time press secretary to the late President Franklin R. Roosevelt, Early will serve until Truman picks a permanent successor to Charles G. Ross, who died suddenly last night. Early is now an official of Pullman, Incorporated.

Doctor To See County Home People Annually

County Council is making some improvements on the County Home in Lakefield in line with the recommendations in the annual report of the Department of Public Welfare.

Only a few items are being attended to now but the 1951 county council will need a bigger appropriation if the full report is to be complied with.

William C. Grant, chairman of the County Home Committee, reported to council: "We refused all changes and improvements except those absolutely necessary. But conditions are such that a great deal more money will be required this coming year."

Annual Examinations

Dr. H. G. Carleton will now give each man and woman a thorough medical examination each year. Previously the inmates were given a medical when they were admitted, but now it is to be an annual event. The number of inmates varies between 14 and 20.

Lack of reading material has been rectified by buying two daily newspapers; and weekly periodicals are also being supplied. Radios are being purchased—one for the men's and the other for the women's sitting rooms.

The provincial supervisor recommended that some of the wooden floors, particularly those in the residents' rooms, be covered. It would improve the appearance of the rooms and would be an aid to cleanliness. He also suggested bedside tables for small personal articles. These will be dealt with by the 1951 council.

The matter of repairing the floors in the men's sitting room and hall also was laid over for the new council to deal with. However the committee has directed that rubber treads be placed on the stairways, and a gateway put on at the head of the stairs.

Religious Services

At present religious services are held at the Home during the winter months only. The provincial supervisor suggested that these services be held once a week, preferably on Sundays. The co-operation of ministers in Peterborough and Lakefield is anticipated.

One of the things that irks the county council is the repeated request for the installation of casement-type windows that open out in case of fire. At present the windows are of the drop-type. However, the committee points out, if casement windows were installed they would open out on the fire escape and thus block any possible escape.

Either the fire marshall will have to waive a regulation or the county is going to have to tear down the existing fire escape and build another.

The Fire Marshall also wants two hose reel carts with 400 feet of two-and-a-half-inch hose. But the snag here is that the Home's water system has no facilities for plugging in so large a type of hose.

STUART WESLEY WILSON, 11, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wilson, of Seymour township, died on Tuesday in hospital as result of injuries received on Sunday after being trampled by a horse.

Horse Trampled Boy, Aged 11, Injuries Fatal

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 6.—(ENS)—Stuart Wilson, 11, died in Civic Hospital, Peterborough, Tuesday with internal injuries incurred when he was trampled by a horse on Sunday evening. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, of Seymour township.

Stuart was helping his father with the evening chores when the accident occurred. Both he and his father were taking two horses to water. The horse the boy was leading was playful and started to jump. It pulled him down and tramped on him.

Stuart never lost consciousness and walked the eighth of a mile to the house in spite of a crushed brow, broken ribs and head and facial cuts which were treated by Dr. J. Anderson of Campbellford. Fourteen stitches were needed to close cuts in his side and head.

He was then taken to the Peterborough Civic Hospital, where he died on Tuesday. The post mortem reports revealed that death occurred from internal injuries involving the liver.

Coroner A Crowner In The Middle Ages

WINNIPEG (CP)— Manitoba's provincial coroner, Dr. I. O. Fryre, says the coroner of medieval times had a vastly different job from his modern counterpart.

Ancient coroner, or "crowners" spent most of their time keeping watch over crown property, he said in a service-club address.

In this category came buried treasure and salvage of the sea, including shipwrecks and whales or sturgeon either washed up on shore or caught near the coast.

Dr. Fryer said the modern coroner's work is often misunderstood by the public who think he spends all his time with corpses involved in cases of violent deaths.

Activities of the modern coroner actually include detective, medical and pathological work as well as work of an executive, administrative and legal nature.

In Manitoba, about 750 cases a year are investigated, most without the help of a jury. During an average year in this province about 500 jurymen are subpoenaed and 1,000 witnesses sworn in for coroner's hearings.

Amidst the early morning shoppers a would-be murderer crept silently and quickly upon his prey today on George street. Council Asks For Report On The Operation Of Cafeteria At Hospital

Defeat of the Civic Hospital bylaw was largely due to the recent adverse publicity in connection with its cafeteria, Ald. T. D. Miller said at the council meeting Tuesday night. "The council is entitled to a full report on the cafeteria situation at the Civic Hospital," Ald. Miller said. "I think you are right," said Mayor Swanston. "Perhaps we might get a report by Monday night." Ald. Gillespie seconded the Miller motion asking for a report.

"And next year we might have the polling booths on ground floors," Ald. Gillespie suggested, with reference to some elders who at some second story polling found difficulty in climbing stairs place.

Ask For Direction

Mayor Swanston asked the council what directive they wished to give regarding the grounds work that remains to be done at the hospital.

The hospital bylaw sought the approval of the ratepayers for the borrowing of $300,000, of which $200,000 was to pay for furnishings and some final work on the buildings, plus $100,000 to cover the cost of grading the land, building roads, sidewalks and other outdoor improvements.

"Do you want our works department to carry on out there until we have some definite decision of where the money is coming from?" Mayor Swanston asked.

City Engineer A. E. Chalmers said his department was ready to pour concrete this morning.

"I think we should not cut it off too sharply. That work should be done," Ald. Gillespie said.

Mayor Swanston: "If the Engineer is ready to pour concrete, I think the council would want him to continue it, but there should be no other work until we know definitely where we stand."

A motion by Aldermen Waddell and Dodds authorized Mr. Chalmers to go ahead with the work he has immediately in hand.

Anderson was charged following the death of Gordon Ham in an auto accident on Highway 28 October 25. Imming was charged following the $100,000 swindle of a Toronto finance company.

Ald. Dodds Wishes Council Best In 1951

Ald. Hurrell Dodds did not wait Tuesday night for whatever valedictories may be forthcoming before the council of this centennial year writes a last page or chapter into its minutes.

Just before adjournment of the council meeting Tuesday night, the defeated candidate in the mayoral contest Monday said it was gratifying to know that the people of Peterborough in large numbers took advantage of their franchise.

"I believe people are waking up to the fact that if they don't vote they might some day lose the right to vote," Ald. Dodds said.

"For my part, I have the satisfaction of having tried to do my best in the service of the people of Peterborough. To Mayor Swanston I would like to say that you have the satisfaction of receiving a mandate from the people to carry on. I hope you and your council in 1951 will have a very successful year."

Broke Windows But Damage Found Under $20

A charge of wilfully committing damage to the home of Thomas G. Hughes, 633 Monaghan Rd., against Mrs. Merrill Montigny, was dismissed in police court today by Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C.

The section of the Criminal Code under which Mrs. Montigny was charged specified that the damage done must be over $20.

Magistrate Philp said there was not conclusive evidence that broken windows in the Hughes home amounted to $20.

In the trial Tuesday, when Hughes was pressed to put a value on the damage done, he said "I don't know and I don't care."

The magistrate said a decision by the Supreme Court of Alberta settled the matter. He said the decision was that the section under which Mrs. Montigny was charged did not include the lesser offence of committing damage under $20.

In some charges, such as murder, the charge includes the lesser offence of manslaughter and a person found not guilty of murder may be convicted of manslaughter on the same evidence presented in the murder charge without a new trial.

Evidence Tuesday was that Hughes and Mrs. Montigny, became involved in an argument. Hughes ordered the accused out of the house and would not let her back in. She said she broke a window to climb through.

When Hughes poured a bottle of beer over her, she chased him about the house up and down stairs with a stick she had used to break the window.

When police arrived, said Mrs. Montigny, Hughes dared her to break another window in front of Sergeant Leo Murphy and Constable Edward Niziol.

"The flower pot was sitting there very conveniently and I tossed it through the window," Mrs. Montigny told the court.

Car Production Greater Than Last Year

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP).—The big automobile production boom in Canada is shooting shiny new cars off assembly lines at a record-making pace.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday that more new automobiles were produced in the first 10 months of 1950 than in the whole of 1949.

It placed total factory shipments for the 10 months at 329,776 units. This was almost 36 per cent higher than the 1949 10-month total of 244,992. It was about 12 per cent higher than the full year's total of 290,634.

"Automobile production in Canada has continued to boom along at a record-making pace into the fall months of this year," the Bureau said.

October's shipments of 35,573 new cars was a climb of more than 7,000 over 28,125 in October last year.

Actor Enjoys Playing MacArthur Roles

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 6 (AP)—You've seen Robert Barratt dozens of times. He's a character actor who works almost constantly in the movies.

It's likely you'll be seeing even more of Barratt in the future. The reason: He bears a remarkable resemblance to another familiar figure—Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

This week Barratt received word of his third engagement to portray the general in films. He'll appear in "An Atom of Love," a sequel to "Come to the Stable" in which nuns will do rehabilitation work in Japan.

In person he appears amazingly like MacArthur. He has the same build, the same strong features and Roman nose.

"We're just about alike," the actor admitted. "We're both about six feet. The only difference between us is that his voice is a tone higher than mine."

Doesn't Talk

So far that hasn't made much difference, because Barratt's impersonations of MacArthur have been silent. The first was in "They Were Expendable."

"All I had to do was walk down the dock and get into a P-T boat," he recalled. "For that, I spent five wonderful weeks on location in Florida."

His other appearance was in a current adventure film with Tyrone Power. He rode in a jeep before cheering Filipinos after the landing at Leyte.

"I travelled 17,000 miles to do that scene," he laughed. "All I did was ride 50 yards in a jeep for two minutes. For that I had to go to the Philippines."

In that trip, Barratt made a side journey to Tokyo, where he had a 45-minute interview with his noted look-alike.

Barratt, 59, was a New York stage actor for 18 years before coming to Hollywood in 1932. He left New York on three hours' notice and has been here ever since. He has made scores of pictures, but the public will no doubt remember him most for his portrayal of MacArthur.

THIS WAS A MILL — When an explosion of unknown origin razed the Griggs flour mill at Dunnville Monday, all that was left standing was the mill's concrete elevator. The force of the blast smashed windows in most of the town's stores and many homes and apartments. Only one person was injured. A watchman at the mill was burned and blown into a nearby parking lot.

People In Northern Labrador See Movies For First Time

NAIN, Labrador (CP). — Here on the bleak coast of Northern Labrador there are people, both Eskimos and White, who knew nothing of moving pictures until a few weeks ago. Now they are seeing movies once a week, through the efforts of a Moravian missionary, the Rev. F. W. Peacock, and the National Film Board.

To the simple folk of Labrador, only now becoming touched by civilization, the sound projector is something of a miracle.

It came about when Mr. Peacock saw an article in The St. John's Evening Telegram dealing with activities of the Canadian Film Board. He saw that one of the functions of the board is to supply movie equipment to isolated communities.

Mr. Peacock said "What place could be more isolated than Nain, Labrador, where during the winter the mailman comes three times only through the long, dark period between November and July?

So he wrote to the board asking for a sound projector, and another missionary, the Rev. F. C. P. Grubb, visited the board offices and was instructed in its operation. So the movies came to Nain.

Natives Pleased

The projector means that the Eskimos will get a knowledge of the outside world which has been impossible for them before. For a primitive people the picture on the screen is a more effective educational medium than the written word.

But apart from that, the entertainment value is tremendous. The Labradorian's life is a lonely one with few pleasures, and the movies, says Mr. Peacock, "are new and wonderful."

But he's wondering about the future. The Film Board's equipment is merely on loan until June, 1951. He is hoping that persons "on the outside" will contribute funds to enable the Moravian Mission to buy its own movie projector, so that the education and entertainment screen can continue uninterrupted.

Canadian Editor Raps Conceit Of U.S. Citizens

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (CP). — Canada has been waiting, mentally for 300 years "for the Americans to grow into their breeches," Bruce Hutchison, Canadian author and newspaperman, says in the current Saturday Evening Post.

Hutchison, associate editor of the Winnipeg Free Press who wrote about his own countrymen in "The Unknown Country," lets go with both barrels in his Post article entitled "The Trouble With You Yanks Is . . ."

First, he says: "We know you as the best neighbors and truest friends that any nation ever had beside it."

Then:

"If you Yanks had been just a little smarter, if you hadn't alternately bullied, wooed and ignored us, if you had ever stopped to understand us, we would have joined you long ago. That is the first trouble with you Yanks. You don't understand anybody, not even your closest friend across the river."

This lack of understanding of others and the assumption that the American way of life "is the basic norm of human behavior . . . . is now the greatest source of your weakness as the established leader of the world."

The US is "in danger of becoming the most powerful and most unpopular nation in the world outside Russia . . . . . and mainly because, in a desperate search for popularity, you have done everything except to recognize that other peoples are not potential, underdeveloped Yanks . . . . . "

Strive For Understanding In Strife-Torn World Through Adult Education

"We are living in an age of frightened people," said Dr. E. A. Corbett, Toronto, director of the Canadian Adult Education Association, who was guest speaker at the Federation of Agriculture luncheon Tuesday at the Empress Hotel.

During the last two months of travel in Nova Scotia, and through the western provinces from Manitoba to the coast, Dr. Corbett said that "wherever I go I find that people feel more helpless and frustrated than ever before in their history in the presence of the overhanging threat to everything we hold dear. I find it even in the highest circles this feeling that there is nothing we can do to prevent another war."

Practical Way of Life

Dr. Corbett said that if war could be held off another 25 years, which was a possibility if better judgment prevailed, then the ideals and the practical way of life that were now developing through the agencies of farm forum, credit unions and the co-operative movement could exert the effect of thir practice and philosophy against Communism's philosophy of hate.

"I don't believe you can stop ideas with guns. In the long run the only way of meeting the impact of a philosophy is with a better one. I think we have it working in our co-operative movement and credit unions working together in a partnership from which all prejudices and hatreds have been wiped away."

Unfortunately, Dr. Corbett said, the time may come when we have to fight.

"Most people believe the human race is capable of progress. It has been the motivating purpose of our lives toward better things. I believe that Christ was right when He said the kingdom of heaven would come among men. It has been that far off divine event toward which we have been moving.

Facing Greater Menace

The bombing of Hiroshima upset a lot of our dreams. Honest people today who are deeply concerned about our moving toward the brotherhood of man, are wondering whether we are going anywhere at all. The world is facing a greater menace today than when Hitler released his hordes and blitzkrieg upon the world."

The average man had a hopeless feeling that there was not much he could do, "and if war came today it would probably be the end of civilization as we know it. I can't see anything else for it."

Dr. Corbett quoted a statement by Hon. Lester Pearson at the interprovincial conference Monday night that the increasing power of the community was the greatest deterrent to war. "I think that is true, and if given time through our activities of adult education, our working and planning together, we have a way at last by which we can win toward that divine event to which we think the world is moving."

As one of agencies of creating a better world, Dr. Corbett emphasized the importance of the Farm Radio Forums of Canada with 30,000 people, 12,000 of them in Ontario, facing Monday night their common problems and discussing ways of bringing their ideals to bear for the betterment of their communities.

"Wherever I have seen a good Farm Forum at work I have seen a vastly improved community, working together, the people trusting each other, and striving with their problems in the light of reason and understanding and goodwill."

And from those gains of freedom of action and discussion, men were led into local responsibilities and a further on into the realities of world citizenship."

The Great Experiment

Dr. Corbett briefly sketched the change that come from the great co-operative movement sponsored from St. Francis-Xavier College, Antigonish, N.S., to the drab and impoverished fishing hamlet of north Rustico within a period of 12 years. It had brought timid, backward, hopeless men into a full sense of responsibility to their community. The youth were gone, the people appeared abject, and they were a defeated, poverty-sticken group. Results in the maritimes were probably more spectacular than elsewhere in this country. Shower baths, modern cafeteria, the cleanliness of scrubbing, homes rebuilt and painted, and a modern school built with auditoriums and all the usual facilities of today.

That happened because the people have learned to live and work together helping one another, and by using common sense on their problems, they have become masters of their economic destiny.

Learn to Think and Plan

"This is what happens when people learn to think and plan and work together. I think we have the most difficult ethical standards in the world, 'each of all, and all for each,' and you couldn't have a war if people really believed and lived up to it."

"I don't believe the common people of Russia want war any more than we do, but they were powerless to assert themselves against the power-mad heirarchy of hatred leading that country. Co-operative movements have been wiped out of existence in that country, and the people have no possibility of doing anything but what they are told to do."

Dr. Corbett expressed confidence that there was not much threat of communism where the level of education was high. That was the impression he had gained last summer from visits to Denmark, Norway, Sweden. Where education is high you have people who are happy and contented, with a smoothly working democracy. He also said there was no protest in Britain when the World Peace Conference that was to have met at Sheffield folded up and departed because many of their delegates were not permitted to enter the country.

People in Britain had long learnd to work together seeking reality of the hopes they had long held.

Through adult education as shown here in Canada through its co-operative agencies, in Scandanavia, in Britain, there was hope for the future if time remained on its side.

Dr. Corbett was introduced by Norman W. McConkey. W. W. Dawson presided, and the thanks of the meeting of 50 farm men and women was expressed by Wellington Sutton.

RCAF Staffs Photograph Themselves Out Of Job

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 (CP)—Now that the RCAF is getting the job of photographing Canada down to perfection, there isn't any more of Canada to photograph.

For 29 years the Air Force has been snapping shutters at the broad Dominion. In that time it has covered a total of 4,567,600 square miles, duplicating a number of areas, since Canada's total area is a bit less than 3,500,000 square miles.

More than half of this 29-year total has been photographed in the last three summers in an intensive post-war endeavour.

New techniques, developed in Canada and the envy of other countries, helped the Air Force photograph more than 2,600,000 square miles in the last three years. In the 1950 season, 869,000 square miles were covered.

Library Tops

The result is a photo library which Wing Cmdr. R. I. Thomas, in charge until recently of the photo operations, told a press conference has been viewed by "many envious eyes in other parts of the world."

He was talking about friendly countries, though undoubtedly the Soviet Union would be keenly interested in the maps being produced from the photographs.

Back in 1921, when the Air Force started taking pictures from the air, the photographer would lean out of the cockpit and shoot oblique photos of the area to be covered.

Since then the biggest development has been the tri-metrogon, or three-camera system. Automatic cameras fixed in the belly of a Lancaster point straight down, also out to each side at 45-degree angles. The Lancaster scoots along a strip hundreds of miles long at 200 miles an hour at 20,000 feet, covering a strip 16 miles wide.

Tri Met reached its peak of efficiency in 1948, when this method covered 679,826 square miles of Canadian territory. Since then it's eaten up the ground so fast that there isn't any left.

Problems of supplying photo crews in the field and dodging the difficult weather of the northland—there can be no cloud or snow in the pictures—were a refinement. On one occasion this summer, through use of an improved meteorological system, the RCAF was able to put up nine planes from one squadron at the same time. They shot 25,000 square miles in one day.

There is still much work to be done by the vertical system—which produces more accurate maps—but the Tri-Met system has just about done its job of producing photographs from which reasonably-accurate four-mile-to-the-inch maps can be made.

70% Skin Burned Death Rate Cut By ACTH

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 6 (AP) —An almost-skinless man—70 per cent of his skin had been burned away—was saved from death by the wonder hormone ACTH, the American Medical Association was told today.

It was a near-miracle that he lived. Loss of half your skin is almost always a painful death sentence.

But there were six other near-miracles, an exhibit and pictures by Dr. M. James Whitelaw of Phoenix, Ariz., showed.

The man was freed from dreadful pain. He escaped shock and poisoning. He had relatively-little scarring. He escaped the crippling of muscles that comes from contracted scar tissue. And he survived pneumonia and appendicitis.

Perhaps most miraculous of all, grafted skin from other persons took root and spread on his own body. This kind of successful grafting, except in identical twins, is something new in medical history.

The man is T. C. Gains, whose recovery and that of a few other burned people since, holds out promise of a new treatment in burns.

Burned by Gasoline

Gains was burned when gasoline caught fire as he was filling the gas tank of a tractor. Men caught him as he ran, and beat out the flames.

His whole body above the belt, front and back, his buttocks, right leg and hands were severely burned. His left leg, arms, face and neck were burned less severely.

Doctors gave him blood plasma penicillin, pain-killing morphine, and vaseline dressings. Gains, his condition seemingly hopeless, grew worse. He was flown 150 miles to Santa Monica's Hospital in Phoenix, 24 hours after the accident.

Dr. Whitelaw began giving four daily small injuctions of ACTH, the hormone from the pituitary gland. ACTH is one of two hormones that relieve arthritis and have shown amazing results in many kinds of sicknesses.

Pain Disappeared

Then came the surprises. Gains' pains disappeared, though he received no other medicines. His state of semi-conscious vanished, and he became "a normal man—only without much skin," said one physician.

His first and second degree burns began to heal. He contracted pneumonia on the eighth day, but pulled through with penicillin aid.

On the 27th day, the skinless muscles of his right leg still were exposed to air, but Gains stood up for pictures of his progress.

On the 42nd day, islands of new skin began to grow on badly-burned parts of his body. Healing in these parts was completed by 92 days.

On day 47, Gains was operated on for appendicitis, but recovered normally. He still was getting ACTH, but it did not seem to delay wound healing, as some researchers reported it may.

Gains' right leg, the worst burned, was not growing skin. Little patches of skin were taken from his brother, and from his brother-in-law, each man giving 20 square inches of skin for transplants. The expectation was that they would break down and disappear in two or four - disappear in two to four weeks, but might start new patches of his own skin growth.

Takes Root

On day 51—eight days after the skin grafts—all but one of the 40 patches of skin had started new islands of growth. On day 101 they completely covered the skinless leg, had taken root and spread.

Gains received ACTH for 92 days, getting a total of about one-seventh of an ounce of the precious hormone, costing some $700. Production of the hormone is increasing but still falls short of the many uses for which doctors want it.

Killed By Car

WINDSOR, Dec. 6 (CP).—Rosemary Bake, 24-year-old Windsor girl, was killed Tuesday night when she was struck and thrown 57 feet by a car while crossing a Windsor street. William Haldane, 22, of Detroit, identified as driver of the car, was held by police for investigation. No charges were laid.

Champion Hunter

FORT FRANCES, Ont. — (CP) —Jack E. Hughes, 62, of nearby F... ...ed as a champion wolf hunter. Since 1900 he has accounted for 500 wolves. His first catch this season totalled five timber wolves and four bush wolves.

Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"GO SCOT FREE"

Going "scot free" is generally accepted as meaning to escape punishment or reprimand; to be let off without payment.

The word "scot" comes to us direct from Old English, where it meant a payment or tax or one's share of a monetary burden. Looking further, we find it to be the same word as "shot," which meant quota or reckoning. This word, too, has survived and we still speak of "paying the shot." Literally, then, when we "go scot free" we are being freed of payment or tax or our share of the costs.

Say Frosted Flax Dangerous Feed

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP) Farmers are warned by the dominion experimental station here that frost flax is dangerous —and usually fatal — feed for livestock.

An analysis of flax damaged by August frost was made at the station.

"The analysis indicated it would be extremely dangerous to feed this material and, in most cases, death would result from consumption of fairly small quantities."

The station said the best precaution is to destroy unharvested flax before turning livestock into the field.

TIRED BUT HAPPY — Smiling rescued seamen of the US tanker Esso Rochester are shown being interviewed by reporters at a Quebec Harbor pier after their rescue by the Montreal tanker Maruba. Leaning over in oilskin jacket is George Hewitt, 50-year-old boatswain of the Esso Rochester, which sank off Anticosti Island after losing its prow in heavy gales. Kneeling, right, is radio officer Hyman Mandel of the Maruba, who picked up SOS signals from the broken tanker.

Famed Regiment Plans Reunion To Celebrate 60th Birthday

TORONTO—(CP)—The storied 48th Highlanders will muster again next May in Toronto.

The reunion, to mark the regiment's 60th birthday, is expected to bring more veterans than in 1928, when the 48th held what was termed the British Empire's largest single-unit gathering. More than 4,000 attended from across Canada.

Brig. E. W. Haldenby, Toronto, architect who served with the 48th in two wars, heads a committee of officers and men working on plans for the reunion. It will last three days, May 25-27 permitting travel on the May 24 holiday.

Separate stag dinners of First World War veterans of the 15th, 92nd, 134th battalions—all 48th units—and of Second World War veterans are planned for the first day.

On the second day, the spectacular highland troop of the color will be performed in Varsity stadium with the salute taken by a VIP as yet unnamed. That night, a mass dinner will be held in the armouries.

Feature of the final day, Sunday, will be a memorial parade and service at the 48th Highlanders memorial in Queen's Park. The 48th Highlanders Club (Church St.), Toronto, is already taking registrations for the reunion and arranging special rail transportation.

Young Ottawa Girl Gets Her Break On Broadway

By FRED KERNER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (CP). — As a young girl in Ottawa, Betty Low was torn between her desires to be either an actress or a dancer.

Today, not many years later, she has found the happy medium. She dances and she acts—and she is working on a combination of the two in an experiment which she hopes to produce sometime next year.

The ballerina, who blushingly admits she is "about 28," currently is being featured as an actress. She has a meaty role in Christopher Fry's "Ring Round the Moon," which stars Lucille Watson, a native of Quebec City who also grew in up Ottawa.

"By the time I got over an attack of chickenpox last year, the play was cast," Miss Law said in an interview. "But I was in luck when they offered me the job of understudying the three feature roles."

Thrilled At Luck

Mother of a rugged seven-year-old son, Tony, who loves to watch his parent act, Miss Low took over her current role in the Boston tryout when Neva Patterson became ill. She has been in the part since and thrilled at her good fortune.

"It is really like playing repertory. What with performing one of the roles and rehearsing the other two, I am gaining a wealth of experience."

For years Miss Low was known in the theatre world as Ludmila Lvova. That was not of her own choosing, but because Col. W. de Basil, director of the Ballet Russe, insisted that every one in his company have a Russian name. The alliterative nom-de-danse was the closest they found to her own name, So Betty became Mlle. Lvova until she left the ballet for Broadway.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Steak and Kidney Pie Attractive Family Meal

Cooking for two presents entirely different problems of marketing, preparing, and serving than cooking for a larger family. Brides especially are confronted with the problem of dividing larger recipes found in standard cookbooks and trying to figure fractional measurements. This difficulty can be met with the "Meals for Two Cookbook," twenty-first title in the twenty-four cookbook series that is currently being offered to readers of The Examiner.

Meals for Two has suggestions for necessary cooking equipment, a list of staples to have on hand, marketing advice, and ideas for varying leftovers, as well as recipe after recipe built around the limitations of cooking for two. Here, for instance, is a delightful and tasty meat pie from Meals for Two that is just right for a small family:

Steak and Kidney Pie

¾ pound steak (beef or veal) flour, salt and pepper, ½ teaspoon minced parsley, ¼ pound mushrooms, sliced, ¼ pound kidney, ½ teaspoon chopped onion, water or stock, ½ recipe plain pastry.

Cut steak and kidney into ½-inch cubes and dredge with flour. Season with salt and pepper, Arrange meat in greased casserole and add onion, parsley, mushrooms and sufficient water to cover meat. Cover casserole and cook in moderate over (350 deg.F.) 1 hour or until meat is almost tender. Remove cover and replace it with pastry, pricking crust to allow steam to escape. Return to very hot oven (450 deg.F) and bake 15 minutes or until crust is browned.

To obtain your copy of Meals for Two clip o Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c to The Examiner office, or from your carrier, or at Braund's Home Food Markets, or at the Dominion Stores Master Market. Or order your copy by mail by sending the coupon with 30c (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough.

British Women Present Plans Of Ideal Home

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— A house harmonizing the dreams and hopes of 400,000 British women goes on display next year.

Perhaps for the first time, Mrs. Housewife won t complain about a "man's ideas" creating havoc in the household. She'll only have herself to blame, for the fair sex bossed the blueprints of this ideal home.

Determined to show authorities "just what women want," a women's organization sent questionnaires to some 400,000 housewives across Britain. The replies were forwarded to a six-woman committee to be stirred and blended into the final recipe.

The completed model goes on show next March at an "Ideal Home" exhibition in London's Olympia Stadium.

"Our house will not be a dream home in the usual sense of the word," says Lady Albermarle, chairman of the sponsoring organization. "It will be the kind of house that can be built today, taking into consideration such things as cost, material shortages and building restrictions."

Family of Five

This first woman-planned house in Britain will be designed for a young couple with three children and a working-class income. Downstairs there will be a combination kitchen-living room dining room and scullery, upstairs three bedrooms and a bathroom.

Ideas submitted describe everything from type of flooring, interior decoration, heating and cooking systems and labor-saving devices. A majority suggested rounded corners that can be easily cleaned, skirting flush with walls, panelled casing to stairways and plenty—repeat plenty—of cupboards.

Kitchen improvements head the list. The women want, among other things, well-placed sinks with two draining boards, a lighted pantry large enough to stand up in and if possible a light over the sink.

Those who scanned the suggestions were surprised that about 75 per cent approved the idea of an old-fashioned copper washboiler and solid fuel for heating and cooking. It was stressed that the kitchen range should heat the water supply and provide an open fire for the kitchen.

Like Low Handles

Low handles for doorways and low handrails for stairways used by children are warmly recommended. All locks, power plugs and light switches should be high enough to be beyond range of tiny hands.

A Devon housewife asked for "wide stairs that go straight up without permanent waves and twists". A Warwickshire woman wanted working quarters of each home at the extreme ends of the building for greater privacy.

Site for the house and cost of presenting it fully furnished will be borne by a London newspaper (Daily Mail) as a tribute to the women who planned it.

Italian Meat Balls Served With Sauce, Extra Special

Italian Meat Balls
Italian Tomato Sauce
Spaghetti Grated Old Cheese
Celery Hearts
Variety of Fresh Fruits: Grapes, Oranges, Bananas, Apples
Coffee

Directions

Ask the butcher to grind together for you 1½ pounds each shank beef and shank pork. In hot frying pan melt 4 tablespoons bacon fat and saute in this 2 cups raw vegetables chopped: 1 clove garlic is mixed when finely chopped with 1 cup finely chopped celery, ½ cup each chopped green pepper and onion—or if you do not like these proportions change them to suit yourself. When they are limp and slightly golden add them to meat with 3 slices of bread which was soaked in milk, mix very well, then mix in 2 unbeaten eggs. Season with salt and pepper. Form into 1¼ inch balls. Saute until medium brown on all sides in plenty of bacon fat or olive or salad oil.

Drop meat balls into sauce which is boiling hot, made thus: 1 2½ tin tomatoes, 1 6-oz. tin tomato paste, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon each pepper, nutmeg ¼ cup chopped parsley and a little salt. Boil meat balls in simmering sauce. (Add the fat in the pan in which meat balls were sauteed.)

Simmer meat balls gently in tomato sauce for 30 mins. Mushrooms that have been sauteed, sliced, for about 5 minutes may be added to sauce during the last 15 minutes if desired. One-quarter teaspoon of baking soda added to the sauce during last 15 minutes if desired. One-quarter teaspoon of baking soda added to the sauce during last 10 minutes gives it a pleasanter flavour.

To cook enough spaghetti for 6 people (which is the number the above amounts of sauce and meat balls will serve) drop 1 pound spaghetti into 2½ quarts rapidly boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt is added and simmer over low heat about 20 minutes or until soft. Drain in colander and run under hot water tap to wash off excess starch. The usual way to serve this is to pile it on a large hot platter and pour some tomato sauce over and mix it in with 2 forks. This prevents spaghetti from sticking together. Pour over more sauce, sprinkle generously with old or Parmesan cheese grated, then arrange meat balls over all. Pass more cheese and sauce.

If you do not like garlic it may be omitted, but it is what gives the dish its characteristic flavor.

If desired meat may be fried loose with the celery and onions and pepper, etc. and added to a reduced amount of tomato sauce and cooked only 15 minutes. This latter method speeds up the process, but gives the impression of not having had as much meat to serve.

HOT STUFF

Computation of a large number of meteors shows their speed ranged from 10 to 45 miles per second.

Handicraft Sale On Thursday At Morris Home

This Thursday afternoon the Peterborough Branch of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission, a group of women organized to do long range mission work for the sturdy northeast coast fishermen and their families, will hold the annual sale of the distinctive Labrador handicraft, Christmas cards and stationery.

Miss Clara Morris is opening her home at 483 Homewood Ave. for the sale. Members will supply a home cooking table and tea will be served to the guests. Mrs. C. D. Carver is to pour tea and Mrs. B. D. Hall is convening the tea room. The president Mrs. Gordon Rutherford, who has served in the Harrington Harbor hospital, will be receiving.

The work known today as the Grenfell Mission includes the hospitals, nursing stations and public health teaching carried out in northern Newfoundland, on the Labrador and down through the Strait of Belle Isle and along the Gulf of St. Lawrence. But only a part of the service, founded by Wilfred T. Grenfell, is concerned with patching up broken bodies, with prevention of disease or even in the teaching of health.

Of greater importance is the education of the boys and girls. Three boarding schools, two day schools as well as classes in the hospitals are fitting these young people for life—a life that they will live on their own shores. A loan fund has been established, through the kindness of interested friends, and students may borrow the funds necessary to take them out to trade or technical schools, agricultural college, normal schools or to training schools for nurses, and in no instance have they misplaced the trust put in them.

Grenfell handicrafts so well known over the whole continent, commenced as occupational therapy for crippled boys and girls in hospital. It has now spread into the homes and today is a real livelihood for some, and for others a form of part time work, bringing in a few pennies to fishermen to whom cash is fairly rare. (Fish always has been marketed through the barter system.)

Thus, with help that can be given by such organized groups as in Peterborough, is the dream of Sir Wilfred Grenfell being fulfilled; besides healing for the body, these fishermen have been given fresh hope, encouragement and the means to make their own dreams come true.

Temple Home League of SA, Weekly Attended by 95, Holds Big Bazaar and Tea

Temple Home League of the Salvation Army on Tuesday afternoon held the bazaar and tea which is a yearly event of the season. Support of the women of all churches in the city was evidenced in the crowd which attended, particularly those who crowded the hall and entrance for the official opening at two-thirty in the afternoon.

As is customary whenever soldiers of this army meet, there was music and prayer for the opening service. League leader Mrs. Mendell Braund invited the guests to join in two choruses of "While Shepherds Watched" and they responded with all their hearts. Mrs. Cyril Everitt then sang "Glory in the Highest."

Major Everitt led in the prayers and Mrs. Colonel Ritchie spoke the words of blessing with which the activity commenced.

Membership in the Home League at present totals 125 and an average of 95 attend weekly meetings. Not all are Salvation Army members. Women of other churches come regularly to the meetings because they enjoy the fellowship and the program which begins with singing and devotions. Various projects are carried on, the latest being the interesting art of painting figurines. Knitting, sewing and quilt making are the standby occupations.

Next Tuesday's meeting will be the Christmas party when gifts will be exchanged amid gay decorations of the season. Regular meetings feature speakers, demonstrations of house hold aids and appliances, films, etc. The officers are Mrs. Mendell Braund, Mrs. Mel Shadgett, Mrs. Wm. Law and Mrs. Cyril Everitt, and all members will welcome any women who may decide to drop in for an afternoon with them, and it is usual that such visitors become regular attendants.

Attractive Tea Room

For the tea a very attractive "Yuletide Tea Room" was arranged. Frosty scenery and red brick fireplace settings made a cosy enclosure where individual tables made guests comfortable.

Mrs. Cyril Everitt and Mrs. Colonel Ritchie poured the tea, seated at a lace-covered table centred with golden 'mums and Christmas tapers and set with beautiful silver services.

Mrs. George Allport was in charge of the serving and her assistants were Mesdames W. Butcher, H. Wilson, B. Bond, A. Scott, L. Rowe, H. Parnell, C. Holnbeck, R Jones, Mulcahey, Stevens, Hunt and Whatley. Mrs. Dean was at the cashier's table.

Bazaar stalls were bright and gay with red and green streamers and bells. Giant-size suckers overhead made the candy stall setting unique, and an attractive exterior marked the fish pond which bulged with prizes.

Bazaar Assistants

"Hot dogs" and soft drinks were dispensed at a booth attended by Mrs. W. Parsons and Mrs. G. Smith. Mrs. Gerald Braund operated the fish pond. Toyland was visited often by the young fry to "ogle" the dolls, games and toys, but their mothers made cautious visitors to do business with Mrs. Potts, Mrs. Stan Howden, Mrs. Wm. Rose and Mrs. Hawkins.

Knitted articles mostly for children, were sold by Mrs. Ronald Routley, Mrs. H. Halchrow and Mrs. Art. Smith, Mrs. Art. Wilfong and Mrs. Don Robinson were selling the figurines, and Mrs. A Lashbrook, Mrs. V. Smith and Mrs. T. Rose had a table of novelties.

The home baking table was attended by Mrs. A. Macdonald and Mrs. M. Fisher. Mrs. S. Winterbottom and Mrs. Bert Smith sold the candy and Mrs. T. Craig and Mrs. J. Isles had a supply of groceries for sale.

Fifty-two pairs of socks, most of them knitted by Mrs. W. Wilkinson, were for sale at a single booth where Mrs. Wilkinson was assisted by Mrs. E. Copperthwaite.

A variety of notions was offered by Mrs. J. T. Braund, Mrs. Kate Saunders and Mrs. Robert Routley, and Mrs. Ralph Braund and Mrs. R. G. Routley were selling pot holders. The apron table was attended by Mrs. John Hodson, Mrs. A. Wilson and Mrs. E. Pringle. Fancywork, including a number of pairs of embroidered pillowcases was displayed by Mrs. H Barton, Mrs. K. Payne and Mrs. P. Butler, and Mrs. Wm. Jones had charge of the quilts.

Mrs. Major Everitt Sr. and Mrs C. Barringer were at the door to extend a welcome.

Major Everitt entertained with piano selections in the tea room.

lated Mrs. B. Bell, immediate past president of the King George Home and School Association, on her election to the Board of Education.

The program included a group of songs by Mrs. Northey's Grade 2 pupils. These songs were "Away in a Manger", "Who is coming on Christmas Night?", and "Toyland". Mrs. Northey accompanied them on the piano and Miss Payne directed them. A member of this little choir, Bobby Simmons, announced clearly the names of the songs.

Roll call of the parents was taken and Mrs. Northey's class won the prize for this month.

A group of fourteen girls from Miss Dobbin's class sang "Frosty the Snow Man", and "Rudolph", with rhythm band instruments accompanying. The girls' costumes for the latter song greatly amused younger members of the audience. The group was accompanied and led by Mrs. W. Woodward, musical convener.

Mr. C. D. Munro, principal, led the audience in a carol sing-song, with Mrs. Woodward at the piano.

Guest speaker was the Rev. E. W. Rowland who had graciously consented to take the place of the scheduled speaker, Rev. B. S. Morwood, when the latter became ill. A Christmas message to the parents and children was delivered.

Mrs. Charles English thanked the speaker and all others who contributed to the program.

Refreshments were served by the social committee.

RIFLE RANGE SCHOOL

Monthly meeting of Rifle Range Home and School Association was held Monday evening, with a large crowd in attendance.

Mrs. E. Davis, president, was in the chair. Devotional period was taken by Mrs. H. Quinn.

A change of date for next meeting was announced by Mrs. Davis, intimating the 8th of January would be "Father's Night." Mr. E. Davis was elected as president for the night, Mr. W. Amos, secretary, and Mr. J. Quinn in charge of the social half-hour at close of the meeting.

Florence and Margaret Bannister entertained with song and dance numbers, "I've got a lovely bunch of cocoanuts," and "Meet me in St. Louis." Dressed in dainty peach and gold costumes with gold shoes, they made a charming picture. They were accompanied on the piano by their mother, Mrs. Roy Bannister.

Mrs. H. Parnell was guest speaker, and her talk will be long remembered by both children and adults. She carried the audience through the busy days prior to Christmas; the bustling crowds, the carefully prepared lists, the decorated rooms, and finally to the Christmas tree, highlight of Christmas Day In fancy, she created a beautiful tree, with its branches decoratted and entwined with tinsel. Then, the speaker placed lights on the tree; not the ordinary lights used each year, but very special lights, as befitted this special tree, Joy and Peace, and Long-suffering; Gentleness, Goodness and Faith; and Meekness and Temperance. And lastly, on this almost perfect tree, were placed the most important light of all, on the topmost branch for all to see, namely, Love, the greatest light in all the world. "With these lights on our tree this Christmas," concluded Mrs. Parnell, "we can all be sure of a perfect Christmas Day."

All joined in the singing of Christmas carols, with Mrs. Stan Wood at the piano.

Mr. Fred Adams contributed a number of modern and old time selections on his piano accordian.

Mrs. Davis thanked Mrs. Parnell and others on the program

During a social half hour Mrs. D. Flint and assistants served lunch.

Letters from Turnham Infants' School in England thanking the Chapter for parcels were read by Mrs. D. Murray. She announced that eight regular parcels and two special parcels had been sent overseas last month.

Members were asked to knit squares for afghans during meetings. A fine collection of good, used clothing was brought for overseas relief.

Calendar for the coming year was read and accepted by the meeting. A "Canda Packers Cooking School" is to be held in the collegiate auditorium on the evenings of January 24 and 25 with Misses June Fraser and Ruth Kingan co-convening. Miss Louise Spriggs is to convene the Valentine Ball on February 16 at the Club Aragon.

A nominating committee was appointed, consisting of Miss June Fraser, Mrs. Robert Clarke, Mrs. Robert Garner and Mrs. Ralph Clark.

During a short recess from business members joined in singing carols with Mrs. John Twigg at the piano and Mrs. R. Huggins leading.

An interesting few minutes was enjoyed as members told how they had raised "talent money." Baby sitting, making Christmas wreaths, selling bittersweet home baking and sewing, canasta and bridge parties are some of the projects they undertook.

It was announced that next meeting will be on January 9.

A special Christmas lunch was served at the close by Mrs. Robert Clarke and Mrs. Robert Garner and committee.

Levine's LADIES' WEAR

DOROTHY DIX

Mature Man's Description Sums Up True Affection

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man of 41 years of age. I have found a woman who has shown me that life is really worth living, though I never cared about it before.

If I am in despair her smile drives away my gloom. Just the sound of her voice over the telephone puts me on top of the world. In all my life I have never known the meaning of love and happiness until I met her. I can always talk over my troubles with her and get consolation. If she goes away for a few days I am beside myself with worry over her, although I know she is capable of taking care of herself. Since I have been going with her I have never given another woman a second glance. After our years I can still go to a movie and hold her hand and feel like a boy with his first sweetheart. I would like very much to marry this woman, but my friends think I would be foolish to do so because they say it is only infatuation, that I am too old to fall so desperately in love. Do you think it is true?

READER.

ANSWER: Too old to fall in love at 41? Why, that's just the right age for a man to experience the grand passion. It is only maturity that can experience the depths of emotion. It simply skims the surface with youth.

Youth Seems More Glamorous

Perhaps it is because boys and girls are prettier and more glamorous than older people that causes us to wreathe them about with romance and make them the heroes and heroines of our love stories, and attribute to them feelings which in the nature of things, they cannot possess. Their loves are, as a general thing, mere passing fancies that have one object today, another tomorrow.

I have printed your letter because it is such a beautiful description of the love that a man feels toward a woman when he finds his real mate. Other men might well check their affection by yours, and if you are wise you will marry the woman forthwith and live happily with her ever after.

Don't listen to what your friends say. None of us would ever marry if we waited for our relatives or friends to pick out our husbands and wives.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 22, an adopted child. I love my foster-parents dearly and would be happy except for one thing. I am always thinking about my mother and wondering about her. It is a bitter thing to me to know that she abandoned me as a baby, that I wasn't wanted and was in the way, but in every crowd I think—is she here? Is she nice? Does she ever think of me? What does she look like? Can you give me a better thought about this? J. S.

ANSWER: It is natural that a girl of your sensitive temperament should often think of the mother she has never known. It is part of the idealism with which we surround motherhood.

If you judge her harshly, no one can blame you, but perhaps what seems her cruelty to you was kindness. It may be that when she gave you for adoption she was desperately poor. Perhaps your birth was a tragedy. Perhaps your mother was that most pitiable of all human beings—an unwed mother, without money, without protection, without even any way of earning more than a pittance of a living. It must seem to such a woman the kindest, as well as the wisest thing, to give the child to those who will love it and care for it, who will give it an honest name and bring it up in a good social environment.

My earnest advice is to talk this matter over with your foster-mother. Tell her just how you feel and ask her to help you, if she can, to find your own mother and let you see just what manner of woman she is. There is no way of laying our ghosts like turning the light upon them.

Furthermore, little as you may believe it now, the chances are a hundred to one that when you find your own mother you will find that she is a stranger to you and that your foster-mother, with whom you have every memory in common, is your real mother.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a girl return jewelry and other gifts to her ex-sweetheart's mother? He said he didn't want any of his presents returned. In the meantime he has moved away and his mother wants me to return his presents. What must I do? MARG.

ANSWER: If the young man wanted his presents back you would have to return them, but his mother has no claim upon them whatever, and there is no reason why you should send them to her unless you want to.

Havelock Woman Marked 84th Birthday On Friday

MRS. ETTA NICHOLSON

HAVELOCK, Dec. 6 (ENS)—Mrs. Etta Nicholson, a native of this district quietly celebrated her 84th birthday on Friday at her home on Concession Street.

Mrs. Nicholson was born on December 1, 1866, and was formerly Etta Wood, the oldest of 11 children in the family of the late James and Salinda Wood. She was the first baby girl to be born at Oak Lake. In 1887 she married Albert Nicholson. They had a family of two sons, Morley and William who both died in October 1918 during the height of the flu epidemic of that year. Mr. Nicholson died in 1928 after a long illness from a heart condition. In 1929 Mrs. Nicholson moved to Havelock.

She lives alone and states that with God's help and the help of neighbors and friends she manages quite nicely.

Callers, flowers, cards, letters and a parcel from a friend in Bay Village, Ohio, all combined to make a very pleasant birthday for her. She also received a telegram to inform her that a baby girl had been born on Nov. 30, 1950, to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haig of Campbellford. Mrs. Haig is her niece and was formerly Barbara Wood of Havelock.

ROME'S HILLS

The ancient seven hills of Rome are all on the east side of the Tiber river.

What's Right

You feel that your child is at a neighbor's house so much he may be a nuisance.

WRONG: Tell the neighbor, "Just send Jimmy home any time he is in the way," and dismiss the matter from your mind.

RIGHT: Take the responsibility yourself for seeing that he doesn't spend enough time at any one house to become a nuisance.

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP).—The matrimony rate is high among nursing sisters at Fort Churchill's Military Hospital. Two nurses became engaged in the same week recently, while six or seven left the hospital to be married in the last year.

To End Annoying Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Here is the well known old recipe which thousands of housewives have found to be a dependable means of breaking up winter coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs very little, but it does give quick relief.

From any druggist, get a 2¼ ounce bottle of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and 1 cup water, stirred until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's easy. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Thus you make 16 ounces of medicine, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This home mixture soothes the irritated throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the phlegm and eases soreness promptly.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

Roseneath News

Miss Eleanor Brown has accepted a position in Peterborough.

Mrs. Reginald Timlin and infant son have returned home from Cobourg hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Oral George and sons were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Richardson and David Richardson, Dartford, Sunday.

A number of Roseneath people attended the funeral of the late Orra Montgomery at Norwood Tuesday. Mr. Montgomery was a former resident of this community.

Art Class Chickens Also Provide Meals

SASKATOON, Sask. —(CP)— Thirty students at King Edward school here bought 15 eggs and one clucking hen last spring. They built a pen in the attic, put the hen on the eggs and soon had 15 chicks.

When school closed in June one of the students took the chickens to his parents' farm and returned in September with 10 full-grown chickens.

Then the chickens were to art class one day, to natural science class another. The class studied their whole life cycle, and then completed it. They ate the chickens at a class dinner.

U.S. Car Prices Boosted By 2 Companies

DETROIT, Dec. 6 (AP).—The automobile industry's efforts to hold the price line collapsed on Tuesday.

General Motors and Ford—two of the industry's "big three" announced price increases of 1951 models. Both blamed higher manufacturing and labor costs.

The action leaves only Chrysler, third member of the large producers, yet to announce price plans. Chrysler will introduce its 1951 cars in January.

Several independent car manufacturers recently put higher price tags on their new models.

The Ford boost, effective immediately, followed by only a few hours the General Motors announcement.

Ford listed specific prices for its cars, while G.M. said prices will be disclosed when its various cars are given first public showing. Chevrolet will be introduced Friday, followed by Pontiac Dec. 11.

Ford's increases ranged from $87.50 to $165 on its cars. Earlier it had boosted truck prices by $75 and $225.

G.M. indicated its boost will be "something less than five per cent."

In Oshawa, a spokesman for General Motors of Canada said it was too soon to say whether there will be an increase in prices of 1951 models in Canada. He said G. M. prices in Canada are not tied in with those in the United States.

Talk Too Long House Burns

BLUEFIELD, W.Va., Dec. 6. —(AP).—Some long-winded telephone conversationalists wouldn't get off the party line so that Mrs. G. C. Maddox could call firemen to put out a fire in her home, she said today.

As a result, her farm house was destroyed. Only some of her furniture was saved.

Mrs. Maddox is on an eight-party line. When the fire started in the flue of her home Tuesday, she tossed some water on it and then tried to get on the phone to call the fire-fighters.

Some neighbors were using it and wouldn't get off. She had to leave the telephone to put more water on the growing fire.

Then she pleaded with the telephone talkers again. But they were stubborn, she said.

Between trying to get a clear line and throwing water on the fire, it was about 30 minutes before Mrs. Maddox was able to get a call through to the Bluefield fire department.

One of the items the fire-fighters managed to save, incidentally, was the telephone.

Two Trucks And Car Involved In Accident

Ice, three trucks and a car combined to cause a minor accident in which only two of the trucks were involved, on Hunter St. E. Tuesday.

Norman G. Hunt, 861 Water St., reported to police he was driving west on Hunter St. As another truck driven by Walter M. Moncrief, 35 Mark St., approached him from the other direction a city owned car pulled out from the north curb.

Hunt swung his truck to the south to avoid the car but didn't apply his brakes, he said, because the road was icy.

He struck a truck owned by Jack Huggins, River Road S., parked on the south side of the road. No damage was done to the Huggins truck, both front fenders and left headlight of the Hunt truck were damaged.

Traffic officer Harold Mesley investigated.

Navy Scores Win Against RCAF Bases

HALIFAX, Dec. 6— (CP) — Nova Scotia's two air bases were technically damaged during recent navy-air force mock exercise, officials said Tuesday in a preliminary report on the battle.

The battle, largest peacetime exercise with the two services, involved more than 2,500 men, the aircraft carrier Magnificent, destroyers Huron and Micmac, frigates Swansea and La Hulloise, and aircraft from the R.C.A.F. bases at Chatham, N.B., and Greenwood station, and H.M.C.S. Shearwater.

The report said that a sneak attack by Magnificent's aircraft badly damaged the Greenwood and Shearwater air bases.

Magnificent was theoretically damaged by a night torpedo attack.

Will Use 3,000 Bricks Wall Up Holy Door

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 6. —(Reuters).—The Vatican is preparing 3,000 special bricks to wall up the holy door of St. Peter's Basilica when the 25th holy year ends Christmas Eve, it was learned today.

Anyone presenting a brick — each costs 1,000 lire (about $1.55) —has the right to have his name stamped on it and to reclaim it in 24 years time when the door is unblocked again for the next holy year, Christmas Eve, 1974.

Pope Pius, wearing a mason's apron, will lay the first three bricks with a silver trowel, watched by thousands of pilgrims.

Masons will later finish blocking up the door, through which nearly 4,000,000 pilgrims have passed this year.

Doctors Provide Parking Lot

The old Peter Simons house and lot at 311 Rubidge St., has been bought by Peterborough Clinic for the immediate purpose of providing off-street parking. Staff cars will be removed from curb parking on Reid St. when accommodation is completed by the removal of wooden sheds at the rear of the Rubidge St. property. It may also be used by Clinic patients.

Dr. J. C. C. Dawson, president of Peterborough Clinic, explained the purpose of this expansion to the council Tuesday.

Ambulance entrance off Reid St. is to be extended across the southern part of the Clinic property into the recently acquired Simons estate, giving access to Rubidge St.

Council adopted a recommendation of the board of works as reported by Ald. H. Dodds, "that in order to permit the Peterborough Clinic to extend its buildings and provide a parking lot for the cars of its staff, a bylaw be prepared amending Bylaw No. 3158 to permit 311 Rubidge to be converted to use as medical offices, and that the City Planning Board be advised of this recommendation."

A traffic advantage, it was said, will be the clearance of Reid St. of the cars of Clinic staff and patients.

The Simons property is angularly contiguous on Rubidge St. to the Clinic at Reid and Charlotte Streets. It has appeared in the Simons name and latterly that of the Simons estate since 1876. Mr. Peter Simons was head of the tailoring department of the former Harry Lebrun Co., men's wear store, occupying a large part of the southeast corner of Hunter and George St., with entrances off both streets.

The Bank of Toronto in its expansion has taken into its premises all of the former LeBrun store.

Mr. Simons was an expert cutter in the old days when men's suits were bought from tailoring shops.

Can't Wipe Out Suspicion Of United Kingdom Miners

By STANLEY CLARK

LONDON, Dec. 6—(Reuters).—Britain's coal-fields are going ahead with development plans which will make them the safest and most efficient in the world.

But mechanization can never alter the real conditions at the coal face, and nationalization can never wipe out the miner's instinctive suspicion of the "boss."

The British miner is working well, but he is still a dissatisfied man, bewildered in many cases by the widely-differing advice he receives from his leaders, and dispirited by the continual inability to make both ends meet on his present income.

"I pay 22 shillings (about $3.22) a week for my house and it will never be mine. The council ought to sell their houses to us chaps for the rent we are paying," a black-faced miner said.

Housing Question

This housing question was always the most popular topic with all the scores of miners I spoke to during a tour of coal mines. Income tax, the price of cigarettes and the shortage and cost of food were other subjects which apparently form the favorite conversation of the miner, at least when he is talking with strangers.

As I went round the country visiting steel workers and shipyards and great engineering works I realized to what extent the well-being of everyone in Britain is in the hands of the miner. From him comes almost all the sources of power and wealth that the country possesses.

The job of the National Coal Board is not only that of clawing coal out of the earth in sufficient quantities to supply all the home and export needs of the country. It is also to change the outlook of the ordinary miner, so that he will regard his job as less of a crusade against injustice than a skilled craft, as other industrial jobs are rated as crafts.

Germans Ignore U.S. Overtures

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Dec. 6 (Reuters)— The United States army is pressing a "get friendly with the Germans" campaign, but so far the Germans have received it with great reserve.

In a radical change of army policy, commanders virtually overnight stopped treating the Germans as a conquered people and set out to make them potential allies.

Gen. Thomas Handy, the United States commander-in-chief in Germany, described the campaign as "official government policy."

The Germans replied almost immediately with a demand that occupation costs be reduced. This has been followed by attacks in the German press on the alleged lavish living of occupation forces.

Observers here consider that the Germans' cool reception of the army's friendship campaign is due to its poor timing. The program was announced when American fortunes in Korea were at a low ebb. To the Germans, it seemed that the United States was badly in need of friendship

Find Christmas Trees Big Business In Canada

OTTAWA, Dec. 6 — (CP) — The Canadian Christmas tree has grown into a $2,500,000 seasonal industry.

Canada produced almost 11,000,000 trees in the 1949-1950 season, exporting some 7,500,000 of them for the tidy sum of $2,317,000. The rest went into Canadian homes. The take probably will be larger this Christmas.

This proof that the Christmas tree trade has become big business is contained in a report by the Department of Resources and development entitled "The Christmas Tree Industry in Canada."

It showed that British Columbia produces most trees—2,260,000 in 1949-1950—but Nova Scotia exports the most — 2,026,000 last season. More and more private land now is going into "plantations" for commercial production of trees.

Possible Parents May Visit Holland Graves

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Dec. 6 (Reuters)—Canadian parents next year may be able to make special flights to Europe to visit the graves of their servicemen sons.

The flights have been proposed to Canadian authorities by KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, it was disclosed today.

If present negotiations are successful, the flights will start sometime in 1951.

Various schemes are reported under consideration. One is that Canadians could charter planes and fly to Europe in groups. Another plan suggests Canadians could come to the Continent on Dutch planes which brought emigrants to Canada.

Churchill Halts Argument In House

LONDON, Dec. 6 (Reuters). — Winston Churchill Tuesday cut short an argument in the House of Commons about whether he should have gone to Washington with Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

An Independent member, Raymond Blackburn, declared that both in Europe and in the United States people felt that Britain should have been represented by the Conservative Leader.

Churchill rose, and amid cheers said: "We approve of the course taken by the Government."

Blackburn, who resigned from the Labor Party because he disapproved of its objection to a coalition government, had asked if Churchill would be enabled to take part in the talks.

Red China Coast Blockade Considered By U.S.-Britain

U.N. Troops Dig In On New Line Leave Wonsan Port

TOKYO, Dec. 7—(AP)—Allied troops braced on a new hill defence line 25 miles south of fallen Pyongyang today for a stand against steadily advancing vanguards of a 1,000,000-man Chinese Communist expeditionary force. The line stretched inland 70 miles in northwest Korea from the Yellow Sea. It was a defence in depth on commanding heights and not a solid line. The U.S. Eighth Army, with its long and bitter retreat at a halt, was greatly outnumbered and hard hit but still was a unified fighting force.

The Chinese armies in front of it were estimated at 100,000 men with up to 80,000 combat reserves behind, those Reds and hundreds of thousands more in Korea or moving up from Manchuria.

The Eighth Army force on the defence line is something less than 110,000 men Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker had when he was forced to retreat late in November.

Battle In Blizzard

Northeast of the new line, U.S. forces battled in a blizzard in a dogged effort to break out of Red traps south of the Changjin reservoir. They broke out of one and have to fight through another.

Underscoring the critical situation of the United Nations forces near the reservoir and elsewhere in the northeast was the withdrawal of the American garrison from the east coast port of Wonsan.

A bombardment by three U. S. destroyers and shore fire by South Korean marines covered the pull-out of Wonsan. Presumably the American garrison at Wonsan was relatively small. It was not identified.

Wonsan was captured Oct. 10 by South Korean troops. The same marines trapped at the Changjin reservoir landed at the port Oct. 15 after a week-long sweeping of a minefield offshore. Because the port already had been made secure, the marines called it "operation what-the-hell."

Hamhung and its nearby port of Hungnam, 50 miles north of Wonsan, now becomes the allies' main escape route in the northeast. It is more centrally located for the widely scattered units of the 10th corps.

Main Escape Route

The new line in the northwest is 85 miles north of Seoul, the Korean republic's capital, and is 53 miles north of parallel 38. General MacArthur described it as arching from the west coast port of Chinnampo to Koksan, an inland town 53 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

There were no set lines in the northeast. Three American and two South Korean divisions are all over the rugged map there, with the marines and two regiments of the U.S. 7th Infantry Division in the worst spot.

They pushed into Koto today after a bitter battle through heavy Chinese resistance south of the Changjin reservoir.

Charge Dept. Trickery On School Grant

FERRIS, Dec. 7 — (CP). — Ontario municipalities which have accepted the new provincial assessment system have been "sold down the river" by the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs, Reeve W. W. Quirt charged Wednesday night. Ferris is a suburb of North Bay.

Addressing a meeting of nearly 100 ratepayers here Wednesday night, Reeve Quirt said the Department has "double-crossed" the municipalities by refusing to give special school grants to offset the loss in grants through a higher assessment.

Ferris Township, he added, stands to lose $10,000 in school grants because of the assessment increase resulting from the new re-assessment program carried out in co-operation with the Provincial Government's new assessment manual.

Taxpayers Holding Bag

"On our old assessment of approximately $700,000 this township received a 60 per cent school grant," he said. "Now we find our assessment is going to be nearly $3,000,0000 and we will be reduced to a 40 per cent school grant. That is going to mean a loss of $10,000 that our taxpayers will have to bear."

The Reeve said that when the township decided to adopt the new assessment the government assured the municipality a fair deal in school grants.

In Toronto, an official of the Ontario Municipal Affairs Department said school grants are based on assessment per classroom. The lower the assessment, the higher is the percentage of the grants, he said.

"If the assessment is equitable, the grants will be equitable."

Police Ready Battle Doctors

KINGSTON, England, Dec. 7—(Reuters)—Two burly former policemen guarded the entrance to Victoria Hospital today "screening" all callers and ready to resist all attempts by authority to take over the building.

This latest stage of the "war" between doctors and the government-run local hospital board was reached last night when the doctors sealed all other ways into the building to prevent the hospital from being turned into a gynaecological unit. They want it to remain a general hospital where they can treat their own patients.

The hospital board ordered the 26 doctors out by the end of last month and said no more patients were to be admitted, but both orders were defied.

Latest Etna Eruption Still Going Strong

CATANIA, Sicily, Dec 7 — (AP)—Mt. Etna's latest expedition showed no sign of abatement today as the huge volcano spilled wide streams of molten lava down its flanks and forced evacuation of more than 2,000 persons from the villages of Renazzo and Milo.

A fleet of trucks removed the villagers from their homes Wednesday and early today Huge explosions from craters above shook the air and growled through deep valleys and woods.

Shortly after the 600 residents of Renazzo were moved to safety, the red-hot lava Wednesday night began crushing its path through the village itself. Trees became flaming torches. A brick works burst into flame and was smashed. Gradually, other houses caught fire. Danger to nearby Milo increased hourly.

Reports from an advance post of volcanic specialists said many new and old craters in the 10,741-foot-high peak were belching forth molten stone, smoke and ashes at a terrific rate.

Minor Leagues Kill Player-Bonus Rule

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 7 —(AP). — The minor leagues today killed the controversial player-bonus rule.

The 57 minor baseball leagues at their convention here voted unanimously to rescind the rule. This action followed a two-year fight by the major leagues to kick it off the books. There was practically no discussion when the proposal came up for a vote.

The two major leagues still have to approve the action at their meeting here next week, but that will be a mere formality.

UN Officials Don't Expect Co-operation

Begin Discussion On Withdrawal Of Chinese Troops

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—The United Nations Assembly Political Committee today was scheduled to begin its first full discussion of the big western powers' request for Communist China to withdraw its troops from Korea.

Supporters foresaw quick approval of the proposal, probably by Friday afternoon, with full assembly approval possible by the end of the week.

But Chinese Communist representatives here have frowned on proposals that the Red armies stop at the 38th Parallel. The Peiping radio has broadcast a statement that their troops will roll south "to aid Korea." The effect of a U.N. withdrawal demand was doubtful.

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 7—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the United Nations today "the American intervention in Korea is the crux of the Third World War and it must be halted to avert it."

One United States source, admitting he was taking the most hopeful attitude he could think of, explained his optimism this way:

"If this resolution is adopted by the UN, it will be the first time that the full membership of the UN will have asked the Chinese Communists to do anything. Maybe the Chinese Communists are waiting for such a request from the whole UN. If that is so, this will give them the excuse to quit Korea.

Terms Already Given

"If not, then the will of the rest of the nations of the world will be on record and they can act on their decision."

More realistic observers pointed out that Wu Hsiu-chuan, leader of the Chinese Communist delegation here, told the Security Council last week that his government would not recognize any decision taken by the UN as long as it was not given a seat in the world group.

Russia's veto of the withdrawal proposal in the Security Council, Russia's attempts to keep it off the assembly agenda, Russia's derision of the 13-country appeal to the Chinese Communists to halt at the 38th Parallel — all were taken as concrete evidence of the low opinion the Moscow-Peiping axis holds of the demand.

Wu announced beforehand that he would not take part in discussions on the Korean question—where he and Russia insist only Chinese "volunteers" are "fighting to defend China."

A NEW THREAT

HAMILTON, Dec. 7 — (CP)—The raging waters of Lake Ontario, which caused heavy damage less than two weeks ago, today are again threatening Crescent Beach. The waves are buffeting the temporary sandbag dikes set up during the last storm.

PRINCESS PATRICIA'S CANADIAN LIGHT INFANTRY, are now past the halfway mark on their voyage aboard the Korean bound troopship. The long haul has been no pleasure cruise due to storm-tossed seas and gigantic waves. A large percentage of the men suffered seasickness, during the first few days of sailing. Washing clothes aboard ship is an easy task for the Patricia's due to elaborate facilities below deck. However, washday blues come to the fore when it's time to hang them up. There is no room below for drying which calls for clothes lines on deck. Here three, clean-shaven ! ! ! , Patricia's try their hand at hanging up their clothing on the ship's quarterdeck.

Arrest Mrs. Pitre On Perjury Count

QUEBEC, Dec. 7 —(CP)—Mrs. Arthur Pitre, 42-year-old sister of Genereux Ruest who now is on trial for murder in the time-bombing of an airliner in September, 1949, today was arraigned on a charge of perjury.

The charge is the outcome of testimony she gave at her crippled brother's trial Tuesday.

Her lawyer Irenee Simard asked for a trial before a judge and jury and she was ordered to appear for preliminary hearing next Thursday.

In the meantime, she will be held in jail.

Judge Achille Pettigrew, agreeing with a prosecution request, said he believed the crown "must have serious reasons" for asking that no bail be allowed.

The crown's charge was that her words contradicted a statement she made to police shortly after the arrest of J. Albert Quay, the jeweller who was convicted of plotting the plane-bombing and who now awaits hanging Jan. 12.

Her statement to police was that her brother Ruest had told her to commit suicide. She repeated that statement at her brother's preliminary hearing earlier this year. But Tuesday she disputed that testimony when Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion questioned her about it.

Puts Wreath On Tomb

ATHENS, Dec. 7 (CP)—Princess Elizabeth today placed a wreath on the tomb of the Greek unknown soldier. A crowd unofficially estimated at 250,000 watched the procession which preceded the ceremony. Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh received an antique Cretan statue of St. Philip from the lord mayor of Athens as a souvenir of their week's visit to Greece.

May Divert Princess Pats From Korean Field To Japan

OTTAWA, Dec. 7—(CP)—Canada's Korea-bound Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry may be diverted to Japan because of the deteriorating military situation, informed quarters said today. They held that out as a possibility arising from the chaotic Korean situation but said the decision will be made by Gen. MacArthur because he is the man to whom the Canadians have been assigned.

No word has reached here yet, officials said, that such a change of destination is in the offing although it would not be surprising. There also have been reports here that Canada's 345-man advance force now in Korea may be withdrawn to Japan.

Neither the advance party nor the Pats are trained for combat yet but officials here haven't written off the possibility that the Korean picture may get so desperate that "everybody may have to be used."

Commonwealth Division

Meanwhile, an informed military source said today that British troops soon may be banded together in one Commonwealth division. There is already a total of about 20,000 British and Australian troops in Korea, more than half of them with the British 29th Independent Brigade. The Commonwealth has sent more aid to South Korea than any other country except the United States.

These brigades are at present divided, each under the command of a different American field formation.

Because of this, the Commonwealth contingent, though almost the size of a division, has no higher representation at Eighth Army headquarters than the brigadiers who commanded two units.

Consideration now is reported being given to a scheme for joining British, Australian and Canadian troops into one Commonwealth division commanded by a major-general, enabling the views of field commanders to be voiced with more weight than is possible at present.

Observers here feel that higher representation is particularly important at a time when the military situation in Korea is confused with political difficulties.

Agree On Plan For German Army

LONDON, Dec. 7 — (AP). — The 12 Atlantic Pact deputies agreed today on a plan to bring German troops into Western armies defending Europe.

The deputies asked for a meeting with the North Atlantic Pact's Military Committee for the joint consideration of the political-military aspects of the German contribution."

"It is expected that this meeting will be held in the very near future," the deputies said in a communique.

Plane Rescues Crew

HONG KONG, Dec. 7 (Reuters) —An RAF seaplane alighted beside the sinking Philippine freighter Joseph S. Today, took off 23 of her crew and returned to Hong Kong. The British destroyer Charity stood by the wooden vessel, which still had a skeleton crew of 20 aboard. The stricken vessel later was reported out of danger.

Attlee Not Enthusiastic Would Prefer Concentrate On Europe

Truman Now Demanding Strong Measures With No Appeasement, Taking Tougher Line On Negotiations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—(AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee today were reported seriously considering a blockade of the Communist China coast if United Nations troops are long beleaguered or are driven out of Korea. The proposal was described by Diplomatic informants as one of several ways considered for dealing with the Chinese Communist aggression, depending on what actually happens in the Korean fighting.

Negotiation of a settlement is another possible way and the president and Prime Minister are ready to consider any Chinese peace move provided it does not involve "appeasement."

In general, it appears that Truman and his advisers are taking a much tougher line than Attlee on the Far East, both as to possible negotiations or as to putting direct pressure on the Chinese Reds outside Korea

Informed officials said that State Secretary Acheson put forward the blockade proposal at the secret Truman-Attlee meetings now in their fourth day.

Not Enthusiastic

Attlee was described as cold to the suggestion but willing to discuss it. Informants said it probably would come up again this afternoon, or Friday, as part of a new general outlook at the far-eastern situation.

What Attlee clearly would like to get agreement on here—but what he apparently has little or no hope of obtaining—is a course of Anglo-American action aimed

Tibet Sends Second Appeal To UN

NEW DELHI, Dec. 7 — (AP)—Tibet has sent a second appeal to the United Nations asking help against the Chinese Communist invasion, informed sources in this Indian capital said today.

These sources reported that the new plea by the Tibetan Cabinet at the mountain country's capital of Lhasa expressed distress that the UN postponed action on Tibet's original appeal dispatched some time ago.

At the same time, the new petition re-emphasized Tibet's peril in the face of Chinese Communist aggression. It was said to observe also that while the invasion itself apparently has slowed down, small bands of armed Reds are active in widespread areas of Tibet.

The sources here said the Tibetan Cabinet invited the UN to send a mission to Lhasa for a first-hand investigation.

Reaume Ousted As Mayor In Windsor Vote

WINDSOR, Dec. 7 (CP) — A slender lead of 129 votes today elected Thomas R. Brophey, 43-year-old newspaper reporter who left his job to study law, as mayor of Windsor.

A final check at noon today of results in the see-saw election ended hours of hectic uncertainty as to the final result in the four-way mayoralty race which centred on a close contest between Mr. Brophey and dapper Mayor Arthur Reaume, who held the office for the last 10 years and sought another two-year term.

Mr. Reaume said he would ask for a recount.

The rechecked count of poll results gave Mr. Brophey an edge of 129 in 36,123 votes. Wednesday night's count gave him an edge of 171 in 35,889.

Mayor Reaume said he has asked for the recount "in fairness to all the parties concerned" and in order that voters can "feel certain as to the actual outcome."

Tense Battle

The vote counting produced a tense, epic battle. The lead switched back and forth between the two leaders several times during the night. When the first count of ballots was completed at 1:23 a.m. EST—five hours 23 minutes after the polls closed—the figures gave Mayor Reaume a 37-edge vote. He publicly thanked the voters for his re-election and Mr. Brophey announced he would seek a recount.

4,500 Homes Without Heat

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 7 (AP).—break in a 10-inch gas main left more than 4,500 homes without heat and cooking facilities last night as the coldest weather of the season gripped this area. Service may be restored today.

In some areas without gas, the mercury slipped to four degrees above zero. Chilled householders hauled out electric heaters in a frantic effort to keep warm. That resulted in an overload on electric lines, blown fuses, and temporary loss of that service. The telephone lines also were overloaded—they broke down, too.

Red Cross disaster units lined up emergency shelter.

Cripps To Be In Bed For Next 6 Months

ZURICH, Switzerland, Dec. 7—(AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps, former British Chancellor of the Exchequer, will have to lie flat on his back for the next six months, Lady Cripps disclosed today.

Sir Stafford will be moved next week to Leysin, 4,000 feet above sea level, where he will be under the treatment of specialists in bone tuberculosis.

Sir Stafford has been under treatment for a digestive ailment. Doctors have discovered he is suffering also from an inflammation of the vertebrae usually caused by T. B. bacilli.

Charges Canada's Efforts Half-Hearted

Must Sell Democracy To Asiatics In Terms Of Food Editor Says

OTTAWA, Dec. 7. — (CP). — Canada's part in spreading western democracy is "only half an effort," I. Norman Smith, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, told the Canadian Club here today.

"To call Canada's share thus far more than half an effort is surely to exaggerate," he said in an address prepared for delivery, based on his recent travels to the Middle East, Pakistan and India.

He said the great masses of people in Asia, most of them illiterate, are interested only in the grim business of obtaining food and shelter.

To tell people that Communism denies them freedom of religion and freedom of speech is useless as a means of enlisting them against the Red menace.

They are concerned only with "the freedom to live and to eat."

Must Sell Our Side

The masses of Asians, Mr. Smith said, are illiterate and know nothing of doctrines or ideologies. They are told that Communism takes land from the landlords and provides food and work for the poor.

"If we don't go out and sell too, we are lost. But don't let us think we can sell our democracy or build our world with half an effort.

"We weren't in at all on the Berlin airlift. We're in Korea with only a token of a token force. We're talking, it is true, about our UN bridge making UN history, but that history is still ahead of us.

"Nor does our record in food and economic help look much better. . . .

"Our talk record is very good. But one of these days I'm afraid some after-dinner speaker in London or Washington or Lake Success is going to refer to us as the 'most promising' country in the democratic world. . . .

"If Americans and others don't soon start getting more than a little rude to us about comfortable Canada, I will be much surprised. . . .

"Surely, if it is not too late, it is Canada's duty and opportunity now to give from our plenty. What country is in a better position to give and to a better purpose?"

Ex-CGE Draftsman Arthur V. White Dies

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (CP) —Arthur Veritch White, 74, consulting engineer who was considered an authority on many questions connected with international waters, died today.

He worked with federal officials in dealing with such matters as the St. Lawrence Seaway, the Chicago drainage canal, Niagara power, the exportation of electricity and the water powers of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario and British Columbia.

A native of Woodstock, he was for a time chief draftsman for Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough.

Weary, Crippled Regiments Fight Way Out Of Trap

By JACK MACBETH

KOTO, Korea, Dec. 7—(AP)—Someone poked his head into the tent from the icy darkness and announced "they're coming in."

Those inside the tent who were awake roused the others. Down the road voices and the noise of vehicles moving in out of the darkness made it plain that the first elements of the marine column had arrived.

Cut off and chopped up by hordes and Chinese for 10 days, the Marines had fought through all the way from Yudam, on the northwest of Changjin reservoir, to Koto, a distance of 22 road miles

At Hagaru they linked up with other marine elements as well as some soldiers from the U.S. 7th Division who were hard hit on the other side of the lake.

At daybreak Wednesday the forces began to assume battle formation and shortly after wards started to file out of Hagaru. They immediately ran into their first heavily-defended enemy position.

For the next 12 hours it was a question of smashing one enemy stumbling block after another. All of the fighting was carried on in zero weather and much of it during a snow storm.

By mid-morning most of the front part of the column had reached Koto. Officers said the other sections of the column were meeting stiff resistance.

As dawn broke today an uneven column of men and vehicles could be seen coming along a road into the Koto defence perimeter. It was a pitiful sight.

The men's faces were long, haggard and stubbled. Their eyes were red and their faces dirty from battle. Many were frostbitten. The wounded—and there were many—came in on tanks, trucks and jeeps.

They are a crippled outfit. But they're still game and determined, and sure they will be able to punch their way out.

Havelock Man Observes 93rd Birthday

HAVELOCK, Dec. 7—(ENS)—Spry as a man half his age and enjoying good health, Caleb Coon, one of Havelock's oldest residents, will celebrate his 93rd birthday today at his home here.

Mr. Coon is a familiar figure on the village streets driving his spirited horse. For several years he has had the contract for snowplowing the sidewalks of the east ward. Again having taken over that work, he has made two trips already this season. In the summer, his hobby is gardening, and more than that he plows many of the village gardens.

Mr. Coon was born in the Colborne district. His parents were William Coon and Elizabeth Tanner. They had a family of 10 boys and two girls of which Mr. Coon is the only one living.

In Havelock 60 Years

Mr. Coon has been a resident of Havelock for 60 years and when he first came here he was employed by James Wiseman for a time as engineer in his sawmill. Since then, he has followed teaming as an occupation. His wife the former Margaret Anne Seeney died in 1929. Mr. Coon served as village constable for two years in the earlier days of Havelock's history.

Mr. Coon has a son and daughter, Carman of Havelock and Mrs. George Free (Mamie) of Campbellford.

The event will be quietly celebrated with members of his family and sister-in-law, Miss M. Seeney.

LOUIS PASTEUR "MICROBE HUNTER"

Louis Pasteur will always rank as one of the great benefactors of mankind. He pointed the way to all modern medical advances in controlling communicable diseases. Without his work, our cities would be subject to devastation by dread diseases that hitherto scourged the world.

His accomplishment was great. Yet from his youth onward he had severe handicaps. He was nearsighted—so much so that without his glasses he could hardly find his way around his laboratory. Thanks to the invention of spectacles, he was able to live a normal life and to carry on his great work without undue hardship or difficulty. Optical science gave him glasses and it gave him microscopes. Had he not had these aids to better vision, his career would have been much different, perhaps impossible. Pasteur was the first to prove that germs can cause disease and death; first to devise means of counteracting their effects.

Pasteur was born in 1822. From boyhood to old age he studied incessantly. His researches saved the wine industry of France by showing how bacteria could have such potent effects, saved the silk industry (because he found the cause of the infection that was wiping out the silk worms), and showed the French farmers how to immunize their sheep against anthrax. One of his greatest achievements was the discovery of means of preventing death from rabies.

Perhaps the secret of Pasteur's career was the secret of successful seeing. Poring over the microscope, he found what others had missed.

Nine Years Ago Today Japs Hit Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Nine years ago today the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and catapulted the United States into the Second World War.

December 7, 1941....In the words of Franklin D. Roosevelt, it marked "a day that will live in infamy."

On the anniversary of that grim day, the parallel between then and now stands forth in the light of a grave new crisis arising from the assault of a Chinese Communist army in Korea and the threat of Soviet armies massed half across the world.

Is the United States prepared for a Third World War, if it should come?

Carefully weighing both sides of the question, military and diplomatic experts say the country's readiness for war today is vastly greater, in many respects, than in the alarm-filled days just before Pearl Harbor.

Two Cars Collide Both Are Damaged

Two cars collided at Hunter and George Sts. Wednesday evening when one car attempted to pass another that was starting to make a left turn.

Morris Lanys, Toronto, driving south on George St., was about to make aleft turn into Hunter. The front left fender and bumper of his car caught the right rear fender of a car driven by Elmer Partridge, 703 Lansdowne St.

Lanys said the rear signal light on his 1950 model car was working indicating he was about to make a left turn. Partridge told police Lanys made no signal and he saw no signal light on the rear of the car.

Damage was done to both cars. The rear right fender of the Partridge car was torn off. Traffic Officer Claire McGillen and Constable Donald Jones investigated.

Ask New Deal In Freight Rates

OTTAWA, Dec. 7 (CP)—Newfoundland's bid for a new deal in freight rates was taken under advisement Wednesday by the Board of Transport Commissioners.

After a series of hearings in the new province and this capital, the board reserved decision on an application of the Newfoundland Government for a revised rate scale for Newfoundland based on freight charges in effect in the Maritimes.

An estimated $1,000,000 or more in freight charges per year is at stake in the case, which stems from Newfoundland's claim that she is not getting the treatment in freight rates to which she is entitled under last year's terms of confederation.

"Newfoundland is part of the Canadian economy apparently for all purposes except railway rate regulation," said P. J. Lewis of St. John's, Nfld., the island counsel.

Council Favors No Means Test

An old-age pension granted without any means test to people over 70 years has the support of the Peterborough County Council.

Wires to this effect has been sent to Ottawa where the provinces and the Dominion are now discussing old-age pensions.

The council has no objection to a means test for applicants between the ages of 65 and 70 years. But after 70 years the means test should be scrapped, council felt.

"An individual who has saved a little money and got himself a house should not be penalized for his thrift," commented Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore.

Wires were dispatched to Prime Minister Leslie Frost; Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests; W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Public Welfare; and two MPs: Gordon K. Fraser, Peterborough West, and George White, Hastings-Peterborough.

MORE ABOUT—

U.N. Troops

It took them 25 hours to batter their way eight miles from Hagaru.

The first elements of two Marine and two infantry regiments made their way into Koto at 7:25 a.m. (5 p.m. EST Wednesday.)

AP correspondent Jack MacBeth, the only correspondent in Koto, said eight hours later that they "are still coming into Koto today."

A headquarters spokesman said "the pressure is heavy at Hagaru and the enemy is trying to capture as many of our men as they can."

Must Fight Way Out

The Americans still were faced with fighting their way out of Koto through heavy Communist concentrations to cover the 40 miles of winding mountain road southeast of Hamhung.

Seven Chinese divisions were reported deployed along the road —the only escape route south from Koto. The spokesman said he may be able Thursday to identify two other Chinese divisions fighting to hold the Americans in the trap.

The eight-mile trek into Koto was rugged enough. Elements of the Marines and the 7th Division fought through zero weather, a blinding snowstorm and one Chinese road block after another.

The Communists threw mortar and small-arms fire, "Molotov cocktails"—gasoline filled bottles —and sticks of explosives at the Americans.

Hills Ablaze

Allied aircraft countered with strikes that left the surrounding hills ablaze.

U.S. infantrymen moved up from the Hamhung area to try to clear the road for the trapped Americans. They were forced to halt near Majon, 15 road miles south of Koto, and engage Chinese troops in heavy fighting.

A security blackout held up reports from the other northeast sectors.

U.N. troops face three Red armies and elements of a fourth on the far-flung front.

American troops have evacuated the Hyesanjin area on the North Korean-Manchurian Border.

MacArthur's headquarters said the Chinese were "paying much attention" to the Konsan area, on the extreme east flank of the new defence line. There were signs the Reds were building up a large concentration of troops for a push down to the road to Seoul.

Mrs. Jane Nicholls

Ivan Morgan, of Murray St. Baptist Church, officiated and pall-bearers were William McKinley, Alfred Pink, Joseph Tredale, Alfred Phillips, Ernest Abraham and Jack Haw. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

150 NOVEMBER BIRTHS

Peterborough births in November were 150 as compared with 124 a year ago. There were 43 deaths, one more than in November last year.

TB STAMP SALES

Christmas drive of TB stamp sales in Peterborough is not this year keeping pace with similiar drives of other years, it was reported today. To date $2,342.68 has been received by the Bank of Commerce, the treasurer for the fund.

MAY CUT TAX RATE

Increase of Lindsay's assessment from $6,200,000 to $8,500,000 may reduce the rate from 47½ mills this year to 35, providing administration costs are kept in check. Their firemen are asking for a floor of $1,900 for first year men, up to $2,500 for the top men of seven years' experience, and the policemen are asking for a cost of living bonus.

CORRECTING THE TEXT

Peterborough firemen are asking for seven not nine days extra holiday for members of the department on attaining fifteen years' service. That is really the present provision, not a new feature. All the men are entitled to two weeks regular holidays and an additional week after 15 years in the city's employment. The minor texual slip was not significant, but Harry Noakes said the correction should be made to keep the record straight.

WANT MARKET SITE

The Peterborough county council's agricultural committee, under the chairmanship of Reeve Gale Elliott of Harvey, has been authorized to interview city officials so a satisfactory market site can be obtained for producers. The city has given notice that the present market square is to be converted into a parking area with parking meters installed "Every other city is providing market accommodation," said Reeve Melville Johnston who went on to observe that the "farmers had a fast one pulled on them" in 1946 when a private bill went through the legislature giving the city sole ownership of the market square.

NAME TRUSTEES

Peterborough county council Wednesday appointed the three high school trustees for the coming year. Reeve Ernest J. Leeson —who will not be a councillor in 1951 as he was defeated in the Havelock elections—will be the Norwood-Havelock district trustee. The other two are re-appointments: Ernie Pearson of Smith in the Lakefield district, and John Kitney of Otonabee in the Peterborough district. Fred Agnew was also re-appointed county represenattive on the Peterborough board of education.

Women Recommend Acceptance Of Gifts

"The Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association heartily recommends acceptance by the council of Miss Katherine Wallis' gift of certain objects of art," Mrs. N. D. Seaton, president, wrote the council Tuesday.

And, the Association "will endeavor to care for the collection and see to its proper maintenance."

The letter was referred to the finance committee. Miss Wallis is now living in California, but is a member of an old Peterborough family whose home was known as "Marino" west of Jackson Park.

The property was acquired a year ago by Mr. George Roper. City council was hesitant about assuming the responsibility of providing care and suitable setting for the works which Miss Wallis has offered to Peterborough.

Prices Tend Lower On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Dec. 7 — (CP)—Prices tended lower as the session progressed from mixed early dealings on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Activity slowed almost to a standstill from a moderate opening. Papers, steels, agricultures, banks, liquors and retail stores were lower in the groupings. Constructions and foods were higher and the rest of the board was mixed.

Basemetals declined strongly. Consolidated Smelters, Noranda, United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet lost up to 50 cents to lead the group down. United Asbestos traded briskly for a penny gain.

Senior golds eased slightly with very few sales. Junior producers dipped pennies.

HOG PRICES

Sealed Tenders For Tractors.

"I think we should have sealed tenders on those tractors," said Ald. E. C. Braund Tuesday night after Ald. Herbert Young, chairman of the parks committee, reported bids on two tractors required for that committee.

A factor of power take-off appeared in board of works recently to limit expected bids to Ford and Ferguson agencies.

For snow plowing, particularly at Civic Hospital, and general use in summer, the parks committee asked for a new heavy tractor, and also for permission to turn in an old light tractor on a new one of that type.

Ald. Young reported bids obtained from the two companies previously mentioned, but it transpired Tuesday that other companies were now equipped for power take-off uses, presumably transferring power from the engine for work other than its own machine.

Ald. Young's report carried out the original intentions of the council, but it was actually decided Tuesday to ask for tenders from the suggested but unnamed other tractor companies, and in the words of Ald. Braund they are to be sealed and to be opened in ths usual way.

Reaume Ousted

But the Mayor's lead evaporated quickly when the figures were checked. Almost within seconds it was cut by 10 votes to 27. Later it went down to 17, then it vanished and the word came that Mr. Brophey was in front by 30 votes, with the outcome still in doubt.

Announced Winner

Finally, at 3:29 a.m., it was officially announced that the former newspaperman had won the election. The count gave him 16,572 votes to 16,401 for the Mayor. Wilfred Dayus polled 2,451 votes and Frederick Croson 3756.

The mayoralty race overshadowed other election developments. But voters soundly trounced a member of the Communist Labor-Progressive party who made a bid for a seat on the board of control, rejected adoption of daylight time next summer and approved legislation of charity raffles and bingos, forbidden now under the Criminal Code of Canada.

Attlee Would

at bringing the far-eastern crisis to a close at the earliest possible moment and by broad-scale negotiation with the Chinese Reds if necessary.

Truman is understood to have made emphatically clear to Attlee that the United States will have no part of (1) any "appeasement," or (2) of any Korean settlement which involves bargaining on outside, non-Korean issues—for example Red China's desire for United Nations' membership and for control over the Chinese Nationalist-held island of Formosa.

Opposes Half-war

Aides of Attlee represent him as being generally opposed to the idea of carrying on a "half-war" against the Chinese Reds indefinitely.

Apparently his view is that if U.N. forces are expelled from Korea the western powers should wind up the far eastern conflict as rapidly as possible and concentrate all of their efforts on western Europe.

In London Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell said today in the House of Commons that "There is no thought in our minds or in that of the American authorities of withdrawal from Korea."

He said there may be "still harder tidings" from the critical front, however. "No one knows what the outcome will be. It would be foolish to underestimate the size or determination of the Chinese intervention."

He told the House of UN forces already face 270,000 Red Chinese soldiers, with 500,000 more in reserve.

Praises Allies

He paid tribute to "the gallantry with which our allies—particularly the U.S. soldiers, the main bearers of the burden—are fighting this desperate and unequal battle," and added:

"The government are fully aware of the anxiety which must be felt by the relatives of those serving in Korea and indeed by the whole country. We share their anxiety."

A royal marine commando unit is fighting with American forces trying to escape the Chinese Communist trap in northeastern Korea.

Shinwell said this commando unit suffered casualties of eight killed, 26 wounded and 35 missing last Wednesday. He said he had no fresh reports of casualties from the two United Kingdom brigades engaged in western Korea.

Two Brothers Injured When Tire Blows

Two brothers were injured Wednesday night when the left front tire of their car blew out and the car swerved across the highway, striking a tree stump.

Elfon Patterson of Peterborough suffered a broken jaw and loss of several teeth, and his brother Roy, of Cottesloe, had a cut over his left eye.

The accident happened on Highway 7 half-a-mile west of Hastings as the two were driving toward Peterborough in a 1948 model car. The front of the car was badly smashed. Provincial Constable Don Erskine investigated.

City Probes Ways Of Inspecting New Building

The Legal and Reception Committee of the Council reported this week on the demand for better inspectional methods during building construction:

"Your committee conferred with representatives of the local Builders' Exchange including Messrs. Hubert Eastwood, Charles Huffman, Jack Hayward and Percy Luther, regarding the better enforcement of the city's by-law. The deputation stated that in their opinion the present by-law was a good one, and they are not asking for the licensing of building contractors or those engaged in the building industry, but that the system of making the necessary inspections of buildings during the course of construction could be much improved. They suggested various means for accomplishing this."

The committee recommended that the city clerk be authorized to secure information from other cities on the form of inspection carried out by the building inspector of those cities and the fees charged, etc., for building permits and inspections.

Parks Committee report was that "the parks superintendent be authorized to confer with the management of the Peterborough Civic Arena in an effort to obtain greater use of the Arena for school children during periods at present not allocated to other groups."

Canadian Scientists Honored In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (CP). — Two Canadian scientists Wednesday night were named honorary members of the New York Academy of Sciences, one of the oldest scientific organizations in the United States.

The two are Dr. Charles Herbert Best, Professor of Physiology and head of the Banting and Best Department of Medical Research at the University of Toronto; and Dr. James B. Collip, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine and Professor of Medical Research at the University of Western Ontario, London.

Dr. Best was co-discoverer with the late Sir Frederick Banting of insulin, a drug used for treatment of diabetes. He is also known as the purifier of heparin, another drug.

Dr. Collip is an authority on blood chemistry and hormones.

Spoil Draft Bill

CANBERRA, Dec. 7. — (Reuters).—Australia's Labor-dominated Senate today dealt a severe blow to the Government's plans for compulsory draft service for youths of 18. It referred the bill — which has already passed through the House of Representatives—to a select committee. The Senate rises Friday and does not sit again until early in the new year.

1,031 New Industries

According to an article in Foreign Trade, a weekly publication of the Department of Trade and Commerce, nearly 200 manufacturing firms of foreign origin, each employing more than ten persons, have been established in Canada in the last five years. Of these, 147 originated in the States, 34 in the U.K. and 16 in other European countries, respectively employing at the present time 10,500, 5,900 and 300 workers. During the same period 834 manufacturing firms of Canadian origin (not counting those employing ten or fewer workers) were established. These Canadian plants employ 24,700.

* * *

All told, therefore, 1,031 new firms with a labour force of 41,400 have been set up in Canada since the end of the war. It is an impressive number to add to the factories already established by 1945, and which have in most cases themselves expanded importantly.

* * *

Peterborough's share in these new industries has been regrettably small for a city of its industrial advantages and reputation, as one of the chief smaller manufacturing centres in the Dominion. Only two quite small new firms have set up shop in Peterborough since the war. True, existing industry has expanded, but the diversity has not. Indeed, in our chief plant, the Canadian General Electric, there has been a contraction in variety of production, and concentration on a few major operations. It was the diversity of Peterborough's industry which pulled it through the Depression of the thirties so well. There is, if anything, less diversity now than twenty years ago. This lack of variety and the failure of post-war plants to establish themselves in this city are not reassuring indications of the best industrial and economic health of the city in the future.

Talking Back To Hydro

There is a great unfairness in the fact that modern radio permits public officials to push their way into the modern home—where, in many cases, they would never be invited to cross the threshold—and there to lecture and hector and cajole the householders. But there is no way in which the ordinary citizen can talk back to public officials; letters are useless, for it is the easiest thing in the world, for a well-entrenched civil servant to shrug off a letter. Newspaper editorials are useless, for public officials pay no attention to newspapers, except when stupid things they say are printed; then they say that they have been misquoted. The private citizen is, in fact, less able to talk back to his governors than he has been at any time during the past two hundred years.

We feel strong sympathy, therefore, with the writer of a letter to the Ottawa Journal, who has been listening to some of Mr. Saunders' radio exhortations to save electricity. He knows exactly what he would like to say to Mr. Saunders, by radio, and this is his message:

"Good evening, Mr. Saunders, chairman of my Hydro Commission. This is one of your Hydro users asking you to give us dependable and proper voltage power. Throw that switch—the switch that runs most of the Ottawa Valley power down to the Toronto area! Throw that switch—the switch marked 110 volts!

"Here on the Broadview circuit, we have been on reduced power twice in less than 62 hours, in a no-storm period. 'Reduced power' means non-operation of my furnace, my water system, my sump pump, my electric stove. My house is cold, my kiddies can't use the bathroom, my basement floods, my family can't have hot food. And this has happened at least six times in less than 18 months, Mr. Saunders. Such frequency switches it out of the act of God class into the inefficient or poor equipment category.

"And we don't get those reputed 110 volts either, Mr. Saunders. Several test readings in the mornings have shown only 92 volts, which means my electric razor painfully goes zuz-zuz-zuz-zuz rather than zzzzzzzz. And as I stoically pluck my beard, I reflect on the verdict of my electrician, that the reduced voltage is slowly but surely burning out the electrical motors of my heavy equipment.

"So (pleadingly) co-operate with us, Mr. Saunders! Give us service on which we may depend. Throw a switch at the Merivale station to give us the 110-volt power implied in a Hydro contract. Then (cheerily) we'll be glad to turn out mere lights. We want to co-operate, Mr. Saunders, but (firmly) we want you to remember that co-operation is a two-sided matter, 'a union of persons for the production or distribution of goods for their common benefit.'

"Then (folksy) goodnight, Mr. Saunders."

There are many districts of Ontario from which a similar message might be sent. But would it do any good? We doubt it. The first thing that a successful public official learns is to give out, and not to take in, suggestions.

Gown In Kingston Town

If there ever was a sharp division between town and gown in Kingston, it exists no more, judging from the results of that city's municipal elections. The Mayor, reaffirmed in his chief magistry, is Professor Clifford Curtis. Professor Grant Crawford has been returned as alderman. Professor Wesley Curran becomes a new member of the Board of Education, as does the University Chaplain, the Reverend M. Laverty. Professor Curtis is an economist, Professor Crawford an expert in municipal law, Professor Curran is a biologist.

The election of these Queen's men to civic office is not a sign that the University is dominating the city. In fact, the University is less preponderant in Kingston life now than in any other decade in the century. Kingston has blossomed during and since the war as a major industrial centre.

The fact is that the generality of Kingston voters recognize these professors as capable, trustworthy citizens, and want to avail themselves of their intelligence and special abilities. They know that professors are not persons outside the life of the community.

This emergence of professors into public life is proof that Canadian scholars are not living in ivory towers and sheltering their lives and learning within cloisters. Perhaps we should not use the word emergence. Queen's faculty members, from the days of Grant onwards, have always taken part in public affairs and served their city, province and country in public office, both elective and appointed. Their present share in civic office is a continuation of that tradition.

A Compliment To Human Nature

It is generally believed that Russia could overrun the whole continent of Europe in a twinkling. Then, it is reasoned, Russia would put all Germans, Frenchmen, Dutchmen, Italians and Britons to work, under a whip or the threat of starvation. It would use these nations' talents, resources and man-power to equip itself for a trans-oceanic war to rule the whole world.

Forced labour can be demanded but not exacted. Russia knows that from her attempts to use the economies of Poland and Czechoslovakia—and these countries have legal Communist governments favourably disposed to Russia. In Poland and Czechoslovakia today men at machines are deliberately misusing them or are refusing to work at full speed. There is sabotage of industrial and agricultural programs. Widespread resentment is making itself felt in a thousand different ways which prevent Russia from getting all she would hope to gain from these satellite countries.

How much greater would be the difficulty of getting Frenchmen, Dutchmen, Germans or Britons to work for Russia? A Dutch acquaintance of ours who has travelled widely in post-war Europe, and himself knows how his countrymen foiled German masters' attempts to use them, has properly remarked that the resistance to Russian-imposed forced labour in such Communist countries as Poland and Czechoslovakia is "a compliment to human nature". Men are not animals; they can be driven to desperation but not to a complete desecration of their minds and spirits.

Fleecing Eleven Lawyers

A Montreal man is being held by police on 21 charges of false pretences. It seems that this dastardly fellow has been fleecing lawyers. He is alleged to have gone about soliciting orders for rare European law books, to have taken down payments and not to have delivered the goods. Eleven lawyers and ten notaries have suffered from this fellow's machinations. Heigh-ho! Gentlemen of the bar have been known from time to time as wolves in sheep's clothing, but it is the first impressive indication we have had that they have wool for fleecing. Certainly the situation is unusual; isn't it usually the lawyers who wield the shears? Well, God is said to temper the wind to the shorn lambs, so we shall expect the lawyer-lambs not to be left in the cold by the courts. At least they still have their legitimate voices, and not bleats, to plead their own cases. On the other hand, a fellow clever enough to fleece eleven lawyers should be able to match wits in a court before only one magistrate and against one prosecuting attorney.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Tilbury man was fined a dollar after his boss testified that he returned home to find the offender kissing his wife. It seems little enough, but probably the magistrate is better qualified than we to put a price on the lady's favours.

Kremlin's Aim In Asia

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

(Ed. Note: This article is by one of the best-known authorities on Russian affairs. It has been airmailed to us from London and is copyrighted to the Peterborough Examiner and the London Observer.)

"IS there a Russian-Chinese conspiracy on a world-wide scale?" asked Mr. Bevin in the House of Commons. He said he did not know. Nobody can know for certain. All we can do is look at the available evidence.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN trying to estimate the Kremlin's immediate purpose in the Far East, it is necessary to bear in mind the general pattern of its foreign policy not only during the last five years, but also during the last thirty years.

When we look at this pattern we see at once that in a limited sense there is indeed a Russian-Chinese conspiracy on a world-wide scale, although it is impossible to say to what extent Communist China is a full partner in this conspiracy and to what extent she is herself a victim of it. It is not, however the sort of conspiracy Mr. Bevin had in mind. It is the familiar Communist conspiracy to achieve world revolution.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN this conspiracy China, and Asia generally, have always held an extremely important place, not as a field for Soviet expansion as such but, to paraphrase Mr. Churchill, as the soft underbelly of the capitalist system. London and Paris will fall on the Yangtse, wrote Lenin; and what he meant was that, inspired by the nationalistic feelings which could be harnessed to the chariot of Communism, the peoples of China and South-East Asia would rise against the imperial powers and rock the foundations of the capitalist system by depriving the West of markets and raw materials.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT is against this conception that the present events in the Far East should be seen. It has been a guiding light of Soviet policy since the Revolution. Nothing could be done about it between the wars because of the existence of a powerful and militant Japan, directly menacing the Soviet Union. Far from seeking to exploit the revolutionary potential in China, the Kremlin abandoned the Chinese Communists quite cold-bloodedly and lent its support, with the Western Powers, to the one strengthening and unifying factor, Kuomintang under Chiang Kai-shek. China had to be strengthened against Japan, even though this meant serving the interests of the capitalists of the West.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT with the elimination of Japan as a great Power, the situation changed overnight. And with the final decision to start a Communist offensive against the capitalist system, trying to break it down and plunge it into economic ruin by every possible means, the original conception came into its own. Not only did the Kremlin lend active support to the Chinese Communists in their renewed struggle against Chiang Kai-shek and Western influence, but it also, with increasing vigour, encouraged nationalist movements for liberation from "the imperialist yoke" throughout Asia.

◇ ◇ ◇

THERE is little doubt that the North Korean aggression was seen as part of the pattern. The Kremlin had reason for believing that America would not resist the Sovietisation of South Korea and the overthrow of Syngman Rhee. If this had been done quietly by a Communist putsch on the Prague model in Seoul, there would have been an outcry in the West but almost certainly no action would have been taken. This, however, did not happen. It looks as though the Kremlin was unable to resist the temptation of putting on a show of Communist might to impress the rest of Asia and the world: everything suggests that it expected no effective resistance; and it may also have calculated that at the worst it would be able to gauge the strength of America's purpose by watching her reaction to naked aggression. It is certain that when the United Nations retreat was turned into spectacular victory Moscow was badly shaken. And so was Peking.

◇ ◇ ◇

WE do not and cannot know to what extent, if any, the Chinese blow was struck under Russian pressure. It certainly serves Moscow's purpose, but at the same time it perfectly expresses the Chinese fear for their own highly vulnerable and all-important Manchurian hinterland. American policy toward Communism and the new Chinese Government, and MacArthur's impatience of restraint give grounds for that fear. As far as Russia is concerned, nothing would suit the Kremlin's book better than to see the United Nations bogged down in a long struggle with China's millions while she herself looked on. But whether Mao Tse-tung would permit this to happen is a big question.

◇ ◇ ◇

FAR more important than this in Russian eyes is what they see as growing friction between U.S. and Britain, to say nothing of France and other European Powers, produced by differences in opinion about the proper attitude towards China. During the past week, beginning with an inspired and heavyweight article in "Pravda" on November 27, the Soviet Press has been concentrating on what it calls the increasing isolation of America from the rest of the Atlantic Pact nations. This is an interesting development. Some time ago the Kremlin dropped its old familiar line of sowing dissension among the Western Allies. Now it is back in the headlines once more. And it may well be that against the general Leninist policy of working in Asia for the ruin of the West, the supreme immediate object of the Kremlin is, precisely, to develop situations which may be expected to increase the differences between America and Europe and so pave the way for the break-down of the anti-Communist Front.

Letters To The Editor

ENCOURAGING INTEREST

Sir: On behalf of the Study Group on Civic Affairs, I should like to express our sincere thanks for your help in arranging our "Candidates' meeting" on November 28th, last. We are most encouraged by the interest shown by the general public and I feel that the assistance accorded by "The Examiner" contributed greatly to the success of our "Candidates' meeting".

Yours truly,
MARGARET McCULLOCH,
Convener.

SECURITY AT THE POLLS

Sir: I noted with interest the item in Monday's edition of the Examiner regarding City Clerk Outram's statement that "There is nothing in the Act that says ballot boxes have to be padlocked."

Contradiction of this statement appears under Section 94, subsection 2 of the Municipal Act, Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1937, Chapter 266: viz. "The ballot boxes shall be made of a durable material, provided with a lock and key; and so constructed that the ballot papers can be deposited therein and cannot be withdrawn without unlocking the box."

Such was not the case at poll 41 where both ballot boxes were wide open and the ballots lying therein in such a manner as to enable the voter to read how the earlier voters had expressed their opinions.

I sincerely feel that even in a democratic country such as ours, more security should be enforced at the polls.

Yours sincerely,
P.H.T.

ANGLICANS, CATHOLICS AND PROTESTANTS

Sir: Referring to Mrs. Bonney's letter I would like to say that since the Roman Catholic church is the same religion as that established by the apostles (St. Peter was the first pope) you might say that the apostles were Catholics, though I suppose that name came some years later. There were only Catholics until Henry VIII. The immediate cause of his renunciation of the Roman Church was the refusal of Pope Clement VII to grant him a divorce from his lawful wife, Catherine of Aragon, that he might be free to wed Anne Boleyn. In order to legalize his divorce the licentious monarch divorced himself and his kingdom from the spiritual supremacy of the Pope. Hence the term "Roman" Catholic to distinguish from the "Anglican" Catholics. The Catholic Church teaches the same doctrines once delivered by the Apostles, all other religions branched off. The Catholic Church is the only one able to trace her pedigree, generation after generation, to the Apostles, while all Protestant churches or sects now existing had their origin since the year 1500, some fifteen centuries too late to have any pretensions to be called the Apostolic Church. I could go on and on with more proof, but this is sufficient.

However I would like to say that on one point Mrs. Bonney is correct—"God alone is to be worshipped". We do not worship Mary, the saints or anyone except God. We pay Mary the honour due her as the mother of Jesus Christ. Incidentally, in declaring the dogma (article of faith) of Mary's assumption into heaven, the Pope has not created a new belief. We Catholics have always believed it, only now Pope Pius XII is emphasizing our belief by making it an article of faith, in order to honour Mary and to ask her intercession in behalf of this troubled world of ours. So you see we are not going to be torn assunder by dissention over the so-called "new" dogma. We would not love Mary near so much, loved we not Jesus more!

Thanking you for your valuable space. I am,
Yours,
"CATHOLIC".

Free Magazines

(Prince Albert Herald)

Are you among the light fingered patients of dental and medical offices, or of beauty parlors and barber shops, who lift and depart with magazines?

If you are, then you are the person for whom the general public has been looking. You're the reason why the medical doctors, the dentists, the beauticians and tonsorial parlor operators seldom produce a piece of reading matter until it is a month old. They discovered a long way back that a current magazine, or one containing long stories, has a way of disappearing. The month-old reading matter lasts much longer.

As for comic books, they have to be really old to last long. The current comics walk out in short order. They may help to keep the attention of the young folks from what is to come while they await their turn, but they are not diverted from the comics no matter what happens and the comic book leaves with them.

Great Leveller

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Only 86 persons in Britain are left with yearly incomes of more than £6,000 after taxes, the annual report of the Island Revenue Department showed. In 1939 there were 6,560 in this category.

The names of the 86 were not revealed, but most are said to be persons who made their money long before the war.

It shows the extent to which taxation can carry on the levelling process.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now about that time Herod the king stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the church....Peter therefore was kept in prison: but prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him. And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and the keepers before the door kept the prison. And, behold, the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison: and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands.

And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me. And he went out, and followed him; and wist not that it was true which was done by the angel; but thought he saw a vision.

When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city; which opened to them of his own accord: and they went out, and passed on through one street; and forthwith the angel departed from him.

And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that the Lord hath sent his angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews. (Acts 12: 1, 5-11.)

Petes Lengthen OHA Lead By Turning Back Queen's

KINGSTON, Dec. 7—Queen's University seniors not only lost last night's OHA senior game in the Harty Arena, when the Peterborough Petes skated easily to a 6 to 1 verdict, but they were also informed that the verdict they recently registered at the expense of the Nylons has been thrown out by the OHA executive and will have to be replayed at a later date. The Gaels had used too many men in vanquishing Nylons and last night they didn't have enough, or so it appeared to the smallest crowd assembled in the local arena in recent years.

The Gaels, or Combines, played their best hockey in the first session when neither team hit the webbing but the visitors raced to four in succession in the middle period and were not unduly disturbed over the rest of the route. Two swift counters scored midway in the final round turned the attraction into a runaway.

Nine Penalties

Nine minor penalties were inflicted by Referee Bill Shannon, the Marmora arbitrator, who was making his initial appearance locally. The Combines drew five of them in a rather dull exhibition of the winter sport. The more experienced and smoother working Petes were in full command and now lead the group with a four-point margin over the Eagles.

Mason, on a pass from Dugan, opened the scoring at 2:07 in the second sessions and 19 second later G. Leonard, aided by Fryia made it 2 to 0. Fryia struck the next blow at 5:04 with G. Leonard and "Honey" Tompkins drawing assists, while at 12:35 the shifty and speedy Fryia scored again after Jopling had engineered the attack.

Ohlke Scores

Play had been in progress only 65 seconds when "Bud" Ohlke notched the counter that averted a shutout. Don Murray set up the assault and Ohlke drilled the rubber past the clever Ray Harding. Play immediately livened up but the visitors checked with telling effect and finally struck the kayo blows when G. Leonard and Garvey scored at 12:20 and 13:50. Tompkins and Millar drew assists in the final break up. G. Leonard and Fryia paced the Petes' attack, each with two goals and an assist while the ever reliable Tompkins had a pair of assists. Garvey, Mason, Jopling, Millar and Dugan were other contributors to the scoring summary

Teams.

Petes — Goal, Harding; defence, Millar and Horton; centre, Wade; wings, Mason and Dugan; alternates, G. Leonard, Fryia, Tompkins, Floyd, Garvey, Collins, E. Leonard and Jopling.

Queen's — Goal, Boivin; defence, Latimer and Wood; centre, Keenleyside; wings, Harley and Bender; alternates, Shepherd, Ohlke, Sweetman, Wilde, Hay, White, D. Murray and Graves.

Referee: W. Shannon; linesman Art Casterton.

First Period

No scoring.

Penalties — Tompkins, Sweetman, Mason.

Second Period

Petes—Mason (Dugan) 2:07
Petes—G. Leonard (Fryia) 2:26
Petes—Fryia (G. Leonard, Tompkins) 5:04
Petes—Fryia (Jopling) 12:55
Penalties—White, Latimer.

Third Period

Queen's—Ohlke (Murray) 1:06
Petes—G. Leonard (Tompkins) 12:20
Petes—Garvey (Millar) 13:50

Teachers Take Cage Win Over Students

Puffing like steam engines, eight PCVS teachers, badly out of condition, swept the annual PCVS teachers versus students basketball game Wednesday afternoon. The teachers men and women, came from behind several times with fast-breaking plays to down the Grade 13A boys and girls 24-20.

For the past few years the students from one of the collegiate's classes have challenged the teachers to a game of volleyball and basket ball. The class with the gate receipts builds up its portion of the Students' Council fund. Over 300 students first cheered on their classmates, then the teachers as the lead changed back and forth. A week ago another class was defeated in the annual volleyball game by the teachers.

Jack Cullis, a former Ontario College of Education cager, surprised the young students who thought they would walk away with a victory. With a dazzling display of teamwork Cullis combined with Al MacQuarrie and Zoltan Temesy to outscore the students. Cullis had six points, MacQuarrie six while Temesy led the scoring of both teams with 12.

Besides these teachers, the students cheered on the efforts of Misses Doreen Pemberton and Eva Scott, Jim McNabb, Harry Collingwood and Howard Moebus.

How It Went

Al Northcott, a star of the PCVS senior quintet, shared 13A's scoring honors with Ted Evans, another of the school's topnotch basketball players, with eight points each. Doug Fanning whipped home the students' other four points.

The warm-up by the teachers was well worth the admission price, 15 cents. They marched out and then formed quickly into a football formation. From therein they tried shots at the basket. Cheers rocked the gym. After about 15 attempts to put the ball through the basket, it slipped in for the first time.

Temesy put the teachers up two points early after a quick check by Al MacQuarrie set him up. The students came back with four points by Al Northcott but Cullis tied it up with a lay-up score. Al Northcott and Doug Fanning sent the score up to eight for the students before the first half ended.

MacQuarrie opened the second with a floor-length dribble which ended in two points. Cullis flipped in a short one-hander to tie the score. Northcott quick-passed to Ted Evans to put the students up 10-8. Cullis seconds later passed to Temesy for a 10-all score. The teachers went up two points but seconds later again the score was tied. They went up once more two points but the students tied the score. MacQuarrie put the teachers up for the third time in a row by two points to 16. Fanning then started a scoring spree by the students which ran the score to 20-16. Temesy slipped in two baskets to tie the count for the teachers. He picked up two more points when Evans fouled him while attempting a field shot and then finished the scoring with another basket.

Lineups—Teachers—Cullis 6, Collingwood, McNabb, Moebus, MacQuarrie 6, Temesy 12, Scott, Pemberton.

Students — Fortner, Bailey, Evans 8, Armstrong, Fanning 4, M. Craw, B. Eastwood, M. Matthews, Northcott 8, G. Todd, B. Scollard, L. Horne.

Bisons Crush Eagles As Barons Score Tie

By The Canadian Press.

Everybody in the American Hockey League seems to enjoy pushing around the unfortunate New Haven Eagles.

Wednesday night was the same old story. Buffalo Bisons defeated the ground-bound Eagles 6-1 before a Buffalo crowd of 3,258. The Eagles, at the bottom of the league's eastern division, now have lost 21 out of 26 games. Buffalo, on the other hand, heads the division with 15 victories in 24 starts.

The top team in the western division, Cleveland Barons, managed to pick up a point on second place Cincinnati Mohawks by playing a 2-2 overtime tie with Pittsburgh Hornets, third-place holders in the west. Cincinnati lost 4-2 to Providence Reds and now are three points behind the Barons. The Reds are in the eastern division's third place.

Indianapolis Capitals defeated Springfield Indians 4-2.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It'll be whoops, hoops and oops again this week-end on two local fronts as the basketeers swing into action. Twin bills listed for Friday and Saturday nights. Tomorrow at eight p.m. in the YWCA gym, Normals meet Nurses Jrs. in a colleens' cage contest, followed an hour later by a tangle betwixt CGE-ers and Black's. Up at the YM on Saturday night at seven, Meteors mix with Fords in a mannish melee, the nightcap featuring Buicks and Chryslers. Assembly line rivalry, eh? No hoop tournament here this week as first planned. School basketball will lay over till after the holiday period.

* * * * * * *

For those who like to watch the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association squads in action, six games are on tap tonight in Civic Arena, starting at six. They go like this: St. Peter's bantams vs. the Otonabee Wolves, Martin-Hewitt midgets vs. Marines, Oddfellows vs. Trojan juveniles, Empress bantams vs. Trojans, St. Peter's vs. Trojan midgets, and Clapper's juves vs. Lakefield Lions. Referees are Lawless and Bell from six to nine, and Leggitt and MacNamara the rest of the night. PMHA schedules go till early February, with playoffs and playdowns then.

Petes Play The Eagles

A full house and a hot time at the arena on the morrow along about 8.30. On account of it's Petes against Eagles in an OHA senior "B" fixture. Another of those "naturals" which pack 'em in, as the classy city rivals really turn it on when they meet. Went to a tie in their first clash, Eagles won by a goal in the next one—and how will it go tomorrow? Petes presently lead the loop with Eagles next, then Nylons, Belleville and Queen's in that order. So, the men of Magee will be trying desperately to knock off the Jopling squad again in this clash. Yes, this should be one more of those Petes-Eagles classics.

* * * * * * *

An item from Al Rose's column in the Brantford sheet: "Just don't know how they do it but Peterborough is supporting two OHA senior teams again. They are termed Eagles and Petes, with the latter first and Eagles second. Belleville, Queen's and Kingston are other teams in an eastern loop that corresponds with the circuit in which the Brants play. Fans will recall the hectic seven-game series in which Nats downed the Legion last spring, the final game being played in Peterborough." Hm, we thought 'twas staged in the Western Ontario city, but then Kid Flu had us rather punchy at the time. The Nats have much the same lineup now as then, a good team.

* * * * * * *

Jopling Gents Victors

Knocking off Queen's 6-1 in Kingston last night, the Petes pulled further in front of the senior "B" pack, now having a four-point lead over Eagles. Queen's also were informed by the OHA that they'd have to replay that victory they recently had over Nylons—as they had used too many players. A double blow for the Gaels. With Harding in fine form, the Jopling bunch rolled right along, led by Gus Leonard and Chum Fryia, with three points each. Honey Tompkins aided on a couple, with Garvey, Mason, Jopling, Millar and Dugan in on one apiece. Big Bud Ohlke shot in the lone Kingston marker to save his buddies from a shutout. Play was fairly fast, and generally clean.

* * * * * * *

Oddfellows downed Oshawa Bees 9-5 here last night to climb into a first-place OHA junior "B" tie with Lindsay Kin, each having seven points. An IOOF win in Port Hope tomorrow could set 'em out there by themselves. Bun Kingdon's charges drove hard and early to rack up five markers and that about did it, though the Bees battled back at times. Locals looked good over the distance in all departments, and it's their third straight victory in a keen group race. Bob Wyatt was the big gun last gloaming with five scoring points, while Jim Morrow had four, Dean West three, and Brian Robinson popped in two tallies. The IOOF-ers appear to be hitting their true stride lately.

Strikes Usher Fine Coach $50

BARRIE, Dec. 7 (CP).—J. H. (Jimmy) Skinner, coach of Windsor Spitfires in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, was fined $50 and costs Wednesday for assaulting an usher at a game here Nov. 17.

Staff Sgt. Harry French of nearby Camp Borden told the court Skinner struck him on the nose when he tried to stop Skinner swearing. He was cut on the chin when the two men rolled on the floor of the players' box, he said.

Magistrate G. H. Foster said he passed sentence with the consideration "that the game was at a high point and those concerned were excited at the time."

French testified Skinner called his team to the bench after two penalties were called against them and began swearing "so loud he could be heard all over the place." He said he told Skinner to stop.

Skinner's counsel said French entered the players' box against OHA rules.

I wish to thank my supporters on Election Day, and to congratulate the successful candidates.

Flanagan Scores Upset Win Over Saddler

By CHARLES C. CAIN.

DETROIT, Dec. 7 (AP). — Del Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn., is hot on the trail of lightweight champion Ike Williams after scoring an upset 10-round victory over featherweight king Sandy Saddler in a non-title scrap here Wednesday night.

The 22-year-old Minnesota youngster is hopeful of getting a shot at Williams' crown in January, and the International Boxing Club indicated it will do its best to make the match.

Flanagan, whose fistic reputation had been confined previously to his home-town area, won national recognition with his carefully planned triumph over Saddler.

It was the 50th fight without a defeat for Flanagan, whose four-year pro fighting career now comprises 48 wins and two draws. At 132¾, he outweighed Saddler by four pounds.

Small Turnout

The victory, achieved before a small turnout of 5,186 fans, marked Saddler's first setback in 25 fights. It was a tough one for the champ to take.

He complained bitterly about Flanagan's hit-and-run tactics and told his dressing-room audience, "He wasn't tough at all. I thought it was my fight all the way."

Asked if he wanted a return bout, Saddler replied angrily: "Absolutely not. Flanagan didn't fight tonight and since you can't make a man fight, there is no use in getting him into the ring."

Wednesday night's bout was a tame affair for four rounds, with Flanagan using a hit-and-run technique to pile up points and bewilder Saddler. But in the late rounds when both fighters started tossing heavy leather, the St. Paul youngster more than held his own.

IOOF Juniors Beat Oshawa For Third Straight Victory

Oddfellows extended their undefeated streak to three games last night at Civic Arena, defeating Oshawa Bees 9-5 in a fast, wide-open junior "B" hockey struggle to sweep into a point tie with Lindsay Kinsmen, each with three wins and a draw.

Bun Kingdon's flying crew got away to a fine start in the rousing first chapter. Led by Bob Wyatt, who is playing the best hockey of his career, Jim Morrow, Ab Buckton, the Robinson brothers, Dean West, Ray Douglas and Lefty Doris, Triple Links rattled five tallies behind Stone. Bees were unable to dent Wasson's armour in the home cage. Oddfellows had a decided edge in the opener and their lead held well over the stretch though Reg Mills' fighting squad came back strongly in the second and third to actually outscore their rivals.

Bees Rallied

Oshawa rallied strongly in the second as led by the crack first line of Etcher (who assisted on four goals), Wilson and Brabin, Bees quickly scored two neat markers before the five-minute mark. Doris then slipped a neat one in around the left corner from Buckton at 8:15 to partially squelch the rally. Then the O'Connor line clicked with Edwards potting the disc at the three-quarter mark as Bees outplayed Links for a time. Dean West from Wyatt, however, on a pretty play dampened Bees' hopes to wind up a hectic frame.

The finale saw both teams giving all they had with scoring honors even and territorial play about the same though Oddfellows' defensive game was superior to the visitors aside from a slight lapse when O'Connor and Etcher clicked on two quickies.

Wyatt, with five points, followed by Jim Morrow with four and Dean West three, led Oddfellows in the scoring parade with Brian Robinson scoring twice and all hands turning in a good effort in a clean contest while for Oshawa Etcher had four points, followed by O'Connor with three.

Marlies Edge Dutchmen In 6-4 Tussle

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros, last season's Allan Cup champs, haven't been able to take the measure of the Ontario Hockey Association's league-leading Toronto St. Michael's but they don't seem to have too much trouble with the rest of the senior loop.

Jack McKenzie and Scottie Mair Wednesday night came through with two fast tallies less than a minute apart to give the Marlies a 6-4 victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The win over the last-place Dutchmen moves Marlies within one game of the topspot Saints and maintains their three-point margin over the third-place Hamilton Tigers.

St. Mikes Wednesday night, for the second time in a week, fell afoul of Hamilton Tigers' Smelle twins, Carl and Tom.

Tom provided an overtime goal for a 3-2 Hamilton victory and Carl scored the other goals in the first period. In Toronto Saturday Tom scored three goals to pace Tigers' 5-2 victory over the Saints.

Lose Out After Comeback

In the Waterloo fixture, Dutchies lost out after a third-period comeback. They started the contest with a 2-0 lead in the first 11 minutes but were trailing 4-2 at the end of the second period.

Bob Hassard led Marlies scorers with two goals, other singletons went to Ed Stankiewicz and Frank Davis. Bob Wrightsell, Dinny Flanagan, Mickey Roth and Harvey Jacklin were Dutchie marksmen.

Johnny Ubriaco, the league's leading point-getter, added a point to his total when he got one of the Saints' two goals at Hamilton by slapping in a relay from coach Johnny O'Flaherty. Tom Fowler got the other Toronto marker.

In OHA Junior A play, Barrie Flyers defeated St. Catharines Teepees 3-0 to rejoin Toronto Marlboros on top of the league heap. Oshawa Generals broke up the three-way tie for fourth place by nosing out Galt Black Hawks 3-2 in overtime.

Bill Hagan was the leading scorer for Flyers, picking up two goals and an assist. Don Emms got the other goal.

Prior to the Oshawa contest, Generals were tied with Stratford and St. Catharines but the win moved Oshawa into third place alone, behind Marlies and Barrie and one point ahead of Guelph.

The Generals' marksmen were Bobby Attersly, Stan Mills and Alex Delvecchio. Pete Conacher scored both goals for Galt.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Tod Sloan and Ted Kennedy of Toronto picked up a point apiece in the NHL scoring race Wednesday night to creep closer to pacesetter Max Bentley, out with an injury. Bentley, also a Leaf, has 29 points while Sloan and Kennedy have 23.

Turk Broda of Toronto, with five shutouts sets the pace in goaltending, with Gus Mortson of Toronto, with 52 minutes in the penalty box, taking honors there.

Boston Bruins Start To Roll Whip Chicago Hawks 5-4

By The Canadian Press.

Boston Bruins appear at long last to have started to roll in the National Hockey League.

At least they're potting goals at a clip that ought to command respect, if not strike terror, among the circuit's five other teams. In addition, they've put together two victories in a row.

The Bruins sent 8,216 Boston fans home happy Wednesday night by chalking up their second straight, 5-4, over Chicago Black Hawks, and climbed into undisputed possession of fifth place.

In their last four games—three of which they won—coach Lynn Patrick's men have scored 18 goals for an average of better than four a game. In their previous 19 games their average was less than two goals a game.

Wednesday night's other games saw Detroit Red Wings roll up the biggest score of the campaign in whitewashing the luckless New York Rangers 9-0, while Toronto Maple Leafs triumphed 3-1 over Montreal Canadiens.

In League Cellar

For Rangers, the loss—at home—dropped them into the league cellar. It also deflated their hopes of starting a drive similar to the one they got going about the same time last year, also in a game against the Wings. That drive saw them rise from the cellar to a playoff spot, and within one goal of the Stanley Cup.

The Bruins, opening a heavy grind of four games in five nights, won on a third-period goal by rookie defenceman Ross Lowe.

Toronto cast-offs Vic Lynn and Bill Ezinicki, who have added punch to the Bruins' offensive since they joined the club about three weeks ago, shared in the scoring. Lynn potted the first goal, and Ezinicki assisted veteran Milt Schmidt on another.

Their other marksmen were Eddie Sandford and Murray Henderson while Chicago's tallies were scored by Don Morrison, Roy Conacher, Al Dewsbury and Ernie Dickens.

At New York, Metro Prystai, Jim McFadden and Gaye Stewart each scored twice and defenceman Red Kelly, Marty Pavelich and Sid Abel one apiece.

Goalie Stars

Goalie Terry Sawchuk starred in keeping Rangers at bay for his third shutout of the season. He handled 31 shots compared with 25 for Chuck Rayner in the New York net. The second smallest crowd of the season—6,356 fans—saw the game.

The Leafs scored a goal in each period before 13,366 Toronto fans in chalking up their fourth victory in six starts this season against Canadiens. Harry Watson, Ted Kennedy and Tod Sloan tallied for the victors while veteran Elmer Lach scored Canadiens' loan goal in the second period.

Action was rather mild, considering the traditional rivalry existing between the two clubs, for only six penalties were called — three to a side.

A FAMOUS PLAYERS THEATRE

IN THIS PICTURE of the flooding Bow River at Calgary, the speedy treatment given animals is vividly portrayed. More than 20 dogs of the dog pound on 3rd Ave. and 3rd St. E. were released as flood waters rose around the building. This dog in the arms of a city fireman had to be rescued when it bogged down in the ice and water formed on 3rd Ave. Included among the dogs at the pound was a purebred collie and her four pups only a few days old. Those and other young dogs were taken to a local animal clinic while the remainder were taken to dry land a few blocks from the pound and allowed to run free.

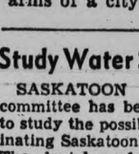
Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"TANTALIZE"



Greek mythology tells of King Tantalus who, because he offended the gods, was punished in a remarkable way. He was placed in the midst of a lake whose waters reached his chin, but receded whenever he attempted to allay his thirst. Over his head hung branches laden with choice fruit, which drew away whenever he stretched out his hand in an attempt to satisfy his hunger. Thus, Tantalus became the symbol of teasing and torment, and his name is the origin of our word tantalize.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Television of hockey isn't the crowd-swallowing monster it's cracked up to be, says president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League.

Rather, it is television of "other attractions" that can and does make itself felt in hockey as well as in other forms of public-bought entertainment.

More of a factor in dwindling attendance in some NHL cities, said Campbell, is the position of teams in the league standing. Low-placed teams can't be expected to haul in the customers the same as the higher-placed teams.

At the same time there can be a distinct relationship between the two factors—TV and low position. The box office can take a sizeable wallop when the performances of a straggling team happen to coincide with "the greatest saturation of television of other attractions."

Campbell said he feels hockey actually can benefit from television. It must keep pace with this great stride in science and can exploit it.

Through television, he said, hockey can attract persons who have never seen the game. It can also pull back those who years ago knew hockey and became interested in it.

Otto Mayer, chancellor of the International Olympic Committee said in Lauzanne, Switzerland, Wednesday it would be "better for the Germans themselves" if they did not participate in the winter Olympic games at Oslo, Norway, in 1952.

The Oslo organizing committee for the games has refused to permit German teams to participate but a final decision is to be taken at the Vienna meeting of the International Olympic Committee in May next year, Mayer said in an interview.

Pleased with the team's showing in Indiana last weekend, coach Johnny Metras will take his University of Western Ontario Mustangs to Detroit for a Saturday night basketball engagement with the University of Detroit Titans.

The Titans, one of the surprise packages in the powerful Missouri Valley Conference last season, are stronger than ever this year and will rule as heavy favorites to thump the Mustangs.

Preliminary steps to the formation of an association comprising secretaries and managers of clubs in the Ontario Golf Association were taken at a meeting in Toronto last night.

Joseph Payne, secretary of the suburban Weston clubs was named chairman of the committee. Appointed to the committee by Payne were V. F. Mason of the London Hunt Club, Fred Heine of Toronto St. Georges, S. G Norrish of Lambton and Don Porter of Scarboro.

The association, similar to the one that has existed in the United States for several years, will provide liaison among various OGA clubs.

The stray fox that has roamed the Yankee Stadium since Oct. 13 finally was bagged Wednesday.

Walter Grego, a professional golfer from Bayside, N. Y., killed the elusive animal with a shotgun blast. the fox had been located in the left-field stands by his tracks through the mud left by Monday's rain.

The animal turned out to be three feet long and weighed 15 pounds.

How the fox got into the stadium is a mystery. He was first sighted the night before the Army-Michigan football game after a truckload of tarpaulins had been brought in.

Minor Leagues See Hope On Broadcasts

By JOE REICHLER.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP).—The harried minor baseball leagues, waging a desperate battle to curtail broadcasts of major league baseball games, saw their first ray of hope today.

According to president George Trautman, the little fellows have received evidence that the majors have "a sympathetic attitude" to their radio-television problem.

The subject was thrashed out Thursday night by Trautman, major and minor league committees, and commissioner A. B. Chandler. The conference lasted three hours and ended on an optimistic note.

"It is the conclusion of the committee," said Trautman, "that fundamentally the solution of this problem rests with the individual major league clubs. However, there is evidence of a sympathetic attitude to our problem by the big league representatives."

Outlines Program

Trautman outlined a three-pronged program that he will take in person to the American and National League meetings next week.

1. He will ask the major league clubs individually to curtail their own major league networks.

2. He will ask the majors for better supervision of the conduct of its broadcast outlets.

3. He will ask the majors to limit their television outlets to their home territory.

All clubs with the exception of the St. Louis Browns had their own networks last season. The Browns recently completed arrangements to air their games over a major network in 1951.

Trautman said the minors did not object vigorously to "game of the day" broadcasts, since they do not blanket the minors' territory to the extent that the majors' own networks do.

Have Royal Visit

LONDON, Dec. 7—(Reuters)—The King, Queen and Princess Margaret paid their respects Wednesday night to the new "Old Vic" theatre, rebuilt from its war ruins. It was the King's first visit. The Queen and Princess Margaret had visited there once before the war. The Royal Family, sitting in the front row of the dress circle, saw Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night".

A Public Holiday

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Dec. 7—(AP)—This capital had a public holiday Tuesday to celebrate the United Nations decision approving federation of Eritrea, former Italian colony, with Ethiopia. Emperor Haile Selassie told a crowd gathered in the palace courtyard that the decision "recognized the justice of Ethiopia's claims as well as desires of the majority of Eritreans".

Fire Razes Factory

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 7—(Reuters)—Shattering explosions rocked the Sydney suburb of St. Peters early today when fire destroyed a large paint and chemical factory. The damage is expected to run into thousands of pounds. Blasts hurled drums, corrugated iron sheets and flaming debris hundreds of feet into the air.

5 Miners Killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa Dec. 7—(Reuters)—A "pressure burst" killed five mine workers and injured 23 others 5,000 feet below ground in a deep gold mine near here today. A fall of rock followed the burst, but the situation was stated to be under control.

Higher Necklines To Be Style

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 7 (AP)—Hollywood has hurled back the television challenge — in the matter of necklines, anyway.

The girls on video, notably Faye Emerson, have been wearing gowns cut way down to here. Now you might expect Hollywood to fight fire with fire, or, rather, to take the plunge. But no. Movie necklines are going up. So says Helen Rose, who designs the gowns for MGM's glamor girls.

"I don't know how those girls on television get away with it," she commented. "If we put Elizabeth Taylor in a gown such as Faye Emerson wears, we'd be flooded with protests."

"Our high-water mark is the point of cleavage," explained Miss Rose. "Beyond that, we cannot go."

Not Attractive

Why are Hollywood necklines going up?

"I think the plunging neckline is unattractive to the average woman. Of course, some women might look attractive with no neckline at all. But on most women, the bosom is not a graceful line at all. And many of them have nothing to plunge to."

Nor is Hollywood going overboard on the raising of skirts, which apparently is the latest dictation from Paris.

"Why, I saw dresses from Paris that were 16 and 18 inches from the floor," said Miss Rose, slightly aghast. "That's going right back to 1928! In Hollywood we're going to stick to the basic 14 inches from the floor and we always have, even when Paris was down to 10 and 12 inches a couple of years ago.

"It's the manufacturers who set these arbitrary heights, so they can sell dresses. Our job is not to sell dresses, but to make movie stars look the most attractive."

Optimists Plan Toronto Talent ForHamperShow

Toronto artists will perform at the Optimists' club's third annual Christmas Hamper show, Stewart Gardner, president of the club announced today.

Well-known vocalists and radio stars Jimmy Shields and John Sturgess have informed the club that they will donate their services for the show. Donald Gordon will be the accompanist and Walter Crouter, former Peterborough radio station announcer and now with CFRB Toronto, will also be in attendance.

Negotiations are also underway for other popular radio stars. In addition to these will be the local talent which has responded to the requests of the club in the past two years.

The variety stage show will be underway at the Brock St. arena from 1:30 p.m. to 5.30 p.m. on Sunday, December 17. As usual it will be broadcast by CHEX from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Paul Reid and Del Crary, the masters of ceremony.

The price of admission will be as in previous years, at least two cans of food or its equivalent in non-perishable goods. Six telephones will be installed to receive all calls from people wishing to make cash donations. Musical requests will be answered by one of the artists participating. All monetary donations will be acknowledged over the air.

A further highlight will be the bidding on an exceptionally large Christmas cake especially made and donated by the Canada Bread Company.

Expect Capacity Crowd

Already the club has collected a pile of cartons as high as a house to receive the food tendered. Last year over two and a half tons were collected. This year it is expected the attendance will approach capacity proportions and all available cartons will be needed.

A fleet of some 20 cars is ready to assist with the collections of money donated during the program. George Groombridge, District Scout Commissioner, has uniformed Scouts ready to aid the drivers.

"I hope we don't get any phonies this year," said Mr. Gardner, referring to past trouble where wrong addresses were purposely phoned in. "Those people are infringing on the time and goodwill of sincere people contributing their efforts for the needy of our community," he added.

Distribution of the collected food and arranging for the purchase of clothing and fuel from the money donated will once again be handled by A. G. Metheral, city welfare officer, and Major C. G. Everitt, Salvation Army.

"This project is one of our city's best Christmas efforts," said Major Everitt. "The Salvation Army is happy to be participating."

"The need is greater than ever this year," added Mr. Metheral, "and I would ask all the fortunates of our city to support this cause and so help me to help others."

Drain On Gold Not Worry To U.S. Officials

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Considerable discussion has been going on about gold, including such matters as a lessening of United States holdings, and whether the price of gold may ultimately be increased.

Not much has been heard lately, however, from the United States, the country which is the biggest holder of all, and without whose consent no world decision on the precious metal is likely to be taken. It is the country which virtually sets the official price of $35 an ounce (U.S.), and which buys most of Canada's gold production.

So let us see what an American has to say about it—Sam Dawson, of The Associated Press. Says Dawson:

Gold is slipping out of the U.S. Treasury's hands at the greatest rate in history. But before you get alarmed, remember:

1. We (the U.S.) still have about three-fifths of the world's supply — some $23,000,000,000 worth. (Russia may have the second largest store, with estimates ranging from $2,000,000,000 to $17,000,000,000. But, as in most things, Russia isn't telling.)

2. Most of the nearly $1,400,000,000 of gold draining from the U.S. Treasury so far this year is still in the country, earmarked in the federal reserve banks for the use of other, and friendly, powers.

Defence Buying

3. The loss of the metal stems largely from U.S. buying for defence stock piles and from a healthier balance in world trade.

It means that other countries have been shipping goods to the U.S. instead of gold with which to pay for their purchases from the U.S., and that the U.S. has been paying in gold as well as dollars for strafegic war materials.

This year's loss of $1,400,000,000 compares with the previous record in 1944 when $1,300,000,000 in gold left the country. That, too, was a year when building up armament was the greatest American concern.

Some of the speed-up in the drain on gold since the Korean war outbreak, of course, reflects opinion in many sectors that the American defence boom will mean further inflation; that the dollar will lose more of its purchasing power and be less alluring in other countries; and that, therefore, gold will be more valuable in terms of dollars.

Hedgers against inflation have been buying the metal wherever they can. The price of gold in "free markets" has been rising.

Individuals cannot buy gold from the U.S. treasury, nor turn paper dollars into gold. But foreign governments and their central banks can, and some have been doing it. Since their gold reserves have been seriously low, the U.S. treasury has been encouraging them to rebuild their gold stocks as fast as they can. The treasury regards this gain in their reserves as a healthy thing, and not a disparagement of the dollar's worth.

Many American economists urge the U.S. treasury to return to a gold standard under which any one can exchange paper dollars for gold.

The economists national committee on monetary policy plugs constantly for making an honest woman out of the paper dollar. It says that a return to a redeemable currency would cure some of the financial ills of the country and be a stabilizing influence in a world torn since the war by currency juggling.

Official Washington holds that this is not the time to establish a free gold market at home or to restore convertibility.

Gifts Received By Institute For Cheer Boxes

HAVELOCK, Dec. 7 (ENS)—The Christmas meeting of the Havelock Women's Institute was held on Monday at the home of Mrs. Harry Pollock, when white gifts and donations of money for the Christmas cheer boxes were received in answer to the roll call. Mesdames R. Jones, W. Rice and H. Pollock were appointed a committee to pack the boxes at the home of the latter.

A communication was received from Mr. T. P. Lancaster enclosing a cheque for $24.55, the remaining funds of the Havelock-Belmont Horticultural Society which has been disbanded. The letter stated that as the Women's Institute is the only lively community organization in Havelock it was decided to turn over these funds to them, with the hope that they will be applied to the continued care of the town hall garden plot.

Mrs. G. W. Chiles gave a monologue "The Day After Christmas." Sonya Robertson and Diane Sanderson sang two duets "Rudolph" and "Away in a Manger." Mrs. B. Jewell won the contest for the best menu for a Christmas dinner and Mrs. R. Jones was the winner of the Christmas carol contest.

It was decided not to hold the draw for the quilt displayed at the district annual meeting until after the New Year.

The president, Mrs. S. Southward, presided and Mrs. Pollock was the program convener. There were 17 members and four visitors present.

Tea hour hostesses were Mesdames R. A. Melville, P. Colquhoun, A. Anderson and Mrs. Pollock.

Owing to the holiday the January meeting will not be held until January 8, and will be in the council chamber.

ICE CAUSES FLOOD—More than 3,000 persons are preparing to move back into their Calgary homes as the flood waters of the Bow River subside. An ice jam, 15 feet thick in places, in the heart of the city during the week-end forced them to flee their homes. In the centre of this photo is the Centre Street Bridge, main span in the foothills city. At one time the ice reached the lower deck of the span, forcing the re-routing of all traffic.

Chamber Organization Explained At Dinner

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7—(ENS)—Mr. T. H. Hammell, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce for Ontario, addressed a gathering of about 50 business men of Campbellford at Edgewater Park Wednesday evening. The group enjoyed a turkey dinner.

Mr. Hamell gave the pros and cons of the Chamber of Commerce, explained how to conduct and organize the group, and generally outlined what a group of this nature could do for the town.

He gave various examples of how Chamber of Commerce groups, in towns the size of Campbellford, had been boons to their communities, and said that much hard work on the part of all members was needed to put the project over, and to make it successful. At the end of Mr. Hamell's speech, an open forum was held during which the speaker answered many questions put to him by those present.

A Chamber of Commerce group was formed in Campbellford some weeks ago. A nomination meeting will be held January 17 at Edgewater Park Pavillion immediately after which a vote will be taken. This will determine officers for 1951.

Lynd Bradley, president of the Campbellford group, introduced the speaker, and thanked him for his enlightening talk. He said he felt the men present were a much wiser group after hearing the words of Mr. Hamell.

Once Of Peterborough Elected In Toronto

MILLBROOK, Dec. 7—(ENS)—A former Peterborough citizen, Percy T. Might, was elected to the Board of Education for Ward 4, Toronto.

Mr. Might retired in 1944 after 40 years as teacher and principal of Lansdowne School in Toronto.

In the first world war he served 3½ years overseas with the 18th Battalion. He is a cousin of the Misses M. E. and Estella Hetherington, of Millbrook, Mrs. Thomas Douglas, of R.R. 1, Fraserville, and of James Might and the Hetheringtons of Peterborough. His great-grandfather, George H. Hetherington, was secretary of the Council of Education for Upper Canada in the 1820's.

Commercial Sunday Sport Rejected In Hamilton

HAMILTON, Dec. 6 (CP)—For the first time in 20 years, this industrial city in 1951 will have no women on its council.

Six women candidates, including a Communist seeking the mayoralty, went down to defeat in civic elections Wednesday.

Mayor Lloyd D. Jackson returned to office with an overwhelming majority in a two-way fight with Mrs. Helen Anderson Coulson, a former controller and member of the national executive of the Labor-Progressive party.

Voters also turned down commercialized Sunday sports, the two-year term for council and two money bylaws.

Slowed by the handling of an unusually heavy vote, counting was not completed until early today. In the mayoralty race, final returns gave Mr. Jackson 49,924 votes to 8,270 for Mrs. Coulson.

No Contest

It was no contest from the outset when the vote tabulation started after polls closed at 7 p.m. The mayor's margin of victory widened as the count progressed.

Sunday sport was rejected by roughly a three-to-two margin. Thus Hamilton became the 10th of 15 municipalities to turn down the question to Ontario civic elections this year.

The money bylaws, voted on by ratepayers only, concerned a $1,750,000 civic area, and a $250,000 grant to McMaster University for a chemistry and physics building.

Voters also turned down another bylaw which would have provided for the addition of an auditorium and gymnasium to the civic arena if it was approved. Only bylaw approved by the electors was one for the widening of a traffic artery.

Seek Customer For Airline In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 7 (Reuters).—The Nationalist New Zealand government, voted into office just one year ago, has given itself 14 more months to find a customer for the National Airways Corporation set up by a Labor government five years ago.

Bids are being sought in Britain, Australia, and in New Zealand, ever though the former Labor prime minister, Peter Fraser, has served notice that his party will buy back the airline if ever it is returned to power.

Fraser and his colleagues say that defence considerations alone make it highly desirable to keep the airlines in government hands, since they would have to come under state control in wartime anyway.

But the Civil Aviation Minister, W. S. Goosman, says he is convinced that airlines operate far more efficiently under private enterprise. He also says that sale of the airline would relieve New Zealand taxpayers of losses shown by NAC.

In Red For Two Years

NAC showed small profits in its first two years but it has been in the red for the last two years for a total of about £400,000.

Budget forecasts for 1951-52 predict a small profit of about £10,000. A profit of about £150,000 is forecast for the following year.

Civil aviation experts note a parallel with Australia, where the state-owned Trans-Australia Airlines declared a profit this year of about £214,000 after losing about £900,000 during its first three development years.

They also note that both the state-owned Tasman Empire Airways and the British Commonwealth Pacific Airlines (owned jointly by Britain, Australia and New Zealand) are operating at profits this year.

(Britain's stateowned airlines generally run in the red, although record monthly profits were reported last summer.)

Originally, the Nationalist government planned to sell NAC lock, stock and barrel or in sections to one or more companies. But recently Goosman announced a compromise offer of a joint scheme, with the government retaining a 51 per cent interest.

Aviation circles are inclined to believe that the alternative plan has a better chance of finding customers.

Judge Continues Fight Against Color Scheme

LINDSAY, Dec. 7.—The color scheme of the County Court House in Lindsay has met with the disapproval of Judge J. A. McGibbon. The judge also claims that the County Bar Association does not approve of the color scheme.

Speaking to the grand jury this week Judge McGibbon stated: "As I have said before the color scheme is more appropriate to a ladies' boudoir or dressing room or even a cheap and ordinary ladies' beverage room, rather than a court of justice, as it is here, where men fight for their liberty and where disputes over individuals take place.

Judge McGibbon also claimed that he and the members of the bar had not been consulted about the redecorations.

"When we did agree on the color scheme it was cast aside and our wishes were not given any consideration whatsoever," claimed the judge.

Judge McGibbon also stated that he would place his objections before the county council.

Mayor Plans To Investigate Former Firing

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 7 (CP)—Mayor-elect Allan J. Rush said Wednesday one of his first official acts will be to try to determine why he was fired from the city police force.

The veteran of 16 years' police service was elected Monday following a campaign in which his discharge was a major issue. He takes office December 18.

As a member of the Police Commission, he said, he will see for himself the complaints filed by Police Chief Earl Knight which led to his dismissal last July.

Mayor George Wenige, defeated at the polls, said Wednesday that Rush's election was a "snowball of sympathy."

Never Made Public

The nature of the complaints against Rush never were made public. Wenige said Wednesday, however, that when Rush returned from a trip to Western Canada, the London Police Association was being canvassed regarding a job-evaluation plan.

Rush, he said, "had ideas of his own" and did not agree with the plan. Wenige said that Rush wanted to substitute his own ideas.

Rush commented: "If there were complaints, what were they? I want to see them."

He said a Police Commission by-law provides that when a complaint has been received againts a constable, the constable shall be advised of it in writing.

Ontario Co-Ops Increase Sales

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (CP) — United Co-operatives of Ontario increased sales of their central wholesale agency in 1950 by nine per cent over last year, General Manager Hugh Bailey said Wednesday.

Mr. Bailey told delegates from the province's 148 co-ops at their annual meeting here that sales for the year ended Sept. 30 were $49,319,092, more than $4,000,000 more than the previous year. Net earnings were $296,568, down slightly from the previous year because of increased depreciation costs.

Director Errol Nephew said conversion from the old United Farmers' Co-operative to the present United Co-operatives of Ontario is nearly complete. Also almost finished was construction of a new feed plant at Kemptville.

Mr. Nephew said the organization has high hopes the federal government will continue its policy of freight assistance.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture said the Canadian farmer had made great strides both nationally and internationally as a result of co-operative techniques.

Co-operative endeavor had played a large part in the international wheat agreements and in setting up international machinery for distribution of surplus agricultural production to needy nations.

Yuzwa Appeals 6-Year Sentence In Loucks Case

An appeal against a six-year sentence for manslaughter is being filed by B. J. Spencer Pitt, counsel for William Yuzwa, 33, Hamilton, convicted at his second trial last month in the fatal stabbing of Jack Loucks.

Loucks, a one-time Peterborough resident, died from a deep knife wound under the right ear. The fatal stabbing occurred in a street brawl November 18, 1949, in Lindsay.

Crown Attorney Lorne W. Jordan, Lindsay, said he was advised Wednesday that the appeal was being made on the grounds that proof of guilt was not established.

Mr. Pitt contended that if Yuzwa was guilty of manslaughter the sentence was not unreasonable, but he felt there was no proof of guilt.

At the first trial the Victoria county jury failed to agree and a second trial was necessary in November. This time Yuzwa was found not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter.

He was sentenced to six years' imprisonment, but Mr. Pitt announced at the time that he would appeal.

MEET A MASTER BUILDER, Herbert Roberts of 692 Stewart St. Although he will spend his tenth birthday ,Saturday, and Christmas in bed with rheumatic fever, he is very cheerful about it. Brothers Appeal Ruling On Going Will TORONTO, Dec. 7 (CP)—Two brothers, who decided to forego a $10,000 inheritance because it meant they would have to give up the Roman Catholic faith and become Protestants, began an appeal Wednesday against the Supreme Court ruling.

The brothers, John and Brian Bradley, 23 and 21, claimed Chief Justice J. C. McRuer erred on five points in his interpretation of the will left by their aunt, Ambia Lila Going of Peterborough. The points all deal with the brothers getting the money only by joining a Protestant church.

Their aunt died in 1937. Under terms of the will if the brothers do not fulfil the provision the bequest will be paid to the pension fund of the United Church of Canada.

The appeal is being heard by Messrs. Justices Laidlaw, Roach and Gibson.

Victim of Rheumatic Fever To Spend Christmas In Bed

Herbert Roberts of 692 Stewart St., is looking forward to the celebration of his tenth birthday on Saturday and shortly following this, Christmas, both of them will be spent in bed. Herb is not crestfallen about this unhappy situation for he also spent his last birthday and Christmas in bed. He is a victim of rheumatic fever. Being unable to go to the dining room for his meals, or take walks in his neighbourhood or play with his pals, has not dulled his zest for a normal life one whit.

There is a large radio in his bedroom that gives him popular music, hockey and fight broadcasts at the twist of the dial. And while he is listening to these, especially the music, his nimble brain and fingers are fashioning all sorts of cardboard toy models. There are planes of every description, trucks, trains and bulldozers, all made with a discerning eye to accuracy. Being a current cowboy fan of certain popular characters he has now branched out into cardboard ranch buildings. Boy-appealing pictures of radio and movie stars smile their approval from the wall above his bed. Herbert says he gets ideas for all these models from magazines, well-thumbed piles of them near his bed and beneath his pillow. For serious reading he turns to popular magazine digests and can discuss with clarity many articles that are skimmed over by grownups who possibly do not digest them half as well.

Keeps Up With Studies

You might think that such a routine would be boring to a ten-year-old boy. On the contrary, these occupations only take up his spare time for he keeps up his studies at St. Anne's School along with his buddies. His mother, Mrs. M. Roberts, says that his grades are excellent. Herb has only been able to attend school for six days during the past 14 months.

He takes the job of baby sitting in his stride. Of course the babies are brought to him. In questioning Herb about any shortage of craft building materials, the reporter found that there was a constant scramble for cardboard of the right kind. When he was asked whether he would prefer some honest-to-gosh model building sets for either his birthday or Christmas, or both, his eyes lit up in hope that he might be that fortunate. When Herb was reminded that there most surely was a Santa Claus, and the reporter was thinking of many citizens of Peterborough who might be reading this little story, there was a feeling between them that there would be quite a few craft sets finding their way by mail to brighten the long days of a small shut-in at 692 Stewart St.

NEW CITY HALL

Stone work on the walls of the new city hall building has started and soon the structure will be more than a framework of girders.

True Bills Returned

True bills were found by the grand jury for the general sessions in the cases of Glen Allen Anderson, charged with dangerous driving, and Paul Imming, charged with forgery and fraud.

Anderson's trial began today, and Imming's trial will begin December 18 at 2 p.m.

The charge against Imming arose out of the $100,000 fraud of a Toronto finance company last year.

Anderson Trial Introduces Man On Crutches

The trial of Glen Allen Anderson, 25, of McKellar St., charged with dangerous driving, began today before County Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay and a petit jury. Anderson pleaded not guilty.

Anderson was charged following an accident October 25 on Highway 28 in which Gordon Ham, 45, of Peterborough was killed.

The question of admissibility of certain evidence took up most of the court's time before it adjourned at 1 p.m.

Both crown counsel John A. Bradshaw and defence counsel T. J. Carley, KC, used three challenges in selection of the jury, which was completed by 11 a.m.

First Witness

First to testify was James Burnett, Reid St., who at the time of the accident lived on Highway 28 near the scene of the accident.

He told court that sometime during the early evening of October 25 he heard a "terrific crash" outside the house. "I ran to the scene of the crash and saw a car in the west ditch facing south, and a truck on the east half of the highway, also facing south.

"I saw a man walking away from the car. He seemed to be injured."

"Do you recognize that man in court today?" asked Mr. Bradshaw. — "No".

Burnett went on to say that this man said "I don't know what's the matter with the man in the car."

"Was there anybody else there?" asked Mr. Bradshaw. — "Yes, there was a man on crutches. I didn't speak to him. I looked at the man in the car and saw he was in critical shape and ran to the house to telephone for aid.

"The phone was not working and I got in my car and drove to Fraserville, about two miles south of where I was living then. I phoned for assistance from there. When I came back, I saw the man on crutches again."

Man On Crutches

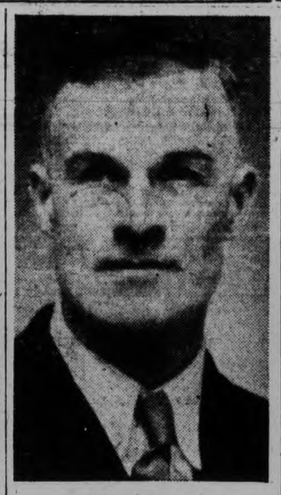
"Is your memory very vivid of this man on crutches?" asked Mr. Carley. —"No, sir."

Provincial Constable F. M. Rawlings, asked about the man on crutches, said the police tried to locate him, but could not. "We interviewed a Peterborough man about that evening, but he had been at home."

The officer testified that the two vehicles were 50 to 75 feet south of the brow of a hill. "We made a test driving north and there was a very brief period— a matter of seconds—when a southbound car would be completely out of the vision of a northbound motorist."

"Could the lights of a southbound car be seen?" asked the crown. — "Not the headlights themselves. It might have been possible to see the reflection of the lights."

Constable Rawlings testified he found an 18-inch mark on the road leading from the right front wheel of the truck across the double white lines in the centre of the road to the west side of the highway. The mark went about 10 to 12 inches onto the west side, the officer said.



JOHN McCOLL

County Demands Revenue From Forest

In an effort to get some revenue from the 4,600-acre county forest area, north of Norwood, the Peterborough county council has given the chairman, John McColl, sweeping powers.

Mr. McColl has been authorized to cut, handle and market any amount of timber he sees fit in the county forest area.

"Handle it as though the property were yours," he was instructed.

While engaged on this project Mr. McColl will receive a flat rate of $9 a day. He will be expected to hand in a report every two weeks.

Mr. McColl, who is no longer a member of the county council, said he would give it a trial.

A new caretaker, James Moore of Dummer, has been appointed at a salary of $125 a month. He succeeds Raymond Rodgers, who resigned. His appointment was effective November 1.

The failure of the forest area to yield any revenue has been a major disappointment to the council. Forestry experts have claimed that the efficient cutting and marketing of timber would more than offset the caretaker's salary and other expenses.

"I can't see any prospect of success unless we give somebody full authority to act," said Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore, before moving the appointment of Mr. McColl.

Decisions as to what and how much timber should be cut, whether it should be milled into lumber on the property or sold in log form, and the finding of a suitable market—all these decisions are for Mr. McColl to make.

Funeral At Keene

The funeral service for Garner Thompson who died last Saturday was held Monday at the family residence in Otonabee Township. Mr. J. H. Green officiated with assistance by the Rev. J. A. Campbell and the Rev. A. N. Tomlinson. Pall-bearers were: Horace Hope, John Thompson, David Procter, Ernest Thompson and Jack Thompson Burial was in Keene cemetery.

County Council Endorses Legalized Sweepstakes Supporting Welland Move

Should Canada legalize sweepstakes as a means of raising money for hospitals? Well, the Peterborough county council thinks so. After a lively few minutes of debate at the morning session today they endorsed such a resolution from Welland county by a vote of 10 to 7. Wednesday morning it passed in committee after a snap vote.

Harry Reid, reeve of Otonabee, moved the endorsation: "A lot of money is going outside the country on these sweepstakes and we might as well have the use of it."

Ernest J. Leeson promtly seconded the motion and it passed after an indefinite show of hands.

Today some of the councillors thought better of it—or learned of its passing for the first time—for there was an amendment by Reeve Melville Johnston of North Monaghan and Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood to delete that clause when it came up at the open council.

"Aren't we going to have any discussion on this?" asked Reeve W. C. Grant of Lakefield. "I'd like to know why these gentlemen (indicating Reeves Johnston and Ferguson) want the clause deleted.

Starts Discussion

Reeve Grant smiled the smile of a man who knew he had started something, and sat down.

Up jumped Reeve Ferguson. "I don't believe that money should be raised for a hospital in this way," he said. "In Peterborough we have two hospitals and they're quite a financial burden on the people; but that's no reason to start gambling."

"A prime example of Canadian hypocrisy," commented Reeve Grant. "Sweepstake tickets are sold throughout this country and yet they are under the ban. People are willing to buy a sweepstake ticket despite the fact it's illegal.

"I have a sweepstake ticket in my pocket right now," continued Reeve Grant and so have thousands of other people in this country."

Reeve Leeson said he didn't have a ticket with him but he heartily concurred in Reeve Grant's views. He too, pointed out that a great deal of money leaves the country for this purpose and it could be kept here.

Pictures In Newspapers

"Yes," agreed Warden Norman Wilson, "But the thing that gets me is that sweepstakes are supposed to be illegal and yet the winners always get their pictures and stories published on the front page of the newspapers."

"I guess some of us would like our names in headlines as sweepstake winners," interjected another councillor.

Reeve Gifford of Ennismore, said he was not condoning gambling but the whole matter should be looked on "in a reasonable light. It's human nature — people want to take a chance.

"I can't see any objection," he said.

Dick Stewart, deputy reeve of Otonabee, pointed out that service clubs do a lot of good in the community, yet many of them raise money by means "which we might call gambling."

Reeve Leeson' "Certainly, just like playing bingo."

Reeve Ferguson: "Surely we don't want the Dominion government to be a gambling system."

"Let's be consistent, that's all I say," said Reeve Grant. "Some types of gambling are condoned and others not. Quite often the Crown is a partner in the crime."

He cited the case of Oshawa when Attorney-General Gordon Conant represented that city in the legislature. "He didn't try to clean up Oshawa," said Mr. Grant, "he went to Toronto."

The amendment was defeated with the following voting against the gambling resolution: Reeve Ross Harrison and Deputy Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith; Reeve James Humphries, Asphodel; Reeve Rork Ferguson, Norwood; Reeve Melville Johnston, North Monaghan; and Reeve Clive Hoard, Chandos.

The brief debate sparked a dull morning session and the council adjourned for lunch with everybody in high spirits.

Reported Driving Without Lights

Laurence Young, Young's Point, was charged in police court today with careless driving and having inadequate brakes following an accident on Water St. north of Parkhill Rd.

The case was adjourned to Dec. 14 after he pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Police reported that his car met in collision with a car being driven south by George McClennan, 438 Mark St. McClennan told police two cars were travelling north on Water St., one pushing the other. He said Young, driving in the same direction, tried to pass them. He also said Young was driving without the headlights on.

Police found that a large blanket covered the left front window of the Young car. The rear left fender of the McClennan car was crumpled and torn and the rear bumper bent. The front left fender of the Young car was dented.

Traffic Officer Claire McGillen and Constable Donald Jones investigated.

Believed Murdered Flyer Now In Canada

A former Peterborough pilot, FO J Bernard (Bunny) Armstrong is puzzled by reports from Villeneuve-Sur-Lot, in France, where Sheraphin Vanwamback is serving a 20-year sentence for having murdered Armstrong during action in the Second World War.

Armstrong said he has sent an affidavit to RCAF headquarters saying the charges were untrue. He was told by them that they had been informed that Vanwamback faced a lengthy list of other charges.

Joined Maquis

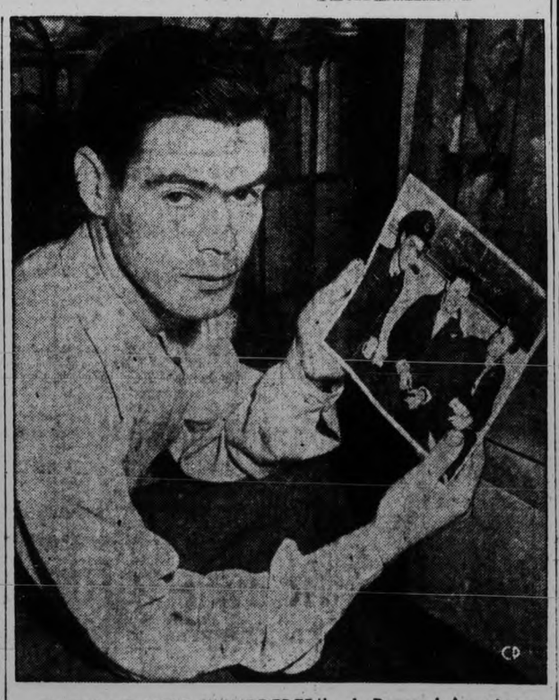
Crashing in his aircraft near Eceuilly, France, on a May night in 1943, on his 30th flight mission, Armstrong recalls being rescued by a peasant (Vanwamback) who revived him and arranged for him to join the French Maquis. In letters to his wife, who lived on Dennistoun Avenue during the war, Armstrong wrote of his life with the French underground.

"Our job consisted principally of sabotaging German supply lines. We would go out in small groups at night and hide in the bushes along side roads over which German convoys travelled. When the Hun came along, we would toss a few hand grenades and blaze away with our guns and fade away into the darkness."

After D-Day Mr. Armstrong was moved to Belgium where he was put in touch with the Patriots and of these experiences he wrote of mixing with German soldiers in local pubs. "They hadn't much on the ball, mentally," he said, "but we had a healthy respect for the Gestapo, SS Boys and Hitler Youth, all fanatics."

On his return home to Peterborough, where he worked for Ed Riley's store before joining up, he was given a lusty welcome. Aldermen James Dutton and Roland Glover were on hand on behalf of the city at his home to offer congratulations on his safe return.

"I still can't figure out how Vanwamback can be accused of murdering me," said he on Wednesday during a press interview in Toronto.



SEEKS TO HELP "MURDERER"—J. Bernard Armstrong of Toronto, former RCAF navigator, is baffled at reports that a Belgian farmhand is serving a 20-year sentence for murdering him. Armstrong says he was sheltered and well treated by Seraphin Van Wambach after being the sole survivor of a Pathfinder bomber which crashed near Eceuilly in Northern France in May, 1944. Armstrong, shown with a photo of himself and two fellow crew members, has promised in letters to Van Wambach to help him as much as possible in an attempt to gain a new trial.

May Ask Ford, General Motors Cut Car Prices

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—There were hints Wednesday that the Economic Stabilization Agency will ask Ford and General Motors to rescind the automobile price increases they announced Tuesday night.

ESA gave no direct confirmation, but a government official said such a request would be "a logical step" since Congress directed that ESA discourage price boosts by voluntary or other means.

Any ESA request for the two companies to drop the increases would carry no compulsion of law. G.M. and Ford could disregard it if they desired.

General Motors announced increases of "something less than five per cent" would be posted Saturday when the 1951 Chevrolet reaches the market.

Ford announced an increase of $87.50 on lowest priced Ford models and correspondingly larger increases on other cars it produces.

An ESA spokesman said no contact had been made with either company yet.

Cobalt's Silver Again Magnet For Boom Town

By BOB VEZINA
North Bay Nugget Staff Reporter

COBALT, Dec. 7 — (CP) — The piano battled for recognition against the raucous chorus:

For we'll sing a little song of Cobalt,
If you don't live there it's your fault,
Oh you Cobalt, where the winter breezes blow,
Where all the silver comes from,
And you live a life and then some,
Oh you Cobalt, you're the best old town I know.

Some of "the boys" attending the recent excursion here of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy were whooping it up. They had spent the day looking over mining properties in the area. They liked what they saw.

To the Cobalt die-hards present, the song being murdered so lustily meant much more than a moment of many to be regretted next morning.

Cobalt was truly back on the map.

New Town Born

In this winter of 1950, some 47 years after its predecessor, a new Cobalt is being born. Beneath a clinging shroud of barren rock and dantesque architecture, it is pulsing again with a rhythm at least related to the surge it exhibited earlier in the century. Not that the resurrection is complete, nor adolescence too stoutly forecast. But there is a growing feeling of well-being, of positive progress and prosperity in this one-time leviathan of the mining world.

The story of Cobalt, garnished and garbled by the years, amounts to near legend. The introduction is hazy, but the main trend of the first chapter has it that Fred LaRose, blacksmith with the then a-building Ontario Northland Railway, picked up a pinkish chunk of rock along the right-of-way near what is now the north shore of Cobalt Lake. That spring of 1903, two bush workers, McKinley and Darragh, had located silver ore while removing stumps. But LaRose was the first to record a claim, although McKinley and Darragh later made a fortune from their find.

Futher investigation led to the discovery of silver and a mining camp that produced $300,000,000 in bullion and paid $100,000,000 in dividends.

In Six Square Miles

And this from an area of six square miles. The Cobalt of old did more than swing in a silver-lined cradle. It sparked the wealth that is the Porcupine Kirkland Lake, Noranda, Red Lake, Flin Flon, Yellowknife and Eldorado; introduced cyanidation flotation, and a multitude of new industrial and financial techniques; raised geology from a guessing game to a science.

And when it reached old age in the late 1920s and gave up the ghost in the '30s, it was buried with the profound eulogy: "The cradle of Canadian mining."

But that was the Cobalt of old, and the geologists and miners of today sidetrack it (during business hours) and refer to the present as "our second phase."

The phase today features six producing mines in the Cobalt vicinity. Two of these mines, the Silver Miller and the Cobalt Lode Silver, are perhaps blasting their way to the pinnacle once enjoyed by properties such as the Nipissing, the Mining Corporation and the O'Brien.

Cross Lake Lease—only mine in the camp which has remained open continually through good days and bad—is forging ahead in its quiet way, together with the Mensilvo, Temiskaming-Beaver and Shag Silver.

Among the properties being explored or readied for production are the Silver Banner, the Mayfair, the Penn-Cobalt, Harrison-Hibbert, Christopher, South Giroux, Brady Cross Lake and LaRose (Silver Miller.)

On Nov. 18 Cobalt Lode officially opened a mill, at nearby Mileage 104, with a potential capacity of 100 tons of ore a day. The Silver Miller has been operating a 50-ton mill since October, 1949. The Colonial (Silanco) mill has been in operation since the 1940s, and the Mensilvo has a small milling unit.

Different Levels

In 1904, Dr. Willet G. Miller, provincial geologist, pronounced that ore in Cobalt camp would be found relatively close to the upper and lower contacts of the interlying diabase formation. This summation has been questioned but never proven incorrect. Until a few years ago, 90 per cent of the silver found in the camp came from the lower contact, while all the silver taken out of adjoining camps came from the upper contact.

But the Silver Miller and Cobalt Lode are Upper contact mines, not lower. Geologists argue that the possibility is not unfounded that as much silver as came from the lower contact may come from the upper section. This is the hope of Cobalt.

In the growing transition, Cobalt has changed little. Outwardly it is largely the ramshackle community which depression and its somnolence brewed. Inwardly there are the never-ending memories of "the old days" and the cautious belief that the camp is far from finished.

Gone are the gay theatres; the hockey teams that prompted fabulous bets; the carefree attitude of living only for the moment. Gone are the multitudes from the world's nations who once thronged the camp; the rain of wealth that seemingly would never end; and the immensely rich mines which signalled the rise of the Canadian mining industry.

Licencing Of Professions Said Live Issue In Alberta

A storm is brewing over the provincial government's announced intention that it will take over from various professions the authority for licencing practitioners in those professions, relates the Calgary Albertan.

In common law there is nothing to bar any person from practicing law or medicine or dentistry or engineering or any other profession. In the absence of any statutory prohibition, John Doe, no matter how unqualified, might set himself up as a lawyer or a doctor or both, and the public would be free to patronize him. Such a state of affairs would be the ultimate in freedom of enterprise.

Licencing Approved

But the public has taken the view that for its own protection, only qualified persons could be permitted in the professions. In selecting a doctor, the citizen should not have to enquire into his minimum qualifications. The citizen should be able to assume that any doctor has had at least a substantial measure of professional training. Legislatures have agreed, therefore that the professions should not be wide open, that all practitioners must be licenced, and that only those qualified be given licences.

So far there is no dispute.

But what the legislatures in all provinces have done is this: They have given those already in the profession, through their professional associtions, the authority to issue licences. No person can become a doctor or lawyer or dentist or naturopath or chiropractor without the permission of those already in that profession. The legislatures have delegated their authority, we must remember. The professions, by themselves, have no right or power to keep out anyone. Their only right and only power is given to them by the Alberta Legislature, in this case.

So what the legislature has given it can surely take away.

Moral Aspect

Now what about the moral aspect? Assuming that unqualified persons have no right to enter the professions (which the pure free enterprise advocate would not do) have the professions any right to exclude the qualified persons? It is not a question of whether they should have the right to do so. It boils down to whether the closed shop is right or wrong.

However justified the closed shop may be on economic or political grounds, we fail to see that it has any moral foundation, either in industry or the professions. It is a form of combine or monopoly that restricts the right of the individual to earn his living in any fashion he sees fit, so long as it is not anti-social, and that is fundamentally wrong. It is wrong for business, wrong for the professions, wrong for labor.

And if politically it is made illegal for the professions, then we don't know why it shouldn't be just as illegal for business or labor. Going at it the other way, if the closed shop is permissible for labor, it should also be permissible for the professions. Any doctor or lawyer who wants it for himself should also grant it for the tradesman.

Public Interest

What are the practical considerations? What would be the best for the public in this matter of professional licencing?

The public's concern is in getting more and cheaper doctors and lawyers, with no sacrifice of quality. The cities have many more doctors per capita than the rural districts, yet it's almost impossible to get an appointment with a Calgary doctor in less than two or three days, and with dentists it takes a couple of weeks. And although it can be argued there are too many lawyers already for the country's good, just try to get through to one who has any time to listen to you. Similarly with most of the other professions.

What is the reason for the shortage? It is rumored that the accountants deliberately restrict the number of persons in their profession, but we don't believe it. As for the other professions, we have never heard even a rumor that those already in set a quota on new applicants, although it is popular understanding that some of them make it unnecessarily difficult for qualified persons to come in from other districts or countries. The Canadian medical profession for instance, has frequently been charged with excluding some European refugee doctors on rather arbitrary grounds.

The Alberta association disputes that. It contends that since 1946 it has turned down only five application, and those on moral grounds, such as alcoholism.

Surely that is a good enough record. The shortage of doctors cannot be blamed on the profession and licencing by the government instead of by the profession would not have made for any more doctors.

So take my tip—get Horlick's from your druggist and serve it regularly.

I Feel just a little guilty when I'm given all the credit for my JELL-O PUDDING desserts. Because, though they look so magnificent, they're wonderfully easy to make—and it's impossible to make them anything but delicious! Those tempting Jell-O Pudding flavors—m-mmm! . . . Chocolate, Butterscotch, Caramel and Vanilla . . . and the Tapioca Trio—Chocolate, Orange Coconut and Vanilla. And there are a "thousand-and-one" wonderful ways to serve economical Jell-O Puddings. Butterscotch Tarts, for instance—they couldn't be simpler to make . . . Simply prepare Jell-O Butterscotch Pudding according to package directions. When cold, fold in ¼ cup cream (whipped)—¼ cup chopped pecans—and chill in baked tart shells. It's an "Encore" dessert if ever I've seen one!

You'll Have Lots More Time Outside Your Kitchen—time to spend on Christmas shopping—when you let the Heinz "Chef" take over! It's so simple to prepare m-mmm!—wonderfully tasty meals in a matter of minutes. Just be a little beforehand in your buying . . . stock up on these 7* HEINZ MAIN COURSE MEALS . . . four favourite kinds of Beans, all oven-baked—two kinds of Cooked Spaghetti, and Heinz Cooked Macaroni in Cream Sauce with Cheese. These "Scrumptious Seven" leave you without a cooking worry in the world. You can be sure of no "rush" . . . and sure, too, of the family's delight when you serve any one of these tasty Heinz varieties. You know they're good because they're Heinz! You'll find they're easy on your budget, too!

* Heinz will shortly introduce Cooked Macaroni in Tomato Sauce with Cheese.

Tea Time Is A Happy Time, at any time of day! There's nothing like a good cup of tea to cheer me up—and the best tea I've tasted is BLUE RIBBON TEA! It's made of tender, young tea leaves, picked at the peak of their quality—then blended to flavour perfection by the Blue Ribbon tea blenders. Yes, Blue Ribbon Tea gives you true quality—and at so little cost! Ask for Blue Ribbon Tea—by half pound or pound—or in the convenient two-cup size tea bags, especially designed to give you full flavour.

What's Your Husband Looking So Pleased About? It's that hot, crusty Corn Bread that tickles his taste and delights his appetite. He's so busy gobbling it up that he hasn't time to ask you how you made it. But the secret is simple . . . the recipe's right on the package of QUAKER CORN MEAL. And since your Corn Bread is such a huge husband-success, why not try the other recipes on the same package, too? There's a wonderful one for Hasty Pudding — and one for Golden Corn Muffins that fairly melt in your mouth. Yes, Quaker Corn Meal gives all your cooking a delightful, special flavour. And it's better than bread or cracker crumbs for breading oysters, fish or cutlets.

Parents Guilty Of Neglect-Jury

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 7 (CP) — A coroner's jury decided here Wednesday that Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hietella of nearby Garden River were guilty of ignorance and neglect in the Oct. 4 death of their 10-week-old daughter, Susan.

A police pathologist's report said the child died of influenza-pneumonia and malnutrition. Mrs. Hietella said a doctor had not seen the child since it was born and she hadn't known it was sick although the baby threw up most of what she ate.

Mrs. Hietella said she had told another woman to call a doctor the morning the child died but police said this had never been done. Two other children in the Hietella family were said to be healthy and intelligently raised. The Hietellas lost another child after an attack of pneumonia in 1948.

TAPESTRY FOR CANADA—Prime Minister St. Laurent beams his thanks for the huge tapestry France has presented to Canada. The magnificent piece of work, partly shown in the background, depicts the 900 square mile area to be turned into a National Capital District, as planned by France's Jacques Greber. The Prime Minister holds the painting from which the 8x10-foot tapestry was patterned. Mr. Greber, centre, attended the ceremony during which the French Ambassador, Hubert Guerin, right, made the presentation.

Takes Advantage Of New Scheme

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 (CP) — Silvio Galli, 18, of Ayrshire, Scotland, arrived here Wednesday by air to become the first Briton to take advantage of the Canadian government's new plan for assisted air immigration.

Planning to work for three weeks or so in Montreal and then head for Niagara Falls, Ont., Silvio is Scottish born but spent most of his life in Italy.

The immigration scheme was announced in Ottawa last Friday. Silvio said he managed to take advantage of the scheme so quickly by having everything ready before the plan was even announced.

"I've always been very keen on Canada and thinking of immigrating to your country for months. . .," he said, adding that he had his permit papers, all the proper forms filled out and had had his medical examination.

Hit It Right

"Just this past Monday, I walked over to Prestwick and found out that this new plan was in force. The very next day I was on an aircraft taking off from Prestwick itself."

Under the new scheme immigrants to Canada can travel on westbound flights of the government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines leaving from the United Kingdom at a cost "not exceeding $160."

Silvio says he has selected Niagara Falls because he likes the sound of the city's name. He has never been to Canada before.

"I'll wait and work in Montreal until a mate of mine from Ayr arrives—he expects to immigrate in a few weeks—and then we'll go to Niagara Falls."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel — And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 35¢ at any drugstore.

Has Long Audience

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Reuters) — Herbert Morrison, deputizing for Clement Attlee at the prime minister's routine weekly visit to the King, has an unusually-long audience at Buckingham Palace Wednesday night. The Korean war and Attlee's visit to Washington for talks with President Truman were thought to have been the main items of discussion.

Vote To Strike

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (CP) — Members of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union (AFL) voted Wednesday to go on strike in their wage dispute with nine Toronto shoe plants. They set 3 p.m. Dec. 14 as the deadline. The union is asking wage boosts of 10 cents an hour for its 500 workers.

A Record Vote

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (CP) — A record number of eligible voters cast ballots in Toronto's civic election Monday. City Clerk George Wealve said 47.79 per cent of some 378,500 eligible voters turned out. Previous record of 46.55 per cent was set last year, when Sunday sport was the burning issue.

Reserves Decision

ST. CATHARINES Dec. 7 (CP) —Defence Counsel Frank Keenan declared Wednesday that if a man is so drunk he is unconscious he cannot be said to be in control of a car. He was defending Marvin Savage of St. Catharines on a charge of having care and control of an automobile while intoxicated. Magistrate Harley O. Hallett reserved decision until Dec. 12.

Recalled To Duty

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—The United States Air Force disclosed Wednesday that 29 commercial airliners, dropped from the Pacific airlift in September, have been recalled to duty to handle the increased needs for Korea.

Medical Training Too Costly Says Sidney Smith

WINDSOR, Dec. 7 (CP)—The high cost of medical education is one reason for the shortage of doctors in rural areas, President Sidney Smith of the University of Toronto told the Essex County Medical Association here Wednesday night.

But for the economic factor, more gifted boys from the country would study medicine and return home to practise, he said.

"The hospitals and Canada need the alert minds, the firm muscles and the capacity for hard work so frequently found in farm boys."

Since 1940, medical tuition fees had increased from $300 to $450 but the actual yearly cost of training a medical student at the University of Toronto had jumped from $800 to $1,400. Comparable costs in the United States ranged from $735 to a peak of $9,500 in one leading school.

"If universities were to pay full time salaries to medical teachers, the figures would be increased many fold," the president continued. ". . . outstanding practitioners teach in medical schools for a yearly amount that cannot even be dignified by the designation of honorarium."

CREWMEN of the USS Baedong Strait, operating off North Korea, have a problem similar to that faced by millions of Americans at home recently: to clear a path through the ice and snow in order to get to work. An icy storm out of Manchuria coated the flight deck of the carrier. But soon after this picture was made, Marine Corsair fighters took off to resume their attacks against the Communists in Korea.

Health Grants Nearly $95,000,000 In Two Years

OTTAWA, Dec. 7 — (CP) — The federal government has made available approximately $96,000,000 in health grants to the provinces during the last 2½ years.

The figure was contained in a brief prepared for the federal-provincial conference on fiscal and social security matters.

The brief, made public after a committee of federal and provincial delegates began a study of improved old-age pensions programs, said of that amount about $48,000,000 has been spent or committed. Lack of materials and of trained staffs was limiting the amount that could be spent.

The national health program, inaugurated in 1948, envisions the provision of $165,000,000 during a five-year period to assist the provinces in their planning for increasing hospital accommodation and expanding health activities.

The brief said that the grants allotted so far have helped to increase the number of hospital beds by about 25,000.

Other amounts were spent on health surveys, improvement of the general public health, tuberculosis control, mental health treatment, venereal disease control, treatment of crippled children, professional training, public health research and cancer control.

Research on cancer now is going on in all provinces. The provinces also are working on ways to reduce mental-health cases and on research in the mental-health field. Significant advances have been made in the fight against tuberculosis. The death rate decreased from 43.4 per 100,000 in 1947 to 30.4 in 1949 and may reach a lower figure this year.

Before federal grants were available, said the brief, the use of streptomycin was reserved for the most urgent tubercular cases and in many instances it was not provided free.

Now it is made available to all patients who might benefit. Several provinces attributed the decrease in the tuberoulosis death rate during 1949 directly to the use of the drug.

Deaths in Ontario, for instance, dropped from 646 in 1947 to 384 in 1949, a decrease of 41 per cent despite a 10-per-cent increase in the average daily number of patients treated and despite little change in the percentage of far-advanced cases admitted for treatment.

Pilot Not To Blame For Accident—Court

TORONTO, Dec. 7 — (CP). — When a seaplane is starting to take off the pilot is temporarily blinded and not responsible for an accident with a motorboat, the Ontario Court of Appeal ruled Wednesday.

The court granted an appeal by Georgian Bay Airways Ltd. against a decision by Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow that operators of a seaplane and motor launch—which collided July 5, 1949, in Parry Sound Harbor— were equally at fault.

Harry T. Tilley, owner of the motor launch, had sued for $5,000 damages. At the trial last September damages of $598 were awarded, Mr. Tilley receiving a net of $69.

FLOOD VICTIM—Tom O'Neil uses an axe to chop his car out of the ice formed during Calgary's flood. The car was caught in a torrent of water which swept through part of the city when an ice jam forced Bow River waters over the banks. Thousands were made homeless during freezing winter weather.

Women Artists Say Ava Gardner's Face Has Potential Explosiveness Of A-Bomb

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 — (AP)—The National Association of Women Artists Wednesday announced its selection of the "10 most stimulating faces in America" with a reminder that beauty had little to do with the matter.

The association listed these people and gave these reasons for their selection:

George Marshall, Secretary of Defence, confidence. Quiet strength in his face.

Ava Gardner, actress, desire. Her face has the potential explosiveness of the H-bomb.

Alben Barkley, US Vice-President, affection. Typical jolly grandpa.

Arturo Toscanini, conductor, awe. Outstanding characteristics of face are controlled power and sensitivity.

Rosemary Clooney, singer, brotherly affection. Typical kid sister face.

Yogi Berra, Yankee baseball catcher, women's sub-conscious yearning for the neanderthal man (cave man). Has the most down-to-earth face in the US.

Perle Mesta, minister of Luxembourg, curiosity. Indecipherable social mask of hostess-diplomat.

Ernest Hemingway, author, masculinity. A face that proclaims "I've hair on my chest."

Dan Seymour, radio-TV artist, friendliness. Sincere and relaxed face.

Lauren Bacall, actress, excitement. Bold and venturesome face.

Uncle Suing Niece For Money

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 7 (CP)—Two London relations of a 75-year-old Detroit man admitted in Supreme Court here Wednesday they accepted signed blank cheques from their uncle when he thought he was dying, and used them to withdraw all his money—more than $2,300—from the bank.

But they denied their uncle's claim that he gave them the cheques to finance his funeral.

The pair, Mrs. Edith Childs and Albert Templar, both of London are niece and nephew of Walter Hull, Detroit.

Hull is suing his niece, Mrs. Childs, for recovery of her half-share of his savings which he claims she obtained fraudulently.

He is also suing his banker, the Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation, for breach of trust and giving assistance to the fraud by divulging details of his account.

Templar was not included in the action since he subsequently returned his half-share of the money to his uncle.

Evidence in the case was completed Wednesday. The case will continue with argument by counsel.

Trio To Stand Trial In Smuggling Plot

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 7 — (CP). — Albert and George Hambly of Toronto and John Cruise of Fort Erie Wednesday night were committed for trial on a joint charge of conspiracy to smuggle goods into Canada, and possession of goods unlawfully imported into the country.

The Hambly brothers, operators of the Dominion Novelties Co. pleaded innocent. Cruise reserved his plea.

Crown Prosecutor F. W. Griffiths estimated $16,000 worth of goods were brought over the Niagara River in a boat from Grand Island to the Canadian shore.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Making Use of Friends Especially When Travelling

Up until this morning modesty forbade me from sharing my friend Garny with you very liberally. We two are the only members of the MAS—a society for mutual admiration.

The time has arrived when I cannot restrain myself longer. Her agile brain combined fun, efficiency and necessity to suit six people who were taking off in all directions and pursuits — and pleased them all. She pleased them and me to such a nicety, that she rates more than this written tribute.

I was leaving for home on a train stopping at South Bend, forty miles south of their town, at 11:40 a.m. Standard Time (12:40 p.m. Garney's time). They have dear friends in this train town but they operate on Standard Time, same as trains, but are later rise—especially on Sunday. (These times are important so bear with me.)

Good hostess that she is Garny was determined that I was not going to leave her hungry. Her beloved husband believes firmly in eating on or ahead of time. So what was lunch time for him was breakfast time for our potential hosts.

✧ ✧ ✧

SOLUTION: Phone the South Bend folks and invite ourselves for a shared meal with them. Frank answered and when asked what they were doing Sunday morning he said, "Nothing, so far." "Well, Mary's leaving on the 11:40 a.m. and I wondered if you could eat pheasant for breakfast?" "I've never eaten pheasant for breakfast but am willing to try." (This gentleman is a doctor by profession but a gambler at heart. As you know the temperature plummeted from 50 above to 17 below zero in that Chicago area in less than 48 hours. So he said, "Pheasant will be tame. I've swallowed two gallons of anti-freeze already to keep from freezing up on my calls."

That's all Garny needed to know before starting to issue instructions for and aft:

"Quick take the three pheasants out of the deep freeze to thaw, Jack. Haul out the Nesco, Dora Jean. Order some ice cream at the drug store Mary. Joe you put the chains in the trunk."—and so on.

In her rapid calculations she allowed one and one-half hour to make the drive on the icy roads, which normally requires one hour, so we had to leave home at 10 a.m. DST.

She hit the kitchen at 7 a.m. to turn on the Nesco roaster which was filled with (1) three pheasants we had stuffed the night before,—one with wild rice stuffing, the other two with oyster stuffing (see oyster stuffing below) and (2) scalloped potatoes and (3) winter succotash.

These started to cook by 7:30 a.m. and were done to perfection by 10 a.m., when the portable oven was unplugged and carried to the trunk of the car as it was and covered with a heavy rug. (A Nesco is a large portable electric roaster large enough for a turkey and a great convenience when you need your stove oven for baking and roasting other foods—especially when you are having a dinner party.)

Meanwhile an uncooked pastry shell had been filled with home-canned blueberries made into a filling—and was baking in the stove.

We were 10 minutes late leaving, for Joe—a doctor too— had been delayed by an extra call made between breakfast and taking-off-time.

We were a bit behind schedule arriving at our erstwhile hosts' home, but because Frank and Virginia had done their part so efficiently, before Frank had our coats hung up Joe was carving the pheasant on a beautiful silver platter in a grey and rose dining room worthy of a cover on "The House Beautiful."

My last bite of blueberry pie with ice cream was followed down by some salted cashews while I pulled on my snow boots.

We still had seven minutes to spare when the six of us hit the station. So Dora Jean took our picture. I hope the lipstick smears from all-round good-byes do not show up in them.

✧ ✧ ✧

Oyster Stuffing for Your Chirstmas Bird

The oyster stuffing made for the pheasants was so delicious that I am recommending its use for your Christmas bird.

The following amounts are twice as much as I made for two medium-sized pheasants.

One and one-half loaves sliced white bread pulled into crumbs by hand (I did not use the crusts), 2 well-packed teaspoons fresh crumbled sage, 16 oysters simmered in their liquor one minute until edges curl (add oyster liquor too), ½ cup melted butter, ½ teaspoon MGS (otherwise known as monosodium glutamate or "Accent"), 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ clove garlic finely chopped. Mix together with fork but do not pack tightly into the bird.

✧ ✧ ✧

When I feebly tried to thank Garny for their overflowing hospitality she said, "Didn't you know? That's what friends are for."

"I feel sorry for Nye, having to share this new house with so many of us."

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Stuffed Acorn Squash Attractive Vegetable Treat

Have you been keeping up with the twenty-four cookbook series that is being made available to readers of this newspaper a book-a-week? These are beautifully illustrated cookbooks, each one covering a separate subject of cooking, with concise instructions, accurate recipes, and imaginative serving suggestions. This week's release, the "Meals for Two Cookbook," is the twenty-first title, and like its predecessors, it is full of mouthwatering ideas that are easy to follow for the novice but equally attractive to the experienced cook who needs to freshen up her fund of ideas for small scale cooking.

Here is a recipe from Meals for Two which could certainly be prepared in greater quantity, but it is a nice way to dress up a vegetable serving when planning an intimate dinner for two, or to make dinner seem attractive when the kids are all away and there is just friend husband left to cook for:

Stuffed Acorn Squash

1 baked acorn squash; 1 tablespoon chopped onion; 1 tablespoon fat; 3 tablespoons soft bread crumbs; 2 tablespoons water; 1 egg; ¼ tablespoon salt; dash of pepper; 2 tablespoons dry bread crumbs; 1 tablespoon butter.

Remove squash from shells and mash. Brown onion in fat, soak soft crumbs in water, mash and add to onion. Add squash and cook about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in egg. Add salt and pepper, place mixture in squash shells, sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 20 minutes or until browned.

Lima Bean

Omit soft bread crumbs. Increase chopped onion to 2 tablespoons. Use ¼ cup cooked Lima beans instead of dry crumbs; then dot with butter and bake.

All you need do to obtain Meals for Two or any of the earlier titles in the series is clip a Cookbook Coupon from any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c (one coupon and 25c for each copy desired) to the Examiner office, or from your carrier, or at Braund's Home Food Markets, or at the Dominion Stores Master Market. Copies may also be obtained by mail by sending the coupons and 30c for each cookbook (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough.

Hamilton, honorary president, who was unavoidably absent, sent best wishes and appreciation of the choir's contribution to the church.

Chemong Ladies On Eighth Year As Presidents

One of the largest attended joint meetings of Bridgenorth WA and WMS was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Johnson. About 45 members and friends took part in the special candle-lighted Christmas program prepared by Mrs. G. Ray Sr.

Singing of Christmas carols by the group and choir singing by five members of the CGIT provided the main part of the program. Mrs. Ray, as leader, gave a reading on "How High is God's Love?" The question was answered by readings on the five symbols of Christmas—joy, peace, love, hope and light—given by Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. Mary Nicholls, Mrs. D. McKay, Mrs. Earl Nicholls and Mrs. W. Crookshanks. Ten-year-old Winona McKay sang a solo, "Away in a Manger," followed by a trio of girls, Donna Doughty, Sheila Mason and Alice McKay, singing "We Three Kings."

Miss Olive Sidey read the story on "The Other Wise Man." Another reading, "The Christmas Offering," was given by Mrs. K. Hardill. Scripture texts were taken from the second chapter of St. Luke and read by Mrs. W. Telford and Mrs. W. Robinson.

During the business period, Mrs. C. Payne presided for the WA and Mrs. J. Johnson for the WMS. Mrs. Payne read a Christmas message to all associate members. The visiting committee reported three calls made. January meeting of the WA will be held the second Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Pettersone, and the WMS meeting will be held the third Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. Telford.

The Rev. D. P. Morris officially installed the new executives for the coming year, with Mrs. E. Whitehill, president for the WA, and Mrs. J. Johnson, president for the WMS for the eighth consecutive year. He expressed a vote of thanks to all the executive who had worked during the past year.

A sincere vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. W. Telford, retiring treasurer, who has held the post for the past 15 years and thanks were also extended to Mrs. C. Payne, retiring president for her leadership in the past year.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Smith and Mrs. P. Pettersone and committee.

Alumnae Honored When Entertained In New Residence

The honor of being the first group entertained in the beautiful new reception room at the Civic Hospital very fittingly came to the Civic Hospital Alumnae members Wednesday evening when they were guests of Miss A. L. Thomson, principal of the School of Nursing, for a Christmas party.

Furnishings in this room are particularly lovely and were purchased with a legacy of $5,000 left to the hospital by a woman benefactor.

After being received the members were conducted to a class room where the large windows are now decorated with a huge Santa and his sleigh and reindeer flying over the housetops, painted by one of the student nurses. This decoration is also effectively viewed from the entrance drive when lighted.

Mrs. C. S. Thompson told the Christmas story in a story entitled "The tranquil beasts." Mrs. W. G. McLaren gave a reading in keeping, "One of the wise men" and also a comic recitation "The burglar."

Miss Mae Renwick played accompaniment for carol singing. A treasure trail contest was conducted by Miss M. Pickens, Mrs. E. Roberts and Mrs. T. Wilcox.

Santa, impersonated by Mrs. J. W. Thornton distributed lovely gifts from the decorated tree.

Members were pleased to have with them two of the eldest members in the Alumnae, Miss Fanny Dixon and Miss Margaret Ferguson.

Miss Thomson and her staff served a bounteous lunch and an expression of the members' appreciation was voiced by Mrs. W. E. Conway.

Haddow with prayers for home and foreign missions offered by herself and Mrs. E. Smith. Mrs. H. H. Graham reported on the semi-annual missionary conferences in Toronto.

Little Dorothy Wells entertained with a delightful Christmas song, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Horace Wells. Miss Eastwood gave a short talk on the carols.

The social period was arranged by the W.A. with Mrs. Orville Rome in charge.

Herbert Jamison won the tender sweet ham donated by Canada Packers Ltd. and the electric kettle donated by Charles Kingan was won by Mrs. Charles Clarke.

St. Luke's Program Portrays "Family Party"

A large crowd on Wednesday evening enjoyed St. Luke's "Family Party" put on by the Church Year December group.

The platform setting was a homey living room on Christmas eve where the rector, the Rev. W. J. Gilling and Mrs. Gilling portrayed a father and mother, and Michael Tunnicliffe and Eleanor Watson their adopted children. Visitors to the home, each group representing a church organization, made up the very pleasing program.

Beginning was with Eleanor playing favorite Christmas carols and Michael singing them. First guests were the Cubs, under direction of Wm. King and they demonstrated their work. Scouts, directed by Danny Barkley, later demonstrated their particular work.

Mrs. Gilling made a contribution, reciting "Albert and the Lion" in a Yorkshire dialect. Mr. Fred Dainton, representing the Breakfast Club gave a Christmas reading. A film called "Fun for a Day" was shown by Mr. Roland Krant.

G.A. girls did a tumbling act and drills, directed by Mrs. G. White. Evening Branch of the WA presented Mrs. S. Pammett in two solos and a group of members sang two Christmas numbers. A Christmas reading was given by Mrs. E. J. MacDonald of Afternoon Branch.

For the Church Year Misses Pamela and Nicki Humphries sang a duet "Silver Bells," accompanied by Mr. Morley Coon. The AYPA put on a "shade show" of an operation being performed at the hospital.

Refreshments were served in the lower hall with Mrs. L. Lipsett and assistants in charge.

Knox Auxiliaries Sending Clothes For Greek Babies

Helen Roger Evening Auxiliary of Knox United Church met Monday in the church parlors. Christmas tree lights and decorations on the mantel and around the room made a bright setting.

Two large piles of baby clothes and supplies were displayed on a table at the back of the room. These were contributed by members of the Baby Band and the auxiliary and will be sent to Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova for distribution to needy mothers in Greece and other European countries.

President Mrs. Harold Murduff presided for the meeting. Letters from Miss Annie Crocker, one of the honorary presidents, now living in Fort Erie, were read.

Plans were made for the next meeting and a committee composed of Miss Phyllis Kidd, Miss Mary Morton and Mrs. J. T. Donaldson was appointed to look after a memorial service for the WMS Presbyterial meeting in January at George St. United Church.

Mrs. C. Ross read an article on Christian citizenship. Mrs. H. Todd led the worship service, theme of which was "Christmas." Mrs. Ross Williamson sang a Christmas carol and Mrs. J. T. Donaldson read a story, "The Birthday."

Mrs. H. Clegg presided for election of officers and Miss Mary Morton read the report of the nominating committee. Nominations were made for two vacant offices and a complete slate of officers for 1951 was elected.

Mrs. Todd conducted amusing contests, one of which was the composition of "Get Well" verses for a member who is ill in the hospital. Prizes were won by Mrs. E. McIlraith, Mrs. M. Myles and Mrs. Donaldson.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Myles, assisted by Mrs. D. Richardson, Mrs. Hancock, Mrs. Kempt and Mrs. W. McCracken.

Home and School

HAVELOCK SCHOOL

Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Havelock Home and School Association on Monday evening. His subject was "The Meaning of Christmas" which included the origin of the word, also the origin of Santa Claus and a story in connection with the Christmas carol "Silent Night".

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Vanderburgh by Mrs. George Hubbel.

Mrs. W. Goadsby sang "O Blessed Bethlehem" with Mrs. D. Kirk as accompanist. A health talk was given by Mrs. B. Johnson on the subject "When Should I Call A Doctor". Miss Betty Toms rendered a piano solo. The attendance shield was won for the third consecutive time by Miss Dolan's room.

New literature was introduced by Mrs. W. Corneil. She was assisted by Mrs. W. Nobes, Sr., who was in charge of the free literature table.

Owing to the holiday the next meeting will not be held until January 8.

OMEMEE PUBLIC SCHOOL

For their fathers' night program, the Omemee Home and School Association had as their guest speak Mr. Fulton Stewart, of Lindsay.

The treasurer reported a balance of $48.61 which included proceeds from the euchre party. Twenty-five dollars was voted for a Christmas treat for the school children, the management of which was assigned to Mrs. S. Northey.

The fathers present were welcomed by the president, Mrs. H. Green. She said, "Home and School without fathers is like a ship without a captain." A Parents' Code of Ethics was read by Rev. E. G. Pooley. For most parents present the shield went to Mr. Curtis' room. George Pooley sang a solo, and all joined in carol singing.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. A. Stephenson. Mr. Stewart is secretary of the Lindsay Recreation Commission and vice-president of the Ontario Recreation Association, and had been invited to talk about the setup of recreation centres. The purpose of a recreation centre, he said, was to create a better community spirit and also to provide a casual way of enjoying leisure hours. There are suitable activities for all ages from eight to eighty. It is managed, he said, by a commission which is appointed by the municipal council who annually vote a certain amount of money to that commission. The commission also receives a grant from the Ontario government.

After the meeting, an informal half-hour was enjoyed.

For Christmas meeting of Peter Robinson Chapter, IODE, Wednesday evening Mrs. H. R. Ritchie of the Salvation Army was the speaker. Each member brought food donations to go in Christmas baskets to be sent to needy families. They also brought good used clothing for overseas relief. A donation was made toward the Christmas dinner for the blind.

It was suggested that councillors look after the refreshments for January meeting.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother's Boy, As Husband Can Be Pathological Case

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for three months. We started out fine. We bought nice new furniture and set up housekeeping for ourselves and for the first week we were happy. Then he decided he wanted his mother and he couldn't live without her. I thought that he would get over his homesickness, but, no matter how hard I try to make things pleasant for him, he still wants to go back to Mother. And now he says he doesn't love me any more. He only loves Mother. I told him that if this was the case we had better break up housekeeping and he could go to his home and I'd go to mine, but he complains that this will make a scandal, and that the only way out is for him to commit suicide. I love him and am willing to sacrifice my happiness for him.

MRS. R. N.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your husband is a pathological case and you should take him at once to some good psychiatrist and let science clarify his muddled emotions. Perhaps a psychiatrist can make him see that the two loves, the love of mother and wife, do not conflict, but each has its place in a well-ordered normal life.

Talk to Mother-in-Law

In the meantime go to your mother-in-law and have a frank talk with her. She is the key to the whole situation. Make her realize that her son's excessive effection for her is not only wrecking his happiness but is driving him insane, and ask her to cut her apron string and set him free.

If she has courage enough to do this and to make her son realize that his life no longer centres about her but about his wife, and that his greatest love should be given to his wife instead of to her, and especially if she has wisdom to shut up her house and go away for a while so that there will be no mother's home to go to and no mother to run to with a tale of everything that has happened to him, all will be well.

He will learn to do without Mother and to depend upon you for the babying that Mother gave him. He will come to think of the house he has set up as his home and begin to take an interest in it. In a word, he will get weaned. And he will find that all of his love for you has come back.

The reason that he thinks now that he has ceased to love you is because his love for his mother is fighting against his love for you, and somehow whichever one is away from him has the strongest claim upon him. If he should go back to his mother, he would die for love of you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: A short time ago I married a widower much older than I am. He does nothing but talk of his first wife and sing her praises to me, her wonderful cooking and beautiful figure. Also he tells me what wonderful presents he made her, but he has never purchased me even an engagemnt ring. As a matter of fact, he did give all he possessed to this paragon, who left it when she died to their only child, a married son, who treats his father like dirt, but has him completely under his thumb. We can't even take out the automobile without first asking son's permission.

Do you not think I married a senseless fool instead of a man?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You certainly have, Susan. Any man who ever mentions his first wife to his second wife at all has so little intelligence that he should not be allowed out in public without a keeper.

It is incredible that any man could be so dumb as not to know intuitively that a second wife is inevitably jealous of the first wife who was her husband's first love to whom he gave the freshness of his youth and his romance. He may be better to her than he was to his first wife. He may be kinder more generous, more considerate, but there is always that little unacknowledged pang because she wasn't the first choice, and what she is getting is warmed-over love and rehashed affections.

Surely it does seem as if a man with any sense of the fitness of things should know without being told how his second wife is bound to feel about his first wife, and he might at least preserve a decent silence concerning her estimable qualities.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Will you please tell us how old a girl must be before she is called an old maid?

A GROUP OF GIRLS

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Oh, I'd say a woman must be at least 50 in these days before people would begin considering her an old maid. Up to 35 she is a girl. After that she is a girl bachelor. After that she is a spinster.

Bowler Hats Sensation Of Style Show

By DOROTHY WADDINGTON

PARIS — (Reuters) — Tiny flat-topped bowler hats called "Churchills" are the sensation of Pierre Balmain's mid-season fashion show here.

Worn for day or evening, they may be made in felt, fabric or minoche, but the shape is always the same: A short stove-pipe crown with rolled derby brim.

The model named "Winston Churchill" is in navy blue faille, trimmed in front with a life-sized cigar.

Another Churchill style, named "Foreign Office," is in black-and-white pinpoint check. The rolled brims are fixed to the crown—with a red pencil.

Large Cartwheels

"Flying Saucer" is another hat shape for the late winter and spring. These are large cartwheels with crown studded to leave room for a huge chignon. Two large hat pins of the same material as the hat may be used to hold the chignon in place.

Although just back from the United States, Balmain has taken his inspiration from Britain again. Black Watch tartan is the motive of his collection.

A white pique evening dress is worn with a sequin-covered wool shawl of this plaid. A matching bow trims the front of the gown.

For after-skiing time, there are tie silk slacks in the Black Watch tartan. A hand-knitted corduroy and red sweater completes the ensemble.

Agree On Plan For Extension Of George St.

The board of works report read by Ald. H. Dodds at the council meeting Tuesday night was probably the last of the series of monthly or semi-monthly recommendations which he has submitted as chairman of the board in the last three years.

The agreement with the Exhibition Board for the extension of George St. through Morrow Park has emerged acceptable to both the directors and the council. Original opinions that it could be done have been verified, and it is expected that the residents south of Morrow Park will find in the new road the facility they expected.

The board agrees to lay an asphalt strip 24 feet wide, to be completed by July 31, 1951, and to construct and maintain it as specified by the city engineer. It is to be open to the public, with a reservation for closing at exhibition time.

The city agrees to pay $2,000 "in aid", which is some how different from a grant, as explined by City Solicitor Huycke. The city agrees to set up street lights along the new road through the park.

This is another of the city's projects which has been affected after hanging fire for months.

City Engineer Chalmers was asked to prepare a detailed cost of sidewalks that are being asked of the council by the residents of Burnham's Point.

Civic Hospital Work

This is the clause relating to outside work at Civic Hospital that was adopted in the board of works report: "That in order to properly remove the snow from the roadways serving Peterborough Civic Hospital and the parking areas surrounding it, the employees of this board (of works) and the parks department be jointly responsible for this work, and the parks committee be authorized to buy a Ford or Ferguson tractor to clear the snow and also for parks work in the summer; and also to turn in an old light tractor on a new one of similar design, and that tenders be called for both".

A memorandum to the Utilities Commission requested them to "consider the early alteration of the power line on Park St. south of Lansdowne St., in view of the heavy expenditure made by the city to improve this roadway by the replacing of the open ditch with an enclosed drain.

It may be that the west fence of Morrow Park will be replaced by wire as on Lansdowne St., thereby enhancing the appearance of that section of Park St., opposite the Ovaltine plant.

One of the clauses offered Lloyd Hewie, 596 McKellar St., $225 for a lot he bought on the south side of Chamberlain St., west of Monaghan Road. He had proposed a trade, but the city has no longer a surplus of vacant lots about town.

The lot is crossed by a narrow creek which floods in spring and other periods of excess water. When Mr. Hewie, after buying the lot from some one who is presumed to have made a profit on the deal, dug a cellar for the house he intended to build, the creek filled it with water. That means the lot cannot be occupied by a house until a drain is laid.

The hole in the ground with accumulation of water alarmed some of the neighbors who feared that a child might fall into it and drown.

Mayor Swanston commented that he did not think the lot should have been sold in the first place.

Engineers Decide To End Rail Strike

MELBOURNE, Dec. 7 (Reuters)—Locomotive engineers today decided to end Victoria State's railway strike which began 53 days ago.

It is expected that the brakemen's section of the Australian Railways Union will make a similar decision Friday, and that trains will be running by Sunday.

The engineers' decision was taken following the government's decision Wednesday to delay until Friday an application for the "de-registration" of the two railway unions whose brakemen and engineer members demanded higher wages.

Although thousands of rail workers were back at their jobs, train services had been paralyzed by the absence of engineers, who had previously reaffirmed their decision to stay out until their demands on overtime were granted.

Indians Smart On Ice Trails

THE PAS, Man.—(CP)—Once the first thin ice of the freeze-up forms on the Saskatchewan River here, Indians forsake the white man's catwalk bridge for the shorter—and, for them, safer—ice trail.

The ice first forms in a thin tortuous trail betwen open water because the river currents are not yet subdued by winter's iron grip.

Sometimes a 200-pound squaw will make the first crossing. The other Indians stay on shore until she has opened the trail.

Indians have an uncanny intuition for gauging ice conditions and picking the safest route.

Once a white man tried to follow an Indian across. The white man crashed through the ice a few feet from shore as the Indian landed safely on the other side.

A white teacher on the Indian reservation says numerous Indians have been injured on the "dangerous" catwalk — but never to her knowledge has one been hurt crossing the ice.

Most Men In Special Force Joined Up For Adventure

By BILL BOSS

AT SEA WITH 2ND BATTALION, PPCLI, Dec. 7 (AP)—What moves a man to join the Canadian Army special force—Canada's United Nations brigade?

If days of quizzing aboard the Pvt. Joe P. Martinez, carrying the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to Korea, can provide the answer, here it is:

Zest for adventure, found mostly in the younger soldier; hankering after the comradeship of army life, found in the older veterans; wife trouble, a sprinkling throughout the age groups; a 20th-century version of the old buccaneering spirit and a dash—just a suspicion of a dash—of idealism.

The 11,000-man CASF—if the 2nd PPCLI is a criterion—is a force of fine young fellows out to see the world.

Few Crusaders

It's a real search to find the crusaders among them—the men who joined to fight a cause, to defend a principle. It took five solid days of probing to discover Pte. Bill Cox of Victoria, the first man to say he had enlisted for fundamental reasons.

"I figured there was a third world war coming up," he said, "and I decided to take a stand now."

(Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone of Salmon Arm, B.C., the battalion commanding officer, has made no secret that he believed the same thing.)

But most of the fellows signed on for adventure.

The answer came in identically the same words at various times from Ptes. George Welsh of Hamilton, Roland Bourgon of Ottawa, Al Hembruff of Toronto and others: "I guess it was from a sense of adventure."

Likes to Get Around

Sgt. George Pay of Toronto, who married a Dutch girl after the last war, said:

"There are too many places I haven't been to—too many people I haven't seen. Principles? Oh, yeah. Ideals? Yeah. I have my own, naturally."

Cpl. Ed Rowlandson of Toronto, however, said the question couldn't be answered easily. "Fellows just don't talk about things that way," he said.

"Speaking personally," he added, (as the week's second idealist), "I think Korea is the meeting place of two ways of life, two principles, neither of which can afford to lose face.

"It's important that we take our stand. Lots of fellows feel pretty deeply about these things but pass them off under the guise of adventure."

Pte. Ronald Hutt, 19-year-old Winchester and Morrisburg, Ont., boy, was immensely practical. "My wife is expecting a baby Dec. 20," he explained, "and I had to do something so that we could have a place of our own in which to raise it."

For Pte. Jack Brown of Winnipeg, a former employee of the Manitoba civil service, the answer lay in the comradeship of army life, something civvie street didn't offer.

Darlington Reeve Defeated At Polls

Harold Skinner, senior member of the 1950 council, was successful in his bid to secure election as deputy reeve. He was given 1,024 votes to the 605 accorded Ernest Werry.

The vote for the South Darlington Area School Board was as follows: Earl Osborne, 616; Alex McMaster, 493, and Russell DeCoe, 456.

Members of the township council who were re-elected by acclamation were: Garnet Rickard, Russell McLaughlin and Everett Vice.

Authorize RCAF Go To Korea

OTTAWA, Dec. 8—(CP)—The Cabinet has given authority for extension of R.C.A.F. air transport operations right into Korea to clear the way in case the 12 Canadian planes are needed in the present crisis. That means they could be used for evacuation purposes if the need arises. Defence headquarters officials said No. 426 Squadron may move from McChord Field near Tacoma, Wash., to Japan with its four-engined North Stars. For the last five months they have been flying a trans-Pacific air lift from McChord Field to Japan, but not on to Korea. The move by Cabinet was looked on as part of a general United Nations move to prepare for any eventuality. It was stressed here that no orders have yet been given for the Squadron to pack and go to Japan but that the way now is clear for such a shift if the Korean situation means that the planes are needed.

Movement of No. 426, the Thunderbird Squadron, to Japan would be in line with other moves by the UN command to build up a big supply of transport planes just in case. Two days ago it was announced that 29 commercial U.S. airliners were called back into service.

There are reports here that two more Canadian Pacific Airlines planes may be put on the air lift, too.

The RCAF's North Stars are big, powerful planes capable of carrying artillery pieces, jeeps or other heavy cargo as well as 40 or more troops.

No. 426 recently completed the 100th round trip to Japan and has piled up more than 1,000,000 miles of flying in UN service in the past five months. Its planes have been flying both American troops and equipment.

Ontario To Pay 50-50 Cost Of New Pension Scheme

OTTAWA, Dec. 8—(CP)—Canadians may soon get an improved old-age pension program, but they'll pay for it both through direct contribution and indirect provincial sales taxes. That is the probable result—if carried through—of decisions taken Thursday by the Federal Provincial fiscal conference after four days of study of old-age pensions and related financial problems. Prime Minister St. Laurent, as Chairman of the Conference, announced that the provinces had agreed:

1. To give "early consideration" to a constitutional amendment allowing the Federal government to inaugurate a contributory system of $40-a-month pensions for Canadians of 70 and over without a means test.

2. To give similar consideration to an amendment allowing the provinces to impose an indirect retail sales tax.

3. To establish a committee to consider legislation necessary for pensions of $40 a month — but with a means test—for needy persons of 65 to 69, with the federal and provincial governments sharing the cost on a 50-50 basis.

Consider Proposals

4. To consider federal proposals for new taxation agreements and indicate their positions later.

5. To suspend deliberations on new methods of constitutional amendment until after the tax agreements and related matters have been worked out.

While Mr. St. Laurent did not so indicate in his prepared statement, the proposed provincial sales tax obviously would be aimed at helping the provinces to finance their share of pensions for those in the 65-69 age group.

Some provinces told the conference, which held most of its sittings in private, that they could not carry the added burden and that they should be allowed to impose an immediate sales tax as a means of raising the money.

At present, old-age pensions go only to persons of 70 and over who prove their need through a means test. They get $40 a month —some provinces pay a bit more —with the federal government bearing 75 per cent of the cost

Chinese Believe They're Fighting South Koreans

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 8 (AP) —The seven-member United Nations Korean commission sent the General Assembly a special report today formally challenging Russian claims that the Chinese Communist troops in Korea are volunteers.

The report said the commission had made an on-the-spot inquiry and found that all prisoners taken by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces were members of regular army units and "were not volunteers in any possible meaning of the term."

Selim Sarper of Turkey read the report to the assembly's 60-member political committee. The commission estimated at least 400,000 Chinese Reds are now in Korea. It said that none of the prisoners taken had the slightest idea they were fighting UN forces. They thought they were fighting South Koreans.

The political committee then launched into its debate on a six-country demand for the immediate withdrawal of the Chinese Communists.

Santa Given A Rough Time

SCHUETTORF, Germany, Dec. 8 (Reuters)—Santa Claus wound up in hospital here Thursday night with severe burns on his face after a crowd of children set fire to his whiskers. The man, dressed as Santa, was walking across the town market square, when children began throwing firecrackers at him. His beard and fur-trimmed red coat caught fire. Passers-by rolled him on the ground to extinguish the flames.

Freak Car Accident Burns Frame House

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 8 (CP) — Three persons were left homeless following a freak automobile accident Thursday that set fire to a four-room frame house.

The house, owned by James Cole, was set on fire and destroyed when the car swerved off the highway two miles south of here, caved in a wall and overturned an oil stove. Mr. and Mrs. Cole and their four-year-old son, Timothy, escaped uninjured.

Police said Cpl. Laurence Weagant of the RCAF station, Trenton, had been arrested in connection with the accident.

2 Russ Scientists Invent Glasses Help Blind See

MOSCOW, Dec. 8 (AP).—Two Russian scientists have invented spectacles which they hope will enable certain cases of blindness to see.

The blindness is the fogging of the cornea, the round window at the centre of the eye through which all the light passes in normal seeing.

Burns frequently scar and fog corneas so badly that blindness is total. The only remedy has been a surgical operation that sets a piece of clear cornea into the blinded one.

The Russians reasoned that at least some of these fogged corneas could transmit a little light, and that this transmission would increase if the rays of light were focussed directly upon blinded corneas.

It is, they said, like seeing faintly through your hand when a bright beam of light is focussed on the side opposite to where you are looking. You can see the glow of light, faintly and tinged a little pink from passing through blood in veins of the hand.

They made a new type of spectacles, two lenses which focus on the cornea not only the rays of incoming light but an actual image of what those rays show. Their idea is that this image is likely to be visible, at least dimly on the inner side of the fogged cornea.

The Soviet scientists say their experiments are working well enough to show that they are on a promising track. Some persons have been able to see a little.

These persons have had to overcome more than merely the fogging of their corneas. They have had to look at a picture which actually lay on their corneas, unnaturally close for seeing anything clearly. Nevertheless, it is reported that these people developed some improvement with practice

Decide House Won't Be Moved

TORONTO, Dec. 8—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. William Moffatt will be able to keep their home facing on the Queen Elizabeth Way near St. Catharines.

But they will have to use a side gate to enter and leave their property.

J. D. Millar, Deputy Highways Minister for Ontario, said Thursday his department has not asked the Moffatt's to move their home, situated less than 150 feet from the highway. What's more, he said, the Department doesn't intend to ask for removal of the house that has been the subject of a lengthy legal battle.

The court fight was climaxed Tuesday when the Ontario Supreme Court upheld the Department and its Highways Improvement Act, which prohibits the building of a home within 150 feet of the highway and the creation of private entrances from it.

3 RCN Ships Wreck Korean Port

Bombard Chinnampo Make It Useless For Communist Army

OTTAWA, Dec. 8—(CP)—Canadian destroyers spearheaded a bombardment of Chinnampo, the port of Pyongyang, which "knocked hell out of it" this week, a Naval spokesman said today.

There was some resistance from Chinese Communists or North Koreans but it was ineffective. There were no casualties aboard the three Canadian destroyers involved.

It was one of the most important jobs the warships, the Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan, have carried out in their months in Korean waters as part of a United Nations fleet.

Australian and American warships—one each—shared in the bombardment.

Security precautions prevented complete disclosure of details of the assault, carried out soon after U.N. land forces withdrew from Pyongyang, capital of North Korea, three or four days ago. However, a United States Navy spokesman in Washington said in the precise terms of the fleet, "the port was rendered useless to the enemy."

Been Patrolling

The Canadian warships have been patrolling the west coast of Korea to prevent Chinese Communists from using that area as a supply route. Authorities here said all three were in on the bombardment of Chinnampo.

Capt. Jeffry Brock of Winnipeg and Vaucouver is senior officer of the three Canadian ships.

Comdr. Paul D. Taylor of Victoria is commanding officer of the Sioux and Cmdr. Robert Welland of McCreary, Man., is C.O. of the Athabaskan.

The Sioux is slated to turn homeward in the next few weeks and to be replaced by the destroyer Nootka, now en route across the Pacific from Halifax.

The three warships have engaged in a variety of duties since sailing from Esquimalt July 5. They reached Japan 25 days later. They have been in on bombardments, of island landings, on monotonous coastal patrols. They have lost one man, a sailor who was drowned.

Ottawa Alarmed About Korea

OTTAWA, Dec. 8. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson has travelled to Washington to confer with Prime Minister Attlee and State Secretary Dean Acheson, a government official said today.

His trip to the American capital from New York was made by train Thursday night and was seen here as underlying the alarm Ottawa feels over the Korean crisis.

Sources close to the cabinet said he took advantage of a lull in United Nations activities to make the trip to Washington.

It was, the sources here said, an opportunity he has been seeking for some time because of the deteriorating Korean situation and Canada's feeling both that the atom bomb should not be used and that an attempt should be made to open negotiations with the Chinese as soon as possible after a front line is stabilized.

Mr. Pearson's trip to Washington came as no great surprise to high officials, although no indication of it had been made public. It was exepcted that he would fly back to New York with Mr. Attlee later today and that he might fly on to Ottawa with him Saturday for discussions with the Canadian cabinet.

Little German Girl Finds There Is a Santa

American Glitter Frightens Child But St. Nick Comes Through

DAYTON, A., Dec. 8 (AP)—Only persons who didn't believe there is a Santa Claus need read on.

Three-year-old Margery Bidstrup obviously was frightened by the bristling court-like setup Santa had in the gaily-decorated department store. Mrs. Henry Bidstrup was having no luck comforting her daughter.

Margery watched the line of children file up to see Santa—and sobbed.

Finally, her mother leaned down and whispered in tones easily heard by Santa.

Quick as a reindeer's wink, Santa beckoned to the damp-eyed little girl:

"Kommst du hier, kleine maedchen."

Margery's sobs stopped. Her eyes widened.

And in half a reindeer's wink she was in his lap.

A few moments more conversation, and Margery ran off her Christmas list:

"Ein weihnachtsbaum (she just couldn't remember Christmas tree) . . . a plate . . . and a skillet."

She was all smiles as she waved farewell to her new-found friend.

"Aufwiedersehn," he called out with a jolly wink.

Margery winked back.

"So different from last Christmas in Kiel, Germany," said Mrs. Bidstrup.

Blizzard Winds Leave Damage Across Ontario

By The Canadian Press

Gale-force winds which lashed Central Ontario during the night moved slowly northwest over Lake Superior, today, bringing lake traffic to a standstill.

But weather officials said the storm appeared to be blowing itself out. They predicted settled weather over the province Saturday with sunshine in some southern areas.

Some 40 freighters, making their last run of the season, scurried for port on Lake Superior as blizzard winds whipped up huge waves during the night. Temperatures dropped abruptly in Sault Ste. Marie, and the city was without power for half an hour early today when a transformer blew out.

In the wake of the storm, Northern Ontario began to dig itself out of snow that made some roads unfit for driving. Traffic began moving through the Welland ship canal, but shipping was storm-bound in the Detroit river by gales reported reaching 50 to 60 miles an hour.

Strikes Suddenly

Weather officials said the province was in for a "cold, blustery day." They predicted steady snowfall throughout the day in northern Ontario with intermittent snow in the southern half of the province. Southwesterly winds up to 40 m.p.h. are not expected to drop appreciably until Saturday.

The storm, born of a cold front centred on Lake Superior, struck the province with high winds and rain Thursday. At Toronto more than half an inch of rainfall was recorded before the rain turned to snow about 10 p.m. It stopped during the night.

Beach Damage

With winds dropping from the 55 mile an hour gales experienced Thursday, the worst of the storm appeared over. In its wake were smashed boardwalks, breached breakwaters and uprooted trees.

No residents were evacuated but many families were marooned in their homes, surrounded by water. Transportation facilities on Centre Island were disrupted.

At the southwestern end of Lake Ontario the heavy waves threatened low-lying beach communities on Hamilton's outskirts. Although not as severe as a storm that caused terrific damage to the beach fronts two weeks ago, the waves smashed up against six cottages at Crescent Beach and threatened at least another 12 dwellings which were evacuated.

One Policeman Killed Two Others Wounded

SAGINAW, Mich., Dec. 8 (AP) —A police captain was killed and two fellow officerrs were wounded in a downtown gunfight with a man and a woman early today.

Both the latter, identified as the pair who escaped after engaging in a gun fight with officers the previous night, were captured. The man was wounded.

Headquarters said Capt. David P. Waters, about 38, was shot to death as police intercepted the couple at a hotel. In an exchange of fire, Detective Clarence Dietzel and Eldon Johnson, a State parole officer, were wounded.

Police identified the pair with whom they fought as Larry Edwards 33, and Sylvia Van Conont 35, both of Port Huron. Edwards was wounded.

Fear Schools In Sudbury May Be Closed All Winter

SUDBURY, Dec. 8—Secondary school education in this city faces complete paralysis after Dec. 31. On that date the mass resignation of 62 teachers becomes effective. No effort will be made to hire replacements, Secretary J. G. Lowe of the Sudbury High School Board said Thursday night. The teachers resigned after failing to win salary concessions.

Mr. Lowe was commenting on a bulletin issued by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Association, warning teachers throughout the province they would forfeit federation privileges and support if they accepted employment in Sudbury.

"Attempting to find new teachers would be quite useless. The fact is it would be quite impossible to find them in mid-year. Likewise, of course, it would be impossible for the teachers who have resigned here to find jobs elsewhere," said Mr. Lowe.

A bulletin issued by I. M. Robb of Toronto, teachers' committee spokesman of the OSSTA, has warned the teaching profession that "any member of this federation who accepts a position in either of the Sudbury secondary schools will not receive any support from this federation in salary negotiations or any aid in any professional difficulty in which the member may find himself or herself, while teaching in the Sudbury secondary schools."

"The OSSTA holds the whip hand over all the teachers, who must agree to their methods or be cut off from the federation's privileges," said Mr. Lowe. He said that the high school board has received messages from school boards at Kapuskasing, Port Arthur and Fort William, urging the board to maintain its stand.

The board has applied to the Ontario Department of Education for a board of reference to arbitrate the dispute. No answer has yet been received from Toronto concerning the request.

New Mayor's Brother Faces Liquor Charge

WINDSOR, Dec. 8 — (CP) — A charge of illegal possession of liquor laid against Henry Brophey following a Wednesday-night raid by police on his home, will be heard in court here Dec. 15. Police officials have declined to say how much liquor was seized.

Brophey is a brother of Thomas Brophey, who was elected mayor of Windsor on Wednesday.

Thomas Brophey said yesterday he knew nothing about the raid, beyond what he read in newspapers, and that it was "a matter between police and him" over an alleged minor liquor-law infraction.

34,000 Chinese In Canada Stress Loyalty To Dominion

VANCOUVER, Dec. 8. (CP) — Behind the blazing neon mask of Vancouver's Chinatown, Orientals are working diligently — to prove their loyalty to Canada.

The "big" men, and the humble, the chefs, laundry men, messengers and scores of others, don't say much about Chinese Communist intervention in the Korean war.

But, in the words of their chief trouble-shooter: "They are citizens of Canada and their loyalties are to it . . ."

That sums up any comment by the city's 8,000 Chinese on the Korean war, says 50-year-old Foon Sien, respected honorary mayor of Vancouver's Chinatown, biggest in Canada.

Mr. Foon should know. He has worked quietly and efficiently in his city-within-a-city ever since he became president of the Chinese Benevolent Association and senior politician of Chinatown 10 years ago.

He said he has never heard of an "avowed Chinese Communist in the city."

"There are Communist sympathizers among the 34,000 Chinese in Canada, but they number very few. There may be as many as 50 sympathizers among us in Vancouver . . ."

Although many Chinese display the flag of Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Chinese Nationalists, "we are loyal to, and support the Canadian government . . ."

Such loyalty was boosted, he said, when Chinese residents were allowed citizenship papers in 1947.

Britain-U.S. Agreed On Common Policy

WASHINGTON—(Reuters)—Britain and the United States have agreed on common foreign policy objectives a communique issued by President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee said today.

The Communique said Britain and the United States would "act together with resolution and unity to meet the challenge to peace which recent weeks have made clear to all."

It continued that there can be no thought of appeasement or of rewarding aggression, whether in the far east or elsewhere."

The Communique expressed willingness "to seek an end to hostilities by means of negotiation."

The Communique said the United States and Britain "differ" on the question of seating the Communist Chinese regime in the United Nations, Britain supporting it and the United States continuing to oppose it.

It said the Formosan issue should be settled by peaceful means.

The Communique announced complete agreement on the need for immediate action for building up the North Atlantic defences in Europe.

Trumon and Attlee announced agreement on increasing the military capabilities of their two countries "as rapidly as possible" and expansion of arms production.

They also agreed on international action to avoid shortages of raw materials.

Appointed Secretary

WASHINGTON, Dec 8—(AP) —President Truman today appointed Joseph H. Short, Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, as presidential press secretary. He takes the post Dec. 18.

Announcement of Short's selection was made by Stephen T. Early, who has been acting as press secretary since Charles G. Ross died suddenly Tuesday night.

A former member of the Associated Press Bureau at Richmond, Va., and Washington, Short has been assigned to the Baltimore Sun's Washington Bureau since 1943.

U. N. Forces Fight Way In Fire Trap

Reds Closing In As Battered Units Racing With Time

TOKYO, Dec. 8—(AP)—Thousands of United Nations troops battled desperately today to break through fiery Communist Chinese traps in efforts to reach the Korean east coast for probable mass removal by sea.

Chinese forces were reported close behind one retreating force of 20,000 at the Koto airstrip, on both sides of a canyon trail leading down to the sea, and ahead of them near their expected place of embarkation on the Sea of Japan at Hungnam.

Thousands of others scattered in the northeast were trying to reach the escape port.

In northwest Korea, only patrol contact was reported along the newly-formed Eighth Army defence line.

Top U.S. naval and marine officers conferred secretly on a ship off the stormy east coast. A U.S. Eighth Army source said some allied South Korean troops, in the far northeast, already had escaped by sea.

The big question was how many others in the northeast could reach the coast.

Trying Break-Out

At the most critical spot the 20,000 — U.S. marines and army and British troops—were in the midst of a tank-lead drive to break out of a four-sided Chinese trap south of Changjin reservoir.

Reds entrenched on dominating ridges and shielded by a snowstorm from allied air attack raked the column with heavy fire.

Exams Not Votes Brophey Worry

WINDSOR, Dec. 8 (CP). — While city officials prepared for an almost certain recount of Wednesday's voting for mayor of Windsor, Mayor-elect Thomas R. Brophey is in Toronto preparing for Christmas examinations at Osgoode Hall.

Mr. Brophey, who is in second year at the law school, left Windsor Thursday night without waiting for the formal declaration by the city clerk at noon today that he had been elected mayor by 38 votes over Mayor Arthur J. Reaume.

Mr. Brophey will spend the weekend preparing for the examinations which begin Monday.

He said he was in favor of a recount being held. Mayor Reaume said Thursday he would ask for the recount "because the results of the election were so close, and in fairness to all parties concerned."

Asks Police Protection Turns Out Fugitive

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Dec. 8 (AP)—The 40-year-old wife of a Kalamazoo druggist—leader in a campaign for local police protection of women from street-corner mashers—was held today as a fugitive from Kansas kidnapping, robbery and assault charges.

She is Mrs. Norma Witters in Kalamazoo, but apparently known as Mrs. Woodrow Mackl in Wichita, Kas., where she is wanted.

Police Chief Howard Hoyt arrested her Thursday, after almost exploding through the ceiling when he recognized on a Federal Bureau of Investigation wanted circular the woman who had been badgering him about street-corner hoodlums and rows she'd been having with neighbors.

Besides being wanted in the near-fatal beating, kidnapping and robbery of William S. Menefee, a Wichita used car dealer, in July, 1949, she is wanted as a Kansas parole violator, the FBI sai

Canadian Cattle Tariffs Likely Boosted By U.S.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8 (CP) — The United States is expected on Jan. 1 to wipe out tariff concessions granted to Canada and other countries on certain types of livestock, a trade official said Thursday.

The tariff on feeder cattle, weighing more than 200 and less than 700 pounds, is expected to be boosted from 1½ cents to 2½ cents a pound. On lambs and sheep, the duty likely will be boosted from $1.50 to $3 a head, the official said.

This move will result from termination of the United States-Mexico trade agreement which has been in force since 1942.

Under this agreement, U.S. tariffs on certain types of livestock were reduced and the concessions granted to Mexico made applicable to similar items shipped from other countries.

This proved of benefit to Canada when she decided to lift the embargo on the export of cattle and beef to the U.S. market in August, 1948.

Sgt. Joe Cusenza explained today: "I notice something sticking out of the air scoop. When I saw it was a foot I jumped off the wing and grabbed it."

Cusenza clung desperately to Lewis, bracing his legs against the mouth of the scoop to keep his buddy from being pulled completely in.

Sgt. Bill Vedrody, in the cockpit giving the engine a trial ground run-up, cut the switch when he felt the engine running rough. Lewis and Cusenza plopped to the ground.

Premier Frost of Ontario announced immediately that his province would be willing, provisionally, to join the federal government in the 50-50 payment of a $40-a-month pension to those needy persons in the 65-69 age group.

It would do this, he added, if the federal authorities went ahead with the universal plan for those of 70 and over. It also would provide the 65-69 indigents with the free health services that Ontario pensioners get nowadays.

New Players Bolster Habs

MONTREAL, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Montreal Canadiens took steps today to do something about the floundering club.

Defenceman Ernie Roche was recalled from Cincinnati Mohawks of the American Hockey League, wingman Bert Hirschfeld was shipped to the Mohawks and centre Gerry Desaulniers of the Montreal Senior Royals was called to action on a lend-lease basis.

Canadiens had also planned to bring up winger Gilles Dube from Cincinnnati but Dube was reported suffering from a sore leg.

Canadiens have lost three of their four games and have played in-and-out hockey most of the season. Injuries have also hurt the club. Canadiens' last two home appearances—including a 3-0 blanking by Boston Bruins Thursday—have been such drab exhibitions that coach Dick Irvin has hinted four players may be detoured to the minors.

So far the Montrealers have managed to hang on to a third-place tie in the National Hockey League with the Black Hawks, but the Hawks have three games in hand over Canadiens.

ceived no reply from Peiping either to his personal appeal or to an appeal from 12 Asian and Middle East countries. The latter group last Tuesday called upon the Chinese Communists to stop at the 38th Parallel.

Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit, Indian ambassador, conferred with the Chinese Communist envoy, Gen. Su Hsiu-Chuan, Thursday night, but she returned to Washington without disclosing the nature of their conversation.

While the UN debate continued, there appeared to be no great hurry among many delegations.

A sampling of opinion here showed that the reluctance to go ahead is largely owing to two factors:

The British—and several other delegations—do not want to say anything until they know results of the conferences between President Truman and Prime Minister Atlee.

Wait For Answer

The 13 Asian countries, led by India, which appealed to the Chinese Communists to stop at the 38th Parallel for negotiations want to wait for answer.

The Russians contend that there is no Chinese intervention in Korea and that the whole problem should be thrown off the agenda.

Representing a 16 p.c. increase over the same period last year, up to about the end of November, there was a recorded movement of more than 176,000 stocker and feeder cattle bein moved to feed lots in Canada.

Films Shown Humane Society

More than 100 people attended the first open monthly meeting of the Peterborough Humane Society in the Public Library Thursday night. President Mrs. S. O. Shields presided.

Inspector G. A. Dunford reported that during November 60 dogs and 62 cats were humanely destroyed. Twelve dogs, he added were killed on the city streets and five cats. The inspector picked up 17 dogs on the streets and returned 14 to the owners.

During the month he made trips into Smith township to try to locate the person who cut the ears off a calf. As yet this person has not been located. He also made a trip to the Hetherington farm with the Provincial Police regarding the horses.

A report of the local Humane Society as presented at the Ottawa convention was read by Mrs. W. A. Young while reports of the convention were given by Miss Helen Lytle and Miss Phyllis Denne.

After the business meeting the films, The Redwoods, Painted Desert, Petrified Forest, Yellowstone Park, and West Coast From Mexico to British Columbia were shown. Afterwards a social hour was spent. Door prizes were won by Roy Killingbeck. Mrs. L. Maguire and Miss Viola Moncrief.

The society is planning to hold similar meetings throughout the coming year for all members and friends interested in the welfare of "those who cannot speak for themselves".

U.N. Forces

The troops moved slowly down a steep, ice-glazed and snowy mountain trail from Koto, eight miles south of the reservoir. Forward elements had covered five of the 43 long miles from Koto to the east coast escape port of Hungnam by Friday noon.

Driving north to meet them was a relief column of the U.S. 3rd Division, trying to clear the roads into the mountains from Hungnam. But even if the 20,000 should link up and escape that fiery defile, thousands of additional Chinese massing north of Hungnam and the nearby industrial city of Hamhung threaten to cut them off again.

Situation Worse

A Chinese attack on the Koto airstrip behind them made the critical situation even worse. The bumpy strip is the only outside link for the trapped troops south of the Changjin.

More than 1,700 critically-wounded troops have been flown from Koto. There were no details of the Red attack on the field.

Far north of the reservoir, the 17th regiment of the U.S. 7th Division was moving through mountains swarming with Chinese but its whereabouts was not announced. The 17th withdrew from a 10-mile stretch of the Yalu river boundary of Red Manchuria. It had been the only American outfit to reach the Yalu.

In the far northeast, elements of the South Korean capital division were evacuated by water, presumably from the big port of Chongjin, 60 miles southwest of the Soviet Siberian border.

An army source said the remainder of the division was pulling back by land toward Hungnam.

Hold Conferences

Coincident with these developments, top marine and navy officers met at Yonpo airfield south of Hamhung Friday afternoon and then left for shipboard conferences.

The east coast port of Wonsan, 50 air miles south of Hungnam, was evacuated by sea Wednesday under covering fire by three U.S. destroyers. Wonsan had been garrisoned by U.S. 3rd Division elements.

In the northwest, below Red-occupied Pyongyang, the U.S. Eighth Army consolidated positions on its newly-formed defence line.

Allied patrols probed for advance elements of 18 Chinese divisions moving toward the line. A few skirmishes were reported.

Guerrilla Trouble

AP correspondent Don Whitehead reported that up to 40,000 well-armed guerillas—mostly reorganized North Korean troops—are operating behind the Eighth Army line and on its extreme right flank. These hit-run raiders, he added, are increasingly harrassing U.N. forces.

But the plight of the Americans trapped south of Changjin reservoir was of more immediate concern.

The break-out attempt by the Marines and infantry came after they had smashed through one trap in a battling eight-mile drive to Koto from Changjin reservoir Thursday.

At Koto, the weary 5th and 7th regiments of the U.S. Marine 1st Division and the U.S. 7th Division's 31st and 32nd regiments joined other elements of both divisions.

With them were about 50 British commandos who were rescued from the reservoir area Wednesday after being spotted by Marine planes.

The push from Koto began early Friday, with elements of the Marines' 5th regiment fighting a rearguard action north of Koto. A tank-led convoy rumbled southward from the town.

Gen. MacArthur's war summary estimated 5,000 Chinese occupying the town of Sinhung, 10 miles north of Hamhung and east of the Koto-Hamhung road. Another 1,000 were spotted digging nearby.

Also reported in that general area was a Red convoy of 100 motor vehicles and about 900 cavalrymen.

Farther to the northeast, the South Korean 3rd division was retreating south from Kilchu. The war summary reported the Republican force ambushed and killed 200 Reds during the retreat Thursday.

Transformer Blow Out Causes Black Out

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 8 (CP).—The temperature dropped to 16 above, a transformer blew out at the Great Lakes Power Company sub-station plunging the city into darkness at 3 a.m., and snow-laden winds brought out the whole of the city's snowremoval equipment in the second wintry blast of the season.

Emergency power units were employed in the General and Plummer Memorial Hospitals during the blackout. Slush on city streets turned to bumpy ice and traffic slowed almost to a walk.

WARKWORTH, Dec. 8 (ENS) —A representative group of the members of the Warkworth District Co-op. met at the home of Glen Hancock Thursday evening and presented him with a leather club bag on behalf of the directors and local advisory council in appreciation of his services as manager of the co-op. Mr. Hancock has resigned his position and has taken up his duties as assistant manager of the Warkworth Lumber Company. He is succeeded at the Co-op by Harry McMullen of Norwood.

Crew members of the Canadian frigate La Hulloise stand at attention as Lieut. Commander Philip Kelsey (left, on gangplank) is piped aboard the vessel in New York, to extend greetings of Rear Admiral W. S. Delaney, Third Naval District commandant. Lieut. Commander T. C. Pullen of the La Hulloise stands at the bottom of the gangplank to return Kelsey's salute. Moored in background is the Canadian frigate Swansea, which, with the La Hulloise, arrived in New York on an officers' training cruise from Halifax. Cmdr. Kelsey is director of welfare for the Third Naval District.

U.S. Rejects Monster Tanks

ORT KNOX, Ky., Dec. 8 — (AP)—American armor experts decline to be stampeded into production of monster tanks by rumors that Russia has them.

Instead, the U.S. army's foremost tank designers at this armored centre are contcentrating on improving family of medium tanks with harderhitting firepower.

At the same time, the United States is pushing ahead with development of light tanks which experts believe have a specialized function in modern battle.

The army explained its armor doctrine and exhibited some of the improved tanks to reporters on a visit here.

The U.S. tankers aren't overawed by the touted Russian JS-111 tank.

The tank designers said the army intends to go ahead with production of the improved M-46 Patton medium tank until they are satisfied they have ready an entirely new and superior design. And, it was indicated, this could be expected some time next year.

With the RAF during the Second World War, he spent three years in a Nazi prison camp in Poland. The camp formed the setting for his prize-winning story.

Mr. Harris, married and father of three daughters, is a member of the public relations staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Ontario Malcontented?

There is a spirit of restless dissatisfaction around southern Ontario. That is the tale told by municipal election results. All over the counties, reeves of a dozen years' service have been trounced. Present councillors have been rejected, and other men approved. In the cities senior members of Boards of Education have made poor showings at the polls, aldermen of a decade's service have been spurned, even in Peterborough, where a complete newcomer to civic business headed the polls. Mayors have had to fight for their jobs nip-and-tuck, or have lost out entirely. For instance, Mayor McCallum of Toronto was almost unseated. Mayor Reaume of Windsor was (pending results of a recount). In London, a policeman, entirely new to the council chamber, except in his former capacity as a policeman, was elected over Mayor Wenige, who finished a poor fourth after thirty years off-and-on as mayor. The veteran Mayor Bourque of Ottawa went down to defeat. Incidentally, Miss Charlotte Whitton, making her first bid for municipal office, headed the Ottawa polls in the Board of Control contest; another upset for seated authority.

• • •

There is a spirit of revolt in the Ontario air. The people have demonstrated their urge to get new blood into civic, county and township management. How deep does the dissatisfaction with the old and the desire for change run? It runs very deep, since it is making itself so heavily felt at the very heart of people's government— the municipality. How widespread is the upsetting process? It is very wide—it stretches from Ottawa to Windsor. Is it deep and wide enough to touch Queen's Park when the next Provincial election time comes round? Certainly Ontario voters are roused to wield the ballot as an instrument of their own wishes for change. The municipal voting across the province was heavier than it has been for years. The people are returning to power.

• • •

This discontent and impulse to change have been shown at a time of boom and great prosperity. Usually voters get the wind up and start chopping heads in bad times. The municipal voting was not just a passing resentment due to economic stress.

Responsibility and Low Wages

We have been reading an editorial in the Manchester Guardian with keen interest; it presents some figures about wages and standards of living in present-day Britain. According to the Oxford University Institute of Statistics, a man with a wife and two children now needs an earned income of £1,225 in order to keep his family as well as he did on an income of £500 in 1938. Higher taxes and higher prices have made that much difference to him. It must be pointed out, however, that although wages in Britain have been going up, they have not risen very much in the bracket to which this man belongs. And because he is not getting £1,225 a year or anything like it, his standard of living and that of his family have dropped sharply.

In the lower levels of income there have been marked improvements, and this is as it should be, for before the war many workers received very poor pay. Nobody—particularly nobody connected with a government, is going to make a public statement that the workers on the lower levels should have less; but it could very truly be said that workers in the middle ranks need more. And if they don't get more, it will be hard to get them to do their jobs properly.

Let us look again at the man who earns £500 a year. It might look like a big promotion for him if he were given a rise to £700 a year, but in actual fact, after taxes, he would only get another £35 a year. For this sum, would it be worth his while to take on greater responsibility and harder work? For that is certainly what his employer would expect, for his employer would have to pay out the full £200 increase.

It is a simple truth that people will not work harder unless they get more money, or greater honour, or greater privilege. It is another simple truth that the wheels of business and industry are kept turning, in a great degree, by men of moderate income, who stand between employers and manual workers. Slighting this class would do more damage than a general strike, over a period of years.

Boy From Broken Home Makes Good

We laughed so hard that we got a stitch in the side the other day when we read a Letter to the Editor in a Toronto paper, in which the write declared that the reason why Bernard Shaw died without the comforts of organized religion was because he had come from a "broken home". The writer said that it was greatly to Shaw's credit that he had, under the circumstances, remained "sober and industrious"; however, he had become "the foe of custom, convention and the orthodox". The letter ends, "It was not Shaw's privilege to grow up in normal surroundings and his final exit . . . was consistent and only to be expected, however deplorable it may appear." Just think— if Shaw had not come from a broken home he might have been as conventional and died as obscurely as any good citizen of Toronto.

Shaw's home was "broken", if you like to use that dramatic term. He has written that there was no love between his parents, though they never quarreled or treated each other with disrespect. His father was a drunkard—the kind of drunkard who tries to reform, and can't. Such home surroundings are not the most favourable for a child, and yet Shaw and his sisters all grew up to do rather better in life than most people.

Why? Because their home, if not happy, was a home where a very high level of cultivation existed. Shaw's father, though a drunkard, was a gentleman and a man of education; his mother was a lady by birth and breeding, and an accomplished musician. Young Shaw's mind was not stifled, as it might well have been in a more religious and less cultivated household. For religion—and we say this knowing that we shall shock some of our readers—is no substitute for education, and the devotion of an ignorant person is not likely to rise above the level of his general intelligence.

As for "broken homes", they lack many things other than religious conviction; they lack health, courage, money, education—all the things, in fact, which usually distinguish good people from bad. Anybody who is curious about Shaw's home is free to read what he himself wrote of it; they will find that, while it was no model, it was very far from being a bad or unhappy place.

Back To The Goose Quill?

From time to time there are agitations in favour of better handwriting; there is such an agitation in Britain at present. We like to see public opinion aroused on such matters; modern handwriting is usually wretched, lacking in beauty and legibility. In Ontario, at any rate, this is owing to the abominable script which wars forced upon children in our public schools until fairly recently. Now, we are happy to say, a better method is taught, better models are set for imitation, and even quite young children write a legible and artistically respectable hand.

One lady who has joined the dispute in Britain presents strong arguments in favour of writing with a goose quill, which makes the most supple of all pens. The trouble with goose quills, of course, is that they quickly need repair, they cannot be easily carried about, and they are hard to get in Canada; in England they may still be bought in bundles, and are used in law courts. In Canada we make a fetish of speed, and so we insist upon the fountain pen.

The fountain pen is a wonderfully convenient instrument. We have only one quarrel with it; its nib is too inflexible for really good writing. Now undoubtedly makers of fountain pens will hasten to tell us that they make nibs in great variety, and that there is a nib to suit every hand. With all courtesy in the world we must beg to disagree. We write a good deal with a pen; we have bought literally dozens of fountain pens; we have never been able to get one with a nib sufficiently flexible. We entreat the fountain pen makers—for whom we have a high regard—to take the goose quill as a model and see what they can do about producing a truly flexible nib. It should not be beyond the power of modern science.

Otherwise, in our enthusiasm for fine calligraphy, we may have to buy a goose on the market every Saturday, hang it in our office, and snatch a quill from its ripening flesh whenever we wish to write.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The reason the North Wind whistles, says the Brandon Sun, is because it is going south where it is warm.

"An aeroplane is like an egg; it has to be sold when fresh" is a favourite saying of an American aviation company. Presumably the company does not emphasize the other similarity to an egg: the ease with which it cracks up.

The time of year has now arrived when all mothers and kindergarten teachers get their exercise by wrestling the children into their snowsuits.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA OLD SOCK: Whadda ya know! I haven't had a parking ticket for three weeks! Do you think that the order has gone down sotto voce, sub rosa from the Council not to give out any parking tickets for the three weeks before elections Even the most honest of Councils must realize that a parking ticket won't make a voter feel any too happy about present members whose servants the police are, and he would be likely to vote for a rank outsider. Do our Mayor and Aldermen seeking re-election Monday know this? Yours, etc., Nosey Parker.

ANSWER: Dear Nosey Parker. Now that elections are over, have you had a ticket? I think your whole thesis is unprovable. I was given a parking ticket only two weeks ago. If you are right, the Council do not think much of my vote.

Perhaps the reason that fewer parking tickets have been given out recently (if that is so) is the snow, not any secret order. Even the chilliest-hearted policeman would not have the temerity to put a ticket on a car which cannot get closer to a meter or the curb than six feet (because of piled-up snow). Anyway, how is a policeman to put a chalk check-mark on snow? As a matter of fact, parkers daring enough to run their vehicles into a metered stand or the market square some days during the past ten, deserve rewards for their courage; or cash to help pay for being hauled out.

LION AND UNICORN: Last week, in response to a question about the ditty "The Lion and the Unicorn were fighting for the crown", etc., I said that it was a nursery rhyme. Another reader raised on Lewis Carroll has pointed out the lines in his "Through The Looking Glass", where there is a chapter on "The Lion and the Unicorn". Any meaning the nursery rhyme has is wonderfully indicated in the fancy-rich manner of the author of Alice in Wonderland. The words "of the old song" are given as:

"The Lion and the Unicorn were fighting for the crown:
The Lion beat the Unicorn all round the town.
Some gave them white bread and some gave them brown;
Some gave them plum-cake and drummed them out of town."

◇ ◇ ◇

ALPHA: Can a person who has no vote, that is, who is not on the voters' list, legally nominate a candidate to municipal office?

ANSWER: No.

SIR: Do you know that in Peterborough there are a thousand or more disfranchised people of the age of 21 and above? No matter how big a room rent he or she pays, how large the weekly board or restaurant bill, an unmarried person 21 or over, who does not live in an apartment or own land, gets no vote at all in civic elections. The men are the worst hit. They have to pay a poll tax and are not allowed to go to the polls. That is taxation without representation. It should be fought. I know that many single men in town are most upset about this situation.

ANSWER: There are three courses open to you: (a) get married (b) buy property or (c) organize all the disfranchised and howl about it so loudly and so long that reform is undertaken. I agree that it is very unfair and undemocratic to levy a poll tax against a man and not give him the right to vote on non-property matters at least. It is, as you say, that old, hated business of taxation without representation, against which our forefathers fought since the time of Cromwell.

◇ ◇ ◇

ALPHA: Can you tell me why "the Monk" road is called that, and when it was built.

ANSWER: The Monck (note the spelling) road was named for the Governor-General Viscount Monck, in office from 1861 to 1868, and therefore Governor-General at the time of Confederation. The road was built 1861-75, cutting across the northern counties from Orillia, crossing the Bobcaygeon, Buckhorn and Burleigh roads, and following generally old Indian and French portage routes. There were two objects in building the road: to open up communications, and to provide a military artery in case of American invasion.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR ALPHA: When I was a child in these parts, and it wasn't so long ago, red squirrels were common and black squirrels rare. I remember being rather thrilled when I saw the oddity, a black squirrel. Now one rarely sees a red squirrel, and the black ones are as thick as thieves. Why?

ANSWER: I do not know. Perhaps some reader who is informed on such matters, or who is a bird-watcher and studies squirrels as a general studies his enemies, can tell me. I suggest that the black squirrel, being bigger, bests the red one in the hunt for food and shelter.

FOR THE RECORD: The Peterborough (city and district) Historical Society began to function again after a lapse of nearly half a century. The Charter Meeting was held last Tuesday night. Mr. H. L. Garner was named president. Mrs. F. M. de la Fosse (the former Amey Halliday) is an honorary president. Mrs. de la Fosse was first secretary of the original society founded in 1896 (December 8th). Miss Florence Atwood, a great-niece of the first honorary president Mrs. Catherine Parr Traill the 19th century Upper Canada authoress (then a very old lady) was the other honorary president named.

Several members gave short anecdotal accounts of matters of local historical interest, among them Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C., who spoke about the building of the Inverlea Bridge. This was executed, and probably designed, by Mr. T. A. S. Hay, city engineer. His widow, now in her nineties, lives on McDonnel street. Mr. Hay was a civil engineer and associated with the building of the Grand Trunk line (now C.N.R.) in this area. His Inverlea Bridge is considered by artists, and connoisseurs of bridge design to be one of the finest in Canada. Its arches are wonderfully proportioned and handsome; I remarked on their excellence two years ago in this column. Even though our Hunter Street bridge is pictured in the current edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica (its article on bridges), the Inverlea Bridge (commonly called the Black Bridge in recollection of a predecessor) is much more notable.

Also For The Record: Premier Frost laid the foundation stone of our new city hall last Friday. Bishop Berry, the President of the Ministerial Association, and the Rabbi addressed the audience, God, or both. It was a cold day to be uncovered....The 101 atheists and 2,147 agnostics in town were not officially represented.

"WHAT'LL YOU GIVE TO HAVE THE GENIE BOTTLED AGAIN?"

Letter To The Editor

THE DEVIL WILL WIN IN '51

Sir: Can anyone picture the scene of devastation now going on in Korea—with all its horrors—and not know, that this again is another catastrophe of the worst kind the world has ever faced.

There are opinions for and against using the "atom", and still, after what the democracies took as their answer to their appeasement policy, in 1941—when Neville Chamberlain visited Washington also, and then went to Munich, returning home with only a piece of paper waving it to the crowd that welcomed him home saying—PEACE IN OUR TIME—"What time" when one thinks of it, in the case right now, I would say—as to the use of the "atom"—use it right now—for time we cannot create—we can only use it, and hope, that Russia will not use it first.

There was a time when we could "Wait and see" another epoch in Prime Minister Asquith's time — but today — to "Wait and see" will be, to miss the bus again. No that cannot be. Japan was riding hign and mighty, until—there was nothing else for it, but to use the atom—and through its use, many thousands of the boys, were able to come home to their loved ones — and start life anew.

How often do we need to be warned, to the fact, that this is World War III. Russia is saving her strength, through a plan to weaken her enemies before she strikes—for strike she will, and that in 1951.

If one reads Revelations—it is all there, for any intelligent person to see what is happening n ithe world. Russia is the devil—and he will win in 1951—but in 1952—Russia and all it stands for, will be defeated—and once again, God will answer the call of all men.

Yes Japan, with a "so-called god on the throne"—yielded to the atom—and so will Russia. And when she does, the world will not be so asinine (stupid)—but at last, Wendill Wilkie's thought of one world will become real—and this one world will live in peace.

Very truly yours,
H. GILBERT.

Paying For Welfare

(Manchester Guardian)

There is nothing unexpected about the reminder that the rates of contribution for national insurance are to go up in October next year by fourpence a week for adults and twopence a week for young workers.

The increases, to be shared equally by worker and employer, are an actuarial necessity to meet the cost of retirement pensions for an ageing population; they are laid down in the National Insurance Act itself. The higher rates are inevitable if existing benefits are to be maintained, and by themselves they will be supportable. The real danger is the possibility of benefits having to be increased to meet the increased cost of living.

The scales of non-contributory national assistance have already been raised, with the curious result that a man can now in some cases get more from the National Assistance Board than the pension or benefit for which he has contributed under national insurance. Many pensioners and people drawing contributory sickness benefit are in fact falling back on the Assistance Board for additional help, and as the cost of living rises more will inevitably do so.

Whether we have to find more money for national assistance or for increased insurance benefits, it must all come from our national resources. The cost of the Welfare State is going up, and it is as well that people should be prepared for the bill.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the whole congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness: and the children of Israel said unto them, Would to God we had died by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt, when we sat by the flesh pots, and when we did eat bread to the full; for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness, to kill this whole assembly with hunger....

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am the Lord your God.

And it came to pass, that at even the quails came up, and covered the camp: and in the morning the dew lay round about the host. And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderness there lay a small round thing, as small as the hoar frost on the ground.

And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, It is manna: for they wist not what is was. And Moses said unto them, This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat. (Ex. 16: 2, 3, 11-15.)

"Well, sir," apologized the office boy, "I thought she might be your wife."

"So she is," snapped the boss.

R.M.C.'s Scarlet Tunics And Pill Boxes

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

We agree heartily with a signed article appearing in the current issue of The Marker, publication of the Cadets of the Royal Military College. The signature is only initials, but it seems reasonable to conclude that R.P.B. is Cadet R. P. Bourne, who is listed as editor of The Marker, and we hope that Cadet Bourne and his fellows continue their campaign for the return of the pill box, which was for so long the attractive head-dress of the R.M.C. Cadets.

It was pleasant to learn that the equally familiar scarlet tunic of old will be returned to the Cadets. It has been approved by the Minister of National Defence, and if the material can be made available soon enough, the present class of Cadets at R.M.C. may graduate in scarlet. We join Cadet Bourne in expressing the hope that this will be the case.

And we hope that the scarlet tunic is topped by the jaunty, gold-braided pill box. We agree that no good substitute has ever been found for it as the matching head-dress of the scarlet tunic. We do not think a good substitute exists. Furthermore, we would very much like to see the return of the lambskin caps for winter wear, if this is not already contemplated. It complemented the greatcoat as the pill box did the tunic, and it should again become standard equipment for R.M.C. Cadets. We are even tempted to advocate the return of the glistening white solar topees for a final Cadet parade in June, but that might perhaps be going a bit too far. However, we do wish proponents of the pill box the best of luck in their appeal for its return.

RCMP Rescues Trapped Indians

VANCOUVER, Dec. 8 (CP). — Six "very hungry" Indian fishermen today were appeasing their hunger pangs, thanks to an RCMP patrol-boat team of two who showed that Mounties still "get their man."

The British Columbia coastal Indians—two marooned for six weeks in an ice-locked fiord — were rescued Thursday by Constable William J. Mason, skipper of the boat, and special constable Douglas Gorrie, engineer. The Mounties fought ice, snow and fog.

The tiny rescue boat battled its way 300 miles from here to Dean Channel, and then fought for two days against the jaws of ice which held the fishermen's three boats.

The rescue was not without mishap. A forestry patrol vessel, also participating in the rescue, was destroyed by fire. The crew was picked up by a passing Indian department boat.

The two Mounties hacked through foot-thick ice, using axes, sledge-hammers and dynamite to open a path to the marooned men.

Believes Toronto More Fun Barbara Ann Changes Home

By GEORGE RONALD.

TORONTO, Dec. 8 — (CP). — Hey, Ottawa, stop frettin'!

Sure the Scotts moved to Toronto. So what?

Barbara Ann and her mother say it was all as innocent as can be. No offence meant.

So relax.

Barbara Ann puts it this way: "I thought I'd like a winter off. Toronto seemed like a good place to have some fun." (Smart girl!) "And there is ice here so I can keep in skating trim."

Nothing sinister about that, eh, Ottawa?

Barbara's mother, Mrs. Clyde R. Scott, was quoted up your way as saying the Capital "just does not have it"—and that Toronto has everything. Mrs. Scott says that isn't quite how she put it.

"I told a reporter," she said on Thursday night, "that a great number of Barbara's Ottawa friends are away at school or are married and have moved.

Have No Ice

"I told him that since the Minto Club fire there is no ice in Ottawa."

(Barbara says that even during a "winter off" she likes to skate a couple of hours a day, because "a skater never finishes training.")

"I told him," said Mrs. Scott, "that we have lots of friends in Toronto and that Toronto has two rinks where Barb can skate—the Granite Club and the Toronto Skating Club.

"I told him that Sheldon Galbraith, who was Barb's trainer when she won all her titles is 'pro' at the Toronto Club.

"I kept telling him that we love Ottawa dearly, but that for these reasons we thought we would come here."

Rocked By Blast

WELLAND, Dec. 8 — (CP) — More than 30 Burgar Street homes were rocked Thursday night by an explosion in a manhole. The blast, which threw the manhole cover several feet in the air, is believed to have been caused by ignition of gasoline fumes. No damage was caused and on one was injured.

Ottawa Visit Essential-Attlee

LONDON, Dec. 8 (CP). — Prime Minister Attlee considers consultation with the Canadian government essential at this time, government sources said Thursday night.

(In Ottawa, the British Information Office said Attlee will arrive there Saturday and probably will leave Sunday. It said he will fly from New York with Defence Minister Brooke Claxton in a government transport plane.)

At the same time it was announced the House of Commons plans a debate next week on the results of the Truman-Attlee talks.

The cabinet, however, has sent a message to Attlee suggesting that he should not rush home especially to make a statement before parliament adjourns for the Christmas vacation next Friday.

If necessary, the recess would be postponed until the following week to hear and debate the report.

Damaged In Big Storm Now Christmas Tree

COBOURG, Dec. 8 —(ENS)— Gift of Jules Allen of Cobourg, a beautiful blue spruce which was damaged in the big storm of a week ago, has been set up in front of the town hall and will serve as the community Christmas tree on December 14. The Christmas party is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Offering a festive touch to the appearance of the main street are branches of cedars which have been fastened around the parking meter posts. One merchant thinks it would be a good idea to remove the meter heads until after Christmas.

Ask 2 Car Companies Suspend Increases

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)— The Economic Stabilization Agency Thursday asked General Motors Corporation and the Ford Motor Company to suspend the car price increases announced this week.

Seven other major car makers were requested to withhold any prices raises they may contemplate until the agency can examine and determine "the entire question of prices."

Administrator Alan Valentine announced in a statement that car manufacturers had been asked to send representatives to an industry advisory committee meeting here December 13 to discuss the outomobile price situation.

Small Companies Showing Gain

By FORBES RHUDE, Canadian Press Business Editor.

The older generation of industrialists sometimes hears from younger men the plaint that the great opportunities of the past are no longer here.

In many cases the reply of those of the older generation is that they would like to be starting all over in this present expansionist period of Canada.

For the post-war years have shown that there are more opportunities than ever, over a wider range, and for more people.

Some industrial empires have been built in the last decade; and it is not only the industrial empire, but the hundreds of smaller businesses that have come into being.

Alberta oil, for instance, has created fortunes for some, but perhaps more impressive are the scores of smaller, profitable enterprises which have followed it. The same applies wherever Canadian resources are being opened up, and generally in the filling of the needs of an enriched and growing population.

As an example, it was announced from Ottawa recently that more than 1,200 new manufacturing firms have started in Canada since the end of the war. Not all these are large.

The National City Bank of New York recently took a look at the similar situation in the United States and concluded that while the post-war growth of the big fellows has been great, many small and medium-sized businesses have grown even faster.

The relative youth of the business world is not generally realized. The United States treasury found the following about 77,326 American manufacturing companies at the end of 1945:

More than half were less than 16 years old; about 40 per cent were incorporated between 1900 and 1930; and only four per cent were incorporated before 1900. The bank observes:

"Even a successful business organization has no more assurance of permanence than a winning baseball team, unless it keeps on its toes, takes in able new personnel, and constantly changes its ideas and methods to meet prevailing conditions."

Warn Teachers Avoid Sudbury

SUDBURY, Dec. 8 (CP).—High school teachers have been warned that they cannot expect backing from the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Association — if they accept positions at either Sudbury high school or Sudbury Mining and Technical School.

A bulletin issued by I. M. Robb, of Toronto, teachers' committee spokesman for the OSSTF says that while " it is not unprofessional" for a member of the association to accept a post with the Sudbury high school board, anyone doing so "will not receive any support from this federation in salary negotiations or any aid in any professional difficulty."

The bulletin was issued following the resignation of 62 of the 69 teachers on the staff of the two Sudbury secondary schools. The resignations are to be effective Dec. 31, if salary demands are not met.

The school board here has asked the province for a board of reference to settle the dispute. Teachers seek a raise in the minimum and maximum salaries from $2,400 and $4,100 to $3,000 and $5,400 respectively.

The board has offered minimum-maximum salaries of $2,500 and $4,300.

PCVS Enters 6 Boys' Teams Lakeshore Basketball Series

Coach Bev Goulding announced Thursday that the PCVS will have six basketball teams playing in the lakeshore district of the COSSA and two teams in the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association.

Cage squads will be in senior, junior and bantam competition with two teams, the firsts and seconds, in each bracket. The firsts in senior, junior and bantam are scheduled to play with Oshawa Central Collegiate and Oshawa Collegiate and Vocational School in home and home games in one group of the four in the lakeshore district. The seconds have been grouped with Lindsay Collegiate and St. Peter's High School.

In the other groups of the lakeshore area are Whitby, Uxbridge and Port Perry in one section and Cobourg, Port Hope and Bowmanville in the second.

All groups will declare a winner by Feb. 16 when the first in home and home games, semi-final lakeshore district, will be held. The Whitby-Uxbridge-Port Perry group will meet the winner of the Cobourg-Port Hope-Bowmanville district in the semi-finals while the two groups that the PCVS teams play in will meet in the other semi-final series. The final lakeshore series in all brackets will be home and home affairs on March 2 and 9.

COSSA finals will be held March 17 in Toronto. Last year the Collegiate seniors and juniors advanced to the finals only to lose out to Belleville in the senior and Niagara Falls in the junior. The bantams, with no COSSA playoff, remained the lakeshore champions.

Coach Goulding also said the school would have two teams in the OABA juvenile and midget. Two years ago the Collegians waltzed away with the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association juvenile championship by defeating Montreal YMHA.

This year the midget tournament for Ontario will be played at PCVS. The team this year will likely be coached by a newcomer to the school, Jack Cullis. He made his debut in the teachers versus students game Wednesday night by leading the teachers to victory. Mr. Cullis will also be handling two of the COSSA entries in the lakeshore area, the senior and junior seconds.

Zolten Temesy, a former Assumption College cager, will be handling the bantam teams. With Mr. Cullis he displayed his ability before the students Wednesday night by racking up 12 points.

Mr. Goulding will once again be coaching the senior and junior firsts in addition to the OABA juveniles.

Chandler Warns Baseball Faces Emergency

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 8 (AP).—The annual meeting of the minor baseball leagues closed Thursday night with an ominous warning from baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler that the organized leagues "must be ready for every emergency."

"We must be prepared to face the uncertainty and you fellows must make plans accordingly."

While denying, in effect, that he had told a group informally to expect total mobilization and that baseball may have to cease operations in the United States, Chandler left no doubt that the game must be prepared for just such an emergency.

He told of a recent visit with President Truman in Washington when the two discussed baseball and the world crisis.

President Encouraging

The commissioner said the president's views were encouraging. He was assured that every effort would be made to keep baseball going. Chandler on the other hand said he assured the president that baseball is prepared to do anything asked of it, in the event of a third world war, in the way of manpower and material.

"Baseball never has and never will ask for special favors," he said

The war threat to baseball hinted at by Chandler's address pushed into the background Thursday's repeal of the bonus and high school rules. The moguls ended a three-year battle to kill the bonus law with action that will affect 43 big league and 278 minor league bonus players. The rule officially will be tossed out next week when the majors do the expected and follow the minors' initiative.

Should it happen it would mean that such lads as Paul Pettit, Pittsburgh's $100,000 bonus baby and Johnny Antonelli of Boston Braves, could be sent out for more seasoning. Under the present rule a bonus player must be kept after only one year in a lower classification.

Lift Lock Rolls High In Mercantile Loop

Lift Lock had high pinnage of 2,740 as Braund's No. 1 rolled top single of 1,008 this week in the Mercantile Bowling League. Shirley Berwick's single of 278 led lasses as Verna Hopkins hit 640 for best three. Harold Cawker showed the way for men with a 271 single and 646 three. Jack Gimblett got 624 and Harold Mesley 620. Other girls' triples were: Bernice Primeau 612, Shirley Berwick 586, Joan Ronco 584, Gladys Hamilton 583 and Betty Crowe 576.

Loblaw's blanked Bond's, City Hall whitewashed A & P, and Austin's slipped their opponents a goose egg. Lift Lock won 3-1 over Utilities, and Braund's No. 1 took a 3-1 decision over the Braund's No. 2 bowlers.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It's "Peterborough Night" at Civic Arena this eve, starting at 8.30 when the two best senior "B" puck teams in this group tangle. The leading Petes play the second-place Eagles (Ontario finalists last year) and that means a capacity crowd. Two fast, classy outfits who shoot the works every minute when opposing each other, the rivalry being really keen. Don't bet too heavily either way, or don't give any odds—these clubs are too well-matched at this period of the race. They tied in one previous meeting and Eagles edged Petes by a goal in the other. Since then, Eagles have lost three in a row, and the Petes have been winning right along. So, it's a "natural" this time.

* * * * * *

Standing has Petes winning nine, tying one and dropping two for 19 points, while Eagles have won seven, tied one and lost three for 15 points, having played one game less. Nylons are next with five wins and six reverses for 10 points—their loss to Queen's not counting as the game will be replayed. Belleville is but half a game back of Kingston with four and six, while Queen's have won just one tilt to date. One that counts, that is. Gananoque hasn't played in the interlocking schedule as yet. Eagles could get right back in the hunt for top spot by winning tonight, whereas a loss puts them perilously close to the third slot.

Rough Language Is Out

The OHA executive has cracked down on noisy, foul-mouthed puckists and officials. Every offence reported henceforth during any OHA game will be followed by an automatic three-game suspension for the guilty party. This applies from junior "D" up, as often it is a young punk who thinks it manly to use profane or foul language when in a temper. Patrons sitting near the boards or by the penalty or players' boxes have been complaining, and the OHA has ordered its refs to make a full report in future on any such incident. They'll do it, too, as a complaint over their heads would put them in wrong with the parent body.

* * * * * *

It's a good rule, we say. While hockey is a rugged game and tempers do get frayed, there's no excuse at any time in this game—or in any other—for dirty or cursing talk. Not at any time. You can be a man without using filthy words when angered. And it certainly doesn't encourage the paying customers, women, men and children, to hear them used loudly. Some of the finest athletes we've known wouldn't even utter a quiet "damn" in the privacy of their own dressing room. No, we have no use for pansies, but neither do we see where dirty words have any place in sports. Now, the OHA has seen fit to put in a rule with teeth in it. The comparatively few players and officials can take warning.

Lacrossers Getting Set

Annual meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club—the senior "A" entry in the OLA—will be held next Wednesday eve at seven in the Public Library. Open to those interested. Reports will be made at this time, the election of officers held and possibly the coach and manager selected at the same session. It's a strong organization and the sport has a huge summer-time draw of fans, hence the best possible officers should be installed. As for the minor setup, Walt Murphy advises that he has pictures of the peewee all-stars at the CNR office, and some city championship crests for boys who have not yet picked them up.

* * * * * *

Another mention of the week-end basketball activity in these parts. Girls have a double-header tonight in the YWCA, starting at eight. Normals meet Nurses Jrs. in the opener, with CGE clashing with Black's in the nightcap. The male cagers see action in a twin bill tomorrow evening up at the YMCA, Meteors mixing with Fords at 7.00, and Buicks then tangling with Chryslers. This winds up the House League schedule, and probably these fellows will form a City League to operate after New Year's. OABA intermediates have no sponsor yet. School hoop play won't start until after the holidays, we understand.

Port Hope Redmen Bow To Imperials 5-3

PORT HOPE, Dec. 8—Bowmanville Imperials inflicted the first loss of the season on the Port Hope Redmen here Thursday night. The Imperials won, 5-3, in an OHA intermediate A contest at the Peter Campbell Memorial Rink. The win places Bowmanville in second place, one point below Port Hope.

Early in the first period, Bill Douglas, Port Hope defenceman, received a cut on the face from a high stick, necessitating several stitches.

Atkins To Tackle Yukon Eric

Two of the strongest heavyweight wrestlers in the business have been signed to headline next Tuesday's mat card in the Brock St. Arena. They are Yukon Eric, massive lumberjack and Fred Atkins, the Australian champion. These top grapplers feature main bouts in all the larger centres, both having plenty of color and mat ability. While Yukon appears a stronger man physically than Atkins, the latter is rough, rugged and has more actual ring experience. He is a leading contender now for the British Empire championship.

A number of other good grapplers try to play it cagey when pitted against the powerful Alaskan, but the Australian isn't that type—he bores in against any of them and generally does more than hold his own. This match, with two prelim bouts, should bring out a large crowd of fans.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

The boys on No. 8 were treated to some real good curling last night. It all happened on the 7 o'clock draw. Four of the seven games were tied coming home, and each of the four winenrs won out by one shot—and at that, it was the last shot in each game that decided the game.

The ladies have reached the finals of the vice-skips' consolation event. The opposing skips will be Mrs. M. McCartny and Mrs. J. Elliott. We don't know for sure when the game is scheduled but have an idea it is next Thursday afternoon.

Badminton Notes

By RALPH CHARLTON

Dick Birch (Mr. Badminton of Canada) gave a demonstration on how the game should be played here last evening at the Market Hall. The holder of many provincial and Canadian titles in the past 18 years, was in fine form. He won in men's singles over Grant Henry, a fine player, too, 15-7 and 18-14, coming from behind in the second game.

In men's doubles, Henry and R. McDonald beat Birch and W. Elmsley 15-10. Birch and E. Johnston defeated Henry and R. Baker 18-16. In mixed doubles, K. Mathias and Birch downed J. Elmsley and V. Taylor, as Birch and W. Charlton then lost to M. Baker and G. Henry. After the games, Birch held a clinic on the game, dealing with grips, footwork and various strokes.

ONE OF THE FEW bright spots Coach Dick Irvin has to cheer about is the goal-getting work of Elmer Lach. The veteran Canadien pivot has been hitting the mesh regularly recently. Irvin hopes he can boost his average in future games.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Nathan Podoloff, general manager of the company which owns New Haven Eagles of the American Hockey League, declined Thursday night to confirm or deny a report that the team was about to fold up.

Told of the report, Podoloff said:

"Well, I would say that is something I can't comment on at this time."

He said it was possible something more definite could be said early next week.

Podoloff, vice-president and general manager of the New Haven Arena, which took over the Eagles after the team was cut loose by New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, conceded that the "rumor is a logical one."

The team, he noted, "hasn't been very successful." The Eagles have won only five out of 27 games, and are in last place in the eastern division of the 10-team league.

Attendance at Thursday night's game, which the Eagles lost 4-3 to the Hershey Bears, was less than 700.

Jacob Podoloff, manager of the team, declined to comment on the report, as did manager Maurice Podoloff, president of the league. Both said, however, that the Eagles would play Indianapolis here Sunday night, as scheduled.

The Thoroughbred Racing Associations Thursday night awarded a trophy to a Canadian race horse which achieved its fame 31 years ago.

Sir Barton, owned by Commander J. K. L. Ross of Montreal, was the North American continent's champion three-year-old in 1919 and the largest money winner of the year. Harry A. Parr of Pimlico, Ont., received the trophy on behalf of Cmdr. Ross.

He was the first horse in turf history to win both the Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes. He also was a "triple-crown" winner, adding the Belmont Stakes, and the trophy awarded Sir Barton Thursday night was in recognition of his triple-crown feat.

The Associations, winding up a two-day meeting in New York, elected Alfred G. Vanderbilt as TRA president.

Goalie Nick Pidsodny of Sydney Millionaires of the Cape Breton Major Hockey League, was fined $25 Thursday by league president C. Roy MacDonald for slapping the boards with his stick during Tuesday night's game with Glace Bay Miners.

Joe Culmone, the United States' leading jockey, had only one winner Thursday and fell further behind in his drive to break the all-time riding mark set by Walter Miller in 1906.

Culmone booted home Good Story in the first race at Miami's Tropical Park but drew blanks the rest of the afternoon. He had five mounts. Culmone now has ridden 363 winners—including one a day since arriving here on Monday. Miller's record is 388.

Bobby Riggs' professional tennis troupe drew a full house at the Ottawa Auditorium Thursday night, including the Governor-General, and Viscountess Alexander.

As usual for the tour, Gertrude (Georgeous Gussie) Moran captured the major interest and the minor score. Against Pauline Betz in the evening's opener she lost 6-3.

Big Jack Kramer stroked out a 7-5, 6-3 win over Pancho Segura. It gave Kramer a lead of 21-11 in matches the two have played to date.

It was in the mixed doubles that Miss Moran came into her own. She and Kramer won 6-1, 8-6 over Pauline and Segura.

The boss says the story's not complete without, so okay. Gussie was her ravishing self in pink sweater, leopard-skin shorts.

Montreal Slump Continues Bows To Boston Bruins 3-0

By The Canadian Press.

Hockey's "gloomy dean" and his opposite number have the miseries today, faced with slumps in their respective National League teams which don't seem to respond to treatment.

The "gloomy dean," of course, is Dick Irvin, dour coach of Montreal Canadiens who bowed 3-0 to Boston Bruins Thursday night in the only NHL game scheduled.

Frank Boucher, manager of New York Rangers, is, on the other hand, normally noted for his cheeriness—but not since the Broadway blues slid into the league cellar. He told The Canadian Press Thursday night that he doesn't expect to hold his job if the Rangers don't make the playoffs.

Irvin's Canadiens still are sharing third place with Chicago Black Hawks, but they've lost two in a row and are playing far from consistent hockey. Reporters watching them in Montreal Thursday night said their performance was "terrible." When the leading Toronto Leafs beat the Habitants 3-1 in Toronto Wednesday night, Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara headed a section in his column "Irvin's blood pressure rises" and added: "so the warning note of trips to the minors has been flashed. Maybe there'll be some new faces very shortly with Canadiens."

Down For The Count

Thursday night the Bruins gave Montreal the business again. Neither team could score in the opening period but in the second Murray Henderson and Lorne Ferguson gave Boston a 2-0 edge. In the third, old reliable Milt Schmidt made it 3-0.

The Canadiens outshot Boston 27-21, but many of the Hab shots were long ones and their performance was listless. It was the fourth victory in five games for Boston, who seem to be coming along fast now. The Bruins are four points behind Chicago and Montreal and four points ahead of the lowly Rangers.

Rangers have won only three games in 24 starts, though they have nine draws. Goalie Chuck Rayner, last year voted the most valuable player in the league, has let in 76 pucks so far, including nine in one game. He may be given a rest shortly, with the Rangers borrowing Emile (Cat) Francis from Cincinnati Mohawks of the American League as a replacement.

Meanwhile, coach Joe Primeau of Toronto Maple Leafs hasn't a worry in the world. His team is leading the league by eight points over Detroit Red Wings. Their two star goalies, Turk Broda and Al Rollins, have permitted only 48 pucks to get past them so far.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Individual standings in the National Hockey League mainly remained unchanged today, following Thursday night's only encounter in which Boston Bruins shellacked the faltering Montreal Canadiens 3-0.

Toronto continues to dominate both in league standings and in individual honors with Max Bentley tops in scoring with 29 points and high man in assists with 21. Tod Sloan, another Leaf, has the most goals, 14, while Toronto goaltender Turk Broda rules in the shutout department with five.

Toronto's domain even extends to the penalty division, Gus Mortson having served 52 minutes in the penalty box, three minutes more than his closest competitors.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts.
M. Bentley, Toronto	8	21	29
Sloan, Toronto	14	9	23
Kennedy, Toronto	7	16	23
Richard, Montreal	12	8	20

NICE RACQUET, EH? — This is the fabulous Gorgeous Gussie Moran, one of the touring tennis troupe that performs at the Montreal Forum this week. Gussie will receive one-third of the net profits of the tour, the same as Jack Kramer, the greatest tennis player in the world. Which proves that Gussie's much advertised scant attire pays off.
